Norwood Victors

NORWOOD, Feb. 7—(ENS)—Havelock and Norwood boys played in Norwood Arena, Saturday morning with Norwood taking the game 3-0. Play in the first stanza was fast, clean and steady; though the homesters appeared to have an edge, they found Chevalier hard to beat. No score in the first.

Peoples opened the scoring in the second from Scott who had passed the puck out from the corner, a number of times before. Peoples put it past Chevalier. Peoples slipped one past Chevalier after two minutes of play in the third period, with Scott and Morrison getting assists. The boys started to rough it a litle, with Morreau and Buchanan getting two minutes for roughing. Thompson and Fredericks were also gated for tripping. Wrightly from Ernie Spencer accounted for the last goal to end the game.

The teams:

Havelock—Goal, P. Chevalier; defence, S. Patterson, B. Laing; centre, R. Pollock; wings, G. Bales, T. Thompson; alternates, B. Buchanan, K. McMillan, K. Nobes, B. Revoy, J. Chase.

Norwood—Goal, Jack Stackhouse; defence, Bud Wrightly, J. Feeley; centre, C. Davis; wings, E. Spencer, B. Spencer; alternates, M. Scott, L. Peoples, D. Fredericks, D. Morrison, Joe Rooney, G. B. LaBrash.

Referee—Ross Aldred; linesman —Jack Robson.

Hornets Edge New Haven, Whip Caps 8-2

By The Canadian Press

The Pittsburgh Hornets, one of the most unpredictable teams in the American Hockey League, took a man-size leap during the week-end and landed in second place in western division standing.

The Hornets stung Indianapolis Capitals 8-2 Saturday night; then hummed their way to a 5-4 victory over New Haven Sunday. The two victories moved the Hornets from fourth place into a second-place tie with Cleveland.

In New Haven, the score was deadlocked twice until Flem Mackell put Pittsburgh ahead with what proved to be the winning marker. Other Pittsburgh scorers were Sid Smith, Ray Ceresino, John O'Flaherty and Phil Samis.

Sheldon Bloomer, Jean Lamirande, Gino Rozzini and Ed Slowinski notched the New Haven goals.

Indianapolis Capitals staved off a late Hershey rush Sunday and emerged on top, 3-2. The game was the Caps ninth straight win without a loss.

Buffalo Bisons tightened up the western division race by playing giant-killers, trimming the leading St. Louis Flyers 4-2 while maintaining their last-place position.

Providence Reds trounced the Cleveland Barons 9-3. On Saturday, Philadelphia Rockets defeated New Haven, 8-3, Providence scored four times in the third period to beat Springfield 7-4, Cleveland beat Buffalo 3-1 and St. Louis won 3-2 over Hershey.

Windsor Downs Rockets 12-3, Gens Beat Dukes

By The Canadian Press

It seems there is virtually no stopping the high-flying Windsor Spitfires, now nine points ahead of the pack in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Jimmy Skinners' charges Saturday night racked up their 28th victory in 42 starts as they downed the last-place Galt Rockets in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A tilt in Windsor. The win moved the Spitfires nine points ahead of the second-place Barrie Flyers.

In other Junior A games during the week-end, Oshawa Generals moved into a fourth-place tie by defeating Toronto Marlboros 5-4 and the Flyers regained second place when they battled to a 1-1 draw with Toronto St. Michael's College Majors.

In the Senior A loop, the fourth-place Owen Sound Mercurys posted a 6-6 overtime draw against the third-place Hamilton Tigers.

Looked Easy

The Spitfires made it look easy as they ran their total of goals for the season to 236, compared with 151 againt them. They moved into a 4-2 lead in the first period, made it 8-3 in the second and added four unanswered markers in the third.

Big Doug McKay paced the winners with four goals. Others went to Johnny Wilson, Jimmy Maxwell, Glen Skov and Francis O'Grady. Galt goals were counted by Joe Kilby, Don McArthur and Bronco Horvath.

The Generals built up a 4-1 lead by the end of the first period. It all started when Dick Gamble sent them into a 1-0 margin by the end of the first stanza. The Dukes drove back with three goals in the third frame but found the margin too big.

Frank Sullivan, Don Hall, Chapman and Don Richardson got the others for Oshawa. Bobby Hassard got two for Toronto while Howie Lee got the other.

Barrie took a 1-0 lead in the first period, fought through a scoreless second frame and then saw the Irish tie it up early in the third. The Flyers carried the play and it appeared that the Collegians would give under the pressure. But, aided by stellar netminding by little Tommy Shea, the Irish held the visitors scoreless. Gord Hannigan counted for Toronto and Hopper for Barrie.

Perked Up

The Mercurys perked up after a dismal start in the first period. Despite tight defensive play the Mercurys were on the short end of a 4-1 count at the end of the first period, but came back in the second to tie the game at 4-4.

Both netminders—Art Childs of the Tigers and Tom McGrattan of the Mercurys—turned in a good performance. Childs stopped 57 shots and McGrattan was called upon to save 42.

Ab Conick paced the Tigers with two goals. Others went to Johnny Conick, Tom Smelle, Polly Miocinovich and Joe Tindall. Owen Sound scorers were Tommy Burlington with two and Al Forslund, Mike Shabaga, Bruno Favero and Doug Gillespie with singletons.

WHILE HER HUSBAND AWAITS WITHOUT, Mrs. Edith Lord putters around her New York City apartment. Two men armed with shotguns stand guard behind barricaded door. Mrs. Lord locked out estranged millionaire husband, Robert P. Lord, by way of reciprocating, she says, for same treatment he gave her.

Two PCVS Cage Clubs Get Third Straight Victories

As a result of games played Friday evening at their home gymnasium, two PCVS teams won their third straight games in group play. The seniors and bantams both were victorious over Cobourg CI opposition 63-25 and 27-18 respectively. Only the Junior B team went down to defeat in a close low-scoring game, 19-18. By winning this game the Cobourg Juniors clinched honors in Group 2 and qualified to meet the winner of the Bowmanville-Whitby - Uxbridge - Port Perry group in the district semi-finals.

The senior and feature game on the card brought the two teams concerned to the half-way mark in group play and placed the PCVS seniors in an excellent position to win district honors once again. Home and home games with Oshawa starting in Oshawa Friday of this week will bring the final decision. PCVS took the lead in the first minute of play Friday and were in front 24-3 at quarter time. No less than 11 hoops were scored in this opening 10 minutes by the starting five, Griffin, Dinsdale, Neil, Thompson, Grafstein and Northcott. Once Cobourg had a chance to settle down in the second quarter play was much more even and PCVS were held to a modest 15-10 second quarter count. Don Richardson with three hoops for PCVS and Bob Bevan with three for Cobourg were prominent during this 10 minutes.

Piled It Up

Another burst of scoring by PCVS in the first part of the second half piled up the count, as Neil Thompson hit for nine points and Don Griffin five. The score had mounted to 57-18 at three-quarter time. A quiet last quarter when Cobourg outscored the homesters 7-6 brought a final score of 63-25. This was the second straight game PCVS has counted more than 60 points while holding the opposition to less than 30.

Poor shooting and over-anxiousness cost the PCVS Junior "B" team a tie with Cobourg for first place in Group 2. Down 15-10 at half-time due chiefly to the effective rebounding of 6 foot 1 inch Roy Hircock, Cobourg centre, PCVS held the visitors to a mere two hoops through 16 minutes of play in the second half. However four hoops were all the smaller homesters could count, three of these being by Ron Doughty. Five foul shots were missed during this half and a total of 11 in the game by PCVS.

Made Sure

PCVS Bantams made sure of at least a tie for first place in the eastern group by winning 27-18 in good game for first year boys. Both teams showed the benefit of two extra weeks' practice since their last meeting as a comparison of 14-5 and 27-18 scores indicate. The starting PCVS forwards were prominent in a scoring way, Hempstead having 10 points and Langhorne eight. Jack Allan of Cobourg had eight. Cobourg foul shooting was excellent for bantams, as six out of 12 tries were counted.

The teams:

PCVS Seniors—Welsh, Taylor 2, Sergeant 2, N. Thompson 13, Hempstead 1, Northcott 5 D. Dibben 2, Griffin 15, H. Dibben 4, Dinsdale 8, Grafstein 5, Richardson 6, B. Thomson. Total 63.

Cobourg Seniors—Jamieson 4, Brown 2, McMillan 3, Holman 2, Bevan 9, Campbell, McGuire 2, Booth, Goody 3, Clark. Total 25.

Referee—R. Dyer.

Referees—R. Dyer and D. Richardson.

PCVS Bantams—L. Hempstead 10, Gilders, Langhorne 8, Pammett 2, Taylor, L. Cunningham 2, Boorman, Johnston, M. Grafstein 4, Armstrong, Fowler 1, Scriver. Total 27.

Cobourg Bantams—Allan 8, Douglas 3, Cane 2, Sirett 3, Irvine, Spalding, Campbell, McIntosh, Round, Goody. Total 18.

Referee—Don Richardson.

Rangers-Leafs Tie

NORWOOD, Feb. 7—(ENS)—Rangers secured their first point in the pee wee series when they tied their game with Maple Leafs 1-1 on Saturday morning in the Arena.

Play was fast and clean, no penalties throughout. The Leafs got the opening counter, Joe Rooney from Delvin Rusaw at the nine minute mark. Danny Smith quickly tied it up, on a solo rush three minutes later. Although both teams tried desperately to break the tie, it was to no avail. L. Hie was sensational in goal for the Leafs. Vic Williams was good for Rangers. B. Tedford, G. Cassidy, D. Smith and Doug Lockhead stood out for the Rangers and Joe Rooney, D. Rusaw, C. Burtt and H. Scott for the Leafs.

The teams:

Rangers—Goal, V. Mullins; defence, R. Tolley, Earl Kavanagh; centre, D. Smith; wings, D. Lockhead, G. Kavanagh; alternates, Bob Tedford, M. Hannon, G. Cassidy, J. Ferguson, J. Feeley.

Leafs—Goal, L. Hie; defence, D. Rusaw, C. Burtt; centre, J. Rooney, wings, H. Scott, W. Smith; alternates, R. Stewart, D. McManus, R. Fuller, P. Fines, H. Parker, L. Gordon.

Feller Signs Contract For $72,500

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—(AP)—Bob Feller has signed a one-year contract with Cleveland Indians for approximately $72,500, but the New York Yankees' Joe DiMaggio will top that figure today with a pact for close to $100,000.

Feller's new contract calls for an approximate $10,000 cut from his 1948 salary of $82,500. He will receive the same $40,000 base contract he got last year, but the difference will be in the bonuses resulting from the attendance. Feller will start drawing extra salary after the Club has drawn 1,250,000 at home.

When DiMaggio signs his contract, as expected, he will become the highest paid player in the history of the game.

It was learned from a reliable source that Joe's asking price is $100,000 for the 1949 season. Also he wants it in basic salary, not a bonus arangement wherein he must gamble on attendance to swell his pay cheques.

Going Up

The Yankees have offered him $60,000 as a base salary, plus a bonus graduated on attendance after it passes the 1,500,000 figure in the stadium. The Yankees figure that this would enable DiMaggio to make approximately $90,000 should the Yankees draw 2,400,000, which was last year's turnstile count.

Last year DiMaggio received just under $70,000 in a basic payroll of $50,000 and the rest in bonuses on attendance above 1,500,000 at the stadium.

The highest salary ever paid a New York player was the $80,000 Babe Ruth received for each of the 1930 and 1931 seasons. Feller's $82,500 for the '48 season topped all baseball salaries last year.

Warm Emotional Fever Sign Of Crime, Delinquency

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—(AP).—The best way to keep kids in your town from crime and delinquency is to spot the first danger signals of emotional fever. Your eyes can be the thermometer to detect these signs.

When they appear, get a doctor. Act against incipient emotional sickness as you would against a fever that might be a forewarning of a bad cold, measles, 'flu, or other diseases.

This advice comes from two experts in the study of crime. The basic cause of crime, they hold, is emotional illness. It drives people to criminal or anti-social acts, even when they don't know they're being driven, or why.

The experts are Dr. Ralph S. Banay, psychiatrist and director of research on social deviations, Colombia University, and Edwin J. Lukas, executive director of the Society for the Prevention of Crime.

This approach, they say, would do far more to control crime than the burning of comic books, banning gangster or sexy movies, punishing parents of delinquents or abolishing slums.

Come From All Homes

Delinquents come from privileged homes as well as slums. The commonest danger signals to look for, say Dr. Banay and Lukas, are:

Continued aggressiveness, or excessive shyness. Hostility. Habitual lying, or cheating in school. Willful disobedience. Hatred that grows like cancer. Fire - setting, Stammering and stuttering. Sexual experimentation beyond normal curiosity. Complaints of vague aches and pains.

These are fever signs only if they continue. Any child may show some of them at different times.

Many Reasons.

They start because the child feels unloved, rejected, ashamed, ridiculed, hurt by indifference or brutality or for kindred reasons, Dr. Banay said.

"Crime," says Lukas, "is something uniquely personal. The criminal is trying to express a protest against something he lacks. Very often he is inviting punishment for feelings or guilt over something he once did, or had thought of doing."

Dr. Banay, author of a recent book, "Youth In Despair," points out that "a large part of what we do depends on what we feel, not what we think. There's a purpose behind everything a person does, even though the person may not be conscious of the purpose."

He once studied 100 children, seven to 17 years old, who had committed murders. Each one was emotionally sick, he found.

Ex-Governor Plans To Live Off B.C. Coast

LONDON, Feb. 7 (CP)—Plans made 25 years ago come true in May for Sir Donald MacKenzie-Kennedy, former Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Mauritius. He is going to settle in Canada.

A quarter of a century ago he and Lady MacKenzie-Kennedy considered leaving Africa and the colonial service to farm in Canada. Nothing came of it, but the idea remained.

Two years ago, while the Governor and his wife looked for a place to settle after his retirement from Britain's Indian Ocean colony, they visited Canada and chose Vancouver Island.

Already two of their three sons are in Canada. The third leaves with his parents May 24 aboard the Empress of France.

Sir Donald, 59, retired in December. His six-year Mauritius assignment saw the island win a larger measure of self-government, introduce Women's Suffrage and broaden social and educational reform.

The family takes its "Canadianization" seriously. The youngest, 18-year-old Geoffrey, went to Port Hope, from Mauritius 8 months ago to study at Trinity College School. He now is a first-year science student at McGill.

The eldest, John, is working in Toronto.

TEENAGERS who think it's smart to breeze along highways at 70 miles an hour, should take a good, long look at this picture. In Berkeley, Calif., four youngsters, two boys and two girls under 21, were sailing along, doing better than 70. They failed to make a curve and hit a tree. This wreck was the result—and the four youngsters were killed.

Moscow Stores Stocking Modern Goods

By TOM WHITNEY

MOSCOW, Feb. 7 (AP) — Moscow stores now stock many up-to-date home appliances and conveniences.

Mostorg, Moscow's central department store, has on sale electric refrigerators with a fine white enamel finish.

And stores also sell such appliances as television sets, vacuum cleaners, cameras, radios, pianos and bicycles.

Refrigeration is not much of a problem here because of Moscow's climate. Nevertheless, many Soviet housewives undoubtedly dream of acquiring one of these refrigerators.

It cannot be said they are yet being manufactured in quantity. When output is increased, undoubtedly the price will come down. (Prices are not given in this dispatch, which came through Soviet censorship. Neither does the dispatch make plain what earning power would be required to acquire this modern home appliance.)

Television Sets

This department store also tried television sets and has been advertising that "televisors along with radios must be in every home." The television factory is reported to have sold thousands of sets in the last year. Production is due to be increased. There are television stations in Moscow and Leningrad.

Vacuum cleaners are also sold in Mostorg. They are floor-type models with a set of attachments. Prospective customers can have them demonstrated at a special centre on the store devoted to new merchandise.

Another novelty in the Moscow retail market is automobiles. They are sold in a special automobile store. Two makes are available at the present time.

Excellent Soviet-made cameras now are on sale and there are many Soviet makes of radios. They are all table models and most of them receive short, medium and long-wave programs.

One item which is not yet on sale is the electric washing machine.

Chinese Red Terrorism Puts Back Malayan Clock

By ROY MACARTNEY

SINGAPORE, Feb. 7—(Reuters).—Chinese Communist terrorism in Malaya, although it started only six months ago, has turned the Malayan political clock back many years. Progress towards self-government and a common Malayan citizenship for all races has been halted. Malays have been turned against Chinese. Now the Island of Penang wants to secede from the strife-torn federation of Malaya, less than a year after it came into being.

Politically, the predominantly Chinese population wants to retain British colonial protection.

But secession at this time could only be a step towards weakening the federation and a united Malaya, in the opinion of observers here.

Before the war, Penang with Singapore and Malacca formed the colony of the Straits Settlements. The settlement of Penang included a narrow strip of the mainland opposite the island, known as Province Wellesley.

The move for secession came into the open December 13 when a large audience packed the Penang Chinese Town Hall. By an overwhelming majority the meeting resolved that the Settlement of Penang, adopting constitutional methods, should secede from the Federation of Malaya and revert to the colony of the Straits Settlement.

Refer Matter

A 15-man committee, headed by a prominent British business man, D. A. Mackay, chairman of the Penang Chamber of Commerce, and including Chinese, Indian and Eurasian members, was appointed to refer the matter to London.

Malcolm MacDonald, Commissioner-General for the United Kingdom in South-east Asia, met the Secession Committee twice in January.

These events, in the opinion of Singapore observers, have largely been set in motion by the Chinese Communist terrorism.

Preoccupied with terrorism which has halted political progress and disrupted the Federation's finances, the Federal Government has had little chance to show Penang the advantages which should accrue from federation and government by strong central administration.

Beatrice Lillie Becomes Ardent Portrait Painter

NEW YORK, Feb. 7—(AP).—Beatrice Lillie seldom knows, when she makes an entrance onstage, just what particular door will be her exit. Her audiences, such as those which have been delighted by her expert antics in "Inside U.S.A.," the musical version of the John Gunther travelogue, have not been particularly curious about her exits. They have demonstrated for weeks that they want her to stay onstage.

Aside from the theatre, Miss Lillie said backstage the other day, she made one entrance that led her to a door to another career very different from her theatrical triumphs. One door led her to a new career as a portrait painter, and a very, very good one, too," she admits without urging.

"In my house in London," she said, "I had some trouble with the door knobs of several of my rooms. So I went to a hardware store. What is it you call them over here in New York — Oh, yes . . . ironmongers.

"But I couldn't find any of the iron door knobs which have impressions of pictures on them as if they had been carved. But I did find some doorknobs with a smooth, white enamel surface. The hardware man told me that some of his customers painted pictures on them. I bought some paints, bought a book on how to be an artist, and started to paint.

"I thought I was pretty good, so I got some canvas, an easel and went to work. Now I'm in business and I've already sold two paintings. So far I've been fairly well orthodox in my technique. None of the Dali or Impressionistic School for me. But, I'm willing to try, and I probably will."

Miss Lillie, although born in Toronto, is probably the most British of all comediennes who have played upon the Broadway stages. She said she had no idea how her name ever came up when they were casting the Arthur Schwartz-Howard Dietz musical.

"I've jumped back and forth across the Atlantic in so many shows," she said, "that while I'm still looked upon here as typically British, in Haymarket I am sometimes referred to as 'That American'."

Within a few weeks Miss Lillie is closing her Broadway run in "Inside U.S.A." and going with it on a coast-to-coast tour.

"I suppose by the next time I get back to London," she said, "they will be calling me 'That Texan' or 'That Californian' or 'That Brooklyn Bum'."

Steel Demand Pressure Eases

CLEVELAND, Fee. 7 (AP). — Steel demand pressure is definitely being relieved, the magazine Steel said to-day.

The trade journal attributes this easing to expanding steelmaking capacity, continued high production, and slackened requirements from some consuming directions.

"Lessening international tension, however superficial, also appears to be exerting a dampening influence on market sentiment," the magazine said.

Up to the present time the easing in pressure on the market has largely involved so-called premium tonnage.

"Considerable premium tonnage continues to move into consumption," Steel said, "with various mills throughout the country continuing to quote prices well above the generally recognized market level."

Maintaining the record production pace in effect since the first of the year, United States steel mills last week operated at 100 per cent of capacity, a gain of half a point over last week.

Progressive Conservative Wins Quebec Seat With Plurality Of 296

Renaud Chapdelaine Holds Lead From First In Liberal Stronghold, Paul Trahan Waiting Official Recount

NICOLET, Que., Feb. 8—(CP).—The rural constituency of Nicolet-Yamaska, long a Liberal stronghold, was handed back to the Progressive Conservatives today by a man who wasn't born when his party was last successful in the St. Lawrence River riding. In a close battle that brought out a heavy vote, Renaud Chapdelaine, 37-year-old Nicolet lawyer, won Monday's Federal by-election over Paul Trahan, Liberal, and Romulus Manseau, a farmer who campaigned as an Independent-Liberal.

The result brought the total Opposition strength in the Commons to 120, against the Liberals' 124. The Progressive Conservatives have 68 members, the CCF 32, the Social Credit Party 12, and other minor parties 8.

Mr. Chapdelaine had a plurality of only 296 in complete returns for the 103 polls announced by returning officer Charles Edouard Villeneuve.

Final Figures

The final figures: Chapdelaine, 8,295; Trahan, 7,999; Manseau, 432.

The by-election was caused by the death of Lucien Dubois, who won over Mr. Trahan and an Independent-Conservative in the general election of 1945. In that contest, Mr. Dubois polled 7,973 votes against Mr. Trahan's 6,658 for a plurality of 1,315. The third candidate, as in Monday's voting, trailed far behind.

Mr. Chapdelaine held a lead almost from the first returns over his 40-year-old Liberal opponent, also a Nicolet lawyer.

Mr. Trahan made no statement on the outcome other than to say he would make no concession until the official recount Feb. 10.

In Ottawa Monday night Mr. Drew said the result demonstrated the voters' "firm belief in national unity based upon respect of our Canadian constitution" and offered "the most convincing proof" that the Progressive Conservative Party "is on the march in every part of Canada."

LAWYER RENAUD CHAPDELAINE, 37-year-old Progressive Conservative, won the Nicolet-Yamaska seat in the House of Commons, Monday, in the Federal by-election. This is the first time the Liberal hold has been broken there since 1911.

Arctic Explorer Says Canadians Need More Push

REGINA, Feb. 8.—(CP).—A healthy shot of the get-up-and-go spirit which spurred pioneers into pushing Canada's frontier across the western plains and mountain ranges in the days of the old west has been prescribed for present-day Canadians.

The "prescription" came from Vilhjalmur Stefansson, famed Arctic explorer, who suggested in an interview it was the only answer to the successful development of Canada's vast northland.

But the "go north" call was not directed at everyone.

Although flourishing cities of from 10,000 to 40,000 persons could be expected, the pioneers of the north should not be afraid of the cold and be prepared for a different means of livelihood.

The Manitoba-born explorer said the extension of railroads should proceed in the same pioneering spirit as the old Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways, and the Canadian Pacific Railway, were built.

Certain cereals could be grown as far north as the Arctic Circle. Fishing was indicated in other places.

There were millions of acres of grassland where huge ranches in the style of the old west could be operated. Herds of caribou, muskox and reindeer could provide a meat as edible as beef.

Banker Lies In Jail For Ringing Alarms

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Feb. 8 (AP)—Edward Crummey, 51-year-old heir to a banking fortune, is in jail today charged with turning in six false fire alarms.

"I just love to see the hook and ladder go by," police quoted the retired banker as saying. Crummey was arrested Monday at his home after the fire chief, an aerial truck, two engine companies, a hose truck and two police cars chased to the vicinity of his home on a false call.

Police said his record shows 12 arrests for drunkenness since 1938.

Strike Spreading Ask Negotiator

PARIS, Ont., Feb. 8—(CP). — Developments today in the strike at Penmans' plants here included a threat that the strike might spread to Brantford and Ayr and a request from Town Council for appointment of a negotiator in an effort to bring an end to the strike, now in its fourth week.

Kent Rowley, Canadian director and international representative of the United Textile Workers of America, Monday night threatened to strike the Ayr plant of Penmans, and Watson's plant in Brantford, a subsidiary of Penmans, in support of the Paris walkout.

Paris council passed the following motion: "That the Paris Town Council by means of registered letter request Minister of Labor Daly to demand that the Penmans Company, Limited, of Paris and the certified bargaining agency, United Textile Workers, meet him at his earliest possible convenience and appoint a negotiator to bring a peaceful settlement to the strike situation in Paris. A reply is requested."

Red Flotilla Under Attack

NANKING, Feb. 8 — (AP)—China's dormant civil war flared into a light fight on the Yangtze today.

Government patrol boats attacked a flotilla of Communist supply craft west of Wuhu, which is about 40 miles west of Nanking. Several Communist boats were sunk and 31 junks captured, along with a few Communist prisoners.

A naval spokesman denied the Communists were trying a crossing.

Chiang Kai-shek, the retired president, was reported by the authoritative Shanghai newspaper, Ta Kung Pao, to be getting ready to preside over an "important" Kuomintang (Government) party meeting in Canton March 29.

Wants Change In Pacts With Canada

LONDON, Feb. 8—(CP)—Sir E. H. Gilpin, Chairman of an 11-man British engineering mission that toured Canada last fall, said today the Anglo-Canadian trade picture offered a threat to the "whole structure of the Commonwealth."

"It is no exaggeration to say that the limitation of purchases from Canada, if long continued, might eventually threaten the whole structure of the Commonwealth," the missions leader said in a statement to appear in the British Board of Trade Journal Feb. 12.

He said the government appointed mission, during its seven-week Canadian tour, did everything within its power to explain why, "in a world more and more tightly-laced in the strait-jacket of bilateral trade," the trading accounts of two nations must come into some sort of balance.

"The Canadian sees with puzzled amazement, our trade agreements with nations which spend their energy reviling us."

"It is difficult for a Canadian to understand why, when his country has made such immense sacrifices for us, we should be upsetting the whole economy of the Dominion by reducing our purchases of the products of its farms and forests."

Both countries have to change their trading ways. The mission found that Canada has a virile and growing industry but that it imported at least 100,000,000 (about $400,000,000) worth of capital equipment each year.

AFL Studies Ways To Rid Canadian Unions Of Reds

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 8 — (AP). — The executive council of the American Federation of Labor today debated means for helping rid Canadian unions of Communist influences.

The only remaining major policy decision to be decided at the council's annual winter meeting was whether to accept the Machinists' Union, an organization claiming 600,000 members, back as an AFL affiliate.

A blast against the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, the Federation of AFL Unions in Canada, seemed in the making.

The council was reported irked at Percy Bengough, Canadian TLC president, for failing, the council said, to agree to take a militant stand against Red sympathizers in Canadian unions.

Such a course has been urged by Frank Hall, vice-president of the TLC and head of the AFL Railway Clerks' Union in Canada. The situation has grown into a lively dispute between Bengough and Hall. Both presented their views at a closed council session yesterday.

A council statement was prepared overnight by a council committee made up of Secretary-Treasurer George Meany of the AFL and Presidents William Hutcheson of the AFL Carpenters and George Harrison of the Railway Clerks.

The naming of Harrison to the job of drafting the Canadian resolution seemed insurance enough that the council would side with Hall on the question of anti-Communist militancy. Hall is an assistant official in Harrison's union.

Rob Taximan Of Cap, $8, Tie Him Up

3 Boys Draw Guns When Cabbie Asks About Fare

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP)—Bernard Delong, 35-year-old taxi driver, early today was kidnapped in his own taxi, robbed of his cap and $8 and tied with electricians' tape by armed teen-agers.

More than 30 minutes after he picked up the three zoot-suited youths at a North Toronto restaurant, Delong managed to wriggle free of the tape and escape.

Delong said the three youths asked him to take them on a long drive to the outskirts of the city, and when he questioned their ability to pay the fare they drew guns. In a lonely section Delong was ordered out of the cab and tied hands and feet. He was lifted back into the cab and thrown in the back seat.

"It was pure comic book stuff," commented Delong to police. "I had no idea where we were going but I knew we were heading back to the city because of the lights. They had promised to bring me back to Toronto and let the company know where I was."

After taking his cap and $8 the youths left him in the cab and ran. When Delong was able to free himself he went to a nearby home and phoned police.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—A meeting of ambassadors of countries negotiating a North Atlantic defence alliance was called today in the midst of American discussions with Norway about the proposed pact.

The state department announced a meeting with the North Atlantic powers—Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—would be held at 3 p.m. EST, this afternoon.

Nothing was said as to the purpose, but it was believed State Secretary Acheson wanted to discuss the questions submitted by Foreign Minister Halvard M. Lange of Norway at a conference Monday.

Find Constable Shot Inquest Is Ordered

ANCASTER, Ont., Feb. 8—(CP)—Coroner R. A. Woods has ordered an inquest into the death of Harry R. Bennett, 68-year-old constable of this village 10 miles west of Hamilton. He was found lying in the living room of his home last Tuesday with a bullet in his head.

Police said Bennett's blood-stained tunic was found in a second room and the gun with which he was shot was found in a third.

On the same day that Bennett was found dead a meeting of citizens was held in connection with town finances. Records of an investigating council meeting showed that Bennett had received overpayments amounting to $795. The money had been paid back by the constable, whose salary was $125 a month.

Rev. John W. Hamilton, head of the citizens committee investigating town finances, said Bennett's name was mentioned in the probe only indirectly. "He had no need to worry. His contract with the village as constable had already been signed."

Mercy Trip Delayed

EDMONTON, Feb. 8 (CP).—The RCAF reported Monday night that its two mercy planes en route to help a stricken Eskimo hamlet were grounded Monday. They have been unable to follow up their Friday flight over Cresswell Bay on Somerset Island investigating reports more than half the post's 17 Eskimos have been wiped out by a "plague" in the last few months.

Offers Congress 5 Billion Recovery Bargain To Secure World Peace And Stability

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP)—Paul G. Hoffman, Economic Co-operation Administrator, today offered the United States Congress a European Recovery "Bargain"—with a $5,580,000,000 price tag.

"If that program brings us peace and stability," he said, "and I fervently believe it can, it will turn out to be the greatest bargain the American people ever had."

Hoffman laid before the Senate-House Foreign Affairs Committee the ECA Aid Program for the 15-month period of April 3, 1949, to June 30, 1950. But he warned this may not be enough.

He asked: (1) $1,500,000,000 to help non-Communist European countries over the next April-June period, (2) another $4,280,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1 and (3) $150,000,000 to be spent in long-range planning beyond the end of that fiscal year.

This is the time to hit hard for European recovery," Hoffman said, "time for the Europeans to take the drastic and sometimes painful steps necessary for real recovery, time for the United States to back their efforts to the full."

Keays Charges Carefoot Backed By Crown Attorney

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 8—(CP).—Constable J. E. Keays of the Ontario Provincial Police charged today that Ernest M. Carefoot—allegedly a fraudulent medical practitioner—was "sponsored" by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan of Belleville. He made the charge as the Mackay commission began the second day of investigating Keays' allegations of maladministration of justice and seven Provincial Police officers.

Carefoot, arrested by Keays and charged with false pretences in 1946, was acquitted of the fraud charges. He now is awaiting trial on narcotics charges.

Keays said Carefoot claimed to treat people with radioactive machines, said to be good for everything from "boils to cancer."

Several months before the arrest, Donnan told Keays that he would advise Carefoot to smash the machines, the constable said.

Dr. C. S. Tennant, a Provincial Police psychiatrist, was a spectator at the hearing. There was no explanation of his presence.

Once during the hearing Keays waved his hand in Dr. Tennant's direction and said: "They're going to try and say I'm crazy, but I've taken care of that too."

Owned Stock

The constable said the Crown Attorney owned stock in a company Carefoot formed to sell a mineral water called aqua vita. He said Carefoot claimed to be able to cure cancer, infantile paralysis and diabetes with aqua vita.

The company was incorporated in 1936 as the Belleville Aqua Vita Company, Ltd., said Keays. Donnan also wrote the Federal Health Department about the formation.

Keays said Donnan arranged for Justice of the Peace Mary Butler to grant Carefoot bail, even though the Criminal Code did not permit a Justice of the Peace to grant bail in that case.

"This is the practice in Belleville and has been since I took over the (Provincial Police) detachment in 1944," he said.

Keays alleged fraud, perjury and maladministration of justice had been committed by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan of Belleville, Commissioner W. H. Stringer of the Provincial Police and six other officers.

Implicated In Fraud

He said Mr. Donnan was implicated in a fraud with Carefoot and tried to hinder his prosecu-

Annual Report Of Federation Shows A Surplus

Rural Peterborough raised $645,-62 for the aid to children of Europe fund last year, as reported by Milton Clark at the recent meeting of the directors of the Federation of Agriculture.

This sum was mentioned in the financial statement of the Federation last year by John Kitney, secretary.

"We can report only the amount received through the schools," Mr. Clark said. "Other money was contributed in this campaign, but it did not come through our hands."

The financial statement has been prepared for the annual meeting of the Federation.

Receipts last year: County of Peterborough levy $2,063.47; affiliation fees: Jersey Breeders' Club, $15; Cheese Producers $10; Holstein Breeders $10; Milk Producers $10; Keene Livestock Shippers $10; Plowmen's Association $5. Total: $2,123.47.

Comment of the directors was to the effect that some of the affiliates were not making any contribution to the Federation, and others were giving disproportionately to their membership and means.

The 1948 disbursements were: Expenses of delegates to annual

Car Hits Train 4 Men Injured

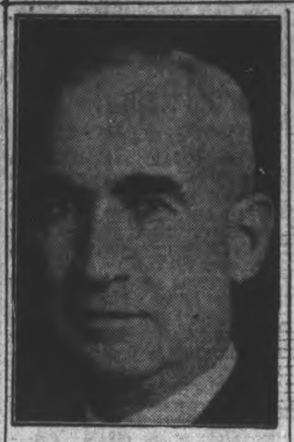
LINDSAY, Feb. 8—(CP).—Returning from a hockey game in Little Britain, 10 miles west of here, four Lindsay and district young men escaped with cuts and bruises when the car in which they were riding hit a standing freight train at Mariposa station Monday night.

Orville Wright, 21, of Lindsay, the driver, was badly cut about the head when he was pinned by the shattered steering wheel. Don Hall, 19, suffered leg and arm bruises and facial abrasions; Ben Wright, 18, Lindsay, and Stan Swartzman, of Oakwood, were shaken up.

Teachers' Pensions Likely To Be Raised

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP) — Among legislation to be introduced at the new session of the Ontario Legislature opening Thursday, it was reported today, is a bill to raise pension payments for Ontario teachers and school inspectors.

The Teachers and Inspectors Superannuation Fund, administered by the province, at present approximates $50,000,000, and with annual contributions the fund income is around $6,000,000. The Ontario Teachers Federation asked the government last year to set minimum and maximum pensions at $600 and $3,000 but whether the latter will actually be set will not be known until the legislation is introduced.



J. F. PRINGLE, 63, vice-president of Canadian National Railways, central region, died in hospital today.

CNR Vice-Pres. J. F. Pringle Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, Feb. 8 (CP)—J. F. Pringle, 63, vicepresident of Canadian National Railways central region, died in hospital today of coronary thrombosis.

One of Canada's outstanding railway executives, Mr. Pringle was born in Cornwall, Ont., and graduated from Queen's University in Kingston. He was formerly vice-president and general manager of the CNR's Atlantic region, with headquarters in Moncton, NB.

During the First World War he served with the Royal Canadian Engineers. He was one of a number of Canadian technical experts loaned to assist in reorganizing National Railroads in Mexico in 1930.

James Farrand Pringle, born June 3, 1885, began his railway career in 1907 with the engineering department of the National Transcontinental Railway, now a part of the CNR system. During the First World War he rose to the rank of Major and was one of the officers in charge of rehabilitating the Halifax docks after the great explosion.

He began his CNR service at Montreal in 1919 and continued there until 1923, when he was made transportation engineer to the chief of transportation.

Late in 1925 he was transferred to Toronto as assistant general superintendent of transportation. Following Mexico service from 1930 to 1932 he returned to Toronto, where he remained until 1943.

He then became vice-president and general manager of the Atlantic region for slightly more than a year, until he was appointed to similar positions with the central region, with headquarters at Toronto.

Robinson Gets Raise

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Feb. 8 (AP) — Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn Dodgers second baseman, said today he signed his 1949 contract at a "substantial increase" over last year. He was said to have received $15,000 last year and it is believed his new contract is in the neighborhood of $20,000.

CARDINAL MINDSZENTY WAS sentenced to life imprisonment today for treason to the state. Due to 'alleviating circumstances,' his sentence is to be reviewed by a higher court. No date has been announced for the appeal

Life Sentence Imposed On Cardinal

Decide Circumstances "Alleviating'; Will Allow Appeal

BUDAPEST, Feb. 8 (CP)—The "People's Court" which today sentenced Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty to life imprisonment for treason has ordered the sentence to be reviewed by the Supreme People's Tribunal after finding "alleviating circumstances."

The order followed an appeal by the Cardinal and his lawyers against the sentence, which also calls for confiscation of his property.

The six-co-defendants of the Cardinal also were convicted, five of them on charges of treason or trying to overthrow the republic, and all but one appealed. Their sentences, which also will be reviewed, ranged from life imprisonment down to three years. All were subjected to loss of their fortunes or their jobs, and suspension of their political rights.

The Cardinal was specifically convicted of treason, trying to overthrow the government, and of speculation in foreign currencies, including dollars he was said by the prosecution to have obtained from the United States and the Vatican.

Extenuating Circumstances

The court said these were in the extenuating circumstances in the Cardinal's case:

He confessed and expressed regret; he lived far from worldly affairs; and the United States, through its minister here, Seldon Chapin, "made him hope that the United States of America would start a war and this war would help him attain his aims."

Aggravating factors, the judge added, were the Cardinal's high station in the church, his high degree of education, and the amassing of the crimes he committed.

After the sentence, the Cardinal was taken back to the two small rooms in Marko Street Prison.

House Leaders Approve Union

OTTAWA, Feb. 8—(CP)—Legislation providing for Newfoundland's union with Canada appeared today to be assured of a safe and a comparatively easy passage through the Commons.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, initiating a debate on a resolution to the Union Bill, said Confederation with Newfoundland had been made "inevitable", both by geography and by historic developments.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, said: "Speaking on behalf of all members of the Progressive Conservative party in this House I wish to welcome the introduction of such measures as will complete this union upon terms satisfactory to the people of Newfoundland and to the people of Canada. . . ."

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said his party joined in welcoming Newfoundland to Confederation. Newfoundland's natural wealth and the sterling quality of her people would make her doubly welcome.

Million Dollar Grant For Mental Hospital

MONTREAL, Feb. 8.—(CP).—Health Minister Martin said today the first part of about $1,-000,000 "or more" will be sent to the Quebec government shortly to help build a new mental health hospital, "second to none on this continent."

The money, to be made available under the Federal government's $30,000,000-a-year health grants, will help cover the cost of building the new Mont Providence Hospital at St. Jean de Dieu in Southeastern Quebec, the minister said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Montreal Rotary Club.

Provision will be made in the hospital for the care and instruction of 1,000 mentally deficient children.

Power Policy Chief Dispute For Legislature

TORONTO, Feb. 8—(CP)—The Progressive Conservative Government's electric power development policy shapes up as one of the chief issues of the first session of Ontario's new Legislature, opening Thursday.

Political circles expect the CCF and Liberal parties numerically stronger after the Ontario general election June 7, will accuse the government of failure to develop power fast enough to meet the demand.

However, government sources say they feel developments have taken the wind out of the sails of Hydro critics. The power scarcity of late fall and early winter, when power was cut off in many Ontario communities for fixed periods each day, has been greatly relieved by an increased flow of water in the Ottawa valley and in Quebec, where Ontario purchases some power.

Speech Short

The Speech from the Throne likely will be short. Premier Kennedy finished polishing it up Monday. It is expected to forecast some amendments to existing legislation, but not any new major policies.

Premier Kennedy heads 52 Progressive Conservatives in the 90-member house, 14 less than in the last Legislature. He has called a caucus for tomorrow in preparation for the opening.

Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson will open the session Thursday. His honor guard is drawn from the 48th Highlanders of Canada. The 29th Field Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, will fire a 15-gun salute. After comparatively informal opening ceremonies, and the reading of the speech from the throne, the first session of the 23rd Legislature will buckle down to business.

Bus On Wrong Side Evidence Given Jury

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP).—After nearly three hours of testimony from 18 witneses, a coroner's jury Monday was unable to determine the cause of the street car-motorbus collision which took seven lives and injured 47 others November 6.

The acident occurred when a suburban street car collided with suburban street car collided head-on with a special bus carrying a load of passengers to Hamilton after a regimental dance at a night club on Toronto's western outskirts.

The five-man coroner's jury exonerated Frank Rowe, driver of the bus and one of those who died in the crash. Police testimony however was that there was no doubt the bus was far from its own side of the road. At the point of impact the bus was -8 feet off its proper course.

The verdict said: "We believe the accident was purely accidental with possible contributory factors being the wet condition of the highway, a rainy night, and a curve on the highway."

Plan Class Changes At Plowing Match

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP).—Ontario plowmen were told on Monday to expect changes in the classes and rules in this year's international plowing match in Ontario.

Walter Downey of Minesing, president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, told the group's annual meeting here that such changes were made necessary by "new problems and theories in agriculture." He did not elaborate.

J. A. Carroll, secretary-treasurer of the asociation, said the 1948 plowing match at Lindsay was a "record-breaker." European farmers were represented for the first time, with a plowing team from Ireland, and the numbers of entries and displays were all-time highs.

No Pension Increase

OTTAWA Feb. 8 — (CP) — Veterans Minister Gregg said Monday the government does not plan to increase veterans' pensions again at this time. He was replying to Frank Lennard (PC-Wentworth) who asked in the Commons "if the rumors are true" that the government intends to increase pensions to the full 38½ per cent recommended last year by the veterans' committee of the chamber. They were raised 25 per cent last year.

Plan Extension Of Controls

OTTAWA, Feb. 8.—(CP)—The Government's plans for extension of still-existing wartime controls were placed before the Commons Monday night.

Speaking on a motion preliminary to the control legislation, Finance Minister Abbott said the Administration plans to ask for extension of price ceilings on all products now under control — flour, bread, butter, molasses, sugar, certain fresh and canned fruits and vegetables and some fruit juices.

In addition, rental controls will be continued for another year and the Prices Board retained for a similar period.

Trade Minister Howe said he would ask for the continuation of control of priorities, steel and lumber.

Asks Policy Reconsidered

The developing debate produced from M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, a demand that the Government reconsider its policy on general price controls and subsidies with a view to stemming the still-rising cost of living. The value of the dollar had shrunk to 75 cents in three years.

Mr. Abbott said the control bill will include provision for the turning over of rent controls to any provinces which want to assume responsibility for them.

The Government, he said, was keeping its ceiling on flour because a subsidy now is being paid on flour used for making bread in Canada. Other ceilings were being continued because the products to which they applied still were in short supply.

Industrials Slide Lower On Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP) — Industrials slid further into lower ground as a wide list of issues lost fractions in dull action on today's Toronto Stock Exchange.

News that South Africa was selling part of its gold on the free market was largely ignored in the gold list with only a handful of issues showed changes in a narrow range. Base metals and western oils were easier.

Volume for the first three hours was 485,000 shares, about 41,000 shares more than yesterday's similar period.

Steels led the downward moving industrial list. International Paper firmed ½ in a mixed paper list and Winnipeg Electric chalked up a point gain following recent declines.

Lake Shore added in golds while Hollinger weakened. Juniors were practically at a standstill. Waite Amulet rose ⅛ at 13 in base metals and International Nickel slipped lower. Golden Manitou, Macdonald, Labrador and New Calumet showed losses up to 10 cents.

tion. Donnan ordered Keays to turn the investigation over to a junior officer, Constable Elmer Bowen.

Commission counsel C. P. Hope interjected when Keays sought to introduce a report he said had been prepared by Constable Bowen in conection with the Carefoot case.

Keays said he took it from files at provincial police headquarters in Belleville.

"Did you consult anyone?" Mr. Hope asked.

"I did not," Keays said.

Serious Matter

"I think it is a very serious matter when a provincial constable helps himself to government files," Mr. Hope said.

Keays asked that several letters from Provincial Police files be introduced as evidence. Mr. Hope said the letters could not be found, despite an exhaustive search of the files.

Keays said Donnan turned the prosecution of Carefoot in 1946 over to assistant Crown Attorney G. Robertson.

He said Robertson warned Keays not to mention certain substances Carefoot allegedly used to treat cancer because it would "get Bryson (Donnan) in trouble."

Keays said he laid three charges of false pretences against Carefoot.

When he obtained the warrant from Justice of the Peace Mary Butler, she said: "It's about time people caught up with him (Carefoot)."

Officers Intoxicated

Keays said he went to Belleville R.C.M.P. headquarters in connection with the arrest of Carefoot and found two R.C.M.P. officers intoxicated. When he identified them Mr. Justice Keiller MacKay asked:

"Are they in any way connected with this investigation?"

"No," said Mr. Hope. "The R.C.M.P. investigated Keays' complaint and found there was nothing to it."

The commissioner suggested names of persons not connected with the inquiry should not be used and Keays said he would withdraw the names.

Keays and Inspector G. Monahan of the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons searched Carefoot's home after the arrest.

Donnan arranged for Carefoot's release on bail before police had a chance to question him. Bail was granted by Miss Butler "who only acts through the mouth of Mr. Donnan and does not perform her duties."

Bogus Bills Under Bathtub Point To Mickey McDonald

OSHAWA, Feb. 8 — (CP). — Police suspect the hand of Donald (Mickey) McDonald—Canada's public enemy No. 1—behind a cache of United States counterfeit money found under a bathtub here Monday. They nabbed Edwin McDonald, Mickey's younger brother, Edwin's wife, and more than $10,000 in counterfeit bills when their raided a dwelling in search of narcotics. Edwin and his 26-year-old wife, arrested for having the counterfeit money in their possession, were remanded to Feb. 14 on bail of $20,000.

The police said they believed the pair may be part of an international counterfeit ring, headed by the notorious Mickey, who escaped from Kingston Penitentiary in August, 1947, while serving a 15-year term for theft of a liquor truck.

Edwin, 30, who also took part in the $35,000 liquor theft, was released from Kingston only a few months ago after serving a five-year stretch.

Same Bills in U. S.

RCMP said the bogus bills, expertly made, were similar to counterfeit money circulated in New York State, where Mickey is reported to be hiding, during the last few months. A U. S secret service officer was en route here to take part in the investigation.

The police staged the gun-point raid primarily in search of narcotics, following reports of suspicious conduct at the dwelling and heroin dealings in this district.

They found the fake money in two bundles under the bath tub. One had been opened. The money appeared to be newly-printed and was in $20 bills.

Gives Up Land For Three Million

BOMBAY, Feb. 8 — (AP). — The fabulously rich Nizam of Hyderabad said Monday he has turned his vast land holding over to the State in return for a pay boost estimated at well over $3,000,000 a year.

Conquered Hyderabad's military governor said the ruler has handed over 7,000 square miles of land for administration by the civil government in a big new land reform. In return, the Nizam said, his privy purse, amounting to more than 10,000,000 rupees a year, will be increased. (Current value of the Indian rupee is 30.24 cents.)

Neither the Nizam, nor Maj.-Gen. J. N. Chowdbury, the military governor, revealed the extent of the increase in the privy purse, but it is realiably reported to be about 10,000,000 rupees.

In addition to this the Nizam gets around 25,000,000 rupees a year from his surrendered lands. This is expected to be increased by 5,000,000 rupees, Chowdbury told reporters.

Nearly 40,000 cheques — worth some two million dollars — covering last year's Compulsory Savings Refund for 1942, are still unclaimed. They belong to Canadians who have changed their name or address, or both, since 1943, and failed to notify the Government.

Couple Wed 56 Years Recalls Coal Oil Lamps

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 8 (ENS)— Married in the days of the old lamplighter, and still the life of every party, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Forsyth of Lakefield celebrate their 56th wedding anniversary on February the ninth.

Mrs. Forsyth was born in Glasgow, Scotland, 75 years ago and came to Montreal with her parents when she was ten months old.

Mr. Forsyth was born in Three Rivers, Quebec, 79 years ago.

Married at Three Rivers, the couple lived in Montreal and North Bay before settling in Peterborough 44 years ago, where Mr. Forsyth was in charge of the paint shop at the De Laval Company for 29 years, retiring four years ago.

Among the recollections Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth have of the early days in Peterborough are horse-drawn cars. Living in Driscoll Terrace, East City, conveniences were few and one pump served six families. Coal oil lamps were used to light the houses and the street had gas lamps.

No Mail Delivered

Mail had to be collected from the Post Office for there were no delivery services and there was no garbage disposal organization.

Family outings consisted of hiring a team of horses and wagon on Sunday for picnics at Douro or Lakefield.

Mrs. Forsyth recalls one occasion when her husband had been unable to go. She was driving their ten children to Lakefield for a picnic when she lost the way and finally arrived at Warsaw.

Peterborough streets were paved with cedar blocks set on end and driven into the ground.

The Grand Opera House was the only theatre and later there was the Empire on Charlotte St.

They Still Perform

Both Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth are still active. Miss Forsyth plays the piano and Mr. Forsyth sings. Mrs. Forsyth still knits and crochets for her grandchildren. Mr. Forsyth is an ardent bowler.

The Forsyths have nine children living, 30 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

Their son Gladstone and daughter-in-law, the former Ruby Burfield, with whom they live in Lakefield will celebrate their 11th wedding anniversary on the same day.

Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone Forsyth have three children, a daughter nine, and twins (a boy and a girl) 4 years of age.

Children of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Forsyth are: Mrs. Eldon Wand, Peterborough; Mrs. William Robinson, Verdun, Quebec; Mrs. Claude Bradley, Stronghurst, Illinois; Mrs. Joseph Bolton, Mrs. Richard King, Mrs. Ameron Faulkner, Harold Forsyth and Gladstone Forsyth, all of Peterborough; Nellie Forsyth of Tweed.

The anniversary celebration is being held at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Ameron Faulkner, 476 Rogers St., Peterborough.

He was charged with having obtained $20 by fraud on November 25 from Noble's store in Baltimore; $10 from Reginald Wenn at Cobourg on the same date; $10. on November 25 from A. Carruthers in Hamilton Township and $14. from V. Lishman at Baltimore on Nov. 26.

Council Grants Town Band $250

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 8 — (ENS)— Don bennett, representing Campbellford Citizens' Band, asked council on Monday for $1,100 for 1949.

He said members of the band were being trained as musicians tion and that a number of boys weer being trained as musicians. Private contributions were not enough to meet the financial needs of a fully equipped band, he said.

The council voted $250.

Garbage collector Charles McCoy told council that several people were putting ashes in oil drums and wash tub containers. They were too heavy for one man tot lift and in a number of cases he had refused to remove them. He also asked for more money because of the extra work of lifting garbage at the War Time Housing estate.

Councillor Kelly said that Mr. McCoy did not have suitable equipment for handling the job and that garbage was littered "all over the streets." He thought that $1800 a year was a fair salary and that the collector should be satisfied with it.

Councillor Wilson said that residents should be advised to use the proper containers. Council agreed that Mr. McCoy's work was satisfactory and granted a bonus of $50 for performing duties not outlined in his contract.

N. A. MacColl, town solicitor, was instructed to ask the magistrate for a third adjournment until May in the case against Charles Ellis, who had been ordered to remove his home in order to comply with the building bylaw. Council felt that Mr. Elliss' wife and three childhren would suffer unduly if he was not given more time to conform with requirements of the bylaw.

Council was advised by Mr. MacColl that $303 taken out of the rents of the War Time Houses by the Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation for the extra fill would be returned to the town.

Council Loses Money.

Councillor Kelly, chairman of the property committee, reported on the dispute with tenants of the War Time Housing estate over the rent increase. He said that his committee and Arthur Collette, representing the Legion had analized the whole financial structure and concluded that the town was losing money on its investment of $30,500. He stated that if the occupants had further compaints they would have to place them before the Government.

Councillor Kelly advised the council to keep the rents at the present level. His report was adopted.

The property committee was instructed to interview Peter Barnes, Frederick Macoun and Archibald Meyers, regarding their places as suitable premises for the centralization of the town offices. In answer to a question in reference to a rest room, Councillor Davidson said that a carefully supervised rest room was already in existence above the cooperative store.

William Scott, a drover, asked for permission to erect a shed west of the weigh scales. The chairman of the legal committee and town solicitor were instructed to investigate the matter with Mr. Scott.

Permission was granted to the Institute of the Blind to hold a tag day on Sept. 3.

On representations from Bert Stephens, the council gave the Agricultural Society a grant of $250.

The treasurer and J. Birmingham were instructed to prepare a list of all property, subject to a tax sale.

Two Men Fined For Illegal Fishing

COBOURG, Feb. 8—(ENS) — Willis and Milford Smoke of Roseneath were found guilty Monday on each of two charges of fishing unlawfully and using an unbaited hook to gaff fish. R. B. Baxter was Magistrate. They were fined $10 and costs on each charge. The two were charged after being caught by provincial police and game overseers on January 31 and the evidence was that they were using a stiff wire with a large hook, through a hole in the ice.

Defence counsel Harvey Brent contended that as the wire was rolled up it indicated that it had not been used. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman pointed out in reply that some of the wire was unrolled, enough for use in the shallow water where the fishing took place.

Public Demands Settlement Of Cobourg Rink Project

COBOURG, Feb. 8 — (ENS) — Impatient of the 18 months delay in the council's selection of a site for the proposed ice rink, Cobourg residents attended Monday's meeting of the council, when the re-assessment of rates was to have been discussed, to voice their annoyance at council's failure to chose a suitable site.

Little public interest was shown in the re-assessment debate and after some time someone from the audience asked when the matter was going to be settled. This unloosed a flood of discussion in which the public said they were tired of waiting for the rink committee to make up its mind. Mayor Joseph Smith told the people that he agreed the committee had taken a long time and invited the public to attend a meeting in the Opera House on Feb. 16 to discuss the matter.

Reeve Roy Dodge said that if the committee was unable to make a decision on the matter, something else would have to be done.

During the discussion the mayor told the public "give the committee two more weeks— if you don't you might talk the rink out of existence.

Max Sloan expert at the Department of Municipal Affairs, would be willing to supervise the re-assessment of Cobourg, acting in an advisory capacity to the local assessor.

Gives Evidence In Liquor Charges

Evidence was heard Monday on two charges under the Liquor Control Act against Joseph Fontaine, 428 Water St. He is faced with two separate charges of keeping liquor for sale and one of illegal possession of liquor. Evidence dealt with one of the first two charges and the possession charge.

Key witness for the crown was Benjamin Ohman of Lindsay. He said he had been attending a party at the home of the accused when a telephone message was received. Fontaine, he said, asked him to come while the accused "delivered something". Later, when the car of the witness was involved in an accident and the police called, a case of beer was found in the back of the car.

Search of Fontaine's home, testified PC Vern J. O'Donaghue, resulted in the seizing of 14 cases of beer, some part cases and some liquor.

Conservative Victory In Nicolet-Yamaska

The by-election in the rural Quebec riding of Nicolet-Yamaska would have been significant no matter what the results. The political upset that has resulted vastly increases its significance. The Conservative Party has won a momentous victory. The Liberal Party has been trounced. It is an event of major political importance.

* * *

This was the first test of strength in the province of Quebec since Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Drew became leaders of their parties. It may be argued—but without altering the significance of the Conservative victory — that the Liberal vote was split between two Liberal candidates, and that the Conservative victor won by a narrow plurality of a few hundred votes. The results of the last election (1945) show how great was the upset yesterday. In 1945 the voting resulted in the official Liberal candidate receiving 7,973 votes, the Independent Liberal 6,658, and the Independent Conservative 944 votes.

* * *

Mr. Drew has already imbued the Conservative party with new vigour and hope. Yesterday's by-election success for his party is less an indication of that new spirit than of his political strategy. He did not take an active part in the campaigning. His strategy was behind the scene. It is a strategy now plain. It is apparent that in Quebec he is allying himself and his party with Premier Duplessis and the Union National party. The Nicolet-Yamaska by-election results show that Premier Duplessis and his Union National have intervened in support of Mr. Drew. This political configuration, holy or unholy, has had results ominous for Mr. St. Laurent and the Liberals.

* * *

It is said that the Liberals cannot win a general election without Quebec. That may be true, although Laurier successfully challenged the assumption. A by-election is not, of course, a general election. It may well be that in a general election the voters of Quebec will not so lightly discard St. Laurent, a native son, a Quebecois, as Prime Minister for the satisfaction of having a former Premier of Ontario in the chief legislative seat. Nevertheless, the results of yesterday's by-election will give the Liberals pause. Before a general election is held they must make efforts to mend their Quebec fences. It may mean that the general election will be postponed until the autumn, or even next year, until the Liberals have had time to attempt political repairs in Quebec.

A Comic Book To Save The State

Mr. James M. Fraser, manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, told an audience last Friday about a "different kind of comic book", which has been sent to Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade across the country. It is called Is This Tomorrow? It is said to be a new type of anti-communist weapon. The book will soon be distributed locally. Being agog to inspect this latest weapon of a free-enterprise society, we secured a copy of the American edition. We understand that the Canadian edition is the same except that the White House becomes Parliament Hill, and the Stars and Stripes the Union Jack.

This surely is the last word in comic books, that is, if the test of modernity in a comic book is that it be as far removed from comedy as possible. It is frightful, frightening, macabre. It is as subtle as a skunk. Between page one and page 48 a fantastic account of the fall of the nation into a complete communistic dictatorship is luridly illustrated. Bearded plotters incite strikes, racial hatred and violence. They suborn legislators. Eventually (by the middle of the book) doctors are chortling over mercy-killings, children are tattling on parents who listen to foreign broadcasts, Protestant clergymen are taken for rides for daring to stand up for freedom, axes are used on hidden altars, union workers are sent off to concentration camps in Dakota, democracy is shot down in its legislative halls, the life savings of citizens are taken from the banks by the new State, and everybody but the new dictators lives in squalor, fear or by the whip.

It is not a pretty story, and not prettily told. We do not say that it couldn't happen here, but we do wonder if the publishers and distributors of Is This Tomorrow? are by such means effectively campaigning against its happening here. It is a threatening magazine, based on fear. It is propaganda at a crude low level. We are definitely not amused by this "Comic" and do not thank the donor for the free copy.

Fifty Years Of Drama

This year the Queen's Drama Guild celebrates its fiftieth birthday, and as this is something of a record in Canada, and as there are many Queen's graduates among our readers, we feel that the occasion calls for congratulation and comment. It is hard for us today to imagine a university at which no interest is taken in the drama, but when the Drama Guild was organized there was some opposition at Queen's. In 1877 Professor Mackerras, who held forth on classical literature, declared that "since the Restoration it (the theatre) has fallen low—Garrick, Kemble, Siddons, etc., did reform it, but not enough; the faculty of speech is the best part of drama and today the elocutionist, rendering selections from the greatest dramatists, carried off from the theatre its most valuable—if not the only valuable quality which it possessed". Whether Professor Mackerras was still around when the Guild was founded in 1899 we do not know; perhaps he and his elocutionists had vanished into Limbo. He lived in those dark days when professors could successfully deceive themselves that despite their lack of training, imagination and physical endowment, they were really better interpreters of the drama than mere actors.

The Guild will celebrate its fiftieth year with a banquet, a new play by Mr. W. R. Digby, and the conferring of an honorary degree upon Mr. Raymond Massey. For some unexplained reason these celebrations come at the same time as the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival, which prevents many interested persons from going to Queen's, and prevents the Queen's Guild from taking part in the Festival — a muddle which offers a curious comment upon the interest which Queen's has always taken in the Festival.

The Film Board Takes A Hand

One of Canada's longstanding and pressing problems is her high rate of insanity; there are few countries in the world in which the incidence of insanity is greater. The need for asylums and proper care is great, and from time to time provincial governments attempt to grapple with it. We have not, however, anything in Canada which looks like an intelligent mental health scheme which aims to prevent insanity by attacking some of its commonest causes.

Some light in this darkness has recently been given by the National Film Board, which has produced three short films, The Feeling of Rejection, The Feeling of Hostility and What's On Your Mind? These films show in a simple but psychologically correct fashion two or three of the maggots which can, if neglected, eat into the mind of an ordinary man or woman, and partly destroy it. If these films are widely shown they will arm a great many people against dangers which they might not recognize otherwise, and in mental disease, as in physical disease, to be forewarned is to be forearmed. Nobody wants Canada to become a nation of neurotics, fearful of insanity; but on the other hand we must not blind ourselves to the fact that Canada has far more than its share of neurosis and insanity and that something must be done about it.

These productions of the National Film Board have received enthusiastic endorsement from experts on mental health in the U.S.A., and the demand for prints of the films is greater than the Film Board's New York office can handle. Are we appreciating these films as we should in Canada? Are they being shown to the people for whom they were made and who desperately need them? We should like to think that every Canadian over eighteen had seen all three.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One half of the world still does not know how the other half lives, but it suspects the worst.

"Don't work when you don't feel like it" advises a physician. Yes, but we have to if we are going to eat when we feel like eating.

A Quebec Indian has been inciting his people to take back this country. There has been a surprising amount of resistance, considering the frequent suggestions that it be returned as a gift.

Round The Galleries

By MICHAEL MIDDLETON
Art Critic of The London Spectator

RICHARD Wilson is commonly referred to as "the father of English landscape", yet, of all our great landscape painters, he has perhaps won the least recognition. This is certainly due to the uneven level of his work, to the un-inspired duplication of many pictures, and to the multitudinous copies by his pupils. Nevertheless, Wilson is very much more than a link in a historical chain, and perhaps the most interesting exhibition of the month has been devoted to him and his circle, in Birmingham's City Art Gallery. One of the aims of this exhibition was to try and "separate the grain from the chaff" and to clarify Wilson's own contribution to the eighteenth century.

❖ ❖ ❖

AFTER achieving a measure of success as a portrait painter in his earlier days, Wilson, at the age of 36, left for Venice. This was the period of the "Grand Tour", when Italy was the happy hunting ground of the British artistocracy who brought back countless Canalettos, Claudes, Poussins and Salvator Rosas with which to grace their country houses. Canaletto, indeed, had already been brought to London in person, so that he might paint the Thames as though it were the sweep of the Venetian lagoons seen from the Riva degli Schiavoni. Wilson's poetic imagination was stirred by the serene light and the ordered landscape of Venice and the Roman campagna. Especially did he absorb everything that Claude had to teach him. He rarely, however, allowed the formal compositions of the classical approach to divert him from direct observation and reference to nature. Here lay his real achievement. In the hands of lesser painters of the period, classicism degenerated into a series of well-worn formulae and stock properties. Though Wilson himself, after his return to England in 1755, was by no means guiltless of this, at the same time, he frequently regenerated the classical method with a love of nature and a romanticism of mood which left the pasticheurs of the picturesque far behind.

❖ ❖ ❖

ALTHOUGH he was a foundation member of the Royal Academy, and subsequently Librarian, he had little material success (partly, it is said, because of the uncompromising attitude he adopted towards prospective patrons), and ended his days in embittered poverty in Wales. It was here, among the Welsh mountains, that he produced his finest work—simple paintings, resulting from a tender meditation upon the moods of nature, which were truly original. It was these works which led directly to the English landscape tradition, to Constable, Crome, Cotman, Turner and Ruskin, all of whom understood and appreciated him. Besides material by Wilson's predecessors, contemporaries and successors, the Birmingham exhibition includes a number of seldom-seen views of country houses of the time.

AN artist of today who is firmly established in the great English landscape and topographical tradition, and who has played a notable part in the recent British romantic revival, is John Piper. He has been showing at the Leicester Galleries recent paintings of those same Welsh mountains which Wilson loved so well. Indeed, the influence of Wilson, amongst other eighteenth and early nineteenth century romantics, is clear. Piper's outstanding quality is his feeling for architecture, and the decorative, if theatrical, variations he has made in the last eight years upon the themes of bomb devastation and great mouldering and decaying country houses under dark, lowering skies, have been very popular.

The discipline involved in these architectural motifs is less in evidence in his recent landscapes. Some are very impressive, but in the majority romanticism seems to run wild, uncurbed by any structural framework within the painting itself. His preoccupation with texture is so overwhelming that large passages become quite amorphous. This is strange, for Piper started as an abstract artist, and it was the integration of the technical tricks and formal strengths when learned, with the emotive devices he practised subsequently, which gave his work its value.

ONE of the most interesting and promising of the younger generation, Keith Vaughan, has been holding his first exhibition for two years. In this period he has expanded considerably. In the past some critics found his painting too much influenced by Graham Sutherland, but although Vaughan's subject-matter has not changed fundamentally, it should not be easy today to pick out any particular influence unless it be that of Cezanne. Vaughan is typical of many of his generation, in that he has been a passionate supporter of the romantic revival, but is also intensely aware of the dangers that beset the romantic artist. Accordingly, he is attempting to find a purely plastic and formal framework into which to fit his romanticism, and his work shows an increasing reliance upon structural elements that echo the monumentality of Cezanne and the Cubists. Fishermen and bullet-headed boys engage in sombre activity on foreshore and in orchard. The green glade or the sinister facade in the distance to which, notwithstanding the surface patterning, the eye is often led, seems to have some inexplicable bearing on the drama. Vaughan's colour is still very restricted, and I think it is a pity that he seldom uses more than three colours in any single composition. He is specially attracted by the cooler end of the colour scale, so that the touches of orange and brown seem only to emphasize the blues and the greens. His oils are constructed very similarly to his gouaches, but lack the fluency of the latter. They are, however, informed by a greater monumentality, and when their internal architecture really arises out of the subject—which is not always the case—they are considerably more weighty. They provide impressive evidence of a talent which seems likely to develop considerably.

AS a footnote, let me include two small items of general interest, as they serve to re-emphasize the increase of public interest in the visual arts in Britain. The Contemporary Art Society, which exists to purchase out of the subscriptions of its members contemporary work (and to commission it, as was done with Henry Moore's big group of three standing figures) for presentation to national and civic museums, has now increased its membership five times in the last two-and-a-half years. It has grown by 25 per cent. in the last twelve months. So marked an increase in the number of people prepared to take a measure of personal responsibility in collective patronage is remarkable indeed. The first stage has now been completed of a similar sort of scheme started eighteen months ago by the undergraduates of Pembroke College, Oxford. The students have subscribed a fixed sum each term. Sir Kenneth Clark has acted as buyer for them, and the foundation has been laid for the creation of an excellent collection of modern British painting and sculpture. While such schemes continue to expand, the young painter in Britain need not fear for the future.

Letters To The Editor

REPLIES TO OSHAWA CRITICS

Sir: Enclosed please find a copy of the letter which I have sent to Mr. J. L. Zavitsky and Mr. M. Rockert of Oshawa, in answer to the one you published from them in your paper on February 4, 1949.

In all fairness to them, the citizens of this city and the garage operators in both city's, I feel that their action was prompted either by misinterpretation of the facts, or the facts were not presented in a truthful manner.

Yours very truly,
RAE F. McWILLIAMS.

Gentlemen:

After reading your letter to the editor in the Peterborough Examiner issue of Feb. 4, 1949, I feel that you should know more of the facts, and after knowing them you may not feel so harshly towards the majority of the garage operators who, after all, are only trying to improve their working hours so that they might enjoy the freedom and the home life that is so dear to this country of ours.

First, it is unfortunate that you did not call my phone number for I was open at the time you mention and had a repair man and licensed mechanic on duty and a tow truck at the public's service. Although I closed my gas pumps at five o'clock it was nearly six before we had completed the last services in our repair shop. Failing this service however, a phone call to our local police would have revealed that Art O'Halloran's Garage had a competent mechanic and a tow truck and is anxious to give and advertises 24 hour service. On top of this neither I, nor The Peterborough Garage Operators Association or the City Council or in fact anyone remotely or actively interested in the subject have any objections or any law against Mr. Russelle and his boys giving 24 hour, 7 day a week emergency service. I, on the contrary, feel that he is capable of doing a good job in this respect and wish him all the success he deserves.

You state that a little group of discourteous gasoline sellers are denying our citizens and their visitors service. This, Sir, since I am a garage operator, I do not take as a personal insult, as I feel you have been misinformed, and would not have made it if you knew the circumstances and the truth. That well over 75 per cent. of the operators have signed their signatures to a petition requesting only, that they be allowed to relax and enjoy the companionship of family and friends, only after having given to the public service from seven in the morning till ten each night, six days a week, and on the day the Lord set aside as one of rest for all, from ten in the morning till five at night, and still made allowances for emergency service for the remaining of the twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week for the unfortunates who can get their groceries, haircuts, drugs, etc., in many fewer hours of service, than they can get their gas and oil.

I feel safe in saying that you two gentlemen, whatever your business may be, depend upon some union, law, or mutual agreement, that you do not have to work 148 hours a week to make a living, otherwise we would not have had the pleasure of your visit to Peterborough, for you would have been working yourself.

You would also find if you checked with your local Oshawa Garage Operators' Association a working agreement now in affect, whereby they have controlled opening and closing hours.

May I add to this my thanks to you for the opportunity of informing the public of our desire to give good service, and may I live to see the day I may have a Sunday off to visit your fair city of Oshawa and not complain that someone besides myself is on a holiday.

Yours very truly,
RAE F. McWILLIAMS.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Hearken to me, ye that follow after righteousness, ye that seek the Lord....For the Lord shall comfort Zion: he will comfort all her waste places; and he will make her wilderness like Eden, and her desert like the garden of the Lord; joy and gladness shall be found therein, thanksgiving, and the voice of melody.

Hearken unto me, my people; and give ear unto me, O my nation: for a law shall proceed from me, and I will make my judgment to rest for a light of the people. My righteousness is near; my salvation is gone forth, and mine arms shall judge the people; the isles shall wait upon me, and on mine arm shall they trust.

Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath: for the heaven shall vanish away like smoke, and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell therein shall die in like manner: but my salvation shall be for ever, and my righteousness shall not be abolished. (Isa. 51: 1, 3-6.)

National Employment Service Expects DP's To Recognize Immigration As A Privilege

When displaced persons working on Canadian farms or doing domestic work find they are being paid less money than a Canadian would receive for doing the same job, they should accept the situation as one of the sacrifices to be made for the privilege of being accepted into a Canadian community. This was the opinion of a group of teachers and government officials from Peterborough, Port Hope, Lindsay, Haliburton and Blackstock, who met in Peterboroough Public Library on Saturday to discuss their experiences with Europeans from displaced persons' camps who they are educating to the Canadian way of life.

Convened by Community Programs of the department of Education, the meeting enabled the teachers to learn more of the difficulties which arise between employers and displaced persons and to exchange information on different methods of approach to the process of adapting the Europeans to Canada.

Stephen Davidovich, citizenship advisor of Community Programs in Toronto, said he saw little hope of first generation D.P.'s intermingling with the surrounding community sufficiently to lose the traits of their own nationalities but he thought their children and grandchildren would probably accept Canada as their home far more readily. It would take about four generations before these families would accept Canada as their real home, he thought. The Government did not expect every immigrant to fit into Canadian life perfectly and would be content if only the parents would allow their children to mix freely with Canadian children and so assimilate the Canadian outlook.

The meeting was attended by E. C. Dettman, Lindsay: Miss Helen Bonnycastle, H. R. Wilson; B. W. Switzer, C. S. Browne, all of Peterborough; Richard P. Allan, Blackstock; Oscar Perro, Haliburton; Jack Dane, W. H. L. Mellis, National Employment Service; F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative; W. L. Graff, Peterborough Librarian; S. Davidovich, Community Programs, Toronto, and O. R. Stalter from the Department of Education, Toronto, chairman of the meeting.

Wants Better HumanRelations

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 8—(ENS)—District Deputy Governor Stanley Darling paid an official visit to the Lions Club here last week.

Speaking on "Human Relations" Mr. Darling said that subversive elements were constantly at work in this country to try to get the central government to assure more and more responsibilities in the solution of all problems, many of which were not related in any way to the public welfare.

United Nations statistics proved that in front of a rapidly increasing world population, production of food is constantly decreasing and lands are being left to erosion and ruin, he said.

Only public opinion, influenced in the community by service clubs could correct these dangerous situations and force world governments to undertake necessary far-seeing conservation measures, he thought.

The future belongs to those who love and not to those who hate, he declared. "We must all make a definite effort to better our own individual human relations."

Doug Weaver introduced the guest speaker and also inducted two members, John Browne, manager of the Royal Bank, and Kenneth Lichty, engineer at the American Nepheline.

Governor Stan Darling presented the Lion pins to the new members.

President Kenneth Morris asked for volunteers for blood donations for the Red Cross.

After discussion on trouble encountered by Harry Stabler in meeting the expenses of his juvenile team the secretary was directed to assure Lion Harry Stabler of the club's intention to continue backing the Lakefield Lions juvenile team.

The Lions Club has already paid out $90 for bus transportation; a bill for $110 for sweaters is forthcoming and another $100 will probably be needed to complete the season. Takings at the gates have been poor but as the team has won all games so far, good gates are expected at the playoffs.

District Governor Stanley Darling was given a pipe as a token of appreciation.

'Teen-Agers Criminals

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 8—(CP)—Canada's worst criminals today are teen-agers, Col. Wallace Burton of Toronto, territorial prison officer of the Salvation Army, said in an interview here Monday. He said the majority of serious crimes are committed by persons between the ages of 16 and 25. The answer to the teen-age crime problem does not lie in psychiatry or psychology but in the home, the school and the church.

Scott Explains Salvage Of Wood In Burned Areas

"Lack of rain during April and May turning the soil, composed of needles and decayed foliage, into powder was the cause of the Mississagi fire," said the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario, addressing the Rotary at their luncheon Monday. His topic was "Salvage Operations in the Mississagi Area."

He said when the fires started every available man in the area was rushed to the scene. There were winds blowing from 30 to 55 mph. The fires moved some days at a rate of one mile an hour. Some burning limbs were carried in the air about a quarter of a mile to start another fire. An Italian straw boss said they chased the fire three days and the fire then chased them for three days. They had up to 3,500 men in the fight.

"People over the Province sent many suggestions into the Department about fighting the fires. One was that the RCAF bomb the area before the fire. But the chance of spreading fire by this means was great. Finally the Federal Air Service was called in."

Mr. Scott explained that the planes of the Department have a ceiling of only 5,000 to 6,000 feet. They needed planes that could reach an altitude of at least 12,000 feet, in order to try and make rain with dry ice.

"Suitable cloud formations had to be had. This cloud was a white cloud at about 12,000 feet. Whenever there was a cloud formation of this sort over the fire, a plane was sent out. The first time we used the dry ice we were flying at 3,000 feet. The bottom of the cloud turned grey then black. It rained. Another attempt hail peppered the area. Now we know that we can make rain. All we need now is something to make this type of cloud."

Must Work Fast

Each of the fires did damage to thousands of acres of timber, he said. If the logs from the burned area are not in the water by July of this year the bore's will get into the trees and the wood will be ruined." Plans were made while the fire was still burning to salvage the trees. Those with timber licenses were asked to cut as much lumber as they could in one year. If the wood can be put in the water, it will be saved.

At a meeting of the Cabinet, Mr. Scott told them of the conditions there and $5,000,000 was received to help with the salvaging of the wood. To help the labour conditions operators from as far east as New Brunswick were hired to do the job.

Problem of roads is being remedied according to Mr. Scott. The operators are being paid so much a mile for road construction. They will be of use in the case of other fires. Last week the first car travelled between Chapleau and Thessalon.

"Problems of reforestration are being met. In the areas where the fire burned along the grouond, seed beds were destroyed. These areas were seeded with white, red and Jack pine seeds with a mixture of insecticide and fertilizer. The seeding was done by spraying the area from planes."

Mr. Scott was introduced by Gerald Stenton and thanked by Thomas Taylor.

Harley Keefer made the motion that all constitutions and bylaws of the Peterborough club be rescinded and the new constitution passed. This motion was seconded by Jack Gillespie. The motion was voted on and passed unanimously.

Two selections were sung by the Club with Charles E. Allen and the Glee Club leading.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Scribe George Carver takes his rusty pen in hand to write: "It seems to us that a six-team COBL setup is stretching or what could be called imposing on the traditions of the league that made baseball history here two or three decades ago. In those days when Kingston, Oshawa, Peterborough and Belleville won championships of Ontario, they brought honor to this now almost forgotten part of baseball Ontario." He adds that concentrated power is necessary if senior ball up this way is to approach its former glory. At present, five clubs are ready to enter and a sixth is quite possible.

* * * * * *

We have no argument with four strong squads comprising the COBL—and why not Belleville in this year? — nor will we argue with a six-club setup. There have been large Central Leagues in the past, too. Surely a city of any size can unearth a dozen good ballsters. If not, then import several stars from other centres. That's what we did in the days of Al Heckman, Hap Harrison, et al. And later with Ed Murphy, Chuck Kearns, Lefty McNally and so on. Do it again, if needed, but let's have strong clubs battling it out in the Central Ontario Baseball League this year, with the winner making a real showing in provincial playdowns.

* * * * * *

Anybody Got A Site

In another month, folks will start looking for spring, and it shouldn't be afar off. Thoughts then will turn toward summer sports, and we fear our Memorial Centre project will go site-less for another year—unless something is done within the next month. We have our Civic Arena, of course, and it's filling in okay, but lots of citizens (not necessarily hockey fans, either) would like action on the Centre. Incidentally, it is noticed that puck crowds at Civic Arena are not straining the walls to date.

* * * * * *

They have a smart ice emporium in Waterloo and we note in the Kitchener paper where the ticket situation for playoff games there is rather grim. Ticket sales show that 75 per cent of the arena is sold to subscribers. Of the remaining 25 per cent, two agencies get about 350 ducats between them, the home club gets 100 and the visiting team is given 20 pasteboards. That leaves some 200 for sale to the general public and it doesn't take a long line of customers to gobble those up. Could this be an omen of what will transpire in Peter's borough when (and if) our artificial-iced Centre is completed and topnotch hockey games are on tap?

They Had The Legs

Legion had the legs last night to rack up that 11-2 win o'er the Petes and clinch top spot in the senior "B" group. A fine, close first period and a fairly close — real exciting and rough—third frame, but the speedy Legionnaires rolled up the count in the second chapter. Strange to say, it wasn't the veterans who let the Creighton crew down, it was the younger wingmen. Tompkins and Kingdon were doing okay and Harding had little chance on those that beat him. He even toted the puck to the enemy blue line once to show how it could be done. But the wingers slowed down and played poor hockey the last half. While all the Legions kept battling.

* * * * * *

Looked like it would be a real game for awhile into the second but Ned Vitarelli's pack pulled ahead then. All their goals were scored with two or three in on them, while the only two Petes' counters were unassisted. The wingers weren't mucking in. It got rough in the third as the old enmity flared up and they were trying to comb each other's hair with hickory. They definitely don't like each other and there'll probably be fireworks when these same squads tangle tomorrow night in Civic Arena. It ought to be quite a battle. Hill and Parnell led the scoring parade but they all fattened their batting averages. Scrappy Bill Crowley and big Bill McMaster shouldn't fight like that for free—look what Joe Louis gets for less action!

We have a correction to make. The Kiwanis bonspiel is set for March 14-15. We were wrongly informed before as to the dates.

There will be a men's bonspiel this coming Saturday. The rinks must be of schedule calibre. The first 28 rinks entered complete the draw. Fee $4.00.

Bruce Scott and Stan Lowe are skipping rinks over at the Lindsay bonspiel Wednesday.

Umpire R. F. Downey has called the preliminary round of the BC competition for this district, to be played here on Thursday morning at 9.00 o'clock.

Congratulations are due Tommy Doughty and his rink for winning the Sifton Trophy at Detroit over the week-end. The boys report a grand time and a wonderful 'spiel. Jack Allen also had a rink entered but he was not as successful as the other rink. There is some kind of a story going around about Dr. McCartney being lost in the big city, but we'll have to get more details before we can tell the story properly. The rinks were:

Dr. R. Morgan, J. Hawkins, Dr. M. McCartney, Thos. Doughty (skip).

Ed Bickle, B. Grant, F. Stenson, J. Allen (skip).

Trojan Hockey

Canadiens got their first Trojan midget puck win by downing Leafs 6-4. The caretakers of Turner Park rink made a good job in cleaning the snow off the rink in a hurry, but the team coaches failed to show up. Rangers nosed out Wings 5-4, using two rookies from the Bantam League in J. Stewart and Lundy, both going well. Penalties hurt the losers. The Canadiens bantams defeated Wings 2-1 in another tight tilt. Eddie Foley got the goals for the winners as Lundy had an assist. Burgess scored for Wings. Rangers play Wings at 7 p.m. Wednesday. The Wings now are tied atop the heap with Canadiens, each having four points, with Rangers having two. The midget standing:

6 Headliners On Mat Card At Brock Arena Tomorrow

SLIDING BILLY HANSON

One of the biggest mat battles of the year is expected when Sky-Hi Lee meets Magnificent Mike Sharpe in the Brock Arena ring tomorrow night. Sharpe tips the scales at close to 250 pounds and stands over six feet six inches in height. The Ozark Giant however is even bigger running some 290 pounds and six feet eight inches tall. Hi Lee has enormous strength and a bad temper to boot but the dynamic Sharpe thinks he can cut him down to small size with his "Sharpe Stretcher".

Sandy O'Donnell another extremely rugged wrestler will be introduced here against that stellar grappler Sliding Billy Hanson. In the opener Al (Krusher) Korman comes in against Pat Flanagan.

The three bouts make up an action-ful card that should keep the fans on their toes.

Legionnaires Trim Petes To Clamp On To Top Spot

Legionnaires clinched top spot in their OHA Senior "B" group here last night as they walloped the Petes 11-2. A fair-sized crowd saw a fast game on good ice, with a rough, exciting finish as the bitter city rivals mixed it up. They clash again at Civic Arena tomorrow night in a group game. After a fine 1-0 first frame, Legion swept to a commanding 8-2 lead to end the second chukker and they were three goals better than the Creighton crew in the windup chapter. This period saw 12 penalties handed out, including two majors and a misconduct. Of the 17 penalties in the game, Legion drew 10, including one major and the misconduct. The old enmity was there all through but play was fairly clean till the third period.

Led Parade

Bob Parnell and Bert Hill led the Legion at bat with four points apiece in fine showings, while Reg Stewart and Bob Greenlaw were in on three goals each. Doug Mortimer, Sixty Coombs, Ned Vitarelli, Dootch Vitarelli and Bill Crowley all were in on two tallies, and Burns one. Both goalies made some neat saves, Ray Harding being good, despite the count. He carried the puck once to the enemy blue line. Honey Tompkins scored both goals for the Petes, he and Bun Kingdon being the pick of the losers.

The first period was pretty even and quite fast. Crowley came close early and Legion pressed hard when Horton was gated for holding. He returned before Hill scored on a backhander in close from Stewart. Tompkins had a good try and they were checking hard on both sides in the speed going. Mortimer and Kingdon missed on a try and Harding robbed Hill. Coombs went over for slashing but no damage was done. H. Greenlaw pulled a good thrust and a dash by Crowley and Rochetta nearly notched one.

Got the First

Tompkins counted early in the second as he stickhandled through defence and backhanded one into the corner of the twine tepee. Bob Greenlaw got that one right back of neat combination with Crowley inside. Dootch Vitarelli added one shortly from Parnell on a nice passing play and shot. Parnell made it 4-1 on a breakaway with Ned Vitarelli's pass. Tompkins was robbed and the Petes pressed as Burns went off for cross-checking. He returned and Dootch Vitarelli got another with Parnell's pass. Harding kicked out several more but Legion rapped in three when Tom Parsons went over for charging. Coombs got one from Burns and Hill in a power play, Hill scored another from Stewart, and then Hill sank one more with Coombs and Stewart assisting neatly. Crowley got the nod for tripping and Tompkins skirted the net fast to score.

A Rough Go

McMaster was chased early in the third for interference as play got rougher. Doug Mortimer followed for holding. Legion argued for a goal but it wasn't allowed. Jopling and Rochetta were sent off for roughing and Kingdon pulled a neat try. Bob Greenlaw counted in close from Doug Mortimer. Dootch Vitarelli and Ray Harding roughed it by the goa and the latter was penalized fo roughing, with Dootch getting i for slashing and a misconduct fo arguing. Brockley served Harding's sentence and both were back when Harding carried the puck to the other blue line before being stopped. Tompkins went off for high-sticking and returned when Parnell scored on good combination from Doug Mortimer Hill got it next for tripping and Bob Greenlaw scored the last one with Crowley and Ned Vitarelli aiding McMaster and Crowley drew majors for fighting, and Ned Vitarelli went, also, for high-sticking. Rochetta served a penalty at the last when Legion had too many men on the ice.

IN ON FOUR—Bob Parnell, along with Bert Hill, led the Legion scoring parade last night —each being in on four goals— as their team trounced the Petes 11-2 at Civic Arena.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling and Horton; centre, Tompkins; wings, Garvey and J. Creighton; alternates, Kingdon, Quigley, J. Mortimer, Griffin, Brockley, T. Parsons, F. Parsons and McMaster.

Dutchmen Slap Dukes 3-1 For First Place

By The Canadian Press.

The Ontario Hockey Association Senior A schedule winds up Friday night. And it is still a toss-up who will be the league champion.

If you go by statistics, Kitcheenr-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen appear to be the best bet. But anything can happen in the playoffs.

Last night the Dutchmen took sole possession of first place by defeating their most potent rivals Toronto Mariboros, 3-1 in Waterloo. The win gave Kitchener a two-point lead over Toronto. In another Senior A game, the third-place Hamilton Tigers defeated the fourth-place Owen Sound Mercurys 7-6.

In a Junior A game, the Barrie Flyers strengthened their second-place hold by edging the fifth-place St Catharines Teepees 6-5.

Last night the Dutchmen made it four straight wins over Toronto by driving into a 2-0 lead in the first period, and splitting two goals in the third.

Billy Curik, Bobby Bauer and Doug Verity each counted once for the Dutchmen. Chuck Blair got Toronto's goal.

At Hamilton, the Tigers scored two goals in the last four minutes of play as they ran their victories to 21 in 39 games. The Mercurys held a 3-2 edge at the end of the first period, split two goals in the second, and then were outscored 3-1 in the third.

Murray Comfort, Clare Shillington, and Johnny Conick each scored twice for Hamilton, with another added by Hal Cooper. Mike Shabaga garnered three goals for Owen Sound. Tommy Burlington scored two and Doug Gillespie one.

Tight Contest For Vezina Cup

MONTREAL, Feb. 8 (CP). — While Chicago's punch duo of Doug Bentley and Roy Conacher continue to make a runaway of the National Hockey League scoring race, the scrap for the Vezina Trophy has developed into a wide-open affair with three netminders having an even chance to capture the cup and $1,000 that goes with it.

Official statistics released today show Bentley and Conacher with 51 and 49 points respectively. In third spot with 40 is Detroit's Sid Abel, while Jim Conacher of Chicago and Billy Reay of Montreal are tied for fourth place with 37 each.

Goalie Chuck Rayner, who has been hot as a firecracker in New York's recent games, leads the way in the battle for the Vezina, which goes to the goalkeeper who has played the most games for the team with least goals scored against it. But by virtue of their teams having played more games than Rayner, both Bill Durnan of Montreal and Detroit's Harry Lumley are in just as good a spot as the Ranger cage custodian.

Canadiens have had 108 goals scored against them in 44 games and Detroit 109 in 45 games. Depending on which way you look at it, any one of the three goalies figures to have the best chance. But because Detroit has played one more game than Canadiens, and three more than Rangers, Lumley is top man on a percentage basis.

MANPOWER

Thomas Topham, a professional strong man, could lift his horse over gates, crush a metal tankard with his bare hands, and break a coconut against his head.

"SIZZLE" KING ON CANADIAN CAVALCADE

ELMER WHEELER, expert on selling with words, and the man who put the "sizzle" in steak, will be interviewed.

LUNENBURG HERO Capt. Orlando Lace, who saved 7-man crew by swimming shore with line, will be interviewed from from Halifax.

ICE HARVEST
Lake ice varies from 12 to 14 inches this year on Clear lake and to 18 on Chemong. Various operators have been working at it since the end of January and the harvest is at least half finished. This heavy work has been made easier in recent years by the use of power saws and trucks which replaced horse and man power methods. Warm January weather was an advantage to ice cutting in that snow had melted to a bare surface thereby eliminating snow ice which has poor keeping qualities.

John Breckenridge, Age 80 Clerk of Asphodel Retires

WESTWOOD, Feb. 8—(Staff).—John Breckenridge, age 80, sat on the sidelines in Westwood village hall on Monday afternoon for the first time in 33 years. In his chair as Asphodel township clerk sat his son William J. Breckenridge. Reeve James Humphries called a recess and presented Mr. Breckenridge, Sr., on behalf of the council, with an easy chair and a new cane, suitably engraved, in recognition of his retirement.

Mr. John J. Breckenridge, he added the "J" to avoid confusion with his uncle of the same name, who was also the township clerk before him, started looking after the affairs of Asphodel in 1916. He has worked under seven different reeves and has attended each monthly Council meeting until Monday, with one exception. Several years ago his children had some communicatable disease and it kept him from being present.

Born In Otonabee

He was born in Otonabee Township, son of Matthew Breckenridge and Elizabeth Shearer, both settlers from Scotland. He married Hannah Shearer at the age of 22 and moved to a farm two miles south of Westwood and has been there ever since. He has three daughters and one son and four grandchildren. His wife died a few years ago.

"Things have changed greatly since the old days," he said. He was referring to the all-over picture and to road work in particular. When he was first clerk, statute labor by farmers at ten cents an hour by pick and shovel was the accepted pay. He compares it to more recent times and up to the present when the same type of work pays 50 cents an hour and machines do all the work.

Council work was not always a humdrum affair, he recalls, for there was one occasion when the reeve and a councilman settled some small dispute with their fists. Other meetings he recalls, although there were no blows exchanged, led to a lot of strong loud talk. In the main he feels that great progress has been made, but his Scottish blood comes to the fore when he tallies up present-day costs.

Some of the reeves whom he served under were Maxwell Brown, John Scott, Adam Humphries, Rorrick Ferguson, Samuel Buck, John McColl and the present James Humphries. He kept the minute books and all written business in meticulous handwriting.

Asphodel clerkship runs in the Breckenridge family. His uncle, also called John, held the clerkship for a great many years, the present John for 33 and his son William has a good chance of equalling this record.

Among his many duties in the past was conducting the sale of cheese from factories in Westwood and Villiers. Buyers came to the auctions from the Peterborough Cheese Board, and it is said that they had to strike a mighty canny bargain with John Breckenridge.

He is in good health for all his 80 years, although his hearing is impaired and he has to walk with the aid of a cane. Before he became hard of hearing he attended the Westwood United Church and before that the Presbyterian Church in the village.

It appeared that he gave up his position to his son with some reluctance when he mentioned in his speech of thanks for the gift of the fine easy chair that he would "likely sit in it too much from now on." It is safe to assume that he will attend many more Council meetings just to see that the young gaffers are running things the way they should. He certainly will not hesitate to put them straight on any vital matters that come up.

SKIING EXCELLENT
More than a thousand skiers were out on the trails from Northumberland Forest Ski Club during the week-end when the recent heavy falls of snow created the first good skiing this winter.

SHORT CIRCUIT BURNS WIRING
A short circuit which caused smoke to pour from the hood of a car owned by O. Mackey, Park Hill Rd. brought firemen to 181 Reid St. on Sunday night. Damage was limited to the wiring. Earlier on Sunday there was a chimney fire at the residence of Mrs. M. Preston, 616 Water St.

CANCER SOCIETY MEETS
Peterborough branch of the Ontario Division Canadian Cancer Society will hold its annual meeting on February 16, 8 p.m., at the auditorium of the Public Library. Guest speaker will be George Pettinger, Toronto, field secretary of the society.

LINDSAY LADIES ATTEND BINGO
A number of Lindsay ladies hearing about the successful bingos conducted by the Peterborough Lions, chartered a bus to the city on Monday night. About 20 of them tried their luck, and one of them was the winner of a major prize. It is expected that an excursion from Lindsay will now become a feature of these Monday night bingos.

Daylight Saving To Start Apr. 24

Daylight saving was adopted by the city council Monday night for the period from April 24 at 12.01 a.m. to Sept. 25 at 2 a.m.

This customary advancement of summer time one hour was provided for in a bylaw by Ald. P. J. Anglesey. Its readings, seconded by Ald. Grant Miller, were passed without comment.

A bylaw by Ald. Herbert Young set out with more definiteness the role of the Recreation Commission. As an amendment to the establishment of the Commission, its clauses were:

"(a)—To supervise and co-ordinate all recreation programs on the community level on public recreation areas and facilities of all types.

(b)—To recommend to city council the acquisition and maintenance of such recreation areas and facilities as may be required in the furtherance of the recreation program.

(c)—To give consideration to all proposals affecting recreation on the community level which may be made to or emanate from city council and give advice thereon.

(d) To co-operate with all city departments which provide or maintain facilities affecting the recreation program by advising them of the intended program in time to have the necessary funds included in the estimates."

Work with Service Clubs

This amendment is appended to section No. 9 of the original bylaw which is retained as follows: "The duties of the Peterborough Recreation Commission shall be the furtherance of a community program of training in physical fitness and recreations of persons in the city of Peterborough under the Department of Education Act, and without limiting the generality of the foregoing more particularly....", as in the amendment.

The change in the bylaw, Ald. Young said, was unanimously recommended by a meeting of representatives of the Commission, the council and local service clubs. In reply to Ald. Anglesey he said the commission was not undertaking supervision of any recreation parks sponsored by service clubs, without the approval of the respective clubs.

ALDERMANIC EVENINGS
When ratepayers are inclined to sympathize with city council on the basis of tired accounts of late sessions, demands on time and so on, let them remember the program of last night. The council met at 7.30 and adjourned about 10 p.m. Then with five remaining nights in the week ahead of them, they drifted off into a committee session that ran another hour and a half or thereabouts. So far the notice board does not mention another session this week.

Toronto Architects To Plan City Hall
A. A. McIntyre Re-appointed To City Trust

Mr. A. A. McIntyre was re-appointed to the City Trust Commission for a term of five years by the city council Monday night. The byaw was introduced by Ald. Hugh Waddell, seconded by Ald. Grant Miller.

Marani and Morris, Toronto architects, were "retained to prepare plans, drawings and specifications for the new city hall."

Similar planning for the nurses' residence of Civic Hospital was authorized in a bylaw sanctioning an agreement with W. and W. R. L. Blackwell and Craig, architects, whose details are to be completed by May 15.

Ald. Dick Raine was appointed a Governor of Civic Hospital in another bylaw introduced by Ald. Grant Miller.

City Clerk Outram explained that Mayor Swanston had announced last month that he was naming Ald. Raine to the Board in his stead as an ex-officio Governor.

"City Solicitor Huycke advised that it should be done by bylaw," Mr. Outram said.

Russelle Asks Consideration Of City Council

"Those of us who are members of the Ontario Motor League agree that Johnny Russelle has given good service since he took it over," said Mayor Swanston Monday night as the council asked its legal committee "to see if there is anything we can do for him".

Mr. Russelle appeared before the council, said he had quite openly and intentionally broken the early closing bylaw in the gasoline and garage business, and appealed to the council to consider the special circumstances in his case.

"The Motor League service requires me to be on call 24 hours a day," Mr. Russelle said. "Whenever a member calls after the closing hours in means my breaking the bylaw if he needs gas and I have to sell him. It is certainly not an easy service to give to the public at all hours and all weather including 11 below we had the other night. I can sell cigarettes and other things if I have them, but I can't sell gasoline."

"The big firms downtown don't depend on gas. They're selling cars, parts and so on. As for me breaking the bylaw, J. K. Hughes, Duffus, Peel, Roseborough and others are breaking the bylaw by not taking their turn. That story you read in the paper from the Oshawa people a week ago is just one of many we could tell."

"Those people went to five places before they came to us. Two of the garages didn't have equipment to go and help them with; two had to close at 5 p.m. and it was getting on to that time. Then they called us, and I said we'd go in 15 minutes if we were not too busy. And we did go."

Does Police Work

"City and provincial police calls at night come to us. We are giving the very best service we can, and last week I added a new $3,500 truck. I wish you would see if there is anything you can do to help me to carry on."

"I'm not a member of the OML" said Ald. Raine, "but I've heard nothing but good reports about Mr. Russelle's service."

The motion referring the request to the legal committee was proposed by Aldermen Dodds and Doug Miller. Ald. Anglesey said the committee might also consult Chief John Thompson.

Budget Shows $3,850 Increase

The Advisory Vocational Committee of the Board of Education on Monday night approved a 1949 budget for the Night School about $3,850 higher than last year's. Total estimates approved were $22,300, compared to 1948's estimates of $18,589.14 and actual disbursements of $18,451.31. Arthur Pitchford was elected chairman of the committee.

Salaries of night school teachers were the main cause of the increase, due to a 10 per cent increase in rates previously approved by the Board. These total $14,000 for the coming year, compared to $11,491.paid in 1948.

Other items of the budget, with 1948 disbursements in brackets are:

Library supplies, $150 (in general library last year); science supplies, $50 ($49.24); science equipment, $275 ($98.82); home economics supplies for day classes $800 ($671.60); for night classes, $200 ($183.26); home economics equipment, $400 ($272.61).

Drafting supplies, $300 ($292.-61); drafting equipment, $100 ($91.99); electrical supplies, $550 ($525.02); electrical equipment, $175 ($187.93); machine shop supplies, $400 ($403.43); machine shop equipment, $300 ($858.66); woodworking supplies, $600 ($135.87); woodworking equipment, $390, ($41.54); commercial supplies, $320 ($309.48); commercial equipment, $1,100 (I1,071.71); motor mechanics supplies, $500 ($582.-95); motor mechanics equipment, $1,365 ($783.65); miscellaneous, $100 ($17.79); plumbing night school, $225 ($382.15).

Denies Obstructing Bailiff's Officer

Another step in the housing troubles of 23-year-old Arthur Finn was taken in police court today. He appeared before Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, charged with obstructing a bailiff's officer. The charge was laid by Deputy Sheriff W. J. George McNabb following an incident in the accused's High St. home.

Bruce Menzies was assisting the Deputy Sheriff to remove Finn's furniture from the three-room flat from which he has been evicted. It is alleged that Finn disputed Menzie's actions while a chair was being removed and that a scuffle followed. Finn was handcuffed and taken to the police station, where he was released a little later.

At his request, Finn was granted a week's adjournment. He pleaded not guilty to the charge. Proceeding under summary conviction, elected by the crown, can result in a $100 fine if Finn is convicted.

THOS. F. DOUGHTY skipped a Peterborough curling rink to victory over the week-end at Detroit. His colleagues were Dr. Russell Morgan, W. Hockins and Dr. M. G. McCartney. It was a six-game bonspiel at the Detroit Curling Club, and this rink is the first one from this city to ever bring a trophy back from Detroit. Another city rink also competed.

Municipal Board To Hear All Objections

Ontario Municipal Board is sitting in Peterborough Monday, February 14 at 2 p.m. to hear any objections to the bylaw to set back the line of buildings three feet on each side of George St., south of King St. The bylaw applies to new construction, and it is expected that representations from those who have already complied with it will also be heard.

City council granted Cherney Brothers permission to place a 500-gallon gasoline pump at their new store premises, George and King streets, for their own use. The application was dealt with Monday night.

License to open an auction room at Braidwood and Park streets was granted to Albert Neilson by the Council Monday night.

Hundreds Sign Petition

Hundreds of names of residents south of Lansdowne St. were listed on a petition to the council Monday night for the filling of an old ditch on the west side of Park St. south of A. Wander Co. They also ask for a sidewalk when that job is completed. The petition was sent on to the board of works.

An item for city council's estimates is $14,000, the amount the county council has appropriated for the Suburban Area Commission. Their combined amount will be $28,000, which is duplicated by the Ontario Department of Highways, for a total of $56,000 to be spent on the Commission's road system. The information was received by the city council Monday night from Mrs. J. A. Spurway, county clerk and treasurer.

Frightened Horse Damages Car, Cutter

A frightened horse on the River Road Sunday left a smashed cutter, a damaged car and several breathless motorists and passengers in its wake. Bolting, the horse narrowly missed one car, and came equally close to a second one. The cutter being drawn by the horse smashed into the front of the car of Howard B. Reid, 709 George St., and was completely wrecked. The car front had scratches and dents.

No one was injured, and the horse received only a slight leg scratch. Driver of the cutter was William Hatcher, 1217 Grandview Ave. He was accompanied by Miss Betty Bestard, 705 Second Ave.

To Arms, It's A Bat

Two harmless little sparrows created a furore downtown today.

The scene was the Collis' Store on George St. The birds had somehow entered the top floor. One girl employee, arriving for work, spotted the flitting wings. With another employee she was convinced that it was a bat. There followed a session of noise-making such as can be created only by women in the real or fancied presence of toads, snakes—or bats. The female staff en masse emerged on the street.

Finally, after cautious investigation under protecting bandanas by some hardy soul, the identity of the intruder as a sparrow was established, he was evicted by broom waving and things returned to normal.

Not for long.

There was still the second sparrow to deal with. And this time, the girls were quite convinced that it was a bat. More screams, more hurried exits to the street. Once more, the enemy was flushed from his hiding place with a broom held in trembling fingers.

It was still a sparrow.

All quiet on the western front.

Graveyard Of Wrecked Cars Blights Arndon Area Residents Demand Action

The police department was requested by City Council on Monday night to "take necessary action" for the removal of a car wrecking business which, it was said, Thomas Hughes has set up on the west side of Monaghan Road, nearly opposite Arndon Ave. "Instructions were given two or three months ago that wrecked cars were not to be allowed there," said Ald. Herbert Young. "The police were asked to act."

"The Council wouldn't give Hughes a permit," Mayor Swanston recalled.

City Clerk Outram: "Notice was delivered by the police to Mr. Hughes."

Ald. Young: "Then we have to take action."

Ald. Grant Miller: "If he wasn't given permission to be there, it should not be much of a job to get him out."

Ald. H. Dodds said it was up to the Council to put some teeth in the resolution so it could be carried out.

The motion asking Chief John Thompson to take action was moved by Aldermen Grant Miller and Young.

Ask Co-operation

Mayor Swanston suggested that the Council should go further and appeal "to our township neighbors not to permit car wrecking on any of the suburban streets."

Ald. Dick Raine included that proposal in his motion referring it to the legal committee who are also asked to look into the present bylaw.

This discussion related to a letter from N. L. Marlatt, 588 Arndon Ave., who reminded the Council of the houses built in the Arndon subdivision, and bought mostly by war veterans. Many of them had invested their savings of $5,000 or $6,000 in homes they had planned for themselves and their families.

"We were assured by the builders and by the city that this area would be restricted, and that no unsightly buildings or business would be allowed in the proximity of our homes. We now find that an auto-wrecking establishment is being allowed to open within 100 yards of Arndon Ave., in spite of assurances from the City Council that it would not be allowed.

"A member of the City Council informed me several months ago the matter was in the hands of the police, and that the place would be cleaned up. However, since that time this business has continued to expand, and at this time there are perhaps 25 wrecks strewn along Monaghan Road at the western entrance to Arndon Ave.

"Surely something can be done to remedy this situation. I am certain it would be done in short order if one of the city officials had his home there."

Mr. Barlatt said the "graveyard" of wrecked cars, as Ald. Dodds called it, depreciated the value of the new houses purchased by veterans, and was a blight on the area.

Trigonometry Class To Be Continued

A special night school class in trigonometry will be extended to the end of the regular school term. The Advisory Vocational Committee of the Board of Education made this recommendation Monday night. There are about 15 persons taking this special course, it was explained, and most of them are planning to write Upper School examinations in June. With the standard night school session ending in March, there is a lag of nearly three months between the last class and the exams.

The 10 weeks extra will cover teaching of the class for one night a week, the committee decided.

16 Students Try Teaching In City Schools

Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational students taught school for one day last week as part of an interest group on teaching. Fifteen went out to determine whether they would like to follow teaching as a profession. Later this month they will visit the Normal school.

Last year the same was done and now 13 of that class are attending the Normal School. Howard Moebus, Vocational Teacher at PCVS and Keith S. Wightman, Superintendent of Public Schools made the arrangements.

It is planned to have other interest groups in nursing and engineering held. Aptitude tests are held in the spare classes of the students to determine their interests and fitness.

Besides taking tests the students will pay a visit to the various places to get first hand knowledge of these occupations.

Council Advertises City To Vacationists

City council bought a two page spread in the rotogravure section of the 1949 tourist edition of the Examiner Monday night. Pete McGillen explained that 33,000 copies were being printed of which 3,000 were to be sold here and the rest by the American News Co. in New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Ald. Grant Miller objected to the decision of the industrial committee to remain away from the Cleveland sportsmen's show this season. He said it seemed a backward step after all the enterprise the city had shown in advertising the natural attractions of this area.

Ald. Raine, chairman, explained that the decision had the approval of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and Business Men's Association who were consulted. They had insufficient money on hand, and the membership generally, especially resort owners of the district, were indifferent and quite willing to let the city pay the shot.

"However, I still have hopes for the district," said Ald. Raine. "There was a preliminary meeting recently at Lindsay of Kawartha resort owners, and I think they are going to get organized."

Mrs. A. Elcombe Heads New H & S Assoc.

A new Home and School Association was formed last week at Parkhill School. Mrs. E. Chambers, District Chairman of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, and Mrs. A. Nelson, president of Peterborough Home and School Council, met with a group of interested parents and teachers to discuss and explain the aims and objectives of the work.

A nominating committee was appointed and brought forth the following slate of officers which was accepted: President, Mrs. A. Elcombe; Vice-president, Mrs. L. Parnell and Mrs. W. M. Bullied; Secretary, Mrs. W. Anderson; Treasurer, Mrs. R. Cookman; Executive members, Mrs. A. Whetung, Mrs. L. Hele, Mrs. A. Lincoln, Mrs. A. Clark, Mrs. L. W. Millen.

Meetings are to be held on the second Tuesday of each month. The executive will meet to appoint conveners of various committees and make plans for the first general meeting in March.

Miss V. Squires of the teaching staff, introduced Mrs. Chambers, who outlined the founding and growth of the Home and School movement in Ontario since 1916. Great value of the educational committees was brought to attention of the parents. Home education is an education for the parents themselves who study human needs, physical, mental and social. This enables them to deal effectively with all problems of home, school and community," she said.

The speaker explained the method of building the monthly programs around the seven points that are considered essential for development of the whole child, topics to include better homes, schools and health, good citizenship, character training, educational guidance and leisure time.

Widow Told Learn Trade Re-Marry Only for Love

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow of 23, with two children 1 and 2 years. I am desperate and in need of help because I have no way to support them. I am living with my parents who only keep us because they think it is their duty. They begrudge having to do it, and there is never a day that they do not reproach me for being a burden upon them.

Dorothy Dix

This has been going on for over a year and I can tolerate it no longer. But what can I do? I am not trained for any work and I canot support two children.

M. E. P.

ANSWER: One of the most cruel things in the world is the way that the great majority of parents throw their adolescent children out on the world without providing them with any means by which they can make a living. Father and Mother are not intentionally unkind. They just seem to think that their yougsters will be miraculously inspired with a knowledge of how to be money-makers, and that it is no use teaching them any trade or professio.

And if this is true of boys, it is far more true of girls. Girls are supposed to marry for a living and to have no need of any skill except how to catch a husbad. So certain are parents that their daughters will marry meal tickets that they don't bother to teach them how to be self-supporing, and that brings about the tragedies that crush the youth and happiness out of so many girls whose castles in Spain collapse over their heads.

Burden on Parents

Such is the case of the girl who writes this letter telling of her shame in being a burden on her parents, of her despair of caring for the little children who cling to her skirts, and of her helplessness in knowing no way of making a living for herself and her babies.

To her I would say: Brace up. Have enough courage to meet your problem and solve it. The reason you can't support your children is because you have no trade. Learn one and fet it be something practical that fills a universal need. Get your parents, or some kind-hearted man or woman, to lend you enough money to finance your training. Don't make the terrible mistake that so many widows in your position do —marry for a living. Save your self respect and your chances of marrying some man for love.

No girl should ever have to marry for a living. None would have to do so if their parents would see that their daughters were taught how to support themselves.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 23 years old. Have been married four months to a man who is kind and thoughtful to me and whom I love very much. But here's my trouble: My husband doesn't like me to smoke and it is ruining our marriage. In fact, we have been separated now for three weeks. The thing that is so awful about the situation is that he won't see it my way. I tell him it is because he doesn't love me enough, or he wouldn't care what habits I had. We get along wonderfully until my smoking comes up.

How can I make him understand that I really love him, but just can't give up smoking?

CONNIE

ANSWER: Well, Connie, it seems to me that a cigarette is a very small thing to break up a marriage that promised to be such a happy one. But you and your husband should have thrashed out the situation before you married, instead of waiting to fight it out afterward.

If a smoke means more to you than a good man's love and kindess and protection, why, then, you should have passed him up for some tobacco addict. And, on the other hand, if the man couldn't abide seeing a woman smoke a cigarette, he should have left her for a non-smoker.

I can't think that either a husband or wife is very devoted if he or she loves a habit more than he or she loves an individual.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My sister is going to have a baby and doesn't want it. I would like very much to take the baby and rear it as my own, but my husband says he is afraid that later on my sister will want the baby back and it would cause a lot of trouble between us. I can't see anyone else have the child.

What would be the right thing to do?

Your sister now thinks that she doesn't want to be burdened with the baby. But motherhood brings mother love and the chances are that when the child arrives and she feels its little head nestling against her breast, she will want it for her very own. It happens that way in many cases.

However, if your sister agrees to your taking the baby, get some very good lawyer to fill out its adoption papers so that it can't be taken away from you after you learn to love it.

First Inter-Church Youth Sunday At Murray St.

Giving a Valentine Party For Teen-Age Appetites

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Cupid's bar offers gala food for Valentine party

Valentine Day's the day of days for a teen-agers' party—a time for romance, rose-colored lights and young love. Make "Cupid's Bar" the focal point of the party. Teen-agers' appetites are phenomenal, no matter how romantic the occasion. Provide plenty of food and an abundance of well-chilled bottled carbonated beverages. Each guest can be his own bartender, if you put out a number of bottles in the refrigerator.

Menu: Assorted soft drinks, cupid's snack tray, Valentine and frosty-heart sandwiches, potato chips, pretzel sticks, ice cream with red candy hearts and pink sauce.

Better serve decaffeinated coffee as well as regular. Some youngsters may prefer it.

Cupid's Snack Tray: Cheese Hearts: Cut processed cheese in slices ¼-inch thick, then cut the slices with a small, heart-shaped cutter.

Celery Arrows: Trim small stalks of celery hearts but leave a few leaves at the top. Stuff the stems with cream cheese mixed with enough mashed pimientos to make it pink, and seasoned with a little grated onion, salt and 1 or 2 teaspoons mayonnaise. To the tray add chilled stuffed and ripe olives and salt almonds to complete the assortment.

Valentine Sandwiches: Cut thin sliced sandwiches bread with a 2-inch round cutter. With a very small heart-shaped cutter stamp out the centers of half the slices. Make sandwiches with cooked chopped ham mixed with a little mayonnaise. Fill the heart openings with the same sized hearts cut from slices of cranberry jelly or canned pimiento.

Frosty-Heart Sandwiches: One loaf sliced whole wheat or white bread, two 7-ounce cans tuna fish ½ cup finely cut celery, mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon chili powder, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt (or more), 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ pound cream cheese.

Trim the crusts from the bread and cut with a medium-sized heart cutter. Spread lightly with butter. Mix tuna fish with celery seasonings and just enough mayonnaise to make a good spreading mixture. Make sandwiches, then cover all over the outside with cream cheese whipped with a little cream to make it creamy and smooth enough to spread. Pierce each heart with a toothpick tipped with a tiny red paper cupid or with fringed paper cut from a chop frill—or garnish with slivers of olives for "broken hearts."

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, ready-to-eat cereal, French toast, syrup, honey or jam, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Mixed vegetables in cheese sauce on toast, enriched bread, butter or margarine, baked apples, tea, milk.

DINNER: Meat balls in spaghetti and tomato sauce, grated Italian-type cheese, Italian or French bread, bowl of mixed greens, French dressing, canned Elberta peaches, cookies, coffee, milk.

Norway Given More Secrets On Defence Pact

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—(AP). —The United States drew up today its reply to Norway's questions about the price of admission to the Atlantic Security Alliance.

State Department defence experts got orders from Secretary Acheson to give more facts at a second session today with a visiting Norwegian government delegation.

Amid mounting Russian criticism, Acheson personally gave Norway's Foreign Minister, Halvard M. Lange, his first official look into the herefore-secret defence pact Monday.

After talking with Acheson for 32 minutes, Lange and his assistants went into a 2½-hour conference with top officials who are actually negotiating the alliance.

State Department officials kept all details of their preliminary talks with Lange a top secret. They would say only the United States Government welcomes Lange's visit and will give him all the information it can.

Top government officials indicated the United States is prepared to assure the Norwegians on two major points:

1. The Atlantic defence pact would require no allied bases on Norwegian territory in peacetime.

2. Norway would get, as a member, its full share of whatever arms, supplies and military advice the United States Government provides other member powers.

Restaurant Owner Lauds College Boys

Mr. N. Douros of Churchill restaurant beamed upon a group of St. Andrew's College students on their way home from a hockey game at The Grove School, Lakefield, Saturday night. Their bus stalled somewhere north of the city, and the 15 boys waited here for repairs.

To the proprietor of the cafe they were "all young gentlemen and a credit to their college". No loud talk, no cheap kidding of the waitresses, in fact as Mr. Douros said: "You wouldn't think we had so many boys with us, they were so well behaved."

"Too many boys when they come in groups carry on, in a way you feel like calling the police," Mr. Douros said. "I wish I could tell those boys from St. Andrew's that I was proud of them."

Anytime they come this way again, the Churchill will have the welcome mat out for them.

Predicts LPP Faces Rebellion

TORONTO, Feb. 8 — (CP).—Pat Conroy says he foresees rebellion in the ranks of Communist-led Labor unions if the leaders of those unions try to swing their members behind the Labor-Progressive Party's new policy of openly opposing the CCF

Mr. Conroy is secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, which has adopted the CCF as its political arm. He said he interpreted the new Communist line laid down by Tim Buck, LPP national leader, at a convention here as a declaration of war by the Communists against CCL leadership and the CCF.

He added that, basically, the new line represents no change in Communist viewpoint but rather is a matter of strategy.

"If the Communists try to push the line in unions under their influence, they will have a rebellion in the union ranks," he predicted. "The majority of the rank and file won't follow the leaders."

Murray Cotterill, CCL political action director, said he saw the new policy as bringing out into the open what Communists have been doing quietly for years. He foresaw more openly-expressed opposition to the CCL policies as result of the new LPP edict.

ONTARIO UNION DIRECTOR ARRESTED

U.S. Deports Sam Carr To Canada

Details Of Transfer Not Available, Order Signed At Noon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(CP)—The Justice Department announced today the United States will deport Mr. and Mrs. Sam Carr to Canada.

The deportation order was signed shortly after noon, EST, by Watson B. Miller, Commissioner of Immigration.

Carr, alleged to have been a key figure in a Soviet wartime espionage network in Canada, was arrested in New York by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Jan. 28.

Details of the transfer of the Carrs to Canada now are being worked out with Canadian authorities.

Last week they were brought before a Federal Grand Jury in New York, which has been inquiring into subversive activities in the United States.

The deportation orders were based on findings that the Carrs entered this country illegally after Carr dropped out of sight in March, 1946. The Canadian Government at that time was seeking him on charges of violating the Dominion's Official Secrets Act.

Details Uncertain

OTTAWA, Feb. 9—(CP) — A Justice Department official said today details of the deportation of Sam Carr, will be decided after consultation between Washington and Ottawa officials. So far these details of the time and place have not been determined.

RCMP officials, who are expected to take Carr into custody at some border point, said they had no official word on the deportation, but added it was "quite possible" that the time and route would be kept secret for security reasons.

HOW MANY FOR DINNER — Churchill Style... That's what these two technicians —cum—butchers, are probably asking themselves as they start cutting off a choice cut of frozen beef during the winter exercises at Fort Churchill, Man. The above Canadian Army photo shows WOI Jack Wilson of the Army and Engineer S. Fear 28 Lost Aboard Airliner

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 9—(CP)—The wreck of a Scandinavian airliner missing since yesterday while flying to Copenhagen from Madrid with 28 aboard was reported today to have been sighted off the Swedish coast.

Scandinavian airlines, owners of the plane, said aircraft had spotted it in the Sound between Denmark and Sweden and a few miles north of Malmoe. It lay just north of an oil patch located earlier.

There was no indication that any of the 28 aboard had survived.

Authorities were confident the spot was where the plane crashed after fishermen picked up a seat from the plane's passenger cabin and a grey overcoat floating on the oily water.

The airliner, a British-made Viking, was flying from Madrid to Copenhagen with 23 Spanish passengers and five crew members when it radioed it would attempt an instrument landing at Kastrup Airport here because of fog. The last message was received at 2:50 p.m. yesterday.

The passengers were coming to attend Copenhagen's Industrial Fair.

Ghost With Shadow Causes Consternation

STEEPLE ASTON, Wiltshire, England, Feb. 9 — (CP)— An invisible man who throws a shadow is causing consternation in this tiny country village.

Many believe it is the ghost of Judge Jeffries, who once held his "hanging court" in what now is the village store.

Edwin Tugwood, who runs the store, says he has seen the shadow and heard steps of the spectre.

"My wife and I sleep in the old courtroom where the judge sentenced highwaymen to be hung," Tugwood said. "Frequently he climbs the stairs, walks along the passage, lifts the heavy iron latch of the door.

"Then we see the shadow walk across the room to an old cupboard with pigeon holes in it."

Acheson Denies Atlantic Pact Aggressive Move

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States today vigorously challenged Russia's charge that the proposed North Atlantic Defence Alliance is an "aggressive" move by the western powers.

Acheson told a press conference the purpose of the pact now being drafted is exactly the opposite.

The Russian government in a note to Norway had condemned the North Atlantic Alliance and asserted it "serves the aggressive policy of certain powers."

Answering questions, Acheson said the Alliance is fully in keeping with the United Nations because it comes directly out of Article 51 of the U.N. Charter. This provides, he recalled, for individual and collective regional arrangements to help keep the peace.

Acheson said he was discussing all aspects of the situation with Norway's visiting Foreign Minister, Halvard Lange.

Acheson expressed doubt whether the writing of North Atlantic Alliance can be concluded by Friday so that the Norwegian Foreign Minister would have full information on it before returning to Oslo this week-end.

Plane To Leave Edmonton With Aid For 8 Eskimos

EDMONTON, Feb. 9—(CP)—A mercy plane was scheduled to leave Edmonton tonight or early tomorrow carrying medical supplies to treat eight Eskimos suffering from a mysterious malady. A third RCAF Dakota was ordered into service after receiving news yesterday that a trapper at an isolated Arctic post requested medical supplies and bandages.

The Air Force announced today that wireless communication was established with the trapper, a "Mr. Lyle," who reported seven Eskimos are ill at Cresswell Bay and another at a camp about 47 miles south of Cresswell Bay.

Cresswell Bay is inside the Arctic Circle on Somerset Island and about 1,740 airmiles northeast of Edmonton.

In Arctic Week

Two air force Dakota planes have been in the Arctic for a week investigating reports nine of the 17 Eskimos at Cresswell Bay had been killed.

Mr. Lyle told the air force that L. A. Learmonth, a trapper at Fort Ross south of Cresswell Bay, has started on a 200-mile trek northeast to Arctic Bay for aid for the Eskimos.

The air force's search and rescue branch will not attempt another flight from Cambridge Bay, about 1,440 miles northeast of Edmonton, to Cresswell Bay until next Monday.

$200,000 Fire Razes Station

FARNHAM, Que., Feb. 9—(CP)—Damage was unofficially estimated at $200,000 in a fire which destroyed the three-storey Canadian Pacific Railway station building in this eastern township town early today. No one was injured.

The blaze which broke out at 3 a.m. was believed to have started on the second floor. Volunteers were called from nearby Cowansville and St. Jean to help the four Farnham firemen.

Urge UN Act Aid Cardinal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—(AP)—The House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee called today for united nations intervention in the case of Cardinal Mindszenty.

Earlier State Secretary Dean Acheson at a press conference said that the people of the United States are "sickened and horrified" by the Mindszenty case.

The committee, calling the Hungarian trial and imprisonment of the Prelate "persecution," said the case should be raised by this country "either in the United Nations or by such other means as may be most appropriate."

Acheson disclosed that the western powers may place charges against Hungary before the United Nations on the ground that Hungary has consistently violated its peace treaty requirements for human rights.

Pope Will Address Secret Consistory

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 9—(AP)—The Vatican made public today a letter from Pope Pius bitterly condemning the arrest of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty. It was announced at the same time the Pontiff will address a "secret and extraordinary consistory" here next Monday.

The letter exhorted Hungarian Roman Catholic to have courage.

Vatican sources said yesterday the Pope would use the first occasion he could to make a "declaration in the hardest and most definitive terms" in connection with the trial.

The hour at which the consistory will be held and other details were not immediately announced.

Drifts Stall 40 Trains 5,000 Passengers Stranded

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 — (AP) — Westerly winds of 40 miles an hour swirled heavy piles of snow into newly-cleared highways and rail lines in the snow-stricken western states today.

Further damages to property and increased losses of livestock appeared certain from the latest storms which have battered the western plains and rocky mountain region for nearly six weeks. At least five persons lost their lives in the new storms in the Wyoming-Utah area.

Nearly 40 passenger and mail trains are stalled in huge snow drifts in Wyoming, Utah and Idaho. More than 5,000 passengers were stranded. There were 37 pasesnger trains stalled between Omaha and Denver.

The winds blew across the snow-carpeted areas of Wyoming, Idaho and parts of Utah and moved eastward into Nebraska, Montana and the Dakotas today.

Most of the blizzard-swept disaster area got one break in the weather—temperatures were not severe. But a below-zero belt covered most sections of the north central states.

In Wyoming, drifting snow reblocked more than 2,300 miles of roads which had been opened by army crews. Airplanes flew supplies of milk and bakery goods to meet emergency needs of stranded rail passengers. Livestock losses in Wyoming at present range from 10,000 to 20,000 cattle and from 30,000 to 50,000 sheep.

The strong winds which hit west central and northern Utah blocked roads with new drifts. Many schools were closed. However, hay-lift flights were made to get feed supplies to herds. Ranchers, road crews and aviators joined to prevent further loss to Utah's $40,000,000 livestock industry.

Picket Line Scuffle Breaks Out

Company Doesn't Want To Modify Position Telegram Tells Daley

PARIS, Ont., Feb. 9—(CP)—Arrest of Val Bjarnason, Ontario Director of the United Textile Workers of America (AFL) and a firm stand by Penman's Limited against negotiation while a strike is in progress were main developments today in the textile plant walkout.

Bjarnason's arrest on a charge of intimidation followed a picket line scuffle outside the company's No. 3 mill today. He appeared before Magistrate R. J. Gillen and was remanded on bail of $1,000 to Feb. 15.

A pushing contest began between police and the union leader outside the plant which ended with police carrying him into a squad car.

Defence counsel Norman Borins said earlier that three 15-year-old boys were discharged by the company because they joined the strike. However, the company claimed in a letter to Police Chief Tom Bean that the three "voluntarily left work."

The company released a telegram sent to Labor Minister Daley who last night said he was prepared to help negotiate the wages strike that started Jan. 18.

"Only a small percentage of Penman's employees on strike," the telegram said. "Company operating all departments satisfactorily. Have previously outlined unequivocally company's position with regard to meeting union representatives. Unwarranted behavior of Union since strike no inducement to modify position."

The company had stated previously it would not negotiate for a settlement while the strike was in progress. The telegram suggested a personal discussion with the minister early next week.

Gang Member In Drug Roundup

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP)—Johnny Hill, 31-year-old former member of the "Mickey McDonald gang" was arrested last night on charges of selling narcotics and illegal possession of drugs.

His arrest followed a fight with morality officers at a Robert Street address.

Percy Brenzel, 40, and his 28-year-old wife were also trapped in the house and charged with illegal possession of narcotics.

Police seized a small quantity of narcotics and drug-taking equipment. They said the drugs were smuggled into the city by a lone distributor who has brought in supplies of narcotics two or three nights a week. They did not disclose origin of the supply.

Hill, who was found by police in the Brenzel's room, fled out the back way but was overpowered by police when he tried to escape.

The source said the film, a National Film Board production, depicts the drug addict as a sick man, but in the U. S. he is not considered a sick man but a criminal.

Soviet Renews Support Of Yugoslavia

LONDON, Feb. 9 — (AP). — Russia renewed support of Yugoslavia's territorial claims on Austria today, United States sources reported, despite her quarrel with Yugoslav Premier Tito.

Russia re-stated her view soon after the Big Four Foreign Ministers' deputies convened for a third big try at writing the long-delayed Austrian peace treaty.

The conference had been hailed by Western diplomats as a place for Russia to match her recent peace talk with hard action in settling Europe's problems.

Meeting in London's historic Lancaster House under the chairmanship of Samuel Reber of the United States, the deputies took no decision on the Russian suggestion and adjourned until tomorrow.

An official American observer said he would not discount the possibility that Russia might change her stand later. None of the deputies expected concessions at the very outset of the meeting.

No Useful Purpose

A British observer said only that Russia wanted to hear the Yugoslav claims once again. Both the American and the British sources said the West took the view that no useful purpose could be served by a Yugoslav restatement. Western opposition to the Yugoslav claims continues unchanged.

Western spokesmen said that "deeds, not words" were needed to solve East-West difficulties. They pointed to Berlin and Austria as two places where Russian actions to bring about a settlement with the west would speak volumes.

It seemed that if anyone is to give way on the Yugoslav claims, it would have to be Russia.

Charges Corporal Disrupts Morale Of Police Force, Bragged Of His Influence

Keays Says Crown Attorney Obstructed Work; Came To Office Drunk; Says Officers Told Him To Forget Evidence

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 9—(CP).—Corporal Sam Ervine of the Ontario Provincial Police disrupted the morale of the Belleville police detachment and bragged of his influence with senior police officers, Provincial Constable J. E. Keays testified today. Keays said Ervine once advised him to "forget" about a criminal investigation because the defence lawyer was an influential man.

Keays made the charges before Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay, a Royal Commissioner investigating Keays' allegations of maladministration of justice in Belleville.

Keays accused Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan of continually obstructing police work after Keays laid fraud charges against Ernest Carefoot, a business associate of Mr. Donnan.

Keays testified morale had been high among provincial officers in Belleville until Ervine returned from wartime service as a major with the Hastings and Prince Edward Island Regiment.

Drunk At Work

Keays charged Ervine went drinking with police recruits and once was drunk at the police office.

Ervine bragged, Keays said, of his influence with Commissioner W. H. Stringer and Inspector W. E. Page, the senior police officer in the Belleville district.

In his charges, Keays named Crown Attorney Donnan, Ervine, Commissioner Stringer, Inspector Page, and four other police officers: Inspector T. W. Cousans, Sergeant J. A. Stringer, and Constables G. R. Purdy and J. D. Driscoll.

He elaborated on his allegations that Donnan interfered with Keay's investigations after the prosecution of a business associate of Mr. Donnan, Ernest Carefoot, for fraud.

Both Intoxicated

In April 1946, he said, both Mr. Donnan and a physician were intoxicated when they came to the Belleville police office in connection with the arrest of a man for drunken driving.

"The crown attorney was in a worse condition than the accused," he said.

On another occasion Donnan was drunk during a trial in which several of the witnesses were between 12 and 14 years old, Keays charged. In June, 1947, he said, Donnan told him "not to bother" investigating a death which Keays felt called for an inquest.

Later, the attorney general's department ordered an inquest.

He introduced a letter he said Deputy Attorney General C. L. Snyder wrote Donnan in which Mr. Snyder said he did not understand why no inquest was held.

Gets Confession

In a case of attempted murder and arson, Keays obtained a confession from the accused which was later admitted as evidence. Donnan told Keays there was no evidence to warrant an attempted murder charge.

Later Mr. Snyder ordered charges of attempted murder.

Investigate Sale Of School For Price Of $1

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP) — Education Minister Porter said today that a "high official" of his department will leave tonight for Crystal Falls, Ont., to investigate the reported sale of a public school building for $1.

Reports from the village 32 miles from North Bay Monday sai dthe building had been sold to supporters of a Roman Catholic school.

Mr. Porter said: "It is a matter which concerns two local boards but we will have to investigate to see if any of our inspectors had any dealings in the matter."

Some 30 Crystal Falls public school supporters decided at a meeting Sunday to hire a lawyer to investigate their case after they were told that the tiny red-brick school, built 26 years ago for $12,000, had been sold for $1.

J. W. Trusler, North Bay school inspector, reported the transaction as it was explained to him by William Peterson, former chairman of the public school board.

Mr. Trusler said Mr. Peterson, along with the other members of the three-man board, resigned Jan. 9—the day the transaction was placed on the school minute books. Peterson and one of the two others were reported to have joined the Separate School board.

The 21 schoolchildren of the community of some 150 persons were continuing their classes under the same school master as previous to the sale.

Daley Prepared To Negotiate

PARIS, Ont., Feb. 9 (CP)—Labor Minister Daley is prepared to help negotiate a settlement in the wages strike which started Jan. 18 at the textile mills of Penman's, Ltd.

The striking United Textile Workers of America (A.F.L.) last night notified the minister of its willingness to meet with him Friday for settlement talks.

Company officials, however, said they would not meet the union for negotiations while the strike continues.

Mr. Daley, in his message last night to company and union, said his intervention followed a request from the town council, other civic bodies and citizens of this community near Brantford.

Report Norway Rejects 10-Year Pact With Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 9—(AP)—Sweden said today Norway has rejected a 10-year military pact with Sweden because it would have kept her from joining a stronger group such as the proposed North Atlantic Alliance.

A joint declaration on Swedish foreign policy by Premier Tage Erlander and Foreign Minister M. Osten Unden expressed regret that Norway turned down the Swedish offer.

The declaration, read to both Houses of Parliament, today restate Sweden's decision to keep out of the cold war, as well as the North Atlantic Pact.

The Swedish leaders said Sweden had taken a big step away from her traditional policy of neutrality in offering a full military alliance to Norway and Denmark, her Scandinavian neighbors.

They said Norwegian acceptance would have made the three countries one unit, without ties to any other powers.

A draft treaty drawn up by Sweden would have obliged the other two to render immediate military aid if one of the three should be attacked. None of the countries would, however, have had the right to enter a military alliance with a third power.

The draft would have declared the intention of the three countries to keep out of war unless they are drawn into it by an armed attack, or by a United Nations declaration of sanctions against an aggressor. A joint defence council of the three would have been set up and close collaboration in foreign policy established.

Says Newfoundland Treated Generously

LONDON, Feb. 9—(Reuters)—Canada's proposals for the incorporation of Newfoundland today were described by Britain's Lord Chancellor Viscount Jowitt, as "by no means ungenerous."

"It is certainly a fact that for many years to come this will undoubtedly be a very heavy burden on the people of Canada," he said.

The Lord Chancellor was replying to a debate in the House of Lords in which Lord Semphill, Conservative, said that there was a widely-held feeling in Newfoundland that she was being "sold by the British Government to Canada."

"We in this country have not sought to make a penny piece out of it," said Viscount Jowitt, "and Canada is paying a very heavy price for a chance of getting Newfoundland going again."

Denies Red Influence Strong In TLC

Bengough Declares AFL Executive Failed To Get Facts

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP)—A Toronto paper today quotes Percy Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, as disagreeing with the American Federation of Labor executive council concerning the influence wielded in T.L.C. unions by Communists. The council said the Communists' influence in the unionists was out of proportion to their numbers.

The paper says Mr. Bengough expressed his views in a telephone interview from Miami, where he is attending the A.F.L. executive council meeting. The council criticized T.L.C. policies and ordered the T.L.C. to weed out Communists.

Bengough Statement

Mr. Bengough, speaking for the four-man T.L.C. delegation, told the interviewer:

"We are strongly of the opinion that such conclusions were arrived at by the executive council of the A.F.L. without sufficient consideration and without devoting the necessary time and consultation with executive members of the T.L.C. who were available in Miami."

From Miami, Frank Hall of Montreal, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and leader of anti-Communist bloc in the T.L.C., said the A.F.L. statement was a declaration that the T.L.C. must get rid of Communists "or else." He said his group was pleased with the results of the meeting.

Ancaster councillors recalled at a meeting Monday night that a by-law had been passed in January confirming Bennett's reappointment as constable. Councillor W. J. Briggar told the meeting:

"Two or three days before his death, Constable Bennett said he felt he was going to lose his job. He should have been assured of the council's confidence in him."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9 — (CP)— Reflecting drastic declines on the Chicago market, the Canadian Wheat Board's price for class two wheat—for export to countries other than the United Kingdom—was reduced by nine cents Tuesday. This marked a new low level for the class two wheat. The feature of the coarse grain futures market on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange was that prices showed very stubborn resistance to big price breaks recorded on the Chicago market. While there was some expansion in selling in oats and barley, which saw American sales, good support from shippers appeared in oats and processors and shippers gave fair support to barley. There also was fair demand from other interests.

In contrast to active trading at Chicago the Winnipeg session was dull for the most part with the usual expansion in activity at the close. Winnipeg rye was affected more than any other grains by the Chicago weakness but was well above the 10-cent maximum loss allowed for the day. Yesterday saw new seasonal lows registered across the board on all coarse grains on the Winnipeg Exchange. The United Kingdom was allocated 400,000 bushels of wheat under Anglo-Canadian export business.

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP).—The search for Dan Keller, who escaped from a Kingston hospital nearly a month ago, switched to the Windsor area Tuesday night when a farmer reported to police that he had driven a hitch-hiker into Hagersville Sunday. The farmer, David Phillips, said he became suspicious when he arrived home and saw Keller's picture in a newspaper. Police said the hitch-hiker told Phillips he had $400 worth of travellers' cheques. "He said the cheques were not signed by his bank in Windsor so he couldn't use them," Phillips added.

House Approves Newfoundland's Entry Into Union

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 — (CP)—A bright, new page in Canadian history was written yesterday into the parliamentary record.

It set down Feb. 8, 1949, as the day on which the Canadian House of Commons gave its approval in principle to the entry of Newfoundland into the Canadian community.

In the terse, official language of Hansard, official report of debates, it read this way:

"Motion agreed to, on division, bill read the second time and the House went into committee thereon . . ."

It took just that much to make a new and greater nation.

True, there are other steps to follow, wrapped in cumbersome, legal trappings. Study of union terms, already started, must be completed, the Senate must take action, addresses must be sent to the King and the United Kingdom parliament must pass complementary bills. Newfoundland, too, will do its share.

Act Completed

For Canada, the act now is completed and the way cleared for Newfoundland to take, on March 31, the confederation niche that has awaited her more than 80 years.

The confederation came at precisely 4:56 o'clock in the afternoon as a small bubble of debate on the issue subsided and the deputy clerk solemnly called second reading.

There was one lone protest. J. I. Hamel, member of the two-man nationalistic Bloc Populaire party who represents the Quebec riding of St. Maurice-Lafleche, shouted "on division," indicating a measure of disapproval.

Then the chamber went into cimmittee, the informal stage which permits quick question-and-answer debate, to study the 50 complex clauses which make up the terms of union.

There, Prime Minister St. Laurent, one of the principals in the drafting of the terms, provided a string of newsworthy answers as opposition members sought to determine the benefits, or otherwise, that might fall to the peoples of Newfoundland and Canada.

Two Objections

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said there were two provisions in the union terms which he did not like, and he suggested the government meet again with the Newfoundland representatives and give the points reconsideration.

He did not like the section allowing Newfoundland to manufacture and sell margarine but prohibiting it from shipping the butter substitute to the other provinces. This meant there would be a restriction on inter-provincial trade, something which the confederation fathers had sought to avoid.

Nor did he care for a provision which he said would prevent Newfoundland from obtaining adjustment of the financial arrangements being given her. This discriminated against the new province.

Mr. St. Laurent said the section dealing with margarine was a safeguard for Newfoundland in case the privy council reversed the Supreme Court decision freeing margarine in Canada. Newfoundland had little dairy industry and needed margarine.

As for the financial terms, Newfoundland would have two options after union. It could enter a taxation agreement until 1962 on the same terms as existing agreements with other provinces—all except Ontario and Quebec—or enter an agreement from the time of union until 1957.

Farmers Urged Use 'Back 50' For Grazing

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP)—So-called marginal land, the neglected "back 50" of many a farm, could be made to yield cash for the farmer's pocketbook and low-cost roasts for the city dinner-table.

That's the contention of Prof. R. G. Knox, research director of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

He told the Ontario Crop Improvement Association that this land would not only increase farm returns but also would help to reduce meat prices.

"It is considered that the so-called hill and marginal lands could be made a great reservoir for livestock and that, with a proper system of integration, they could contribute enormously to the general intensity of farming on our better lands," he said.

"In fact, I would go so far as to say that, in competitive production, it is impossible to farm our better and more productive lands properly and to the best national advantage unless we also farm our marginal lands.

Premier Kennedy, addressing a joint meeting of the Crop Improvement Association and of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, said conservation of Ontario's farm land is a vital problem.

R. J. Bryden of the Ontario Agricultural College's department of soils, told the crop association's turnip division that it was time to start reclaiming abandoned farm lands. Said he:

"Let us make better use of the land here in Old Ontario before invading the north or other areas where nature still holds sway.

Charges

Keays said Donnan ordered him out of the courtroom during the trial, the accused was committed to an institution, although psychiatric examination showed he was fit to stand trial.

After the death of a girl called Jean Badgely, in circumstances which indicated the possibility of murder, Keays began an investigation. Donnan asked that the case be turned over to the criminal investigation branch.

Keays uncovered fingerprint evidence but Doonan told him to "forget it."

He said morale of the Belleville Provincial Police detachment was lowered after Ervine was posted there. Once, after Ervine had been drunk at the police station, he said Keays was a "good cop but didn't want to play with the right guys."

Ordered To Forget

Ervine told him to forget about one case because the defence counsel was an influential man.

Keays said Ervine bragged of his influence within the force and frequently went drinking with police recruits.

Keays then turned to drunk and dangerous driving charges laid against Leroy Woods in November 1947. He accused Ervine of perjury and Purdy with submitting false reports in the case.

Keays said he turned the investigation over to Purdy.

Purdy's report said Woods was drunk when apprehended after a minor accident three miles north of Belleville. But Purdy submitted a false report on the damage to the vehicle.

"According to this officer's official records he didn't spend five minutes to go to the scene of the accident," Keays said.

He said Purdy started to cry when asked for the report.

Purdy said Ervine told him there was no evidence to warrant a dangerous driving charge.

Keays quoted Purdy as saying: "Sam (Ervine) told me we couldn't lay a drunk driving charge" because Woods was not on the highway when apprehended.

Report Changed

Keays said there were erasures on the accident report Purdy submitted to headquarters.

On questioning from Mr. Hope, Purdy said the erasures were made before the report was sent in.

Keays replied there were three other copies of the report and asked that they be produced.

Mr. Hope said an attempt would be made to find them.

Mr. Keays said he took a copy of the report from the mail. It listed Woods' condition as "normal" after his arrest and reported estimated damage at $50.

The report Purdy originally made out listed Woods as drunk and damage at $75.

The second report deleted the name of a witness who alleged he was crowded off the road by Woods.

Russia Fails To Meet British Pact

Soviet Doesn't Take Original Orders, Wants Raw Materials

LONDON, Feb. 9 (CP)—Britain's hopes of obtaining large quantities of Russian wheat and other grains this year have finally faded, and she now has turned to Canada, Argentina and Australia.

Britain is sure of 140,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat in the 1949-50 crop under a four-year agreement. But she would like to have other sources of supply where she would not be required to pay dollars, and which could be depended upon if North American wheat became unavailable.

Russia represented one of these sources, but negotiations with the Soviet Union went on too slowly, delayed by many complications.

There is the prospect that Australia, a sterling-area country, will make the largest single contribution next to Canada.

Gave Britain Boost

Last year Russia gave outstanding help to British agricultural recovery by completing shipment of 213,000,000 bushels of coarse grains.

Under the old agreement Russia was expected to spend the earnings from coarse grains on British machinery and equipment but as yet has not placed all the contracts hoped for.

"Complaints that the British Government was at fault if the Soviet government failed to place contracts simply cannot be accepted," Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade, said.

If Britain accepted suggestions in Russian propaganda she would have assumed the obligation of forcing British manufacturers to accept anything the Russians offered, even if at prices double those available elsewhere.

Anxiety in Britain was caused by a Russian decision to use sterling earnings for purchase of raw materials such as wool and rubber in the sterling area. In the House of Commons there were protests that Russia thus was being allowed to build up war potential.

Clean Land For Poultry

BATHURST, Gambia —(CP)— Work has started on clearing 10,000 acres of bush in Gambia and the land will be devoted to poultry farming and the growing of coarse grains. It is hoped to produce about 20,000,000 eggs a year.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

Magic Mittens Pay Dividends

Around 1870, a storekeeper named H. W. Johns obtained a crude pair of mittens woven from asbestos. Donning them, he would reach inside his store's pot-bellied stove and scoop out a double handful of red-hot coals, then pass among his astonished, potential buyers. This bit of showmanship, demonstrating the fireproof and insulating qualities of asbestos, was the nucleus of the present company that bears his name—Johns-Manville.

Today, J-M makes an insulation that will solve every heat or cold problem, anywhere from 400° below zero to 3000° above. And back of this ability to meet every insulation need is Johns-Manville's 90 years of experience in every conceivable type of insulation work.

For complete details on J-M Insulations, contact Canadian Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

British Columbia To Repeal Margarine Ban

By The Canadian Press

The only Canadian province with legislation forbidding manufacture and sale of margarine plans to repeal the ban.

British Columbia intends to lift the restriction at the current session, its government revealed in the Speech from the Throne, read yesterday at the opening of the Legislature at Victoria. Sale of butter substitutes is prohibited in British Columbia under a 1935 Act which take precedence over a ruling of the Supreme Court of Canada making it legal in other parts of Canada.

The Throne Speech also proposed large loans to finance a major public works program, additional financial aid for the University of British Columbia and equalization of school taxes in rural districts. It also recommended plans for improvement and development of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, a B.C. government-owned line which U.S. interests have sought to link with the Alaska railway.

The Manitoba Legislature also opened yesterday and in Toronto preparations went forward for the opening tomorrow of the Ontario Legislature. Quebec's parliament has been sitting since last week.

The Throne Speech at Winnipeg said the Manitoba Government considered it a matter of "utmost urgency" that everything possible be done to proceed with plans to provide additional Hydro-Electric power. The government plans power developments at Pine Falls on the Winnipeg River.

He says he is just as busy as when the economic affairs of the nation rested on his shoulders.

Death Sentence Said Unlikely

BUDAPEST, Feb. 9 — (AP)— The comment of a spokesman for the Hungarian Foreign Office made it seem unlikely today that the life sentence of Joseph Cardinal Mindeszenty will be increased to death by the Appeals Court.

The cardinal was found guilty by the "People's Court" yesterday of treason, plotting to overthrow the Communist government and speculating in dollars on the black market. His six codefendants also were found guilty and all but one appealed. There was no indication when the Appeals Court will act.

The Foreign Office spokesman said last night that on the treason charge the death penalty is pronounced under Hungarian law only in wartime.

The spokesman said the cardinal escaped the death sentence only because he had four extenuating circumstances in his favor against three aggravating circumstances. If a defendant's extenuating circumstances outnumber the aggravating factors the lowest sentence in each category is provided by Hungarian law.

Cobourg Ratepayers Deluge Council With Questions

COBOURG, Feb. 9—(ENS). — Questions directed to the Mayor and Council by the newly-organized Citizens' Ratepayers' Association were answered by Mayor Joe Smith at the Council meeting on Monday night. In reply to the query as to why the local assessor should not be used to make the re-assessment, the Mayor referred the association to the remarks already heard that evening from Max Sloan, government assessment expert. Mr. Sloan said that the Department of Municipal Affairs would be willing to assist in re-assessing, acting through the local assessor.

Mayor Smith said that if the public wanted the police force to remain at its present number instead of being increased by two more officers, they would have to be content with the possibility that when they wanted a constable in a hurry, they might not get one. At nights, he explained, both officers were together at times on patrol and this left nobody to answer the phone in the police office. With the present number on the force it was impossible to have a man available at the police telephone throughout the entire 24 hours.

Councillor Frank Lapp asked what insurance was carried on the town hall and was told in reply by the town clerk that it was $165,000.

"If we had a big fire," observed Councillor Lapp, "we would be bankrupt."

To a question on the cost of the proposed new sewage system, Mayor Smith said this information would be available on February 21 when tenders for the sewage pumping station were opened. Another question was why a consulting engineer was called in when the town had their own engineer and Mayor Smith explained that the local engineer did not have the time to prepare the plans for the sewage system and did not have the contacts for supplies as did the engineer hired.

Mrs. Dorothy Barr of the Ratepayers' Association said that other towns, such as Lindsay, were getting industries. What was the matter with Cobourg, she asked. Mayor Smith replied that a town didn't get an industry simply by saying that they wanted one. There had been several enquiries from industries but when Cobourg was asked about a factory site, the town was one of several municipalities in which similar enquiries had been made. If another factory came to Cobourg and wanted to bring 25 to 50 employees with it, where would the town get the necessary housing, the Mayor asked. Reeve Dodge also said that there were many things tied in with getting a factory and it was not an easy job to secure an industry.

Smith Township Ups Wage Rates

Township wage rates for road workers was increased five cents an hour by Smith Council Monday. The road superintendent receives a boost of ten cents.

The council has appropriated $25,300 for expenditure on township roads this season. An authorizing bylaw was passed.

Residents of Fowler's Corners asked in a petition for the co-operation of the council in forming a union school section, composed of parts of Emily and Smith townships. Council decided not to take any action. They felt that building costs were too high and would be a burden on the residents of the area.

The following accounts were passed for payment: Roads $1,309.23; relief accounts $214.74; county of Peterborough, indigents account of 1948— $178.90; Salvation Army Grant $15; provincial treasurer, insulin: $3.16; Peterborough Printing Co. assessment notices $37.80; association of assessing officers, membership fee $10; registrar of deeds, list of transfers $19.80.

Soviet Raps West On Arms Reduction

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 9—(CP)— The east-west disagreement on the question of arms reduction and prohibition of the atomic bomb was pointed up again yesterday when Russia attacked Western Security pacts in a long, bitter statement.

In the first February meeting of the Security Council, Jakob Malik, Soviet delegate of the United Nations, made a renewed demand for arms reduction and prohibition of the atomic bomb. The statement called for the outlawing of the bomb and a one-third cut by the five big powers in their armaments.

The attitude of Britain and the United States has been that the best security for peace is to build up a force which would be able to overwhelm any aggressor.

Malik's statement condemned the regional pacts such as Western Union and the proposed North Atlantic Alliance.

COBOURG, Feb. 9—(ENS)— Cobourg intermediate hockey team has accepted an invitation to take part in the opening of Bowmanville's new rink where they will meet a Bowmanville team. Meanwhile Cobourg still waits for some word from the rink committee as to final selection of a site for their rink.

Don't Expect Reds To Try Yangtze Drive

NANKING, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Chinese war may stay quiet for months. Just why the cessation of hostilities is continuing can be answered only by the Communists in power north of the Yangtze River.

Few observers here expect acting President Li Tsung-jen to arrange a National peace. Neither do they expect an attempt by the Communists to cross the Yangtze, and little south of the diver.

Communist leader Mao Tze-Tung and his subordinates give every indication they are content to rest on their laurels for the time being.

Not Yet Ready

How long Li can hang on in Nanking without opening official and formal peace talks is a question of growing speculation. Li's official five-man peace delegation, appointed two days after he took over the duties of President, is still scattered.

The Shanghai delegation was scheduled to leave today but was cancelled by Li for an unexplained reason.

In Shanghai there is a belief the Communists are not yet ready to talk peace. Many believe the Red Boss of Peiping, Yen Chien-Ying, has not been empowered to talk terms with anybody. Certainly his treatment of the local Nanking peace delegation now in Peiping does not contradict this theory. The Nanking delegation is being treated informally as visitors.

WI Hears Story Of Beekeeping

ROSENEATH, Feb. 9—(ENS)— Women's Institute was addressed in the Town Hall on Thursday by Fred Lewis, a local beekeeper, on bees and honey. The talk, which described in detail the habits of bees and their methods of making honey, was illustrated with slides shown by Jack Buttars. Mr. Lewis presented the Institute with a jar of honey from the southern States.

Mrs. B. Thackery introduced the speaker and thanked Mr Lewis and Mr. Buttars

The president, Mrs. J. Beatty was chairman and Mrs. B. Thackeray, secretary-treasurer, reported a surplus of $109.50, including receipts of $65 from a bazaar.

A letter was read from the secretary of the WI in Roseneath, Scotland, in reply to an enquiry about sending a parcel of food to Scotland. The letter discribed the work of the Scottish branch, and mentioned having received a letter from Roseneath in New Zealand.

The president and Mrs. J. W. Pacey were named a committee to arrange comforts for a needy family.

March meeting will be open to all women in the community.

A program is being arranged by Mrs. G. Mouncey, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. H. Taylor and Mrs. H. George.

Every member was asked to make a heavy quilt block 18 inches square for Mrs. B. Thackeray to assemble.

More Chickenpox

COBOURG, Feb. 9—(ENS)— Thirty-six new cases of communicable disease were recorded for the week ending February 5 by the counties health unit. Of these 29 were chickenpox, this disease still heading the list after many weeks. Three new cases of red measles were recorded, two of scarlet fever and two of septic sore throat. The new cases of chickenpox were scattered throughout the counties.

Plan Minimum Salary

TORONTO, Feb. 9 —(CP)— United Church of Canada Tuesday outlined details of a drive to establish a minimum salary to its ministers of $2,100 in 1949.

Goal of the drive will be a $2,200 minimum in 1950 and $2,400 in 1951.

Church statement, noting that a "salary of $2,200 today has no more purchasing power than had $1,400 in 1939," said its purpose is to make church members realize "that they must do better and go farther" in sharing their living standards with the ministers.

Minimum salary goal for 1950 was $2,200 and for 1951, $2,400.

Here's a Story of

in 1948

Any story of Canada's largest life assurance company — the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada — is a story of "big business" because more than one and a half million people the world over are safeguarded by the protection and security of Sun Life policies.

The ever-growing goodwill which is enjoyed by the Sun Life of Canada is due to the diversity and liberality of the Company's life assurance policies, to the character of its representatives, and to the promptness and efficiency of its service to policyholders, throughout its entire 78 years' history.

Last year alone, payments amounting to more than $100,000,000 were made to Sun Life policyholders and beneficiaries.

THE SUN LIFE STORY OF 1948 is made up of many thousands of individual records, each a simple human document, yet of vital importance to those concerned:

The Story of Mrs. M.B.H.

. . . is a tragic one. She lost her husband in an automobile accident and was left alone with three young children to care for. But to her husband, responsibility reached beyond death, and his Sun Life Family Income policy provides for the family until the youngsters are grown up, and then gives to the widow a regular income for life.

T.L.M. Bought a Business

. . . and is now his own master. He planned this when, on graduating from college, he took out a Sun Life Endowment for assurance protection as well as systematic and easy saving. The Endowment matured recently, providing the means which enabled him to take advantage of a great opportunity.

C.J.S. Was a Good Salesman

. . . who all his life looked ahead. Thirty years ago he paid his first premium on a Sun Life Retirement policy. Last October he made his final business trip and now, at 65, he enjoys the leisure that his foresight made possible.

No Need of Charity

In the small industrial plant owned by D.B.L., 100 employees never have to pass the hat when a bench pal dies. Like hundreds of thousands of workers in other industrial and business organizations large and small, they are protected by Sun Life Group Assurance, an effective instrument for good employee-employer relations.

Yes, there are thousands of such cases in the Sun Life story of 1948 — a story of service to the public, repeated year in, year out.

From the 1948 Annual Report

Benefits paid to policyholders and beneficiaries during 1948: $105,046,413
Total Benefits paid since the first Sun Life policy was issued in 1871: $2,126,737,233
New Assurances issued during the year: $374,652,547
Assurances in force: $4,089,234,182

Television In Canada

Television has developed rapidly in the last two years and the United States has gained the lead in this newest medium of communication which Britain held as early as 1938. Canada cannot ignore such an important social force as television is bound to be. Businessmen are already canvassing its commercial possibilities in this country. Canada has no television stations yet but we shall have them soon or late. There are many reasons for preferring to have them late than soon, and some which will probably make our preference a fact.

* * *

Television is far from being a perfect instrument. Why should the Canadian government or business lay out large sums now if the Americans are willing to pay the bills for turning the sod? Canadians cannot afford billion dollar novelties; we can afford to wait until the novelty has its rough edges worn off and is become a harmless or necessary luxury. We can afford to wait until the thing has become cheaper — in station equipment, broadcasting (perhaps we should say telecasting) techniques, and home receiving sets. Meanwhile, any Canadians itching to see the radio flicks can slip across the border and rub their backs on an American bar equipped with a television set.

* * *

Television will be many times more costly to Canadians than Americans, if it is to be Canada-wide and is to pipe out Canadian programs. Undoubtedly stations could be set up in Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver at not much greater cost than in American cities of similar size. Such stations would have to rely for their material on outside—and therefore American—centres; either network connections by coaxial cable or radio link, or by films or kinescope (film recordings of television shows). Thus their programming would be almost undilutedly American.

* * *

In this matter of television we hope that Canada will act circumspectly, with native caution. It may be well to keep a hand in by having one or two experimental stations, operating under temporary license. Otherwise, let us go slowly. There are many social as well as technical and financial aspects to be studied. We have some guiding experience in radio broadcasting. Canadian radio is not as bad as American; it may be better than British. We do not know how bad the American commercial television system can become, nor the effect of state monopoly, as in Britain. Before Canadian television rights are sold out to business or become a monopoly of the C.B.C., exhaustive studies should be made of what television will mean in our national life. Parliament has this duty. Government has the right, for no adequate television system can be established in Canada without Government monies or direct contributions (by way of fees) from the people.

Where Is The Dividing Line?

Last Thursday Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec gave the Legislature of that province his views on social security legislation. They were in no sense new, but in our opinion they show a grasp of the realities of social security which is uncomfortably rare in Canadian politics at present. The gist of Premier Duplessis' speech lay in his insistence that the time has come for governments "to encourage personal effort, personal dignity and personal responsibility".

We cannot blind ourselves to the fact that socialism is the most powerful political influence of our time, and that much of the security legislation enacted in Canada during the past twenty-five years has been socialistic in inspiration and influence. Nor does this newspaper deplore that influence or that legislation. The national health plan, family allowances, old age pensions, unemployment insurance, mothers' allowances, workmen's compensation—these are all good and necessary things. But with them there has come a tendency for political parties to bid against each other with promises of increased benefits of new security schemes in their attempts to get power. Such promises, if they are to be carried out, must be discharged at the expense of the public purse—by taxes, in short.

Now it is an old saying that it is easy to tax a rich man poor, but that nobody has ever yet taxed a poor man rich. And there are many taxes at present which are inconvenient for rich men, who have regular ways of refreshing their fortunes, but which are downright ruinous for men who are not rich, but who are trying to live on savings or competences which they have been able to provide for themselves by years of work. If thrift is merely to make a man a mark for the tax-gatherers, thrift will soon go out of fashion, and everyone will seek to live on the state. Only that precious sense which Mr. Duplessis calls "personal dignity" can prevent that, and personal dignity can quickly be destroyed by spendthrift governments.

The obligation of the state to care for those who, for some reason cannot care for themselves is now accepted as proven. But we must take care that political bidding does not so far increase social security schemes that we become infantile, tugging perpetually at the nipple of the state. We must, in short, take care that social security is provided only for those who cannot provide it for themselves. We must find the dividing line between social necessity and mere political indulgence.

Fishing Agreement

Yesterday in Washington eleven countries put their names to an unusual pact. The treaty sets up an International Commission for the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries. It is the first multilateral pact of its kind. The signatory countries were: Canada, Newfoundland, the United States, Britain, France, Iceland, Norway, Denmark, Spain, Portugal and Italy. The list is an interesting indication of who fish off Canada's eastern shores. It seems a long way for Italian fishermen to travel; however, the fishing is pretty good and a chief purpose of the pact is to keep it that way. Incidentally, the treaty may be the last international one which Newfoundland will sign as a separate nation.

The new International Commission will have no powers of regulation. Its purpose is the scientific investigation of fishery resources for mutual national benefit and the collection and distribution of statistics. This is an important task, for fish is a major world food. Anything that can be done to ensure the continuance of a good supply, or to improve the quality and increase the number of fish, is internationally valuable. Scientific research in fisheries is much more difficult than in, for instance, agriculture. In agriculture sample surveys give a reasonably accurate picture of the whole. Not so with fish. Their breeding grounds are often unfathomable, they move about unpredictably, there are distorting seasonal changes. The U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) is very much concerned with fisheries, and undoubtedly, the new Northwest Atlantic Commission will give valuable scientific and statistical help to the FAO.

The Federal Department of Fisheries has long engaged in enterprises not only to assist and advise fishermen—as in the course given at the University of St. Francis Xavier at Antigonish, N.S.—but also to conserve fishery resources and study fishery problems. Such work can now be correlated internationally, in so far as it applies to the Atlantic fisheries.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We read of a girl who married because she was tired of working. What a surprise she has coming to her!

Communist infiltration of Hungary seems to have been modelled on the native recipe for goulash—first the gou, and then the lash.

British expeditions to the Antarctic are said to have laid bare the love life of the seal. High percentage of frigidity among then, we should think.

In Russia there is only one telephone for every 140 persons. After a hard day we sometimes experience subversive admiration for this aspect of the Russian system.

Professor V. Danilevsky recently told the Soviet Academy of Sciences that Russians invented electric light, the airplane, radio, the steamship, the ship's propellor, insulated wire, the electric transformer, the stratospheric balloon, the pack parachute and jet propulsion. This reminds us of the great discovery during the First World War that Shakespeare was a German, although the fact had been suppressed by the wicked and jealous English.

CANADIAN CAUSERIE

N. or M.?

By GEOFFREY VIVIEN

ALTHOUGH Nature has provided mankind with an ample time-period for deciding upon the name of a future child, the decision is seldom made by the moment of arrival. Of course when the name chosen will belong to a future King and to History one can understand some delay. But the difficulties do not seem to get any less lower down on the social scale. Certainly they seemed formidable enough to this household when recently a new Canadian citizeness arrived. It is the multitude of possibilities that makes all the trouble. Just as the thing is approaching a solution a new brainwave bursts in. Thus—I: "Then it's between Amanda and Jocelyn. Now all we need to do is to toss a coin. Heads it's Amanda, maple-leaves it's Jocelyn. Ready?" My wife nods. The coin spins and the maple-leaves are upward. I, with great relief: "Well, that settles it. She's Jocelyn." My wife: "Ye-e-s.....only.....you.....you don't think Theresa would be better?" And so it goes on.

❖ ❖ ❖

ONE of the advantages of an authoritarian system is that this kind of trouble hardly arises. I would be very surprised to hear that a French-Canadian child has been alive more than an hour without possessing at least one Christian name, for the birthday-saint is right at hand. The saints often lend a helping hand to those outside the strict confines of their authority; thus the distinguished English poet W. H. Auden owes his W. to St. Wystan who, appropriately, planted a stick in the ground and caused it to bud and grow into a splendid tree. In countries where the authority is political the heroes of the moment give an easy answer to the naming problem. There must be thousands of Adolfs between the ages of seven and fifteen in Germany today. What a label to carry through life! That is the solemn thing about naming a human being: it is for life. The name chosen is the sound that playmates in school will shout or jeer at the child. It is the murmur that the lover will make under the elms or across the drugstore counter. It is the entry on the union-card, in the telephone book, the faculty-list; on the gravestone or the Roll of Honour. And for all we know it is the dread call that we hear on Judgement Day.

❖ ❖ ❖

SOME people, by force of character or circumstance, get themselves a new name on their way through life. Canada's most illustrious example is her Minister for External Affairs, commonly known as "Mike". But however popular the new name becomes the old name still seems somehow to exert its influence, and the result is often a kind of dual personality. So with our Minister. As "Mike" he is a genial fellow who quips with the Press and obviously finds life a pretty good laugh. But there is a formidable personage behind this, who stands up to the toughest wrangles at the World's Conference tables. His name is still Lester B.

SOMETIMES the change of name is a deliberate act, generally arising out of vanity. So it was with a certain young gentleman who started life as plain George Bubb, an Irish apothecary's son. In 1720 he came into a little fortune from an uncle and at once decided to provide himself with a finer-sounding name. He chose Dodington. From that moment there was no stopping him. He found himself elected to Parliament, sat for many years for Bridgewater and eventually won the friendship and support of the Prince of Wales. At his death his name had undergone a further change. He was Baron Melcombe. Canada has her own hero of this sort, a man who was in the news quite recently. Bill Smith, founder of the "Victoria Colonist", was far too exotic a character to go through life with the name that Fate had casually thrown to him. His choice for a new one was a marvel of polyglot invention: Amor de Cosmos—"Love of the World". It was also a curious choice for a man who spent a large part of his life in good hearty hatred. But it served him well, for he too found his way into high political places, finishing up with Premiership of British Columbia.

THE aberrations that parents are capable of in choosing a name for their children include such monsterpieces as: Mahershalalhashbaz Bradford (it is Hebrew for "the spoil hastens"); Vaccina Turton, so called because her father was a fanatical disciple of Jenner; Enecha which is an arbitrary female form from Enoch; Emorb which is the parental surname Brome backwards, and Ronaele which you can work out for yourself. If none of these satisfy you I would like to suggest one more: "Parmanda". These three syllables, you will surely agree, suggest a fine blending of Paula, Charm and Amanda. But that is not their origin; for this you must go back to the early history of Montreal as recorded by Dollier de Casson. There you will read how a certain Goodwife Primot "was attacked by a savage and knocked down. She came to and caught hold of the monster so forcibly by a place which modesty forbids us to mention that he could not free himself. The savage beat her with his hatchet until she again fell unconscious, and he then escaped. Rescuing Frenchmen came up and one of them embraced her in token of compassion and affection. She, coming round and feeling herself embraced delivered a heavy blow. "What ere you doing?" they asked. "This man but wished to show his friendly feelings." "Parmanda" she answered in her patois, "I thought he wanted to kiss me!"

Not Always Profit

Socialists keep harping on private enterprise as being a "profit" system. Actually it is a profit-and-loss system. Despite the fact that we are in a period of prosperity, not all business establishments are making money. Quite a number in the retail, wholesale and the manufacturing field have wound up in bankruptcy in 1948.

An article in the Financial Post points out that Canadian business piled up liabilities of $11,755,000 in unsuccessful private enterprise in 1948.

The 493 establishments failing to survive the year exceeded the previous year's failure rate by some 62 per cent., and the first post-war year 1946 by 162 per cent.

Here is a 10-year record of business failures which illustrate consistent growth since the war ended:

Year	No.	Liabilities
1948	493	$11,755,000
1947	304	7,228,000
1946	130	4,003,000
1945	95	2,305,000
1944	96	2,119,000
1943	186	3,634,000
1942	609	7,344,000
1941	882	6,959,000
1940	1,158	9,578,000
1939	1,299	11,635,000

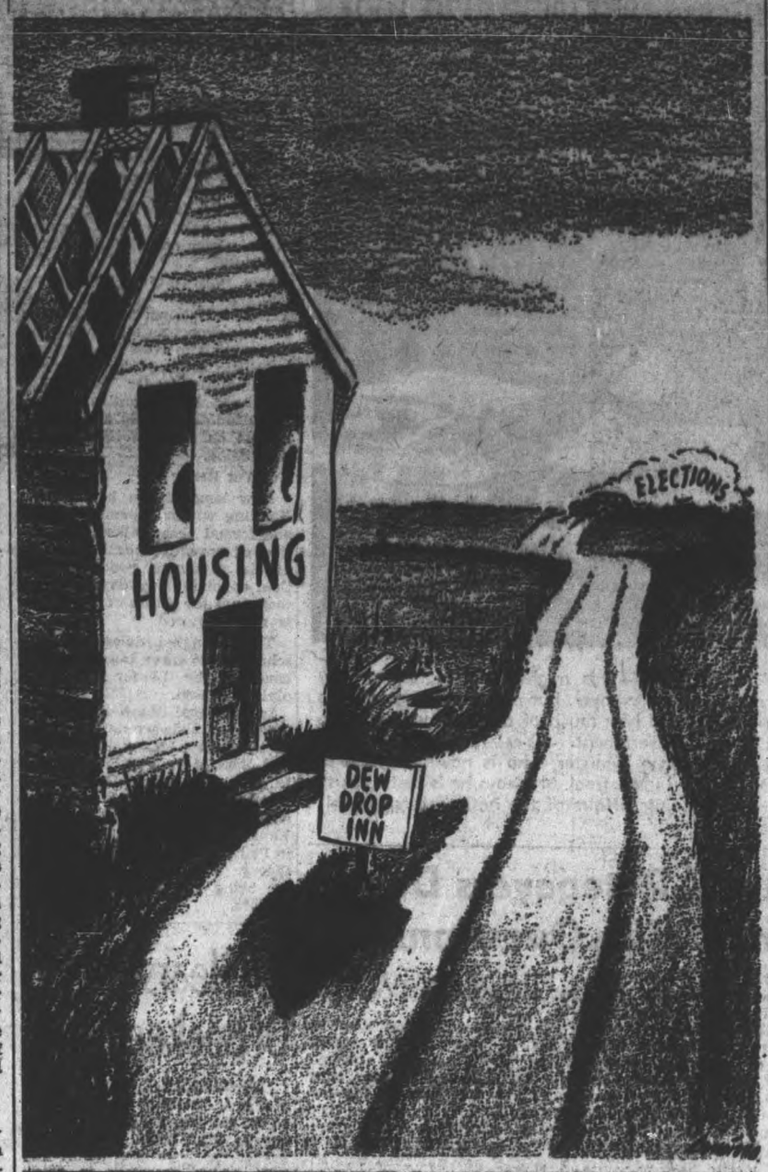
THE HOUSE BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD



Letters To The Editor

SHORT HOURS A POOR FOUNDATION

Sir: I have been very interested in the by-laws of the city for many years. Many of them, people try to keep, but there are others very few ever try to keep. This gasoline one is what annoys me.

Do those well established garage men, who were the instigators of the law, forget that their fathers or perhaps grandfathers worked hard and long hours to get a start?

Now, why should they want to deprive a young man full of vim and zeal for his business, and, by the way, his wife and family, the same chance of getting ahead? I don't think you will find a well established store or garage anywhere built on such short hours as are being inflicted by the old garage operators.

Thank you for permission to get this off my chest.

Yours truly,
WILFRED BOORMAN.

SPORTS ENTHUSIAST

Sir: I am writing these few lines to thank the splendid people in charge and responsible for the three minor hockey league games played against the three Lindsay teams here at the new Civic Arena on Tuesday night, Feb. 1st; the whole affair was run off in a smart, thoughtful and clever manner.

The three local teams are big, fast and well-coached. You hockey fans that crave action should get out and look those boys over. They dish up loads of action, colour and smart hockey. They are in splendid shape and play for keeps.

The referee L. Ebert and linesman Giardino, handled the teams in a very smart and efficient manner, and kept the play clean; only one fight, and it was a dandy while it lasted; you fight fans should have seen it.

I noticed lately that some of the public are doing a lot of hollering about the boys fighting; they blame the boys for it. I can't agree with that vein, if there is any wrong, I would put the blame on the people or promoters who make the rules that govern the play. The game has changed greatly by these rules and lines and have lost a great deal from what the game used to be.

I liked Legion Trojans style of play. They combine much of the old system with the new form. They hold their positions and break two and three together in combination plays, that is the difference between them and their opponents. The Lindsay team played as individuals. Both teams are big and fast, it is hard to believe that they are juvenile. Most of them seemed over 6 feet tall and big accordingly.

The last game finished around midnight, I stayed till the last whistle blew and enjoyed it all. Nice sized crowd and thousands of kids or youngsters, thousands of them, they were full of pep. They seemed to be everywhere and were having a great time; they were mixing it up in the open space in the rear, just taking the odd quick glace at the game when the applause got extra loud.

I liked the way Mr. Fred Maybee reported the game, he mentioned the names of the managers and promoters of the different teams, also the referee and linesman, and coaches. They are the men that count, they put a lot of time and work into the game, sometimes it seems to be a thankless job.

It was nice to have the buses waiting out there when the games were over. Very thoughtful as I live about three miles from the rink and figured I would have to walk home. For this service I would like to say thank you, and here's hoping that the three teams comes through victorious in their games in Lindsay.

Mr. Editor, you can do with this letter as you see fit; if you don't think it is worth publishing, just throw it in the wastepaper basket, as there are a few of the impressions I got out of the game all for 25 cents.

Sincerely yours,
A.J.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And they bring unto him one that was deaf, and had an impediment in his speech; and they beseech him to put his hand upon him .....And looking up to heaven, he signed, and saith unto him, Ephphatha, that is, Be opened. And straightway his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he spake plain. (Mark 7: 32, 34, 35.)

And it came to pass, that as he was come nigh unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the way side begging: and hearing the multitude pass by, he asked what it meant. And they told him, that Jesus of Nazareth passeth by. And he cried, saying, Jesus, thou son of David, have mercy on me....

And Jesus stood, and commanded him to be brought unto him: and when he was come near, he asked him, saying, What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight.

And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight: thy faith hath saved thee. And immediately he received his sight, and followed him, glorifying God: and all thy people, when they saw it, gave praise unto God. (Luke 18: 35-38, 40-43.)

Mr. Rockefeller At 75

New York Times: There are many things that a rich man's son can do. One of the hardest must be to accept the grave responsibilities that great wealth imposes on a man of conscience. We believe that Mr. John D. Rockefeller Jr. has borne his responsibilities as custodian of one of America's great fortunes beyond reproach. The key to this record has been that he always considered himself just that, the custodian of money, not its owner.

A quiet man who dislikes the spotlight, he has not hesitated to step into it when it was necessary to do something that he thought needed doing. He never accepted a chairmanship or a post at which he did not work to the limit of his time and of his ability. None were taken just for the honour. He always gave more than money. He gave also of himself.

On his seventy-fifth birthday we are glad to pay this tribute to a great citizen, of this city, this state, this nation and our world. We hope he will be with us for many more such anniversaries.

WA Meets

MILLBROOK, Feb. 9 (ENS)—Mrs. F. P. Stinson, St. Andrew's Women's Association vice-president, was hostess for the February meeting at her home. Mrs. G. McQuade led the opening devotions. Mrs. J. H. Barringer was at the piano, and secretary Mrs. Lawrence Winslow called the roll, received the fees, and contributions to the Mile of Coppers. Mrs. Stinson took the chair in the absence of the president, Mrs. A. R. Payne, who is spending two months in Florida.

The hostess served lunch. Next meeting will be at Mrs. H. R. Edmund's home.

Norwood Took First Name From Col. Keeler

NORWOOD, Feb. 9—(ENS)—The History of Norwood was the subject of an address by G. A. Brethen to the Women's Institute on Friday. First known as Keeler's Mill, the village was given its name from a small mill belonging to Col. Keeler of Colborne and was later named North Woods which soon became Norwood.

Mr. Brethen told of the church life of the early community and said there were more people living on the 8th line in 1891 than at any time since. There were the Nichols, Kemps, McMillans, McLeans, Gardners, Burgess and Bannons. William McMillan had led the singing in the Presbyterian church on 8th Line for many years.

An old frame building was the first United Church in Norwood situated on the corner of Ridge St. and Mr. Brethen recalled that the cornerstone of the present church was laid on May 24 approximately 63 years ago. He thought the Roman Catholic Church had been built between 70 and 80 years ago. He also told some amusing incidents about the life of the late Father Kelly, a much loved parish priest there for many years, and also of Father Conway.

Mr. Brethen recalled that at one time students came to Norwood from Peterborough Collegiate to finish their teachers' course. The Model School was on the Grover Estate near the site of the present Presbyterian Church.

At the early fairs in Norwood Colonel Birdsall had been a prominent figure. At that time the horse races were run on Queen Street. There were two swimming holes popular in the old days. One was the big pond on the east side at the foot of Deane MacNaughton's Hill and the other a few hundred yards south of Highway 7, behind Turner's Service Station at west end of the village, is still used.

There was plenty of work in Norwood in the early days. A carding mill, grist mill, sash and door factory, Plant's Foundry, a cheese factory, and the Findlay factory were thriving industries. Fire had destroyed most of these places.

Mr. Brethen had been invited to the meeting by Mrs. G. R. Baker, historical research convener.

During the business session, tentative arrangements were made for an entertainment to be brought to the village in an effort to raise funds for the Pee-Wee League for much-needed sweaters. The children take their hockey seriously, and it is difficult to tell which boy is offside when all are dressed alike.

Four sets of 12 sweaters of various sizes are needed for the Black Hawks, Maple Leafs, Red Wings, and Rangers. It is to be hoped these teams can be outfitted before the playoffs. Mrs. L. H. Edmunds and Mrs. L. Burt were put in charge of this project.

Cards of thanks were read from recipients of boxes, and verbal thanks from the president for flowers sent to Mrs. John Gardner. A note and donation were also received from Mrs. H. J. Ford, a valued member who has been missed at the last two meetings. Hostesses Mrs. F. Gardner, Mrs. Harry Rogers, Miss M. A. Carter, and Mrs. A. Gill served tea.

Came To Havelock In 1895 Celebrated 80th Birthday

HAVELOCK, Feb. 9—(ENS)—One of Havelock's oldest residents, Edward Fennell celebrated his 80th birthday this week.

Mr. Fennell came to Havelock in March 1895 and with his father the late John Fennell of Napanee, opened a retail boot and shoe business which included a repair department, in the old Jeff block. The partnership continued until 1901 when Mr. Fennell's father returned to Napanee. Mr. Fennell then moved his stock to the Knox block on George Street where the Bank of Toronto is now situated. After it was destroyed by fire in 1918 he continued the boot and shoe business, adding groceries to his stock, in the cement block now occupied by Sanderson's Hardware.

Changes Business

In 1921 he decided to devote his time to insurance and disposed of his stock of boots and shoes to Mike Isaac and the groceries to W. A. McMaster and opened an insurance office at his home. This he operated until 1946, when he sold the business to Reeve E. J. Leeson.

As well as being prominently connected with the business life of the village, he has served the community in many other capacities. He has been Clerk of the Fifth Division Court of the County of Peterborough, local manager of Bell Telephone Company, and with CPR Commercial Telegraph and Belmont Egg Circle.

A leading member of the United Church, he has served for many years on the Session, Official Board and in the Sunday School as superintendent and teacher. At present he is an honorary member of Session.

Likes Gardening

Mr. Fennell is enjoying good health and his hobby is his garden, especially the flower section.

Mr. Fennell has two sons, Denike of the Collegiate Institute Staff at Timmins and Vanalstyne of the Registrar's Office of the University of Toronto; two daughters Mrs. J. Keefer (Helen) of Toronto and Mrs. Kenneth Kemp (Barbara) of Peterborough.

Mr. Fennell's brother, Arthur B. Fennell of Toronto, who retired at the beginning of this year as Registrar of the University of Toronto was in Havelock to celebrate the birthday.

MPS' SPECIAL—Anyone can travel on it but they call the 11.30 p.m. Friday night train out of Ottawa for Montreal the MPs' Special since so many Quebec Members of Parliament use it to go home between week-long sessions. It was arranged especially for them by the railroad. Shown boarding the train, left to right, are: Fred Whitman (L-Mount Royal); Ludger Dionne (L-Beauce); and Philippe Picard (L-Bellechasse). The trainman is William Bangs.

ALL QUIET ON THE AVON — This snow-shrouded cannon is no defence weapon although it is mounted to guard stone ramparts. It is one of the ancient guns from the Crimean war around which generations of Stratford, Ont., children have played. Its harmless muzzle points to the Avon river, beauty centre of the city.

Hitler's Chancellery Destroyed By Blasts

BERLIN, Feb. 9—(Reuters)—Hitler's Chancellery, which took two years to build, was almost completely destroyed in two minutes this morning by a series of small, powerful explosions.

But the massive outer walls are still standing and the balcony, from which Hitler addressed huge Nazi party rallies, is still intact.

The dust had scarcely settled after the explosions when gangs of rubble-clearers, men and women, entered the Chancellery and collected all dislodged black marble slabs.

These were loaded on to trucks and taken to the Russian cemetery at Treptow, on the outskirts of the city, where they will be used to build a new monument to Soviet soldiers who lost their lives in the battle of Berlin.

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 9—(CP)—Notice of admission of Arthur Hooey to the Ontario mental hospital at Penetang has been received by City Clerk Alan S. Stewart. The 23-year-old Hooey was convicted here last November of manslaughter in the fatal stabbing a year ago of Allan Crowe, 23, of Owen Sound.

Hooey was sentenced to five years in Kingston penitentiary. Prison psychiatrists found him a victim of dementia praecox and had him transferred to the mental institution.

Originally charged with murder, Hooey, was convicted on the lesser count.

BEATS SHOVELLING—This railway rotary plow is a good deal more substantial than a snow shovel when it comes to clearing drifts. Shown in action, the plow is clearing the rail line running through a dozen or more South-western Manitoba towns and villages which were snowbound in late January and early February. Some of the drifts it bucked were 12 feet deep.

Oddfellows Take 9-3 Win Against Lindsay Mustangs

Turning in a top puck performance in Lindsay last night, the Triple Links tripled the count in a 9-3 victory over Lindsay Mustangs in their OHA Junior "B" clash. Putting on the pressure from the start, they swept to a 5-2 lead in the first period and had it 8-2 entering the third. It was a fast fray, fairly clean despite 21 penalties—11 to the Weir squad—mostly for minor infractions. The same teams meet here Friday night.

Tom Birch, with four points, and Chum Fryia and Skeeter O'Heron, with three each, led the attack, though others like Bill Berwick, Floyd, Wyatt and Truss were prominent, too. The winners' defence checked well, and Byers turned in a fine effort in goal this game. Parker, Dysart and Green were the pick of the losers.

Two Quickies

Two goals were tallied in the first half minute, O'Heron slapping in Birch's forward pass in 21 seconds, and Crawford getting it right back on a pass from Parker at close range. A Truss-Crowley rush nearly paid off, and, with Jenkins away for hooking, Fryia scored on a power play for the Oddfellows. Debois was robbed and Lindsay pressed with Birch off for high-sticking. Fryia ragged it well till the sides were even. Green got it next for tripping, followed by Floyd for tripping. Fryia scored on a break-away. Wyatt went over for cross-checking and Floyd scored on neat combination inside with Birch. With all back again, Bill Berwick's hot angle shot beat the goalie, but Dysart got that one back from Parker at close range. Birch went away for charging, and Green for tripping.

Early in the second heat, Bill Berwick counted on a power play. Anderson was gated for tripping but returned, and Colling and Floyd pulled a fine rush. Dysart tested Byers and they pressed hard with Hennesy off for tripping. Karrys was thetted later and a dash in by Birch and O'Heron nearly rang the bell. Birch then scored on a hard drive from the side after a pass from O'Heron. This pair and Wyatt added one more late in the frame, Birch sinking it.

Sin Bin Busy

Fryia was waved away for roughing to open the third, but was back when Hennessy got one for boarding. Parker followed for tripping as play got a bit rougher. Hennessy was no sooner back than he drew the finger again for charging and the Oddfellows did everything but score. With all back, Dysart came close. Floyd and Lewis were penalized for roughting and Fryia took a pass from Truss and went up fast alone to park the cookie neatly. Miller and Karrys got it next for roughing slightly and Bill Berwick went over for tripping. They were shorthanded when Jenkins got the last goal on fast combination with McPhee. All were back briefly till Anderson was chased for tripping and Byers had to hop to rob Parker. Hennessy drew another for tripping and Wyatt followed for slashing near the close.

Clapper's Take A Goal Edge Over Belleville

Dit Clapper's Midgets met and defeated Belleville Gunners at Civic Arena last night 4-3 in the second round of the OMHA playoffs. The return game is in Belleville Thursday, with goals to count on the round.

Scoring two goals in the fast third period after outplaying their rivals by quite a margin in the first two, although outscored 3-2, the local boys edged the Quinte lads in the final summary with the finest display of hockey for its class seen here this season. Prior to this meeting, Belleville had won six including four shutouts and had scored 62 goals as against four by the opposition, to win their group easily.

Play started fast in the first with odds fairly even. Carey first scored for the visitors on a pass from Barrett. Seconds later, Pete Green made it 2-0 on a solo rush to beat Curtis. Peterborough held on however and began to check more effectively and combine better on the attack. Jack Kimball potted a beauty near the end of the first from just inside the blue line on a pass out, after a face off. Each team counted in the second and Sullivan, who led both teams with two goals, added one at the start of the third from Mongraw. The latter tallied the best goal of the night, the winner, on a great solo rush down right wing to out-fox Green and Milligan and bat a hot one past Don Barclay. It was a clean, fast, hard fought game and every one of the local Midgets shone in a fine victory.

First Period:

Belleville — Carey (Barrett) 10.05.

Belleville—P. Green, 11.00.

Peterborough—Kimball, 18.00.

No Penalties.

Second Period:

Peterborough—Sullivan, 13.00.

Penalties: Barrett.

Third Period:

Peterborough—Sullivan (Mongraw) 1.00.

Peterborough—McGraw, 11.10.

Peterborough—Goal, Curtis; defence, Reynolds, Kimball; centre, Mongrau; wings, Sullivan, Stewart; alternates, Pammett, Scriver, Murdock, Woods, Floyd, Fergus, Seabrook.

Stukus May Coach Edmonton Eskimos

TORONTO, Feb. 9—(CP)—Annis Stukus, former football star, may be asked to coach Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Interprovincial Rugby Football Union next season.

Stukus, Toronto sports writer, admitted last night in comment on an Edmonton dispatch, that he would confer with an official of the Edmonton Club here "within a couple of weeks."

"I don't know what they have to offer and I haven't really had an offer from the club itself," Stukus said. "I first heard about it from a friend in Edmonton."

King Edward Victors

King Edward boys were victors 10-4 when they played a postponed game against King George team at King Edward Park yesterday afternoon. The King George team had no alternates and, when their players tired, King Edward lads pressed their advantage to run up a high score. King George boys opened the scoring and held the lead to the end of the first period 3-2. The second period ended 6-3 for King Edward and in the last period King Edward boys added four more to their count and King George one. It was a hard clean game, with King George boys giving a good account of themselves. Withers looked best for King George, while Buchan turned in a fine performance for King Edward.

The teams

K.E.—Goal, G. Stuart; forwards, M. Buchan, L. Ball, R. Hobart; defence, J. Hobart, R. Killingbeck; alternates, H. Mullen, J. Frizzelle D. Whatley, C. Chalmers, R Bryan, V. Peters.

K.G.—Goal, R. Harvey; forwards, D. Crowder R. Withers, P Harding; defence, T. Johnson, D. Dubay.

Referee—Mr. Corbett.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Mr. Christopher Roland (Joe) North of Victoria, B.C., is a frustrated fan. He was refused admission to the Victoria ball park because of his terrific "Bronx cheer", which irked the club management no end. So, North sues the club and the latter's lawyers argued that he was obnoxious and gave too frequent renditions of his Bronx cheer. The court recently upheld the ball club when the park management refunded the remaining amount on his season ticket. This came to $96.80. By a strange co-incidence, this was the exact amount asked by Mr. Justice H. S. Wood to turn over to the club for court costs. So, Mr. North is out of the park and out his $96.80.

* * * * * *

Our sympathy lies with Joe and his Bronx cheer. Ball managers and players should not wear rabbit's ears—they should listen to naught but the musical chimes of the cash register. A paid fan ought to Bronx cheer to his heart's delight without court action. A Bronx cheer is admitted a nasty nasal sound, like a ton of gravel rolling rapidly down a giant washboard. It is the old-fashioned raspberry with sour cream. Nevertheless, freedom of speech (and cheers, Bronx or the more genteel type) should be guaranteed paid-up ball fans in this fair—or is it?—country. Don't you agree?

Tut, Tut, So Soon?

The red, red robin will soon be bob, bob, bobbin' along. Or so it would seem, as the OASA has blossomed out with its No. 1 bulletin of 1949. Here are the categories and fees: Sr. "A", over 100,000 pop., $25; Sr. "B", 30,000 to 100,000, $15; Int. "A", 10,000 to 30,000, $10; Int. "AA", ditto; Int. "B", 3,500 to 10,000, $10; junior "A", over 10,000; junior "B", under 10,000; same with juvenile "A" and "B"; midget, open, under 16 years; bantam, open, under 14 years—all these latter ones for $5.

Feeling is running real high now betwixt Legion and Petes. The latter recently asked Legion to release Don Coughlin to 'em, but the request was turned down. Now, we hear the Petes plan to lodge a protest to the OHA against Legion for playing Al Burns — claiming he played some games in December for Akron, which loop is affiliated with the CAHA. 'Tis feared the virtue of brotherly love will not be strained unduly in future dealings betwixt these two clubs. As they clash tonight in Civic Arena in a senior "B" fixture, don't be too surprised if blood spots appear on the moon before 11 p.m.

Another In The Bag

Archie Weir's junior "B" Oddfellows looked impressive in their 9-3 victory at Lindsay last eve. Hustled all the way in a speedy joust with all the forwards toiling hard, the defencemen on their toes and Goalie Byers solid between the pipes. Spinning Tommy Birch—Lakefield product—led the snipers with four points, while Chum Fryia stickhandled his way to three, and Skeets O'Heron pocketed three. Bill Berwick moved up from defence to a wing spot and did an okay job. Team as a whole clicked well, and they hope to do a repeat job. Team as a whole clicked well, and they hope to do a repeat act here Friday 'gainst Lindsay. Lot of penalties but it was generally clean till out in the third heat.

Down at Civic Arena last night, Doug Mortimer's midget Clapper's crew yanked out a 4-3 verdict o'er a strong Belleville squad. First of their two-game goals to count OMHA playdown series, next one being on Quinte ice tomorrow. The local lads had an edge on play but had to outscore their rivals in the third to get the decision in a good game. Our bantam Marines and juvenile Trojans hit into their second OMHA rounds here tomorrow p.m. against Port Hope opposition, first fray being the bantam one at seven bells. These boys are doing all right so far in provincial puck playdowns and deserve more fan support.

Planning To Unveil Statue Of Jockey

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 9—(AP)—There will be something on the sentimental side at Santa Anita Race Track tomorrow at noon, when the statue of a famous jockey will be unveiled at a public ceremony.

Cast life-size in bronze, it stands on a marble base in the centre of the flower-bordered walking ring. The figure faces toward the statue of one of the finest thoroughbred race horses of all time.

Woolf, a native of Calgary, was the leading United States stakes rider in 1942 and again in 1944. He was fatally injured in a spill during a race at Santa Anita Jan. 3, 1946.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The West Indies Tuesday were declared winners of the cricket test series against India.

The West Indian eleven managed to hold the Indian team to a draw in the fifth and final match. The West Indies were winners of the only test which ended in a definite result.

India failed by six runs to force a victory in the final test.

Tommy Gorman, president of the Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, at Sherbrooke Tuesday gave new details concerning his project for a Quebec-Ontario Hockey League that would replace the present Quebec senior loop.

In an interview Gorman said that the proposed league would be of senior calibre, and not a semi-professional loop.

Nine cities would be represented in the circuit, four from Ontario and five from Quebec. They would be Ottawa, Hamilton, Toronto, London, Montreal, Sherbrooke, Valleyfield, Quebec and Shawinigan Falls.

Pitcher Bob Feller made his pay cut official Tuesday by signing to play with the world-champion Cleveland Indians for his 11th season.

Feller flew his plane from New Jersey to Cleveland and took only 20 minutes to get through the formal business of inking his 1949 contract.

About two weeks ago, the fastball pitcher refused to sign because he found the terms set forth a little stiff. But he didn't let his boss, Bill Veeck, down.

Veeck was asked whether Feller took a pay cut. His answer: "Yes, a substantial one."

Although Joe DiMaggio's new $90,000 contract tops Babe Ruth's best salary by $10,000, the New York Yankee star outfielder's take-home pay will be just a little more than half of what the Babe netted in 1930 and 1931, after taxes.

Based on pay of $90,000, and allowing customary deductions, the government will take exactly $49,939.36 from DiMaggio's 1949 earnings in income tax. That leaves Joe with only $40,063.64.

On the other hand, based on 1930 and '31 tax reductions, Ruth gave the government only $10,513, which still left him $69,487.

Sudbury Wolves, Canada's entry in the world hockey championships to be played later this month, at Stockholm Tuesday defeated the Swedish Norrkoeping team 4-0.

The Canadians scored one goal in the second period and garnered the rest in the final stanza.

Three Guelph rinks were setting the pace as play progressed in the second round of the Guelph Curling Club's two-day Colts' Bonspiel for the F. R. Ramsey trophy.

Charlie Palmer skipped his Guelph rink to a 16-5 victory Tuesday night over L. Wilson of Hamilton. L. Henry led his rink to a 12-6 win over Pickett of Hamilton and L. Thompson beat Fulton of Toronto 14-10.

Leafs And Habs Tangle In Crucial Game

By The Canadian Press

Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs meet tonight in the most crucial of three National Hockey League games scheduled.

The floundering Montrealers, winless in their last five outings, hold a one point lead over the Leafs for third place as the teams move into the Queen City. In two other league fixtures the cellar-dwelling Chicago Black Hawks collide with Boston Bruins while the league-leading Detroit Red Wings tangle with New York at Detroit

The Montreal camp reports that veteran Murph Chamberlain will be back in action, but little Norm Dussault will be sidelined with a sprained ankle. The fleet-footed winger suffered his injury at Montreal Thursday when he was on the receiving end of a stiff bodycheck from Toronto's Bill Barilko. The Canucks don't hope to have him back in the line-up before Sunday night when they clash with Hawks.

It was first reported that Chamberlain suffered a dislocated shoulder against Detroit Sunday night, but medical examination revealed that his injury was limited to a bruised shoulder.

The Canucks will also be minus rearguard Kenny Reardon, who is expected to be out of action for five weeks with a separated shoulder.

Detroit with a 12-point margin over the Bruins are expected to come through with a victory over the New Yorkers despite the 5-1 trouncing they received from Rangers the last time they met at the motor hub.

ERNIE McCULLOUGH had the Totem Club officials raising their eyebrows with his dazzling speed over the Mont Baldy slalom course in the Laurentians recently. The Mont Tremblant, Que., ace won the open class combined Laurentian championship and was the fastest man on the hillside among nearly 60 competitors.

Spitfires Wallop Rockets 12-5

By The Canadian Press

Windsor Spitfires have two brother combinations that'll be tough to beat in the post-season playoffs.

Last night the Spitfires walloped the hapless Galt Rockets 12-5 in Galt in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A tilt, and the backbone of the victory was a steady performance by brothers Larry and Johnny Wilson and Bert and Bruce Giesebrecht.

Johnny sniped four goals and led the Spitfires to their 31st win in 41 games. It gave them a 10-point margin over the second-place Barrie Flyers. Bert came next with three goals while Larry and Bruce each netted two.

Bert's three goals ran his individual scoring leadership total to 86—two more than brother Bruce, in second place.

The Spitfires drove into a 7-3 lead in the first period, held a 7-4 margin at the end of the second and then outscored Rockets 5-1 in the third. Jimmy Maxwell got the other Windsor goal. Pete Tkachuk, Bruno Norvah and Joe Kilby tallied for Galt.

The game was marred by 20 penalties, including four majors. Windsor Flyers drew 12 of the sentences.

Hughes Get Win

Huskies' Behaviour Investigated By ORHA

WELLAND, Feb. 9—(CP)—The Ontario Rural Hockey Association has extended the deadline for declaration of league winners from Feb. 15 to Feb. 22, Secretary H. D. Ovenden said today.

It was announced that the language and behavior of the Haliburton Huskies in a game at Kinmount Jan. 29 was being investigated by the Association, which also upheld the indefinite suspension of K. Gimbel from the South Waterloo League for his attack on Referee Coogy Eby at Hespeler.

The Association completed the following League classifications:

Intermediate A — Bolton, Thistledown, Plattsville, Crumlin, Dorchester, Kintore, Thamesford, Belmont, Otterville, Beeton, Cannington, Beaverton, Woodville, Oakwood, Little Britain, Sunderland, Brooklyn, Omemee, Dutton, West Lorne, Rodney, Breslau Red Shirts, Princeton, Kinmount, Haliburton, Mount Pleasant, Drumbo, Dain City, Wainfleet.

Marmora Scores 144 In 13 TVL Contests

MARMORA, Feb. 9—(ENS)—With the Trent Valley League schedule almost run out, it is interesting to note that the Marmora team has compiled quite a goal scoring record this season. In the 13 games in which they have taken part, they scored 144 goals against 35 registered by their opponents. In this scoring, the second line has made its own contribution. While the Redmen are thus far undefeated, Frankford has been the team to have the sole drawn game with them in what incidentally was Marmora's lowest scoring game, each side only counting once. Frankford visits Marmora on Friday for the latter's last home game and will furnish such opposition as should draw another good crowd of fans.

Winter in the Woods

Canadian lumberjacks are setting an all-time record in winter logging operations as world paper demands rocket to new highs. High-speed mechanical logging operations are currently being given a tryout for the first time and have speeded up production 500% over the old, hard methods. Above, the "faller" cuts the trees with gas-powered saw.

Down comes a Jack pine! It will be cut up into six-foot lengths and hauled off to frozen rivers, to float downstream to the paper mills when the spring thaws come. Sky lines, tractors, mechanical slashers, automatic truck-loaders and gasoline saws are being employed in this section of Ontario where 40,000 men are soon to wind up one of their toughest winters.

This mid-winter scene, taken near Stevens, Ont., shows some of the snow-blanketed thousands of cords of pulp logs ready to be hauled to lakes and rivers. "Fallers" work hip-deep in snow, cutting trees on a piece work basis and earning from ten to fifteen dollars a day. Logs are stacked in cords, set well apart, in order to facilitate handling in the truck-loading stage.

A mechanical slasher, or buzz-saw, to use the colloquial term, is shown at work as it cuts logs into six-foot lengths and then conveys them on to trucks in the background. Trucks then haul the logs to the banks of frozen rivers and lakes which, when thawed in the spring, will carry the logs 100 miles downstream to mills. Come the thaw, millions of logs will find their way into the grinders of the pulp and paper mills across the country.

Capacity Audience Applauds Music Of Child Pianist

More than 800 people packed the Collegiate auditorium until there was standing room only, to hear Toronto's 11-year-old concert pianist Patsy Parr give a recital on Tuesday.

Enthusiasm for this prodigy was to be expected after the sensation she has caused as piano soloist with the Toronto Symphony and Philharmonic orchestras and as an acclaimed soloist in the States. On Tuesday she proved to those who had not had an opportunity of hearing her before, that her reputation was based on something far more stable than some of the sceptics may have imagined.

Patsy Parr has not only mastered the technical skill of a concert pianist but she has a musical maturity far beyond her years. Her recital was no mere display of exactitude and a retentive memory, which, in themselves, were remarkable in such a youngster. She can play a Chopin Impromptu or a modern Debussy composition with as much expression as many adult concert pianists.

The recital included no less than 16 items and there was a pleasing absence of hackneied tunes which invariably mar the programs of less competent artists.

It would be foolish to suggest that Patsy already ranks among the world's leading pianists but she is far above the first rung of the ladder. The time will come when she will no longer have the attraction of extreme youth to draw curious spectators but the evidence appears to be all on her side that she will then be acclaimed purely on musical merit.

Four of the items played by Patsy were her own compositions, one of which was a sonata.

The recital was arranged by Peterborough branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association.

Hungary Dislikes Trial Reaction

BUDAPEST, eFb. 9 (AP). — A Foreign Ministry spokesman Tuesday told correspondents who covered the Mindszenty trial their reports had been objective, but were "misunderstood by those who did not believe what you saw with your own eyes."

The spokesman said demonstrations in the United States and Britain "clearly show that the people abroad took no notice of the reports you sent from here."

The spokesman said he wanted to discuss the political background of the case as the legal basis of the verdict, although he stressed there were "no political motives" in passing the sentences.

He made these assertions:

1—The question of religion was not discussed in any respect during the trial.

2—The fact that Cardinal Mindszenty was a Royalist meant he aimed to abolish the results of democracy. (In Communist terminology the Communist state is considered a democracy.)

3—"Imperialists" abroad attempted to make the Cardinal a hero of free speech and human liberty.

4—The action of Selden Chapin United States Minister to Hungary, made the Cardinal believe the Americans would soon interfere in Hungary's internal affairs and that the Cardinal would soon assume the role of the Patriarch of Athens. (Chapin has described charges that he influenced the Cardinal as "nonsense and pure fantasy.")

Highway Crash Last August Brings Claim For Damages

Evidence for the plaintiff was heard in County Court on Tuesday in a suit for damages by Donald H. Lawson, Mount Pleasant, against James Finlay Clark, also of Mount Pleasant. The action arose out of a car accident on a County Road in North Monaghan, between Concessions 12 and 13, August 11, 1948.

A counter suit was laid by Clark.

Both cars approached a small cement bridge on the road and the collision occurred at the east end of the bridge. The plaintiff claimed that the fault lay with Clark who crossed the 30-foot structure travelling east at a high speed. He said also hat he had pulled well over on the north side of the road to allow the defendant to pass, but the latter struck him on the left front fender forcing his car into the north-east pillar of the bridge.

Lawson said he was travelling west at about 35 miles an hour and was 300 feet from the bridge when he saw Clark coming east at approximately 50 miles an hour and 900 feet away from the bridge.

T. J. Carley, KC, who represented the defendant, asked: "Isn't it a fact that you hit the bridge before Mr. Clark hit you?"

"No," was the reply.

Defendant's solicitor contended that the Lawson car struck the north-east corner of the bridge and as a result of the impact the rear end swung around onto the travelled portion of the road.

CGE Workers

Three passengers in Lawson's car took the stand as witnesses. They were William Walker, Donald Fee, Ira Althouse, all CGE workers and residents of Mount Pleasant, and Florence M. Lawson, sister of the plaintiff.

Walker testified that the defendant drove over the bridge without slackening speed, that the plaintiff had pulled over completely off the travelled portion of road, and that the oncoming car struck the Lawson car knocking it into the bridge.

He said that Clark's vehicle scraped Lawson's running board and smashed in the left rear fender.

Under cross - examination by Mr. Carley, the next witness, Fee, stated he did not know which impact came first—that of the defendant's car or that of the bridge. Althouse later took the stand and said he too did not know which came first.

Miss Lawson corroborated the evidence of her brother and that of Walker, contending that the initial blow came from the car.

All four of the plaintiff's witnesses agreed that the car in which they had been riding pulled well over to the north side of the entrance to the bridge leaving room for Clark to get by. Speed of their vehicle was estimated by Walker to be about three miles an hour at the time of the impact.

In his claim Lawson asked for cost of repairs, reimbursement for loss of use of his car for seven weeks as well as costs of the action. He was represented by W. J. Arthur Fair, KC.

When the case was adjourned at the end of the day there was still one more witness for the plaintiff to be heard. Judge Smoke adjourned the case to March 8.

Tries To Escape

QUEBEC, Feb. 9—(CP)—Paul Andre Dion, of Montreal, broke away from two Provincial Police guards in court Tuesday after the Court of Appeals rejected his demand for a new trial and ordered him to begin serving a 14-year sentence. Dion was caught in a minute at the top of a flight of stairs by other court house guards. Dion was convicted of a holdup at the Caisse Populaire of the Parish of the Holy Martyrs.

Transportation Problem In London Growing Acute

BY STUART UNDERHILL

LONDON, Feb. 9 (CP)—London's transportation problem has become so acute government spokemen don't attempt to apologize for it.

When members of Parliament complained about the poor train service to the northen suburbs, L. J. Callaghan, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Transport, said he didn't have to be told about such things.

"I live in southern London and sometimes travel on a workman's carriage. You have to stand on someone else's toes the whole way," he told the House of Commons.

Callaghan said London had outstripped its traffic capacity and he couldn't promise any improvement. Buses weren't much help, because they simply made surface traffic more congested. Anyway, only a few were available because of the heavy export demand.

He said the subway was an ideal solution for handling traffic, but it now cost £1,500,000 ($6,000,000) a mile, which meant that building 10 or 15 miles was a major project. It would cost "scores of millions of pounds" to ensure that people could travel in comfort.

Ernest Davis, Labor member for Enfield, in northeast London, said he and his neighbors had to travel in railway coaches 50 years old.

"The stations are, without exception, extremely dilapidated. It may be interesting historically to travel on this line because it's like paying a visit to a railway museum, but it is nauseating."

Two Children Scarred By Knife-Wielder

MONTREAL, Feb. 9.—(CP). — Police Tuesday night sought a mysterious, knife-wielding, child-scaring stranger in the usually quiet municipality of Rosemount in the northeastern section of Montreal.

Their vigilance followed the second attack within 10 days on a child of school age which left many parents terrified and induced them to safeguard their children by accompanying them to school.

"The man in the black car is not going to get a chance to strike again," declared one parent, grimly.

Police withheld the name of the second victim, a 12-year-old girl who was overtaken yesterday and forcibly thrown into a car by a man who mutilated her face with a knife before she managed to break away.

The child was on her way home from school when the man — police guessed he was between 30 and 40—wearing overalls and an aviator's helmet, drew up beside her in a black car. Before she could run, so police state, she was picked up and tossed into the car, the man holding a hand over her mouth.

Draws Knife

Inside the car, she told police, he drew a knife and warned her not to scream. He took a slash or two at her cheeks. A little later, after she broke a car window with her school bag, the girl was pushed out to the street.

The child attempted to make her way home, but was found lying unconscious in the snow and was taken to St. Justine Hospital, where she was treated for shock and the slashes to her face.

A week ago yesterday a 10-year-old Ukrainian girl, living four blocks from yesterday's victim, was similarly accosted as she awaited at a bus stop for her father. A black car drove up and a man answering the description of yesterday's attacker, dragged her into the car, but succeeded in driving only a few blocks before the girl jumped out.

When found by neighbors the girl was bleeding from the mouth and had a one-inch gash under her chin.

DISCLOSES DEMANDS—International President Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers (CIO) combined baby-sitting with speaking, at a general meeting when he announced the union's 1949 demands to Canadian members of the union in Windsor during the week-end. Parents Convicted After Son's Theft

PRESTON, Ont., Feb. 9.—(CP). —Parents of a 15-year-old boy, found guilty of theft, have been convicted under the Juvenile Delinquent's Act.

The father was sentenced to two months and the mother remanded two weeks for sentence because they did not "remove conditions which render or are likely to render a child a juvenile delinquent."

The parents pleaded innocent and said they had no knowledge of their son stealing mechanical equipment or keeping it around the farm home.

Police discovered a cache of loot valued at hundreds of dollars and numbering more than 100 articles in the home and the adjoining barn. The boy has been sentenced to an indeterminate period in the Bowmanville Training School for Boys.

Captain Jones Breaks All Rules Flying Transports At Age Of 50

By ALAN RANDAL

STE. MARGUERITE, Que., Feb. 9—(CP).—Capt. O. P. Jones is up in the air—again. And he loves it because on the ground this bearded king pin of the air transport pilots is never absolutely happy, even at the age of 50. A few months ago it looked as though Capt. Jones —the O. P. stands for Oscar Philip —was through in the air. Some how he contracted a misplaced spinal disc necessitating painful surgery and a tough fight back to wrestling a four-motored transport across the Atlantic.

"For a time I thought I might not make it," said Capt. Jones today, soon after he finished the trans-Atlantic hop which boosted his flying miles to 3,000,000. "But my surgeon was never in doubt."

Capt. Jones is 10 years past the ago when British Overseas Airways Corporation pilots, of which he is the senior, may retire. But medical men keep saying he's fit and he won't get out of the air.

"I think I can fly for a few more years at least," said this sabre-backed man. In hours his air time is 18,500.

He is the only founder pilot of his company still flying routes and with the exception of E. S. L. Alcook, now instructing for B. O. A. C., is probably the only pilot flying who has logged 3,-000,000 miles.

"Triple mileage millionaire" Jones, a native of Kent, served in the Royal Flying Corps in 1917, later barnstormed England for a couple of years and then got into airlines work.

By now he has carried 114,-000 passengers. During the war he served in the Air Transport Auxiliary and later on the North Montreal and the United Kingdom.

On the side he breeds bull terriers and became such an authority that last September, disc and all, he rode lying down in the back seat of his car to New York to be a judge in the Westchester Dog Show.

Now he must return, with B. O. A. C.'s shift of its base to England.

"I do so with a good deal of regret," he said, stroking his pointed chin beard which is famous among airlines personnel.

Canada To See If Action Can Be Taken For Cardinal

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday in the Commons that the government will consult with other signatories of the Hungarian peace treaty to see if any joint action can be taken on behalf of Cardinal Mindszenty, who was sentenced to life imprisonment by a Hungarian court.

Mr. St. Laurent said the government has not had an opportunity to study the verdict and the sentence or to decide what action will be taken. Before any announcement is made, there will be consultation with the other peace treaty signatories. The government felt joint action would be more effective than individual action.

He was replying to George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, who recalled that the Canadian government had protested the arrest of the church leader.

"All of us recognize that this is a challenge to freedom of worship," said Mr. Drew.

Ask Relations Severed

In the U.S. Congress, demands were raised that the United States sever diplomatic relations with Hungary, and that the United Nations be asked to intervene in the Mindszenty case.

In Canberra, Herbert Evatt, president of the United Nations General Assembly, said the matter may come before the April U.N. meeting in New York.

Heading the list of nine Hungarian officials in the United States who quit their posts yesterday in protest was Bela Balassa, acting consul-general in New York and a Hungarian diplomat for 22 years.

He said he reached his decision because present events in his homeland "overstepped the bounds of human morals and God-like decency."

Four members of his staff resigned with him.

In Cleveland, two clerks quit their jobs in the Hungarian consulate office. Two officials of the Hungarian legation in Washington also resigned.

Indications in Washington were that the consulate staff members probably will be allowed to stay in the United States as political refugees.

In Britain's House of Commons, L. W. B. Teeling, Conservative member, served notice he will ask President Harold Wilson of the Board of Trade to consider breaking off negotiations for a trade treaty with Hungary.

Fled Gang Vengeance Now Freed From Jail

DETROIT, Feb. 9 (AP)—John (Jake the Barber) Factor, who always said he went to prison to escape gangland vengeance, was paroled yesterday.

Factor was serving 10 years for an alleged $500,000 mail fraud in whisky warehouse receipts manipulations. He pleaded guilty in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in 1942.

In 1933, Factor is reputed to have paid $70,000 ransom to gangsters Roger Touhy and Basil Banghart for his freedom after the pair had kidnapped him.

Factor has maintained he pleaded guilty on the mail fraud charge because he feared vengeance and desired the safety of prison walls.

Plan To Protect Sovereignty InNewfoundland

OTTAWA, Feb. 9—(CP)—The Government is acting to protect Canada's sovereignty when union with Newfoundland brings three United States military bases within Canadian territory, Prime Minister St. Laurent indicated Tuesday.

He told the Commons negotiations now are going on with Washington "looking to variation" in the 99-year leases held by the U. S. "To bring them into accord with the joint declaration of defence co-operation" enunciated by the two countries two years ago.

Mr. St. Laurent also will discuss the matter with President Truman when he visits Washington this weekend.

The declaration provides that "all co-operative arrangements will be without impairment of the control of either country over all activities in its territory."

This might mean one of several things for the bases which the U. S. took over in the bases-for-destroyers swap in 1941, spent a reported $500,000,000 to build up and now mans with relatively small numbers of men.

Canada may ask that at least nominal control of them be handed over to her forces, or she may only ask for a voice in their command. The fact that they cost the U. S. so much is said in informed circles to make it unlikely that Canada will attempt to buy and operate them independently. Further the U. S. is believed to attach considerable importance to them and to have no desire to give them up.

Divide Newfoundland Senatorship Among 3 Religious Denominations

OTTAWA, Feb. 9—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday in the Commons the six Newfoundland senatorships will be divided among the colony's three main religious denominations—two Anglicans, two Roman Catholics and two United Church men. He said during discussion of the main bill to bring about the Canada-Newfoundland union that the Government had been told it would be "unwise" to appoint the new senators by any other means than "three and three."

There should be three—one for each religious denomination—appointed at a time, or none at all. It would avoid any "offence" to any of the groups involved. The Government's action would be misunderstood if any church appeared to be gaining preference in the appointments.

He said he had checked into the period which had elapsed between the entry of other provinces into the Canadian Confederation and the appointment of Senators to the new entities. He had been surprised to learn that the period ranged from five months to "much more than five months."

He did not indicate how much time would elapse before the Newfoundland Senators were appointed.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC-MacLeod) said the government and the Commons should consider electoral reforms.

Should be Elected

Senators, he said, should be elected by the people. There was no reason why the elected Snators should not form a single body, with each member voting as he saw fit.

Mr. Hansell said it was difficult to get any government in power to accept the idea of an elected Senate. The Government liked the privilege of making Senate appointments.

A large body in Canada was belittling parliamentary institutions. Many held the view that Senators were appointed because they were good party supporters and that they were being given a "juicy political plum."

"I am not prepared to say that isn't so," said Mr. Hansell.

G. K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) suggested more women be appointed to the Senate.

Council Considers More Wartime Houses

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation requires two "bona fide veterans' applications on file at its office" for each housing unit that may be built this year, as stipulated in a letter to city council Monday night by Mr. John Wocker, regional manager.

If the council considers an agreement for additional houses it must be determined by May 15. Fifty houses are the minimum in any municipal project. Houses will be of permanent construction, with full basements, heated by furnaces and renting approximately at $37.50 a month for three-bedroom houses and $34.50 for two-bedroom houses. The company reserves the right to screen applicants as to their ability to pay the rent.

Central Mortgage houses are intended only for municipalities where housing is still a problem, Mr. Wocker wrote, and where the prescribed conditions may be met. "The agreement is more or less similar to that of 1948 which Peterborough signed." The letter was sent on to the finance committee.

Leather Industry In France Facing Crisis

By RUSSELL HOWE.

PARIS, Feb. 9 —z (Reuters) — The French shoe and leather industry, crippled by the war but now again one of the finest in the world, is faced with a falling market and the threat of unemployment, trade union officials say.

The officials say that the price of hides has risen 212 per cent since price control on leather was lifted last May 31. They fear that French manufacturers will soon be unable to quote competitive prices on the foreign markets.

To-day, in Paris, a pair of men's shoes of reasonable quality costs 5,000 francs (about $19), and a pair of women's shoes of similar quality about 4,000 francs.

To keep her customers, France has not only to fight rising prices and the approach of an inevitable saturation point abroad, but also to parry the threat of new industries growing up in Britain, Germany, Italy, Poland, and Czechoslovakia, of American mass production, and of Britain's 18-per-cent customs tariff.

One of the industry's finest achievements—and its most specifically French one— is bookbinding. Beautiful work in box-calf and parchment, and "prize-bindings" of every sort, are common in France.

The French leather industry, uncertain as to whether it can any longer compete in price with the foreign product, is determined to remain superior in quality and style.

Mrs. Lapres received H.R.H. Princess Alice when she visited the hospital in February 1944, and also received Viscountess Alexander when Her Excellency visited the hospital in November 1947. She had a wide circle of friends in eastern Canada. She was also active in Red Cross work during the war.

Cattle Prices Worry Farmers

Durham farmers with beef cattle are "much concerned about the downward trend of prices", as reported in the weekly review of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. "To date, there has been little enquiry for seed grain, and the consensus is that there will be sufficient grain in the county for anticipated demand."

A similar note is sounded by Middlesex beef men as being "perturbed about declining prices"

Artificial insemination of cattle units are being expanded in Glengarry and Renfrew. Lanark and Glengarry poultry producers "are perplexed as to what they should do with their flocks because prices are low as compared with cost of purchased feeds".

Across the province young pigs are selling around $12 to $14 in a fairly strong market. Demand for breeding sows is also active. Snowfall has reassured farmers with protection for fall wheat.

U.S. buying has strengthened the Northumberland apple market. "Demand has seldom been better, and supplies will probably have to be stretched out to look after local needs."

Utilities Needs $200,000 For New Jobs

Utilities Commission has asked the council to issue $200,000 debentures to pay for waterworks construction in 1948-9. This request was referred to the finance committee Monday night. The Commission would like to have the money by June.

Supply of material, favorable weather and ample labor accounted for more work than the Commission had anticipated in its program for last fall. It was necessary work, and was done sooner than expected. The borrowing will cover the expense of various water mains on new streets and the laying of the trunk main north from Park Hill Road through the Hilliard Farm property to the point at which the season overtook it.

Other work in prospect for early spring is also included in this financing. Expenditure which may have to be provided for this year includes an elevated water tank for Civic Hospital, plus a pump, and the proposed main across the river at Burnham's Point to supply Ashburnham with increased water pressure.

Estimate of the water tank cost is $35,000. Possibly the Commission may have to do some further borrowing before the year is out At any rate the June debentures will not cover a substantial part of the expenditure in sight for 1949.

Mr. G. S. Matthews said at the inaugrual of the Commission: "This looks like a tough year." His implication was to the effect that Commission has to keep pace with the growth of the city, and the rate expansion is going to involve rather heavy spending. R. L. Dobbin, manager, said recently and hopefully that the end of it might be in sight.

D. Lloyd Given Kingston Term

Donald Lloyd, 38, of Toronto, a former Lakefield resident, was today sentenced to two years in the penitentiary on each of two charges of receiving stolen goods. The sentences will run concurrently.

On the first charge of receiving a stolen outboard motor, Lloyd was found guilty on January 26, and he was remanded until today for sentence. Today Judge Smoke found him guilty on a second charge of receiving stolen motors, the property of Eric Morin and John Mose, both of Lakefield.

Chief of Police Garnet Semis of Lakefield testified that he had inspected the boathouses on the Nephaline Mines shortly before midnight on July 23. All were properly locked. When he re-inspected them next morning two of the boathouses belonging to Gerald Northey and Eric Morin, respectively, had been broken into.

Mose's motor had been placed in Northey's boathouse for safe custody.

According to Crown witnesses Grant Lee and Chester Crowe, who work at Ferguson's Service Station in Langton Mills, near Toronto, Lloyd sold one of the motors to Lee and asked Crowe for permission to store the other two in his garage.

On August 3, Crowe said, Lloyd and another man came into his garage and went up into the loft. He believed he heard an outboard motor running. Lloyd and the other man then went away.

The next day Toronto police came and confiscated the motors.

In his testimony, Lloyd claimed he had never seen the motors until he was brought up for a preliminary hearing. He denied talking with Crowe and Lee at the service station and also denied the alleged transactions.

W. B. Gordon, representing the accused, charged that Crowe and his brother-in-law, Lee, were making up the story. He received the admission from Crowe that a receiving charge is pending against him also.

Judge Smoke said he relied strongly on the testimony of George Rudduck, who was also at the station on August 3rd, and who claimed that when Lloyd drove away after talking with Crowe, two rubber handles on metal bars (similar to the handles on outboards) were protruding from the trunk of the car

Albert Allison of Mimico, a car dealer, said he had been approached by Lee to purchase some outboards. Several days later, he said, he went to Crowe's home and agreed to purchase several motors. When he was informed that they were "hot" he refused, Allison said.

Burnham Street Site For Memorial Centre Finding Favor With Members Of City Council

In committee of the whole, city council got around to discussing a site for the Memorial Community Centre.

One of them is the Townsend-Rink Streets property owned by the city. The other is on the east side of Burnham St., opposite the Ashburnham bowl. Several private properties would have to be bought by the council to obtain sufficient land for the Centre on Burnham St. A large area at the rear of the stores on the south side of Hunter St. and the houses on the north side of Robinson St. interest the council in that section.

J. A. Jebson, chairman, declared several months ago that the Memorial Centre committee would proceed with the construction of the centre when it received a suitable site from the council.

It is understood that cost of the Burnham St. location has not been definitely investigated, but some of the members of the council are convinced that of available properties it is the most attractive, although it involves outlay of purchase.

As for the property opposite the George St. wharf, the city owns it. However, the Centre committee several years ago spent $790 of its funds for an engineer's soundings of that property. As a result it was estimated that concrete footings and braces would have to be laid as part of the base of the proposed Centre. It was said that the footing would have to be carried down to solid ground, and also that lateral concrete braces would have to be put in to support the terrazza floor which was then contemplated for the Centre. Solid support was necessary for the floors to prevent its cracking.

A tentative reference was made several weeks ago to the possibilities of property on the south side of King St., west of the Jackson Park creek, but it is understood that this location has not received any official consideration.

Financing City Hall Site Reviewed By Councillors

Financing of the purchase of the Public Library block for the new City Hall site was discussed by the committee of the whole council Monday night. This plan, which contemplates using City Trust surplus earnings, was outlined in the Examiner several days ago. It was presented to the Council on Monday night in the report of the executive committee by Ald. Hugh Waddell, chairman.

"This is all new to me," said Ald. Doug Miller. "I think it would be better to refer it to the committee of the whole and have it discussed there. I'm not sure that I understand a clause or two, and perhaps some of the other members do not either."

"I'm certainly not trying to push anything through this council," Ald. Waddell replied. "I understood there was to be a short meeting after the council adjourns, and the committee report could be discussed then."

Subsequently the council sat until close to midnight discussing the executive committee report, Memorial Centre site, a clause in the firemen's agreement, and several other items.

Co-operative Effort

The executive committee report to the council was as follows in Ald. Waddell's reading:

"Your committee has been negotiating several weeks with the Commissioners of the City Trust, in order to have the Trust co-operate with the Council in regard to the acquiring of the proposed site for the new city hall.

Your committee recommends as follows: That the Commissioners of the City Trust having decided to finance the purchase of the proposed site, up to the amount of $175,000 provided that the council will secure the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board for the use of the necessary funds from the sinking fund in the hand of the Trust, if required, and which the Commission is of the opinion will be necessary, the council agree to the following conditions as proposed by the City Trust:

(a) The Council will execute a mortgage in favor of the Commission for a period of five years with interest at 4 per cent payable semi-annually.

To Sell Properties

(b) Council will dispose of the Asnburnham town hall property, the Nashua Paper Co. (if possible). The proceeds of these properties together with the proceeds of sales of all other properties other than lands acquired for industrial and housing needs, to be turned over to the Trust to assist in financing the purchase.

(c) The city council in addition will leave the management of the property, collection of rents, receipts from salvage, etc., in the hands of the Commission, if the Commission so desires. The proceeds from the property, less taxes, insurance, and other expenses, would be applied by the Commission to reduce the principal of the mortgage. There would, of course, be no expense of management of the property since the Commission is already organized for this purpose.

(d) The Commission will not be called upon to meet expenses of expropriation of the required properties."

This arrangement with the City Trust Commission of which Mr. Vincent Eastwood is chairman will return to the council in the report of the committee of the whole.

Financing of the city hall site obligation was usually regarded eventually a levy on the taxpayers, but the City Trust has some remnant funds, which have been increasingly coveted by the council as a solution of the bulk of the city hall site buying.

Presumably, when this money is parted with by the Commission when the Murray-George-McDonnel block is being purchased it will be the last the citizens will receive from the source and resources of the City Trust. It has often stood in the role of the uncle of means to the family that now and then falls upon lean and necessitous times.

Ticket System Irks Hockey Fans

Hockey fans are complaining of the manner in which reserve seats are being sold for the Civic Arena. Tickets for tonight's game between Legion and Petes were in great demand, but the tickets couldn't be sold because subscribers had first choice.

If the subscribers want their tickets, they must pick them up before 10 a.m. of the day of the game. If they do not pick them up, the tickets go on sale. Any tickets not sold at the local ticket office are then sent down to the Arena at 7 p.m. This morning there were plenty of reserve tickets not picked up at 10 o'clock.

Subscribers have first choice for seats at the playoff games. Here the complaint is raised by the regular fans. There are a considerable number of subscriber tickets that haven't been used as yet for any of the games. But they will be used for the playoffs.

In other rinks in the district subscribers must attend at least 50 per cent. of the regular scheduled games to hold their seats. Here such a rule is not in operation. Regular fans, come playoff time, fear they will either be turned away from the doors or forced to squeeze into a rush seat.

Outboard's Management Reports To Its Workers, New Step In Industry Here

A new step in labor relations in Peterborough—a report of a company's management to the workers on the progress of the corporation—was taken on Tuesday. At two meetings, more than 500 employees of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company heard company officials discuss plans for future expansion, were shown a breakdown of the company's earnings and expenses. This "cards-on-the-table" presentation by management was the first time in the city a meeting of this type has been called by a major company.

Clarence B. Neal, vice-president and general manager, explained the object of the meetings:

"We have felt that the employees would be interested in the progress of the company, that they would like to know some of the problems which face management. This meeting can help us to get to know each other better."

"Many labor unions have built up the idea that the gap between management and labor must remain wide. This is not so. We are keenly interested in the employees' welfare, we think you are interested in the company's development. If you would like, we would be glad to hold other meetings like this in the future."

Tells Expansion Plans

Then, the company head told the employees the plans management had in mind for expansion. Work is starting at once, he said, on a new factory addition measuring 400 by 150 feet, expected to be completed by September. Costing about half a million dollars, it will be financed by a 10-year debenture issue. Mr. Neal outlined the general design and layout of the plant addition, described the improvements it would make possible. Another 8,000 square feet of office space will also be added this year, he said.

Take Pride In Work

Mr. Neal urged the workers to take a personal interest and a pride in their work. He pointed out that the loss through spoilage last year amounted to $155 for each employee. This could be corrected by greater efficiency and care, more accuracy in the various phases of manufacture and handling. Such participation by the employees, he said, cuts complaints from the consumer, enabled the company to sell its products in a competitive field.

The net results of this, he said, were more employment and better working conditions because lower costs would mean more demand for the goods.

"We want to pay the highest wage scale in Peterborough and we want to give social security benefits second to none. If we have your co-operation in these ways, if we all work as a team, there will be no need to bargain or demand these benefits. They will be given voluntarily."

Show Financial Statement

Bruce L. Payne, company secretary-treasurer, presented the annual financial statement of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing to the audiences at the two meetings, which represented more than 75 per cent. of the total plant payroll. A copy of the statement is being mailed to all employees.

Explaining the reason for bringing these financial matters to the workers' attention, he said: "Industry is gradually becoming aware that...besides their wages and benefits...employees are also vitally interested in the operations of the company. They want to know where things fit and how the company stands."

He went over the statement, explaining terms and reasons for the entries. The total income of more than $5,000,000 was broken down into percentages. Fifty-eight per cent. of receipts were paid for material, operating costs and taxes, it showed. A total of 35.6 per cent. went for wages, salaries and employee benefits.

This left a gross profit of 6.4 per cent., Mr. Payne said. There were no dividends declared in 1948. All of the 6.4 per cent. went back into the company for further plant and machinery purchases and increased inventory.

Profits "Misunderstood"

"There is a great deal of misunderstanding about profits. Polls show that the workers believe that profits are higher than they actually are...for example, our 6.4 is just average. And it must be remembered that, in industry as a whole, two-thirds of profits are being returned for expansion. In the overall picture, this means more employment, a higher cost of living and more security for the workers."

"Let's not delude ourselves about this profit business. A fair, modest return on investment of capital is necessary to keep our industries running."

Mr Payne mentioned the big expansion at Outboard during the past 10 years. In 1939, there were 160 persons employed there. Today, the payroll of more than $1,750,000 goes to 775 persons.

Harry J. White, general sales manager, outlined in a talk the principle products of the company. He discussed market trends, the return to highly competitive selling and the need for workers to feel that they are "members of one big team."

Bring Together

Chairman of the meeting was Reginald Reid, personnel manager. He said that the meeting's objective was to assist in bringing management and employees closer. In a large plant, day-to-day contact is often impossible, he said, and in this way the parties could be given an opportunity to explain their problems to the other.

Two films were shown at the meeting. One scenic holiday film featured the company's new 10-h.p. "QD" motor. The second showed the relations between workers and management and the operation of capital and profit in our system.

Among other company officials introduced at the meeting were: Ernest E. Estlick, production manager; Robert E. Gibbons, assistant production manager; George Kennedy, plant superintendent; Harry Pounder, purchasing agent; Marcelt Brier, chief engineer; Walter Wood, chief inspector; Len Bearne, cost accountant; Jack Ferren, general accountant; Larry McGuire, advertising manager; William Swiss, paymaster; Donald Wood, service manager; Harry Finn, assistant service manager; John Madden, assistant general sales manager.

Three officials from the corporation's American office present were W. Gritt, F. T. Irgens and E. G. Connor.

Warns A-Bomb Won't Halt Reds

PEMBROKE, Feb. 9—(CP)—A former Russian-Polish Baroness warned Tuesday night that "an atomic bomb won't eliminate Communism."

"The only way to fight Communism is to fight for an ideal," Mrs. Katherine Doherty, the former Baroness De Hueck, said in a speech before the Professional Women's Club.

That ideal, said Mrs. Doherty who fled Communism in Russia before the second World War, was "that in Canada we believe in the Almighty, while the Communist does not."

The former Baroness then turned to 39 displaced persons, women guests of the Club, and spoke to them in Russian. She told them she and they had a common bond. Both had seen homes razed, loved ones killed and known in general what it was to suffer at the hands of an enemy.

"The shadow of Communism will grow," she warned. "We can still light the world if we stop thinking of money as our god and change our conception of other people, those on the wrong side of the track."

Mrs. Doherty is now director of a Friendship House at nearby Combermere, Ont.

Find Partition Main Issue In Irish Vote

BELFAST, Feb. 9—(CP)—Prime Minister Sir Basil Brooke's Unionist Government is fighting for re-election on a single issue—and it is as wide as a Union Jack.

Sir Basil has called for what his opponents say is "an enforced plebiscite" tomorrow on the question of whether Northern Ireland will continue as part of the United Kingdom or throw in its lot with the Eireann Republic to the south.

Nationalist and Labor candidates are opposing the Unionists.

The Government has chosen its moment for an election well. Northern Ireland, in the face of the recent passage of the Republic of Ireland Act by Eire, probably will poll an unusually heavy vote.

And both sides expect that vote to be overwhelmingly Unionist.

Twenty of Ulsters' 52 parliamentary seats have already gone unopposed, 16 of them to Sir Basil's supporters. The other 32 seats will be contested by 63 candidates.

Expect Similar Majority

Of these, 33 support the Prime Minister, whose government held 35 seats in Stormont House at dissolution last month.

Most observers expect him to hold a similar majority when the polls close Thursday.

The fight with the Nationalists is clear-cut. They are financed and guided for the most part from Dublin and want a United Ireland. In their view, the partition of 1921 was a crime against the Irish sovereignty.

The struggle between Unionism and Labor is more obscure. Some Labor men, accepting partition, have worked within its framework for the advancement of working-class welfare in Northern Ireland. Others have supported the workers while always opposing the British tie.

Astute timing and direction of the election fight by the Government now appears to have split the Labor vote. What might have been a modified class struggle has become a purely national argument.

Worried over her destitute daughter in London, Ont., her mother wrote from Wiston, Eng. to the Queen, who in turn wrote Lady Alexander in Canada. Enquiries were pressed and arrangements were made to send the family home at municipal expense. The ex-soldier husband had been convicted of non-support.

Drilling Out 40,000 Feet Along Sault Canal Walls

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Feb. 14 (AP)— They're performing a huge cold weather dental operation this winter on the Sault Canal, a lifeline of American industry.

Engineers say it's unlike anything else in the world.

Workers literally are drilling and chiseling large areas from the walls of the canal's locks and and filling the cavities with fresh concrete—about 1,500 tons of it.

The catch is that all this must be done in the four winter months. Navigation can't be interrupted for a minute once around-the-clock shipping starts in the spring.

For the canal's staff of 250, the operation is a constant battle against gales, ice and snow.

The canal is situated in northern Michigan on the St. Mary's River, connecting route between Lake Superior and Lake Huron. Down the river from the vast Lake Superior mines comes 85 per cent of all iron ore used in American industry."

In 1948, according to a preliminary arm report, 115,893,446 tons of cargo moved through the four parallel locks, which allow ships to navigate the 22-foot drop between the two lakes.

Constant rubbing of ships damages lock walls. So does seepage of water and extreme temperatures. If the walls are left unrepaired, serious breaks might hold up shipping in mid-season, causing tremendous losses.

That's why crews have to brave sub-zero weather to get the canal in shape for spring.

Locks are pumped out after shipping ends in December and crews go to work. This year they're drilling out about 40,000 square feet of wall area, cavities up to 10 feet deep.

To fill the cavities, workmen squirt a mixture of cement, sand and water from oversized hoses. The concrete builds up layer by layer. Afterward, shed are left standing for two weeks or more to keep the concrete warm while it sets.

Used Car Dealer Asks Consideration

E. W. Moore has asked the council for a license to carry on a used car business at the south-west corner of Romaine St. and Monaghan Rd.

"If that is not possible may I transfer my present license to that location from Monaghan Road and Chamberlain St.," Mr. Moore wrote.

"I remember that we had a petition from neighbors in that Romaine St. area when we had a similiar petition for some kind of car business several years ago," Ald. Raine said. "They were quite disturbed and we sent the request on to town planning committee."

Mr. Moore's application said he intended to erect only a small building at Romaine St., if he received the permit from the council.

"I think it would be a good idea to ask town planning for their opinion," Ald. Young suggested. Ald. Burrows seconded the motion, and it was adopted.

Senator Asks Adultery Be Criminal Offence

OTTAWA, Feb. 9—(CP)—Senator F. W. Gershaw (L-Alberta) suggested Tuesday that adultery, the one ground for divorce in most Provinces, should be made a criminal offence.

He told the Senate in the throne speech debate that Parliament should consider the appointment of a King's Proctor or some other official to study every case of application for a divorce and to report on it to the court when the application is heard.

If possible, the official should patch up the quarrel.

It was "rather shocking," the Senator said, to hear men and women who appeared before the Senate Divorce Committee—in effect Quebec's divorce court — admit brazenly and without shame that they are guilty of a moral crime, adultery."

Tells Youths Hobbies, Sports Solve Problems

"Keep the youth of today interested in sports, hobbies or anything constructive and the juvenile problem will be solved," said John Twigg, probation officer, addressing the Intermediate Hi-Y clubs at the YMCA on Tuesday. His topic was "Social Conditions in Peterborough."

Reviewing the recent vandalism in Toronto, Mr. Twigg said juvenile gangs of this sort had been in existence since 1927, only on a smaller scale. In those days there was so much idleness that youths were neglected by their parents who were also out of work or had part-time jobs.

"This problem today isn't due to unemployment," he said. It was a result of the war, he thought and no solution had yet been found.

Mr. Twigg told the boys of the functions of Family Court. He explained that family quarrels could be discussed privately at the court. Women disliked taking their family matters into the open court for everyone to hear, he explained.

"Husband and wife may fight for weeks but will be back together again if matters are discussed in private with outsiders. There can still be a future to marriage this way."

In juvenile court there was a much more flexible arrangement, Mr. Twigg said. Meetings are held in Magistrate Philp's office where these matters are discussed in an informal atmosphere. He said there were not many serious cases in Peterborough. The majority of the boys get into trouble only once and are usually put on the right track by one appearance in this court.

"We're prone to make mistakes. These lads make mistakes, but with intelligent direction and good family background, these troubles can be overcome," he declared.

Mr. Twigg was asked if he was in favour of Sunday sports. He said he could remember his younger days when his parents kept him from cycling and canoeing on Sunday. He said he might as well have been out doing those things as sitting in the house.

"Sports and churches should not fight each other on Sunday, when people have more leisure time than on any other day. This gives high-spirited youths more time to get into trouble. I believe in supervised sports on Sunday providing they do not interfere with church attendance. People must remember a youth tied down is like a kettle with the lid sealed. It's bound to blow up," he said.

William Prest introduced Mr. Twigg, who was thanked by Ronald Doughty and Warren Brown.

Third Suspicious Fire

PRINCETON, Ont., Feb. 9—(CP)—The third suspicious fire in this community within a month Tuesday night did damage estimated at several thousand dollars to building supplies and household hardware stored in a barn at the rear of the G. The fire, discovered by Miss Evelyn Slemmon, a passerby, had made little headway and prompt action on the part of the local firemen assisted by additional men and equipment from Drumbo and Woodstock brought the blaze under control within a short time.

Trustee Shocked At Standard For Teachers

TORONTO, Feb. 9 — University graduates teaching in Toronto Public Schools number 313, or slightly more than 17 per cent of the total number of teachers, it was disclosed Tuesday in a report to the Board of Education's Management Committee by Dr. C. C. Goldring, director of education.

The report was requested by Truustee E. A. Hardy, who wants the minimum requirement for teachers appointed to the Toronto staff to be a universmity degree. Dr. Hardy would like to see the policy in effect by 1951.

In his report, Dr. Goldring pointed out that any new requirements for admission to the training course for teachers would have to be set by the Provincial Department of Education, since certification of teachers is under the Department. He noted, too, that the Department has lowered the admission requirements to Normal School during the past ten years. In the whole province, only 6 per cent of Public School teachers have university degrees.

"It is obvious," said Dr. Goldring, "that there is little chance of securing any large number of university graduates for the Public School staff in the near future. It must be kept in mind that Public School teachers are scarce and that any attempt to raise admission standards might limit still further the possible supply."

Dr. Hardy said he was "shocked" to learn of the Department's policy of lowering the entrance standards to Normal School.

"I can see no reason why we should not attract more and more university graduates into our Public Schools," he said. "We could start with Grade 8, and in 10 years our entire staff would be filled with them.

Dr. Hardy drew attention to the fact that the new Public School maximum salary of $4,000 is equal to that received by the junior professors in many universities. He agreed to table the whole question for one month.

Displaced Persons Fulfill Contract Terms Mellis Explodes Recent Rumors About Poles

Following the first wedding between Displaced Persons in Peterborough towards the end of January, rumors have sprung up that one or the other of the contracting parties have broken their working contracts. This is not so according to advice from manager W. Mellis of the National Employment Service.

In the case of the first wedding, the groom was obliged to complete his year's contract with his employer. This he is doing faithfully until the time expired in June. His wife also continues in her place of employment. The Government penalty for breaking working contracts involves considerable expense to parties concerned.

There has been no trouble on this account at the Peterborough NES office. Furthermore, another wedding is scheduled on Feb. 12 but the circumstances in this case are different. The groom has served his contract and has purchased a farm in Ennismore township. His bride-to-be had seven months to complete work with her employer and the husband has paid the Government a sum of money equal to the balance of contract so that they may live together on their new farm from the start.

Woman Operating First Recorder In Legislature

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9—(CP). — Miss Aileen Innes, who at this session of the Manitoba Legislature will sit at a switchboard just inside the main entrance to the Assembly, is establishing a precedent in British parliamentary history, authorities say

Miss Innes will record for posterity the words spoken during debates. By occupying a position on the floor of the chamber, she is establishing a "first" in the annals of parliamentary procedure.

In Saskatchewan, the Legislature at Regina has recording equipment installed, but the operator is hidden from view in a gallery.

The equipment Miss Innes operates includes a film recorder which records spoken words by an embossing process on 35 MM film.

The recorder can operate for nine hours on one tape. The recording can be played back, allowing stenographers to transcribe a speech or parts of a speech if necessary.

There is a microphone on the desk of each member. The microphones serve a double purpose. By flicking a switch Miss Innes can open one to pick up a member's words. At the same time all the other microphones—there are 60 of them—act as loud speakers.

Kinettes Name Tea Conveners

Dinner meeting of the Kinette Club was Tuesday evening in the Empress Hotel with 20 members present. Mrs. Chas. Graham said grace and Mrs. T. Williams, president, presided.

A home cooking table will be convened by Mrs. Stanley Gilmore and table decorations will be done by Mrs. Pat. Iley. Mrs. Harry Huff is in charge of tickets for the tea and Mrs. Jas. Innes of raffle tickets on a cake.

The sum of $50 was donated to the Community Chest Fund drive. Mrs. H. Huff read the secretary's report and Mrs. A. Wilson the treasurer's. Three films that were very interesting to members were "Eskimo Action Crafts," "Champions in the Making" and "Prince Edward Island."

A social time followed with members playing bridge. The draw prize, a new feature of these meetings, was a cup and saucer, won by Mrs. Jas. Innes.

DOROTHY DIX

Bobby Soxer Knows Answer Keeps Boy at Arms Length

DEAR MISS DIX: When I was 15 years old, I used to have a lot of trouble with my boy friends. They back. But now I am a year older and I have thought out a system that were always getting peeved about something and breaking away and it was hard to get them works and I give it to other girls free. It is this:

Dorothy Dix

Keep yourself neat and attractive and always act as if you are having a wonderful time, no matter whether you are or not. Go out with other boys and have fun. Your heart won't be in it at the beginning, but gradually you really will begin to enjoy yourself. Above all, ignore the boy. Don't speak to him. Don't even let him see you looking at him. If he thinks you don't worry about him, he will come back to see why you don't.

Don't try to find out whom he has been stepping out with. If you try this plan for one month, I am sure you will get him back. I did. When he is back, don't throw up other girls to him. Don't let him know you are jealous. Keep him guessing.

GOOD LUCK.

ANSWER—Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings proceedeth wisdom, and without doubt the advice of the 16-year-old bobby-soxer on how to win and hold a boy's affections should be of inestimable value to her sex and age. For they are at the time of life when the one thing that girls think about and dream about and worry about is BOYS, and when not to have a steady is a tragedy. It practically is a disgrace.

Poor Technique

And what adds to the difficulty of the situation is that the youngsters of either sex do not understand the technique of handling each other, and so they fight and quarrel and break up and have temporary heartbreaks that hurt just as badly as if they were the real thing.

So it will be easily perceived what a blessing it is that a prophetess has arisen among the adolescents who can tell her younger sisters—say the 14-year-olders—how to keep their dates from straying off after fresh charmers. In the main, the advice of the seeress is good, but some of it is a trifle strenuous. How, for instance, can a couple of kids who have quarreled kiss and make up if they never get near enough together to even speak?

DEAR MISS DIX: I am going with a boy who has a fine character, but who has two faults that bore me very much. He continually puts off doing the things that should be done until I literally worry him into doing them. Same way with his clothes. The season ends while he is still going to buy a new suit. Then I just can't get him interested in reading the newspapers. He always tells me he only has time to read the funnies. He knows nothing about anything that is happening in the world.

What can I do to change him?

DIXIE BELLE.

ANSWER: There is nothing you can do to change that flabby sort of a man into a go-getter. A man has to be born with a backbone to have one. It is nothing that a woman can wish on him, yet millions of silly women try it and end up by supporting a good-for-nothing husband.

My earnest advice to you is to pass up your procrastinating boy friend, instead of trying to galvanize him into action. You will save yourself a lot of trouble if you do. Also, it will prevent you from being bored to death by a husband who doesn't even read the newspapers.

DEAR MISS DIX: I live with my mother and aunt and they are making a very serious problem for me. I have a little girl a year and a half old whom they have spoiled until she is perfectly rotten. When she is cross she throws herself on the floor and kicks and cries until she gets what she wants. If I tell her to do anything she doesn't want to do, she refuses. And if I slap her if she has been bad, she slaps back and calls me names to my face.

When I try to break her of these bad habits, my mother and aunt take her part and say it is because she feels bad, and I can do nothing with her. I don't want the child to be ruined, but what can I do about it?

MRS. E. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The only thing you can do is to take the child away from your foolish mother and aunt. It is the only hope for the salvation of your little girl. Babyhood and childhood are really the crucial time in the life of every human being, because that is when characters are formed and habits set and the individual's entire future life is determined. The weakling, the derelicts, the selfish, the lazy and trifling were all spoiled children.

Embroidery Trims Cotton Sackcloth Dress Material

PARIS, Feb. 9 (AP)—Women can even wear sackcloth and be fashionable this spring. Without ashes, of course.

Although there is nothing revolutionary about "look '49," Jacques Fath has come up with a new idea in materials. Among the dresses he showed here Thursday night was a full skirted strapless cocktail dress of sackcloth.

It was not the sackcloth of biblical days—dark cloth of goat's or camel's hair—worn as a sign of penance with ashes on the forehead. It was cotton sackcloth, and what's more the bodice was heavily encrusted with gold and sequin embroidery.

The dress had a gold serpent-skin belt and was topped with a white waffle pique bellhop jacket.

Another little sackcloth number was a thigh-length full coolie coat studded with almond nutshells and raffia embroidery.

Thursday night's show rounded off the opening day of the fashion showings. In coming weeks, about 20 "big name" designers will unveil their spring creations to foreign buyers, the press and society."

Social Situations

SITUATION: Soon after you have invited a couple to your house and they have accepted your invitation they give a large party and do not include you.

WRONG WAY: Feel that they should have and that you have been snubbed.

RIGHT WAY: Never make up your mind that you should be invited to any particular party.

Country Chowder With Pork Is A Meal In One Dish

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Blustery weather suggests steaming bowls of nourishing chowder. Here's one of the best, tested.

Country Chowder With Pork
(Serves 6-8)

One-half pound dried lima beans, 2 small, fresh pork hocks, 1 table spoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 bay leaf, 1 large potato, diced, 2 large carrots, diced, 1 large onion, diced, 1 cup cabbage, cut in small pieces, ½ cup tomatoes, ½ cup cut green beans.

Soak the dried lima beans in 4 quarts of cold water for 2 hours. Add the pork hocks, salt, pepper and bay leaf. Simmer slowly 1½ hours. Add the potato, carrots, onion, cabbage, tomatoes and green beans. Cook 30 minutes over low heat. Serve piping hot with the pork cut from hocks.

For a winter fruit dessert, baked pears are always popular.

Baked Pears

(Allow 1 large half or 2 small halves per serving.)

Three large or 6 small Anjou or Bosc pears, juice or ½ lemon, water, sugar.

Cut the pears in halves, removing the cores. In a covered baking dish, place the lemon juice and enough water to cover the bottom of the dish. Place the pear halves cut side down in the dish and bake covered at 375 degrees F. for 20 to 25 minutes, depending on the ripeness of the fruit. At the end of the baking time, remove the cover, turn the pears and sprinkle each half with from 1 to 2 teaspoons sugar. Return to the oven to glaze and complete the baking. Serve hot or chilled.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Applesauce, scrambled eggs, crisp bacon, split and toasted muffins, butter or margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomato juice, macaroni and cheese, chopped raw vegetable sandwiches, fruit bowl, ginger snaps, tea milk.

DINNER: Country chowder with pork, cole slaw, heated whole wheat French bread, butter or margarine, cheddar cheese, baked pears, chocolate layer cake, coffee, milk.

Vigorous Action Demanded To Oust Reds

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 9 (CP)—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor concluded its winter meeting yesterday with a statement calling on all AFL Unions in Canada to take "'vigorous action" immediately to weed Communists out of Canadian Labor Unions.

The statement followed a reported fight between rival factions in the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress. It had been alleged that Percy Bengough, TLC president, had declined to take a militant stand to oust sympathizers from the AFL Unions grouped with the TLC, as asked by Frank Hall, a TLC vice-president and head of the AFL Railway Clerks Brotherhood in Canada.

The AFL Council here heard both Bengough and Hall in a closed session yesterday before issuing the statement.

"The evidence presented in the dispute," the statement said, "discloses a shocking picture of the influences wielded by Communists in Canada in the affairs of the Trades and Labor Congress.

Bengough, in a telephone interview last night, said he disagreed with the AFL executive council.

Hall said the AFL statement was a declaration that the TLC must get rid of Communists "or else." He said his group was pleased with the results of the meeting.

HANDS IN TRAINING...FOR ONTARIO

Learning to Make Plastics

IN Ontario the wheels of industry turn for the benefit of every single one of us. Our lathes, dynamos, drill presses, farm combines, tractors, business machines, etc. are producing goods and services which earn dollars. These dollars provide food, clothing, medical care and other necessities which contribute to our security and high standard of living. Every single one of us, therefore, has a very personal interest in the flow of a steady supply of trained workers to industrial plants. These workers will operate machines which are important to our way of life.

We should appreciate, then, the co-operative efforts of government, industry and labour in the field of employee training. In schools and in factories our workers, young and old, are given the opportunity to develop new and specific skills in every field of business and industrial activity. For instance, as in the pictures shown here, every effort of Ontario's newly-skilled plastics workers will mean better plastic products — will help to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and work.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY (ONTARIO)

Our Way of Life Rewards Trained Hands

Ontario workers know they can earn more, have executive responsibility and enjoy a higher standard of living in direct ratio to the skills they acquire and the way they make use of them. That's always true in a free economy — that's why our competitive system will continue to make Canada great and a great place in which to live.

PLAN TO CRUSH SUBVERSIVE ELEMENTS

Keays Planning to Introduce Documentary Proof of Charge

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 10—(CP).—J. E. Keays, 44-year-old Ontario Provincial Police constable, today continued allegations of fraud, perjury and maladministration of justice as a Royal Commission investigating them opened, the fourth day of public hearings. Keays told the commissioner, Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay, he planned to introduce documentary evidence to substantiate the testimony he has given during the first three days of the inquiry.

He produced a letter from Staff Inspector T. Doyle, acknowledging receipt of complaints Keays made about alleged irregularities in the Belleville District Provincial Police headquarters. Inspector Doyle said the complaints would be investigated.

Keays said Staff Inspector Arthur Moss came to Niagara Falls where Keays was then stationed.

Inspector Moss told him he had "no business" looking into the diary of another police officer without instructions. Keays said he replied he didn't need instructions to look for evidence in a criminal case.

(Keays Wednesday testified he had examined the diary of Cpl. Sam Ervine in an attempt to support his claim that Ervine committed perjury in a November 1947 trial.)

Impromptu Desk

Keays used both a wide window ledge and the edge of the judge's bench as an impromptu desk for his voluminous notes and files.

He spoke slowly and clearly, frequently adjusting a pair of brown-rimmed spectacles.

Reading from a small black notebook Keays related an interview with Harold Phillips who admitted smashing three guard rail posts on No. 14 highway, north of Belleville, on Oct. 31, 1947.

(Keays yesterday said that Ervine testified under oath that the posts were broken Sept. 26, 1947.)

Keays said Phillips had signed the report of the interview with Keays in the notebook.

He produced another statement, allegedly signed by Burton Bateman, highways department employee. The statement said Ervine had asked that the posts be repaired.

Improperly Transcribed

Keays complained the transcript of evidence at the Wood trial—at which he alleged Ervine committed perjury—was "improperly transcribed" by Dorothy

JET BOMBER SETS NEW RECORD — Streaking into the sky ahead of the smoke from 18 jet-assisted take-off rockets, this Boeing XB-47 Strato-jet bomber takes off from Moses Lake Air Force Base, Wash., to set an unofficial trans-continental record of 3 hours 46 minutes on a flight to Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland.

Two RCAF Lancasters Make Aerial History Complete 2,800-Mile Trip In 12 Hours

SUMMERSIDE, P. E. I., Feb. 10—(CP)—Two sleek RCAF Lancaster bombers laden with navigational equipment of the future and specialist crews made aerial history Wednesday in a 2,800-mile flight from Sacramento, Calif., to this air base.

It was the first trans-continental non-stop flight between the two points and it was the speediest service flight for the distance and general course.

The lead bomber "Zenith" made the flight in just under 12 hours and its companion "Polaris" was three minutes behind.

Purpose of the flight was to give navigators using these long-range "flying classrooms" an opportunity to study conditions and equipment over very long distances with a view to developing navigators who can pinpoint long-range targets and then find their way home.

Captain of Zenith was Flt. Lt. Bill Stevens, DFC, of Trenton.

Dartford Woman Wakes Finds House In Flames

DARTFORD, Feb. 10—(ENS).—A farmer's wife was fortunate to escape with her life when she awoke to find the house burning around her on Wednesday afternoon. She was Mrs. Raymond Eddy, whose husband rented a farm situated four and a half miles northwest of Dartford, owned by C. O. Dudley, Warkworth.

Mrs. Eddy was taking an afternoon nap while her husband was working in the woods, when she was awakened by plaster falling from the ceiling. The fire had already raced through most of the house and she did not even have an opportunity of taking a coat with her when she rushed out.

Couldn't Reach Phone

Fire prevented her from reaching the telephone, so she ran to the nearby barn to release the horses and sheep before going in search of her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddy lost all the contents of the house and also a sawing machine which Mr. Eddy had only recently purchased. Despite the high wind, the fire did not spread to the barn.

Mr. Eddy is a veteran of both world wars and has been farming here since his return from war service.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Yule have taken Mr. and Mrs. Eddy into their home for the time being.

Canadians Take Top 3 Prizes

BELFAST, Feb. 10 (CP)—Canadians Wednesday took the first three prizes in a team event at the international plowing championships at near-by Limavady.

The winners are from a group of four champion Ontario plowmen, Alvin J. Mark of Cameron, near Lindsay; Robert Timbers of Stouffville, near Toronto, and Rhys Bacher of Hagersville, near Hamilton, placed first, second and third, respectively, in the team event. They failed to reach the prize list in any of the other six events.

Continuous rain throughout the day hampered the four competing Canadians, who were unused to such conditions.

Most of the prizes went to Northern Ireland competitors. More than 50,000 people attended the championships.

The Canadian team is coached and managed by Elliott Moses, who owns a 450-acre farm near Brantford. The four members of his team all won championships at Ontario's international match at Lindsay last fall. The fourth team-members is Wilbert Russel McFaddin of Millbank, in the Stratford district.

13,000,000 lbs. Honey Left Ask Ottawa Assistance

WINNIPEG, Feb. 10 (CP) — The Canadian Beekeeping industry, with millions of pounds of unsold honey on its hands, is seeking government assistance to take the sting out of its predicament.

Lack of an export market and a near-record production year in 1948 have presented hte industry with its most serious problem since beekeeping became a factor in Canadian agriculture during the depression years.

The actual total of unsold honey in Canada is a matter of question with estimates ranging from 13,000,000 to 20,000,000 pounds. The higher figure was advanced at the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture in Saskatoon recently by Gerald Habing, a member of the Canadian Beekeepers' Council. Frank Garland of Winnipeg, council president, puts it at 13,000,000 to 15,000,000 pounds.

Mr. Garland broke down his total as follows:—approximately 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 pounds of honey would be in the hands of wholesalers, packers and beekeepers. Another 3,00,000 pounds would be on shelves in retail outlets.

The Canadian Council has made two propositions to the Federal government about the honey, mostly in stock throughout western Canada. With troubled world finances creating a lack of importers for Canadian honey and no apparent prospect of selling all the surplus on the domestic market, beekeepers look to the government as their only hope.

They have asked the government to put a floor price under the honey market to give it confidence and stability, thus ensuring producers that the price of their honey will not drop below the minimum required to keep them in business.

Their alternate proposal was that the government make a bulk purchase immediately of from 7½ to 10 million pounds of the surplus. This would be held by the government in the hope it could be exported later or held in reserve for a poor harvest year when it could be consumed by domestic demand.

Two Men Die In Gogama Plane Crash

Badly Injured Pilot Lies 24 Hours By Wrecked Machine

SUDBURY, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Richard Naveau, 46, and his nephew, Sidney Naveau, 41, of Gogama, two Indian trappers, are dead and the pilot of a Sudbury Airways plane, is in critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital here as the result of a plane crash on isolated Kenogamassi Lake, 24 miles northeast of Gogama.

Details of the accident are still sketchy but it is known that Robert Milligan, 28, of Toronto, lay for almost 24 hours beside the wreckage of his plane until spotted by another Sudbury Airways plane late Wednesday afternoon. He was brought by train to Capreol and from there to Sudbury by car. His condition this morning is serious, suffering multiple bruises and fractures. It it not known how the crash occurred.

Milligan took off Tuesday with the two Indians to fly them into their trap lines. When he failed to return, his mechanic at Gogama, Jack Fair, contacted the airway's office in Sudbury and another plane was flown north Wednesday to launch a search for the missing plane.

Late Wednesday afternoon the wreckage was spotted on the lake. Milligan had managed to build a small fire but was suffering badly from exposure and injuries. The Naveaus were well known in the Gogama area, both being members of the Matogami Post Indian band.

Bodies In Cabin

The bodies of the trappers, both of whom likely were killed on impact, will be flown to their homes today. They were found in the crumpled cabin of the single-engined DeHaviland Moth.

Milligan, who served with the RCAF during the war, was suffering from shock and other injuries which would be determined following three X-rays. He had been flying with Sudbury Airways about three months.

After being admitted to hospital he dictated a telegram to his wife at Toronto saying.

"I busted ankle in argument with aircraft. Plane got better of me this time. Laid up in hospital. Home soon."

He told rescuers he tried to pull one of the trappers out of the wreckage 'but I was so badly hurt, and I saw he was dead, that I decided to save what strength I had."

Toronto Teachers Consider Unionism

TORONTO, Feb. 10—(CP) — Toronto's Public School teachers are thinking in terms of trade unionism.

A mass meeting of the Toronto Public Schoolmasters' Association, with a membership of 400, will be held Saturday to hear AFL organizer Russell Harvey. Purpose of the meeting is to outline the position of the teachers in relation to the trade union movement.

The schoolmasters were recently rebuked by the Education Board in their attempts to obtain higher pay than women teachers because of their after-school sports activities.

40 Strikers At Legislature

PARIS, Ont., Feb. 10 (CP) — Members of the Ontario Legislature will be confronted Friday by a group of about 40 striking employees of the Penman Mills at Paris and sympathizers, who plan to lobby at the Parliament Buildings in Queen's Park, Toronto.

Union officials said today the strikers would be accompanied by a group of Paris residents, in sympathy with them.

Val Bjarnason, Ontario director of the United Textile Workers of America (AFL) said today that a telegram was being sent to Ontario Labor Minister Charles Daley, urging him to hold a meeting in his office Friday morning as scheduled, despite the fact Penmans Ltd. would not be represented.

The Labor minister had requested representatives of both company and union to meet with him Friday at 10 a.m. an invitation the union accepted but which was turned down by the company, on the grounds that it would not conduct any negotiations with the union while the strike was in progress.

A delegation has been appointed to meet the minister if the meeting can be arranged. Included in the delegation, along with Mr. Bjarnason and William Stewart, union organizer, will be Charles Alexander, president of the Paris Local 153; Helen Murphy, secretary-treasurer; Gordon Bonney, vice-president; Victor Creedon, Arthur Gignac and Hendrika Bethune, picket captains.

Truman Denounces Hungary's Treatment Of Cardinal Mindszenty As "Infamous"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—President Truman today denounced Hungary's treatment of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty as "infamous."

He described the treason trial of the Cardinal as a kangaroo court proceeding which will go down in history as a blot against the country which carried it out.

Truman went on to say that the matter of whether it was in violation of Hungary's treaties is being investigated and a report is to be made to him on that point.

The President discussed the trial at a press conference and gave reporters permission to quote directly his use of the word "infamous."

A reporter asked whether a break in relations with Hungary is under study. The President made it clear he didn't say that.

Accuses Western Powers Of Issuing Ultimatum Over Yugoslavia's Claims

LONDON, Feb. 10—(AP).—Russia today accused the Western Powers of issuing an "ultimatum" in rejecting Yugoslav claims to a slice of southern Austria. British and American sources said Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin made the charge at the reconvened Big-Four Conference on an Austrian independence treaty.

An informant reported British and American deputies—James Marjoribanks and Samuel Reber — said they would be glad to hear Yugoslavia's claims on other matters, provided the territorial demand is dropped.

Reber, supported by French and British deputies, denied the Western stand was an ultimatum, an American informant said.

At the same time Reber reiterated that it would be a waste of time to hear Yugoslav officials again unless they had dropped their territorial demands on Austria.

Ales Bebler, Yugoslav Deputy Foreign Minister, arrived in London last night to renew his country's demands.

The four deputies, laying aside the question of whether to hear him, passed to other disputes sections of the proposed treaty. They are stalemated on the question of repatriating displaced persons and refugees now in Austria.

Informants said Zarubin renewed the Soviet demand that Austria be required to send all Soviet Union refugees back to their homeland. The three Western Powers oppose compulsory repatriation.

Britain proposed as a compromise to drop all reference to repatriation from the treaty. Instead, Austria would be held to provisions of a United Nations Assembly resolution passed in 1946 providing that refugees need not return to their homeland if they do not want to.

Zarubin opposed the compromise, declaring Russia had never agreed to accept the United Nations resolution.

Yugoslav claims for land and money were the immediate issues that broke up the last treaty conference in May, 1948.

Sentence 2 Men To Death In Gandhi Killing

NEW DELHI, Feb. 10 — (AP)— Narayan Godse and Narayan Apte, editor and publisher of a small Poona newspaper, today were sentenced to die in the gallows for the assassination of Mohandas K. Gandhi.

Five of the eight defendants were given life sentences. The aged politician, V. D. Savarkar, who had been described by the prosecution as the brains of the plot against Gandhi's life, was acquitted.

D. R. Badge, a ninth man arrested in the plot, turned state's evidence and was released at the end of the actual trial proceedings in December.

The defendants came into the crowded courtroom today laughing and joking. When led from the room after the sentences were pronounced, they began shouting, with Godse's voice sounding above the others, "we will conquer Pakistan. Long live Hindustan." Then they broke into loud laughter.

Sentenced to life imprisonment were: Vishnu Karkare, hotel keeper at Ahmednagar; Madan Lal, Punjab refugee who admitted setting off a bomb at Gandhi's prayer meeting 10 days before the assassination; Datttraya Parchure; Gopal Godse, brother of the chief defendant; Kistayya Shankar, a servant.

The judge recommended, however, that Shankar's sentence be commuted to seven years hard labor.

Godse, who was seized on the prayer grounds of Birla Mansion here the moment of the assassination with a smoking pistol in his hands, was found guilty of five subsidiary charges besides the actual killing of Gandhi. Before reaching the pronouncement of the sentence on the main charge, the judge sentenced him to a total of 19 years imprisonment.

Apte also was sentenced to 19 years imprisonment on subsidiary charges. Besides his life sentence, Lal was given 25 years for abetting murder.

During his trial Godse confessed he killed Gandhi "purely for the benefit of humanity," and asked for death.

New Storm Batters British Columbia

VANCOUVER, Feb. 10 (CP)— The snow-choked, power-short lower mainland of British Columbia Wednesday bore the brunt of a new storm which heaped three more inches of snow and ice on the area. No respite from the cold which has gripped the province during the last two months is in sight as weathermen predicted more snow, driven by 35-mile-an-hour winds.

Throne Speech Promises Clear Distinguishment For Butter And Margarine

Give More Assistance For Community Halls And Skating Rinks; Will Assist In Highway Development

TORONTO, Feb. 10—(CP).—Steps to consolidate Ontario's expansion, with an eye to "the evils and dangers of inflationary over-expansion"—are forecast in the Speech from the Throne read today at the opening session of the province's new Legislature. The Speech, read by Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson, also forecast legislation to provide "for the clear distinguishment in all forms of sale to the consumer, between butter and oleomargarine." It gave no details of the control planned for the butter substitute which went on sale recently after a Supreme Court decision that the Dominion Government lacked authority to continue a ban on its sale.

"Progressive and sympathetic law enforcement with particular firmness in the suppression of subversive elements so as to guarantee the rights of people to go about their lawful business," was mentioned as a government objective by the 1,300-word speech, shortest in years.

The government plans measures "to rationalize further the relations between municipalities and the province." New legislation will enable courts hearing divorce actions "to deal adequately" with the custody and welfare of children under 16.

Other Plans

Other plans include: Assistance to municipalities in training of policemen and firemen; improved superannuation benefits to school teachers and inspectors; widened assistance for community halls, skating rinks and playing fields; improved drainage legislation; legislation affecting hospitals and homes for the aged.

In its reference to consolidation measures, the speech said that never before in Ontario was there promise of "greater substance, stability and progress." The government viewed "with

Police Seek Members Of Counterfeit Ring

TORONTO, Feb. 10—(CP)— The police search for members of an international counterfeit ring, which has smuggled thousands of bogus United States dollars into Canada, today centred on Montreal where a number of counterfeit $20 bills turned up.

Police said they believe the bills were shipped to the Quebec city about the same time as two bundles of counterfeit money were smuggled into the country and left at an Oshawa house.

"Apparently the agent in Montreal has been able to distribute some of his supply to his accomplices," one police officer said.

RCMP officials have warned merchants to watch for the bogus bills. They are said to be good imitations, but have certain markings that can be easily identified. The serial numbers of all the bills start with "G" and the plate number on the back starts with 480.

Fabulous Red Spy Ring Worked In Japan

Communist Network In Canada Called Amateur Show In Comparison

WASHINGTON Feb. 10—(CP) —The United States Army told in detail today the fantastic story of the Communist spy ring which funnelled stolen Japanese military secrets to Russia from 1933 to 1941.

The wartime Red network in Canada, disclosed in 1945 by Igor Gouzenko, was an "amateur show" in comparison with the setup directed by Dr. Richard Sorge in Tokyo, the Army said.

Sorge was a German Communist who posed as a newspaper correspondent and loyal Nazi. He and his chief lieutenant, Ozaki Ozumi, were hanged in November, 1944, three years after their arrest.

The German and his inner circle of 15 henchmen "almost succeeded in committing the perfect crime," the Army said in a 40,000-word reveiw entitled "A Case Study in International Espionage in the Far East."

"Starting from nothing in a country which he never before had even visited, Dr. Sorge was able to develop the most complete and successful espionage operation in Japanese history."

Fully Informed

The report says he was able to keep Russia "fully informed on Japanese military and industrial capabilities and intention from 1933 to 1941."

Sorge cultivated the German ambassador in Tokyo and his staff so well they told him almost anything, asked his advice and let him see secret papers.

"Probably never in history has there been a ring more bold or more successful. Although most of the prinicipals are dead, some are still at large. They can be expected to be secretly busy with their trade at this very moment in the capitals of the world.

Many of the minor figures in the ring were released by the Americans as political prisoners. The army report indicates that maybe that wouldn't happen if the Americans had it to do over again.

Apparently the Army was intended to be on the lookout for spying at home.

Still "at large," it says, are a Missouri-born author, Agnes Smedley, and Gunther Stein, a German who was a temporary but "top-level member" of the Tokyo ring from 1936 to 1938.

Miss Smedley is described as the go-between who first brought Sorge and Ozaki Hozumi, his right-hand man, together.

In New York, Miss Smedley said the report's reference to her is "a despicable lie." She demanded a retraction and an apology.

Abbott Reports Union Deficit To Be 23 Million

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 (CP)—Government estimates indicate Canada will incur a deficit of $23,000,000 in Newfoundland in the first year after the island joins Canada as 10th province.

Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons yesterday it is estimated that expenditures by all Federal government departments in the first year of union will amount to about $50,000,000. Federal revenues from the island in the period have been estimated at $27,000,000.

Mr. Abbott said he will read the detailed figures into the record when members resume study of the 50 clauses of Bill 11, the document containing the union terms. Twenty-two clauses have already been passed.

Expenditures will cover family allowances, old age pensions, veterans benefits, defence, deficits of the Newfoundland railroad, servicing of the Newfoundland debt and other services which fall within Federal jurisdiction. The amount will also include the first instalment — $6,500,000 — of the $42,000,000 transitional grants which Canada will pay in the early years of union.

Mr. Abbott warned that the value of Newfoundland's union with Canada should not be judged from the balance sheets.

Horses Drown In Bay Of Quinte

PICTON, Feb. 10—A team of horses owned by Harry Abramsky of Glenora Road, drowned in the Bay of Quinte when they plunged through the ice near Adolphustown.

J. Chambers and Paul Milan were driving the horses, hitched to a sleigh load of logs, and had gone less than 100 yards when sleigh and horses broke through the ice in deep water. The two men managed to save themselves, but efforts to rescue the horses failed.

The ice in most parts of the bay is six to nine inches in depth, but a strong current has weakened it in places. At the time of the accident, the men were hauling the logs from Lennox County to Mr. Abramsky's farm in Prince Edward and attempted a crossing close to where the Ontario Department of Highways' ferry is still operating in a channel cut in the ice. The ferry links the two counties as part of Highway 33.

Government Workers Barred From Buildings

RANGOON, Feb. 10 (AP) — Striking government workers today defied a ban on picketing and barred the doors and gates of government buildings against loyal workers.

There were mob scenes in Rangoon to the muffled overture of heavy artillery pounding pockets of resistance by rebelling Karen tribesmen at Thamaing, eight miles north of the capital.

The Rangoon strikers shouted epithets as baton-carrying policemen hurried to the area to restore order.

Dense crowds milled about the Rangoon high court where defiant demonstrators sought to prevent judges, lawyers and other court officials from entering.

Heavy Turnout Predicted In Irish Vote

BELFAST, Feb. 10 — (AP). — The people of Northern Ireland vote today to decide, in effect, whether they want to stay in the United Kingdom or join Eire in a republic. The votes won't be counted until Friday.

A heavy turnout, running as high as 90 per cent. in contested districts, was predicted. More than 500,000 ballots may be cast.

All police were on call in event of trouble. Flamboyant parades last night ended a slam-bang campaign in which stones and bottles were thrown at political rallies and store windows were smashed.

Twenty-eight years ago the six counties of Northern Ireland (Ulster), mainly Protestant, refused to join the 26 predominantly-Roman Catholic counties of Eire, or Southern Ireland, and stayed with Britain. There have been two Irelands since.

The issues of race and religion cropped up in the general election campaign just ended.

Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, whose Unionist party wants to remain with Britain, charged Eire political leaders with "unjustifiable interference" in the Ulster campaign.

He said in a pre-election statement that there was a possibility now-outlawed Irish Republican army might renew old-time "murder, arson and kidnapping in an election-day invasion."

Sir Basil's party held a majority of better than two-thirds in the old Ulster House of Commons. The Prime Minister predicted the election would increase the Unionist margin.

SHACK CATCHES FIRE

A flooded oil burner is believed to have been the cause of a fire on Wednesday night on the building site of St. Ann's separate school, at Benson Ave. and Bellevue St. The shack of wood and tarpaulin was ablaze when firemen arrived and a booster pump had to be used to extinguish it.

Soil-Building Plan Stressed

TORONTO, Feb. 10—(CP). — Soil-building and conservation have become two of the main objects of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association.

The association Wednesday passed a resolution stating that it would give leadership and support to all soil-saving programs in the province.

One side of conservation was stressed by J. M. Appleton of Wallaceburg, who told delegates that the path to farm profits is "grass covered." He said that farmers would increasingly adopt either a system of grass and clover rotation or increased livestock grazing.

H. H McNish of Lyn was elected president of the association. Other officers: Vice-presidents, Bruce Mehlenbacker of Cayuga, and J. B. Graham of Copetown; secretary-treasurer, A. H. Martin of Toronto.

Prices Climb Steadily In Dull Trading

TORONTO, Feb. 10—(CP) — Prices climbed steadily in dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Golds began a firm upward movement in mid-session that spread from senior issues into a wide list of junior producers.

Volume for the first three hours was 526,000 shares, about 4,000 shares less than yesterday's similar period.

Golds opened quietly but it didn't take much buying attention to lift prices in junior producers as much as 15 cents. McIntyre led the seniors with a point advance at 55¼ and Dome, Hollinger, Lake Shore, Wright-Hargreaves and Teck-Hughes were better.

Canadian Vickers jumped ahead 7⅝ at 74⅝ in industrials and refining oils and papers firmed.

Anglo-Canadian added 15 cents at $4.70 and Okalta, Central Leduc and Pacific Petroleum attracted buying attention for higher prices. Royalite Oil dipped a point at 26¾.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 10 — (CP)— Coarse grain futures prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange rallied briskly Wednesday in reflection of a stronger trend in Chicago grain prices. Rye was in the vanguard of the Winnipeg advance, with maximum gains of as much as 9¾ cents. Buying by American houses and other interests appeared in rye and there was a noticeable decline in offerings in this grain. Demand was stimulated by reports of export inquiries for Canadian rye.

Throne Speech

ence or distraction which would misdirect its efforts in this cause."

It added: "The evils and dangers of inflationary over-expansion are constantly in mind in the consideration and formulation of the measures necessary to effect consolidation of the position now attained. You will be asked to approve proposals designed upon the broad principle of consolidation, with such consequent retrenchment as may be incident to that principle."

Generous Support

The government plans to maintain "generous support of projects leading towards improvement in the welfare of agriculture." It will continue to assist education, health programs, social welfare and highway development "consistent with the availability of essential supplies without prejudicing home construction. It plans "comprehensively fair provision for the needs and obligations of labor, trade and industrial relations," attention to development of the tourist trade and use the conservation of natural resources.

The speech regretted that little progress had been made in settling the problems of dominion-provincial relations "due to the intransigent attitude of the dominion government." However, Ontario would continue its efforts for a settlement.

Enjoys Progress

Ontario enjoyed "unprecedented conditions of progress" in the last five years. The pace of industry has stepped up after the war. Government had followed policies designed to keep pace with the progress. Industrial expansion was accompanied by an expanding population. Thousands of immigrants had come from Great Britain. Success met efforts to have British industries establish branch plants or new enterprises in Ontario.

Legislation passed at the last session helped in construction of more than 5,000 new homes. The government expected this form of assistance would be greatly expanded in the coming year.

The speech mentioned the deaths of two members who were elected as Progressive Conservative government members in the provincial election last June—Charles W. Cragg, member for Parry Sound, and John H. P. Carrere, war hero elected in Cochrane North.

It extended good wishes to the King and mentioned the concern caused by news of his illness last fall. It extended good wishes and congratsulitions to the Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh on the birth of their son last November.

Quebec Giving Further Study To Labor Code

By The Canadian Press.

The Quebec Government is going to give further study to a labor code, having withdrawn proposed legislation containing proposals to ban Communists from labor union executives.

Labor Minisited Antonio Barrette announced withdrawal of the draft code, known as Bill No. 5, at yesterday's sitting of the Legislative Assembly. He said the government wanted to study some "constructive recommendations and suggestions" it had received since drafting the code.

Some labor leaders and certain organizations had criticized the code draft. But Mr. Barrette said the government was not influenced in its decision by the criticism.

Opening to-day of the Ontario and Saskatchewan Legislatures brings to five the number of Provincial Parliaments with their 1949 sessions under way. The others, besides Quebec, are Manitoba and British Columbia.

Electrification Helps

Rural electrification is helping to keep young people on Manitoba farms, H. S. Rungay, Liberal Progressive member for Minnedosa, said yesterday in the Manitoba House. He moved the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne and commended the government for its announced program of expanding hydro-electric power development.

A Manitoba surplus of $4,425,362 for the year ended last March 21 was announced by Provincial Treasurer J. C. Dryden. He said that almost every government branch received more money and spent less than had been expected. Liquor sale profits, for instance, estimated at $5,000,000, amounted to $6,785,073.

Lindsay Arena Makes $4,534 Profit In 1948

LINDSAY, Feb. 10 — (ENS)— The arena at Lindsay's recreation centre realized a profit of $4,534.37 during the year ending Dec. 1943.

A. E. Hicks, chairman of the Arena Division, told Lindsay council this year that this surplus was left after having paid all accounts including a good deal of expenditure during the course of the year on improvements and repairs.

Artificial ice was used for the last two months of the year, Mr. Hick reported and the arrangement had been satisfactory.

Mr. Hick explained that while the committee was striving to make the arena self supporting it had been the policy of the committee to allow as much free skating time for children as possible and he thought that Lindsay arena allowed more free skating time than any other in Ontario. It was a service to the public, he thought.

Development of good hockey teams is of major importance if the arena is to be financially successful in future years, Mr. Hick told the council, Reginald Betts had been hired to coach the boys and plans were already being laid for strong teams to present Lindsay next season, he said.

A skating class for pre-school children two afternoons a week has gradually increased in numbers, Mr. Hick said and there are now 40 children attending regularly. This class was started by Charles Armsden of the arena staff and is still under his direction. He has given his services voluntarily, Mr. Hick said and had taken a keen interest in the youngsters.

Mr. Hick explained that more than 300 boys had enjoyed free hockey every week and more than 5,000 public and separate school children had had free skating from Nov. 8-Dec. 31. The public and separate school league, which embraced 100 children, had used the rink free of charge from 3.30 p.m. to 5 p.m. every Thursday.

The arena was in a good state of repair, Mr. Hick told council but he said the committee wished to build up a fund for water proofing and painting the roof in the summer.

An estimate of $12,214 for expenditure in 1949 was presented to the council and estimated revenue was said to be only $6,614.

Mr. Hick said that the arena committee was considering importing a farm team from the American Hockey League to bolster revenue during the lay off season.

World News In Brief

Taken from Wires of Canadian Press

LONDON, Eng. — The Austin Motor Company, which announced last fall its intention to open an assembly plant for the Canadian and American markets at Hamilton, is reconsidering the scheme because of the continued need for dollar earning. The company said the project may be shelved until the dollar position improves.

LONDON, Eng.—Nat Tennens, lessee of the huge Milburn Empire vaudeville and movie theatre here, brushed aside protests against his plan to stage an exhibition boxing bout between a man and 18-year-old Barbara Buttrick, the "boxing typist." "The show goes on," he announced.

PRAGUE — A new campaign against the hierarchy of the Roman Catholic church in Czechoslovakia was discernible in the wake of the Cardinal Mindszenty case. The Czechoslovak news bureau said the action committees of the national front in Bratislava, capital of Slovakia, have been receiving hundreds of telegrams and resolutions protesting that the hierarchy does not take action against priests accused, and even convicted, of anti-state activities.

MUNICH, Germany — A Hungarian count who described himself as a person representative of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty said he has documentary evidence of the Cardinal's innocence of charges for which he has been sentenced to life imprisonment. Count Zoltan Deczaky said in an interview he has told President Truman and the United Nations by cable that he has such documents. He said he fled Hungary in 1948.

VANCOUVER—British Columbia Indians are going to challenge the federal government's right to collect income tax. Thomas Harry Hunt, a member of the Quakiutl Nation—the only Indians in the province to maintain aboriginal fishing and hunting rights—is taking supreme court action in a test case to see if the government has the right to tax the livelihood of natives. The non-reservation tribe has 1,900 members.

LONDON—The senior student governing body of the University of Western Ontario joined with the student publication, The Gazette, in protesting the barring of a known Communist scheduled to speak to the students.

Can't See Decline

"Canadian farmers are entitled to prices which would justify their wartime sacrifices," the minister said in a speech before the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers Association.

OTTAWA — The question of Canadian diplomatic representation at the Vatican is under "periodic consideration" by the government. The return was tabled for Real Caouette (Union des Electeurs-Pontiac) who asked why there is no Canadian ambassador to Vatican City.

CHICAGO — Mrs. Isabella Bethany, a Chicago negro woman, sued the Santa Fee Railway for $50,000 alleging she was subjected to "Jim Crow" treatment on one of its trains. She alleged that she was compelled to move from a comfortable, air-conditioned coach to a dirty, hot, car in which negro passengers were segregated.

BUDAPEST— A ranking official of the American Legation here said Hungarian authorities had asked that Robin Stuessy, vice-consul and third secretary of the Legation, leave Hungary with 24 hours. Hungarian authorities said Steussy helped Hungarian subjects get out of the country.

Steam Plants For Hydro

The folk of Toronto seem highly pleased that a $40,000,000 auxiliary steam power plant is to be put up in that city. They probably have good reason to be happy about it, for with the 206,000 additional horsepower the plant will be capable of producing—some of it as soon as September 1st, 1951 — there will be less likelihood of such a power shortage as afflicted Torontonians last autumn. We in this well-watered, powerfull district need not be so elated. Forty million dollars is a lot of money to spend on a secondary, purely auxiliary power plant, and all of that $40,000,000 is not going to come out of Torontonians' purses. We in Peterborough and eastern Ontario will without doubt have a tithe extracted from us.

* * *

Another steam power plant is already under construction at Windsor, Ontario. The approximate cost of that will be $30,000,000 (up $9,000,000 since first announced last autumn). The cost will also be borne by the System, that is, the people's Hydro System, that is, us—wherever we live in Ontario. We in Eastern Ontario have no desire to be stingy with our less-favoured Western Ontario fellows, but we cannot be unconscious that $70,000,000 is a lot of money for two power plants whose juice will not cook our porridge. We bear in mind, too, that the Province of Ontario and the Hydro are already committed to spending more than 300 million dollars on new construction (not including steam plants) and 191 million dollars on frequency conversion in Toronto and Western Ontario. Both Windsor and Toronto are in the 25-cycle zone. The new Windsor plant will produce 25-cycle power at first. The first unit of the Toronto plant will turn out 25-cycle power. It is said that the 25-cycle units are being designed for quick conversion to the higher (60-cycle) power. That is good. It would be good to know that the conversion will be cheap as well as quick.

* * *

Peterborough people know as well as Toronto that Ontario needs more power. They may not be as sure that power generated by steam is absolutely indispensable at long range. If the two new plants are only stop-gaps until great water-power projects are completed, they are pretty expensive stop-gaps.

* * *

Lately the Hydro authorities in Toronto have been informing the Ontario world that their engineers have recognized for many years the necessity of having steam plants to supplement water-power. It is strange that we have begun to hear about this only recently. There is, as far as we can discover, no mention of such recommendations in the official Hydro Commission annual report for the year ending October 31st, 1946. When such vast expenditure is involved—expenditure of the people's money—we should like to have the long-term as well as short-term needs for the steam plants justified in clear-cut, factual and reliable documentary form.

Battle Drill Against Foxes

Half a dozen years ago Canadian soldiers in training were taught battle-drill. Among the tactics was a method of clearing a circumscribed area of enemy parachutists or rear-guards. It consists of bracketing the area by fixed lines of machine-gun fire, while troops organized as beaters and slayers move forward across it. The method was an adaptation of a British hunting practice. Now in this district, battle-drill clearing of an infested area is again being staged, complete with walkie-talkies, military vehicles and men of the local Prince of Wales Rangers. The enemy are foxes. Thus the old method with wartime refinements has regained its original application. A hunt was carried out a couple of weeks ago when a three-square-mile tract of farm and bush six miles east of this city was flushed and fired. Battle results reported back to G.H.Q. were: two wolves and six foxes killed, one wolf wounded, four foxes put to flight. Another battle-drill slaughter was carried out last Saturday, with less gory results.

All this seems a bit hard on foxes—the tactics if not the bag. Why must these handsome creatures have to pit their cunning against military minds and civilian shot-guns? It seems that after 1939 when our farmers' sons and other sportsmen went overseas to war against more dangerous game, the foxes at home had a field day—half a dozen years of field days. They multiplied without human check. They became overlords of the animal and poultry kingdom. The natural balance of power was disturbed. Now that the German tyranny in Europe has been ended, the tyranny of foxes at home can be dealt with. The four counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Durham and Northumberland have declared war on foxes. Bounties of two to five dollars are being awarded for each fox killed. Since the first of January bounties have been applied for in these neighbouring counties on more than 1,200 foxes. That so many have been killed shows that many exist.

Our red foxes are not greatly liked in their live, free state, although when there is a natural balance they are tolerated. They do some good; they eat mice, for instance. Alas, they also eat chicken and other flesh intended for the table. In earlier days these foxes were cherished for their pelts. A generation ago a good skin fetched as much as $25. Now they are worth only 80 cents to $1,50, and are a glut on the market. Since that is little encouragement for hunters, the County Councils are offering bounties. to keep the foxes down.

It is a pity that a quirk of fashion must cause a drain on county treasuries. If red fox furs were again in high style, the fox's red brush would not be flaming around chicken coops. It would be too valuable for farmers to ignore. It seems, therefore, that our fine ladies have a patriotic duty to revive the fashion for red fox fur. Let them scorn the dictates of New York and Paris fashions. After all, Paris and New York do not have such foxes running predatorily down Fifth Avenue or the Champs Elysees. Let the Ontario ladies don again the brilliant and lavish red fox fur, and soon—we may hope—New York and Paris will follow Ontario fashion, to the advantage of our farmers and county treasuries.

Abusing The King's English

Speaking in Ottawa on Tuesday Dr. W. E. McNeill, formerly vice-principal of Queen's University, declared that "there has never been a time when there has been so much abuse of the King's English". He laid much of the guilt for this sad state of affairs on our universities, saying "Colleges give lip service to the King's English as something they must teach every student but, in reality, they give it hardly any teaching at all". We agree with Dr. McNeill, and we wish it were otherwise.

The universities cannot bear all the blame, however. Our grade schools and our high schools are also gravely at fault. There was a time when a knowledge of English grammar was thought a necessity for every child trying its entrance examinations, but that does not seem to be the case today. Grammar may be taught, but it is not taught as thoroughly as it should be. Grammar is just as necessary as a knowledge of simple arithmetic, and it has to be taught in the same way, by continual practice and repetition. There is no royal road through grammar; the weary path lies through parsing and analysis, practised daily for three or four years. Given this background, a child passes into the high school in a condition which enables his English teachers there to drill some of the fine points of the language into him. Make no mistake; grammar, vocabulary and a command of language cannot be learned by any method except that of hard work. No one expects to learn to play the piano by divine enlightenment; why should anyone expect to learn a complex language by that means?

Our own views on this subject are already well known to our readers. We should like to see children thoroughly drilled in grammar in grade school, and given comprehensive training in composition in their high schools. We should, indeed, like them to learn to write verse in high school, for the same reason that children used to learn to write Latin verses — to master several common metres and to gain some deftness and sense of appropriateness in the use of words. If anyone thinks that a child has any more important task in school than learning to use its own language properly, we should like to hear about it.

Canada has always been a taciturn nation; for lack of proper training it is rapidly becoming an ill-spoken, word-butchering nation. The remedy lies in a greater emphasis on grammar and composition in our schools, and if that emphasis demands that lesser subjects be dropped, let us drop them by all means.

From The Critic's Notebook

MARY WAKEFIELD by Mazo de la Roche (Macmillan, Toronto). Miss De la Roche is Canada's most perenially successful living novelist. This book, her eleventh Jalna novel, again shows why. She tells a story with conviction and practised ease. She does not attempt to make a novel a vehicle for profundity of thought; she has no doughty "message". Her eleven-volume chronicle of the Whiteoak family and their beloved country home Jalna —which is somewhere between Toronto and Hamilton—is much less a social and historical document than Galsworthy's "Forsyte Saga". Its range is restricted to an Anglo-Canadian family of means of southern Ontario. It is only superficially concerned with national and international events, or with other classes of people. Incidentally, the Whiteoaks are probably the only Canadian family which had ample but limited means seventy years ago, who have done little to add to them, and yet still retain the ancestral home despite taxes and the lure of quick money from speculative builders in suburban southern Ontario.

◇ ◇ ◇

ALTHOUGH it is the last-written Jalna novel, "Mary Wakefield" falls into the family genealogy second after "The Building of Jalna", the first in her fictional time, the second-last to have been written. In "Mary Wakefield" and "The Building of Jalna" the author is going back down the family tree, to people who were but pegs in the first novels. She cannot climb farther up, for the Whiteoaks are pretty much up-to-date. I suspect, too, that Miss Da la Roche is happier with the Whiteoaks in the nineteenth century than with their twentieth century progeny. "Mary Wakefield" is a better account than the penultimate "The Building of Jalna". In the latter there were indications of fatigue and some lapses where biographical and incidental details given in early chapters were contradicted in later ones.

◇ ◇ ◇

"MARY Wakefield" is the story of the young governess brought out from England to minister to Rennie and Meg, the children of the youngish widower Philip Whiteoak. He, it will be remembered, is the youngest son of the grandmother of all—Mrs. Whiteoak (Adeline) of the parrot, the indomitable character and longevity. Philip is now master of Jalna. It is the story of Philip's wooing and winning of the governess Mary Wakefield. As we read many years ago, Mary is to become the mother of Piers, Eden, Finch and young Wakefield.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE novel is fresh, the characters vigorous. The author's narrative skill is again revealed, and her control of situations and the Whiteoak family. Mrs. Whiteoak does not overshadow the story, yet is the same strong woman we have known. Mary Wakefield is vital enough to hold the central female role in this book, but not so much so that she cannot become the shadowy creature which we knew in the earlier novels. It is interesting to see young Rennie here developing as the true scion of his grandmother, with the character which was to make him head of the family years later in the earlier novels. The other child, the daughter Meg, is less strongly portrayed but the author succeeds admirably in showing the motherless child's losing battle for first place in the father's affections.

THE Jalna saga is a remarkable fictional achievement. "Mary Wakefield" will be warmly welcomed by the tens of thousands of Jalna fans, and should there be any readers to whom this book is an introduction to the Whiteoak family, they will avidly search out the earlier novels, and hope for more. Surely Miss De la Roche will not leave us without a twelfth Jalna volume. It would be interesting to see what the author would make of the family should she bring them into this decade. T.J.A.

THE PORTABLE VEBLEN, edited by Max Lerner (Macmillan). Thorstein Veblen was a great original thinker on economic and social problems, and it is useful to have this selection from his works readily available. Much of what he said in "The Theory of the Leisure Class", in "The Place of Science" and in "Absentee Ownership" is now widely known and in some quarters widely believed, but there are many who express Veblen's ideas in their own words who do not know where those ideas came from, or what form they were given by their originator. Veblen was an exceedingly able writer, and his economic ideas were not put forward baldly or without important qualifications. This is a good selection, well edited, and with an important introduction; of special value is Mr. Lerner's contrast of Veblen with Marx. R.D.

THE PORTABLE PLATO, edited by Scott Buchanan (Macmillan). Four of the finest dialogues of Plato are given in this book, in the Jowett translation, with a valuable and learned introduction. Some knowledge of Plato is essential to anyone who wants to form intelligent opinions about modern politics, and "The Republic" in particular cannot be neglected. A new selection from Plato never comes amiss, and this is a particularly good one. R.D.

Quebec Labour Code

Before these words are read we fancy that the Quebec government will have become convinced of the extreme unwisdom of some of the provisions contained in that part of its proposed new labour code which deals with the exclusion of Communists from union offices. Indeed, the chances are that the extravagances of the first draft of the bill were put in merely to make a revised draft look more palatable by comparison.

A law which undertakes to limit the class of persons eligible for office in so important a body as a great trade union should be as clear, as free from uncertainty, as it can possibly be made. Nobody can claim that there is any certainty about a law which says that no person can be an officer or representative of employees if he supports a Communist or Marxist organization or movement or party "or co-operates in any manner with them in the pursuit of their ends."

The position of officer or agent of a trade union is too important, in these days, for there to be any uncertainty about who is its lawful occupant, or any possibility of persons being excluded from occupying it (when duly elected or appointed) on inadequate or unsubstantiated grounds.

"FOR THE WIN' SHE BLOW LAK HURRICANE"

BIMEBY SHE BLOW SOME MORE ..."?

Sensitive Newfoundland

(BY T.C. IN THE OTTAWA CITIZEN)

AS a Newfoundlander who welcomes his country's union with Canada, and one who worked to bring the union about, I feel that the greatest service I can presently render that union is to point out to mainland Canadians that they should be most careful, most scrupulous, to avoid making statements that might offend extremely sensitive feelings of the new Canadians. Virtually every public word on Newfoundland uttered by old Canadians from now on will be watched and weighed by all Newfoundlanders with almost psychic attention.

Newfoundlanders are amongst the touchiest people on earth. They are inordinately proud of their country, proud of their history, proud of the thousands of their countrymen who have won success in half the countries of the world. For four and a half centuries they have battled against the very elements themselves in their effort to carve homes for themselves. Battle has been the very nature of their lives from the beginning: they had to battle against the oppressive English laws which forbade settlement or colonization in the first place; against early "Fishing Admiral" rule; against neglect, misunderstanding and stupidity on the part of the early Colonial Office of England. They had to battle for representative, then full responsible government. Rights and favours which were showered prodigally upon the colony of Nova Scotia, for example, had to be wrested by Newfoundlanders out of the very governments of England that seemed to delight in pressing upon others what they long refused to Newfoundland.

FOUR and a half centuries of this ceaseless struggle against heavy odds have naturally bred into the Newfoundland people a fierce pride of achievement, and a hair-trigger resentment against the slightest word from "outsiders" of a derogatory nature. They take for granted, as their obvious due, any word of praise or admiration of themselves or their country.

Does Newfoundland derive benefit from union with Canada? Let Newfoundlanders, not Canadians, say so. Has Newfoundland gone through "hard times" in the past? A Newfoundlander can say so, but not a Canadian. Are there slums in Newfoundland; is the incidence of disease high there? Is the standard of living low for many of the people? Is the Newfoundland Railway an old-fashioned, narrow-gauge affair that reminds Canadians and Americans of the Toonerville trolley? Is the Island sadly lacking in a sufficiency of good, motorable road? A Newfoundlander can answer Yes, and denounce such deficiencies with invective and scorn: but let Canadians refrain from even as much as bare reference to them.

WALTER Davenport of Collier's visited Newfoundland and wrote an article about the country that still infuriates Newfoundlanders when they think of it. Joan Blondell returned to the United States with what she thought were funny stories about the "Newfy" Express for radio broadcast on Command Performance, but she would have been lynched had she gone back to the Island. New World published a double-page spread picture showing the worst slum street in St. John's, and Newfoundlanders to this day grind their teeth at the thought of it.

The word of advice just now to Canadians is: If you can't praise Newfoundland and Newfoundlanders for their fine qualities of courage, ingenuity, hospitality, and their country for its magnificent scenery, sport, and climate, say nothing at all. No condescension, nothing patronizing. Just friendly, sincere praise. Newfoundland will be very grateful.

My soul shall be satisfied as with marrow and fatness; and my mouth shall praise thee with joyful lips....My soul followeth hard after thee: thy right hand upholdeth me. (Ps. 63: 5, 8.)

Ye shall keep my sabbaths, and reverence my sanctuary: I am the Lord....And I will set my tabernacle among you: and my soul shall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people. (Lev. 26: 2, 11, 12.)

Letter To The Editor

VACATION DATES

Sir: May I through the medium of your columns, bring to the notice of the Department of Travel and Publicity, the various Chambers of Commerce, and the public generally, this matter of importance to all vacationists and holiday resort owners.

Recent years have added many thousands of people to the annual holiday goers and put a big strain on all the regular resorts.

Owing to the closing down of many large factories and businesses, mostly for the last week of July and the first week of August, in all our large towns and cities, thousands of people are compelled to take their holidays in that period. A large number of these people have perforce to be disappointed as the resorts cannot accommodate numbers beyond capacity.

If my own little corner at Port Elgin can be taken as a "yard stick" of resort accommodation, my cabins have all been fully booked up for some time and I have had to turn down a number of applications for that period of 1949.

Much correspondence is wasted both ways between resort owners and guests through the inability of the one to accommodate the other for the desired dates.

The obvious solution is for holiday periods of large groups of people to be staggered either inter-city or inter-factories within each city; this can only be done by province wide organization and such a movement, if properly organized, would be of great benefit to the travelling public and to all resort owners and the many other businesses that cater to the vacationists.

This letter is being circulated to several other large daily papers in the hope that something will be done immediately to ameliorate this condition which has already reached alarming proportion, even to the exclusion of American Tourists, so much desired, during that last week of July and first week of August.

People who can choose their own holiday dates would be well advised to avoid those two weeks, both for their own pleasure and comfort, and to ease the situation for others who cannot choose.

Thanking you, sir, for this space,

Yours very truly,

A. E. LEEDALE.

12th Rent Control Bill Presented In Parliament

BY JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, Feb. 10 (CP).—Another bill, the 12th of its kind, has been presented in Parliament to impose another form of rent control. Ten of the existing rent control acts apply to unfurnished dwellings. In most cases they are designed to prevent undue rises in rent, liable to result from the housing shortage, by limiting the rent a landlord may legally recover from a tenant. Landlords in turn are protected by provisions against undue increase in rates of mortgage interest and the calling-in of mortgages as long as they pay the restricted interest due.

A furnished houses' rent control act provides for tribunals which may, on appeal, approve reductions or increases in rent. These tribunals have heard almost 20,000 appeals a year with rent reductions ordered in nearly 70 per cent of these cases.

Tenant Shares

The new bill—the landlord and tenant (rent control) bill—gives protection to tenants who share part of their accommodation. It also allows application for recovery of any premium paid the landlord for the grant renewal of continuance of a tenancy.

A landlord under rent control regulations which held down his income from his property might ask a stiff but illegal premium from a prospective tenant in return for a lease. The bill proposes a tribunal shall ascertain what rent is reasonable and allow the tenant to set off any illegal premium paid by him against this future reasonable rent.

Even this new legislation leaves a gap. A departing tenant, acting apart from the landlord, might demand a premium or "key money," for assigning his lease. No means of recovering this money has been devised.

...And WHAT a Difference In Her Figure and Pep!

The peples, exhausted feeling, common to many women, is often due to low blood count. Lack of sufficient red corpuscles, resulting from iron deficiency, may be robbing your body of vital oxygen. And you must have plenty of oxygen to help explode your energy and give you "going power".

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-noted for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with blood count up, most people regain that glorious feeling of health and energy that gets them out of the old rocking chair into the activities they need to help restore a youthful, fit appearance. Expect Keen Competition At Brockville Festival

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 —(CP)—A few of Eastern Ontario's little theatre groups have fallen by the wayside during the last year, but competition will be keen at the two regional drama festivals next week in Ottawa and Brockville.

Only four companies, three from Ottawa and one from Hull, Que., have entered the three-day French-language festival which opens here Monday.

Nevertheless the British actor Robert Speaight, regional adjudicator, will have a busy week.

Hard on the heels of the Ottawa competition comes the English-language festival. It will be held for the first time at Brockville, Feb. 17-19.

Choice of plays in both these preliminary skirmishes to the Dominion Drama Festival at Toronto next April would suggest that Canada's amateur actors and actresses have remembered the advice of Mr. Speaight last year when he adjudicated the final festival.

Advesed Classics

At that time he emphasized the value of choosing from the classics, and a glance over the programs of both festivals show a leaning in that direction.

Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" has been entered in the Brockville contest by the newly-formed Peterborough Little Theatre. Director of the classic will be Roberston Davies, well known Canadian playwright and Editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

Among other newcomers to the English Festival will be the Lanark Junior Farmers' drama group, with a one-act comedy by J. J. Bell, "The Pie in the Oven."

Two plays by J. B. Priestley, "The Rose and Crown," and "Music at Night," also have been entered.

The latter will be presented by the Civil Service Drama Group of Ottawa, also entering a one-act piece, "Self-Made Man," by Sydney Box. The former will be produced by Brockville Theatre Guild which will of its founding on the second day of the festival.

As in other years there will be two awards at the English-speaking festival, the Davies trophy, given by Senator W. Rupert Davies, Publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard, and the Fulford Shield, awarded by George Fulford of Brockville. Prizes also are given the best actor and actress.

Australia Expanding Dairy Production

SMITHS FALLS, Feb. 10 (CP) —Australia's High Commissioner to Canada, Francis M. Forde, said Wednesday night his country is attempting to expand its dairy production to boost its food contracts with the United Kingdom.

In a speech before the annual banquet of the Smiths Falls Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Forde said:

"Our export policy in regard to food products is dominated by the Australian government's determination to give all possible aid to the United Kingdom.

"At least 95 per cent of our exportable surplus of animal food products has gone in recent years to the U.K. under long term contracts."

Woman Dead 2 Months

TORONTO, Feb. 10 —(CP)—The body of Mrs. Lillian Arscott, believed dead for almost two months, was found by her son at her suburban North York home Tuesday night. Walter Arscott told police he had not heard from his mother for several weeks. It is believed the woman died of natural causes, but an inquest may be held.

Ontario Ring Active

MONTREAL, Feb. 10 (CP)—R.C.M.P. said here Wednesday that agents for an Ontario ring of counterfeiters were responsible for attempting to pass bogus $20 American bills in Montreal. Police said the bills were identical with those found recently under a bathtub in the Oshawa home of Edwin McDonald.

Word is wafted through the maze of playoff plans that the intermediate "A" basketball provincial playdowns will commence in a couple of more weeks. The Central Ontario representative—it'll be Outboard Marines of this borough—is slated to take on Hamilton on Feb. 26. Winner of that setto goes against the London-Windsor winnah in March. Our intermediate "B" Marines will be in playdowns shortly, too, as will Towne Togs in the LOBA. In girls' play at the YW tomorrow at 8.15, Lockeys meet Nurses as Collis plays Neill's. PCVS senior and junior boys go to Oshawa on Friday. At the YM at seven Saturday p.m., Toronto Tulip AC tackles Marines "B", and it is followed by the senior East York Grads against Marines "A" cagers.

Bill Gaynon writes in the Niagara Falls Review: "The conscientious and untiring Jerry O'Donoghue came up with another master stroke in his promotion of the Dynamos' third annual banquet. The little Peterborough product, one of the backbones of the grid game in this area for three campaigns, again carried the burden in staging a colorful closing feed for the pigskin athletes and their supporters. He had a fine choice of guest speaker in Jim Wells, popular manager of Buffalo Bills. The entire night was both colorful and enjoyable, and once again the O'Donoghue hand was displayed in conspicuous fashion." Stout fellah, Jerry.

A New Club For Boys?

Jack Dane, recreation director here, is writing various organizations inviting representation at a meeting in the Public Library at 7.30 p.m. Friday. It is hoped to organize a club to sponsor boxing, wrestling and other forms of athletics for local boys. He says: "It is felt by a number of citizens that the development of such a boys' club would fill a long-wanted need. It would assist materially in the prevention of juvenile delinquency, the promotion of physical health and, under proper supervision, the opportunity for character growth." It sounds okay to us.

Jake Wade is doing all right for himself in hockey this season, playing for Glace Bay Miners in the Maritime Senior Hockey League. A recent clipping said he was a big factor in the Miners' January surge and another item calls him one of a "high-scoring string with free-wheeling tactics." The husky and speedy centre from here was voted most valuable player in a game the other night as he scored two of the Miners' three goals to win a prize of a shirt. He is third in scoring for the league on a second-place team, potting at least one point a game in his last nine starts. Mrs. Wade is down there with him and was mentioned as one of the chaperones of the Kinsmen Club pre-Lenten Ball. Big Jake will be back for softball comes springtime.

Hefty Casualty List

Medical report on Legion-Petes' game last night here: Jerry Creighton, fractured nose and six stitches; Joe Rochetta, several stitches; Doug Mortimer, severe charley-horse; most others, bruises and concussion. Also a penalty-box fight between Crowley and McMaster with some fans trying to get in on it. Legion had to hustle to pull out a 6-3 win in a hard-hitting struggle beween these bitter enemies. Rochetta and Crowley combined for two in the first as Hill scored from Coombs, and Tompkins tallied from Reid. Stewart aided both Coombs and Hill in the third for Legion, as Quigley and Kingdon counted for the men o' McGillis, assists going to Jack Mortimer, Griffin and Tompkins. A torrid tilt before a fair crowd—and they clash again once next week. If the liniment and bandages hold out.

"I'll buy him a shirt, but I won't wrestle in the same ring with him again," Mike Sharpe said angrily last night after tearing Referee Sam Gotter's shirt off his back. Mike, who is six-six and weighs 245, felt he had been jobbed by the little ref in the main mat bout at the Brock with 297-pound Hi Lee, who towers six-eight. It did look odd, at that. The two giants staged a real rugged scrap, with plenty of fists thrown and hair yanked. Lee is a powerful brute but Mike was finishing up well when counted out just as he figured he had Hi low. Downright disconcerting. They may rematch them but had better get a referee well over 200 pounds when those big guys get in there. Sandy O'Donnell and Billy Hanson drew in a good semi-final, and Pat Flanagan beat Al Korman in a lulu of a prelim.

Marines Team Gets Lead Over Port Hope

Outboard Marine bantams practically sunk the House of James bantams out of the OMHA playdowns Wednesday night when they defeated them 8 to 1. This means that the Marine team will carry a seven point lead in the points-to-count two game series with the Port Hopers. The return game is Thursday at the Arena.

In the game the Mariners got three goals in the House's twine in 18 seconds. This should be a record for the Port Hope rink and OMHA playdowns. They were scored in the last period of the game at 12.25, 12.40 and 12.43. The marksmen were Burns, Sunderland and MacGrath.

Play in the first period was dominated by the Mariners. Time and again Hancock, the Port Hope goalie, turned aside hot drives. In the first seconds of the period Frizzelle scored on a passou tfrom Burns. Kearns had several near goals only to be outguessed by Hancock. MacGrath rapped home a pass from Burns to make the score two to zero. On a low shot from the blue line McCormick scored the last goal of the period. The second period was evenly played with Dotzko the outstanding man on the ice. The Port Hope team kept the puck inside the blue line but couldn't dent the twine behind Delahaye. Strickland opened the scoring in the third period by golfing a shot which dribbled through the goalie's pads. A passing play from McDougall to Kelly paid off with Kelly tucking the puck behind Hancock. Marines sank three fast goals. Ashton drove a screen shot from the blue line to score the only Port Hope goal.

Burns led the scoring for the Marines with a goal and two assists. Strickland and MacGrath each had two goals, Dodzko was easily the best for the Hopers. He played the whole of the third period and half the second.

Lineups:

Outboard Marines—Goal, Delahaye; defence, McCormick Byrne; centre, McGrath; Wings, Frizelle, Strickland; alternates, Ball, Kelly, Kearns, McDougall, McGillen, Turner, Corbett, Holden.

Port Hope House of James—Goal, Hancock; defence, Harrison, Scully; sectre, Dotzko; wings, Lonsberry, Richards; alternates, Ashton, Hewson, Rose, Pattersby, Williams, Plummer, Quick, Jex.

Hi Lee Gets Doubtful Fall Over Sharpe In Main Go

In the "battle of giants" at the Brock Arena last night, huge Hi Lee won a questionable fall in the main mat bout over tall Mike Sharpe. The latter, at 245 pounds, crossed Hi (just 297) up in a full nelson and came back off the ropes in a reverse body slam to apparently pin Lee underneath. But the referee claimed he oversiid his target a bit and had his own shoulders on the mat—with Lee bridging himself—as Mike was counted out. He was furious and ripped the ref's shirt off his back.

Before that in the last bout Mike had used a choke hold and hard body scissors to advantage as Hi pulled hair and other illegal stuff and short Referee Sam Gotter—a 180-pounder—was caught in the middle once. Mike won the second fall in 17 minutes with a flying body scissors as Hi came off the ropes at him. It was a popular fall as Big Hi used his fists and strength in rough fashion, emitting guttural protests when pulled away. Mike took a beating for a time, especially on a hammerlock, but finished it up in business-like fashion. He once bounced right off the huge Hi on an attempted flying tackle.

Hi Got First

Lee took the opening fall in 26 minutes with full nelsons and running Mike into the turnbuckles, first softening him up with pile-drivers. He banked on his power and swung fists and elbows as well as yanking hair. There wasn't much real wrestling shown, but Mike battled back while the small official was practically helpless, though he toiled hard to keep them on the level. There was a lot of action, including Mike hung up in the ropes, but the fall was unpopular. The grapplers—Hi used to be a boxer—remained in the ring between falls.

Goes to Draw

Sliding Billy Hanson, scaling 229, held rough Sandy O'Donnell, at 240, to a 30-minute draw in a lively semi-final. They were slamming each other about at the bell after both were in and out of the ring, and the referee was lost in the general melee. He tried desperately to break them up and worked as hard as the bigger grapplers but generally in vain. Sandy was unpopular for his rough tactics but Billy held his own pretty well, being a smart wrestler and not afraid to mix it, either. They were using knees, elbows and fists at times toward the finish and the crowd kept up a racket all the way through.

A Swell Go

Probably the best prelim ever seen here was dished up by Pat Flanagan, 223-pounder, and Al (Krusher) Korman, 225, with Pat winning in 18 minutes with a body slam and top spread. They opened fast with Korman playing it dirty from the start and Flanagan holding his own with speed and experience. For a time, Korman had both Pat and the ref in trouble but Flan turned it on shortly and would have won once but for a slow count. They were out of the ring and battling on the floor of the arena for a space and the place was in an uproar at the terrific action by the pair of game-cocks. They threw everything into it at top speed and everyone was happy over the scrap and over the victory for Flanagan at the finish.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press

Harry Lumley, Detroit goalie, who hung up his fifth shutout as the Wings slaughtered New York 8-0.

Johnny Peirson, Boston winger who scored once and assisted on two other markers as the Bruins beat chicago 5-3.

Maurice Richard, Montreal, and Don Metz, Toronto, who did all the scoring for their respective teams as Canadiens and Leafs drew 2-2.

PCVS Cagers Get Win In Port Hope

Two field goals and a foul shot by Terry Brown and a foul shot by Al McIlraith totaled enough overtime points to give PCVS Junior "B's" their first win of the season in a COSSA district basketball game played at Port Hope High School Tuesday evening. Tied 23-23 at the end of full time, the teams continued into an exciting three minute overtime period before PCVS won out 29-25.

A slow first half which ended 10-6 in favor of the Peterborough team was followed by a lively second half which featured an exciting point for point last quarter. Ross and Harwood with seven and six points each led the Port Hope team in their rousing finish, only to have Brown of Peterborough whip in five quick overtime points after being held scoreless all through regulation time.

Harwood of Port Hope was high scorer with ten points, closely followed by Ross with nine. McIlraith had seven, Brown five, Graham and Jameson four each for PCVS.

The teams:

PCVS "B"—Ash 2, Britnell, Graham 4, Hendren 2, Elcombe, Dewar, Brown 5, McIlraith 7, Jameson 4, Cranfield 1, Doughty 3, Buckland 1; total 29.

Port Hope — Ross 9, Ballett, Plummer 2, Sisson, Kearns, Lenahan 2, Jordon, Porter 2, Trawin, Harwood 10, Beebe; total 25.

Ballet Fund Grant

TORONTO, Feb. 10 —(CP)— The Ontario Government has granted $2,000 to the Canadian Ballet Festival Fund, it was announced Wednesday. Earlier, Toronto City Council donated $2,500 to help meet expenses of the festival, to be held here March 1-5.

Legion Defeats Petes 6-3 In Neat Senior 'B' Tussle

By FRED MAYBEE.

Amid exciting scenes from start to finish, Legion beat Petes 6-3 at Civil Arena last night in a regular OHA Senior "B" game. It was the hardest fought game to date between the two clubs. In fact, the score might have been a tie, so closely did the two bitter rivals battle it out all the way.

Referee Reesor handed out 17 penalties in all, seven in the third, to control action as feeling mounted between the players. Close to 1,000 fans saw and loved it all, as both teams opened the throttle and gave all they had.

Joe Rochette scored early in the first with Bill Crowley getting assists as he flipped neat passes to the former in front of the net that clicked prettily. The Petes steadied down and held well until the 15.40 mark when Hill took a nice pass from Sixty Coombs to rifle a hard drive to the upper left corner to make it 3-0. In the final minute, Ace Reid fed Honey Tompkins a long pass across the blue line as the latter sped down right wing, eluded his check and closed in to beat Nicholls from close in with a fast backhander.

Got No. 4

Sixty Coombs finally broke through mid-way in the second to score number four for Legion as the teams fought hard and fast from the start. Stewart set up the play for Coombs who fired from five feet out. At the 15-minute mark, the line of Quigley, Mortimer and Griffin who worked well throughout, clicked for a beautiful tally as criss-cross passes paid off and Quigley shot a close hard one to the uncovered right side. One apiece was all for the second as the teams played at a terrific clip both ways and six boys visited the sin-bin during the session.

Bun Kingdon and Honey Tompkins combined to score in the third to make the score 4-4 as the crowd went wild at the spectacle of so close a battle. Red Creighton's Petes outplayed Legion for most of the second and first of the third in this game. Reg. Stewart and Hill sank the clincher however for Legion later and killed Pete's hopes as Stewart passed to his mate on a wild scramble in front of the net and Hill tallied his second goal of the night on the play. Stewart himself made it six a few seconds later as he combined with Sixty Coombs to outwit Harding.

Led the Way

Hill and Rochetta led the scorers with two goals each while Bill Crowley garnered two assists as the three played a fine game for Legion. Reg. Stewart had one and one and played a fine offensive game, Although Bob Parnell had no scoring points, he starred in a fine two way showing as did Sixty Coombs, the Greenlaws, and Dootch Vitarelli. Defensively, Johnny Godfrey and Ned Vitarelli stood out in a fine all around showing. Nicholls played a fine game in the nets.

For Petes (in a much better showing than any to date) the veterans Kingdon, Tompkins, Drake, Jopling and Harding were great with the last named in one of his finest games as he stopped rubber from all angles. Kingdon and Tompkins each potted a goal while Quigley, Jack Mortimer and Griffin, who played well together, notched the other marker, possibly the nicest scoring play of the evening. Ace Reid played a good game, too.

Wings Plaster Rangers 8-0 Leafs, Canadiens Tied 2-2

By The Canadian Press

Now Chuck Rayner knows how Bill Durnan felt 10 days ago when he was the victim of a 9-0 shellacking at the hands of New York Rangers.

Wednesday night Rayner, tabbed the hottest goalie in the league in recent weeks, watched the pucks fly by as the league-leading Detroit Red Wings plastered an 8-0 defeat on the New Yorkers.

Just as the nine goals knocked the pins out from under Durnan's secure lead in the Vezina trophy race, the eight markers shunted Rayner into the background for a while at least.

In other Wednesday night games, Boston Bruins consolidated their hold on second place with a 5-3 home-ice victory over the slipping Chicago Black Hawks while those bitter Canadian rivals, Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs, battled to a 2-2 deadlock at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The shutout was his fifth of the season and second in a row for Detroit's Harry Lumley who took over the lead in the goalkeepers' race. Lumley has allowed 109 goals in 46 games, Montreal's Durnan 110 in 45 games.

Max McNab with a pair of goals was the only man to collect more than one marker for Detroit. Marty Pavelich, Jack Stewart, Gordie Howe, Jim Enio, Pud Poile and Red Kelly all hit the target once before 12,938 fans.

Fourth Setback

Chicago's loss was the fourth setback in a row for the tail-end Hawks who have won only one of their last 11 starts.

Kenny Smith, Paul Ronty, Johnny Peirson, Woody Dumart and Milt Schmidt split the Boston scoring while Gus Bodnar, Jimmy Conacher and Red Hamill connected for Chicago.

The Hawks went ahead 2-1 in the first frame, but couldn't hold on and the Bruins salted victory away with a three-goal splurge in the middle session.

The Canadiens-Leafs clash was a two-man show. Maurice Richard accounted for both Montreal goals and Don Metz matched his feat for Toronto. The tie left Montreal in third place, still one point ahead of the Leafs. The Habitants drove from behind twice to knot the count. Richard's tying marker came with less than three minutes left.

Knights Slap Kansas For 6th Straight Time

By the Associated Press.

The United States Hockey League race has become a "Knight-mare" for the Kansas City Pla-Mors.

Omaha Knights slapped down the Pla-Mors 4-2 last night for the sixth straight time and extended the losing club's string of defeats to seven.

Minneapolis picked up its sixth victory in the last seven games with a 10-4 victory over Fort Worth at Minneapolis, and Tulsa and Dallas played to a 1-1 tie at Dallas in other games last night.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

Roy Conacher edged closer to Chicago teammate Doug Bentley in the National Hockey League scoring race Wednesday night, collecting two assists while Bentley garnered one. Bentley still leads in points 52 to 51. Detroit's Sid Abel had an assist to remain in third spot with 41, while Jim Conacher of the Hawks sniped a goal to take over fourth with 38.

Kroehlers Down Flyers 3-0; Gens Triumph

By The Canadian Press.

Little Boat Hurley registered his second shut out of the season Wednesday night. And he did it the hard way—against the powerful Barrie Flyers.

The agile Stratford netminder shot himself into a second-place tie in the shutout race as the Kroehlers downed the Flyers 3-0 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A tilt in Stratford.

In other Junior A games on Wednesday night, the sixth-place Guelph Biltmores and the seventh-place Toronto Marlboros battled to a 5-5 overtime draw and Oshawa downed the league-leading Windsor Spitfires 5-1.

The Kroehlers had little trouble after they battled through a scoreless first period. Jimmy Pernfuss sent them into a 1-0 lead in the second period and Jimmy French and Danny Lewicki added one apiece in the third.

In Oshawa, the Generals took a 1-0 lead in the first period, outscored the Spitfires 3-1 in the second, and then added another in the third frame. The win gave the Generals sole possession of fourth place in the league race.

Gerry Scott netted two goals for Oshawa, and Sonny Hopper, Ted O'Connor, and Robinson added singletons. Bert Giesebrecht scored Windsor's goal.

Wolves Score Win

Why do so many Canadians prefer ENO?

ENO's "Fruit Salt" is preferred by many more Canadians than any other saline or health salt because ENO is so effective and pleasant tasting.

ENO's mild antacid action really helps relieve stomach upsets—ENO as a laxative gently helps cleanse the digestive tract and ENO is completely harmless and not habit forming.

No wonder ENO's "Fruit Salt" is six times more popular than any other saline or health salt sold in Canada!

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

More than 20,000 fight fans screamed "fake" 16 years ago tonight as Ernie Schaff sprawled to the canvas for the count in the 13th round of his 15-round bout with Primo Carnera. Four days later the lad who wanted to be a priest, died in hospital from the effects of the beating. He never regained consciousness.

Will Allow Film

REGINA, Feb. 10 —(CP)—A board of appeal Wednesday gave qualified approval to the showing of the film "Snake Pit" in Saskatchewan theatres. The film, depicting life in a United States mental institution, was banned by D. J. Vaughan, provincial film censor, as too "morbid for public entertainment." The board gave its consent to the showing of the picture provided a trailer was shown with the film which would indicate conditions shown in the picture did not apply to Saskatchewan institutions or to the nursing profession in the province.

Thistlewaite Sets Two-Mile Record

Albert Thistlewaite, 24-year-old long distance runner of the Peterborough Harriers Club, was the winner of the second annual indoor 2-mile run at the YMCA and established a new record of 11 mins., 47.8 secs.

The first four runners ran under the time of last year's record which was held by Dean Reid at 12 mins., 26.2 secs.

The runners were paired off by the officials and Thistlewaite was with McNeil. At the start Thistlewaite took the lead and set his own pace which was very fast. He was timed at the mile mark at 5 mins. 30 secs., and held this pace till the mile and a half when he slowed considerably and McNeil took the opportunity of catching up within 50 yards. Then with a quarter of a mile to go Thistlewaite started his sprint right to the tape. His running was exceptionally good and he was not hampered by the smallness of the track.

Second place was taken by J. Brown who was paired with Jack Martin, another one of the favorites of the race. Martin took the lead but failed to hold it and Brown took over then at the half-mile mark. Martin took the lead again but by this time the smallness of the track was beginning to tell on the long stride which is characteristic of Martin; then Brown passed him and went on to win and took second place at 12 mins., 16 sec.

All the members of the club competed but a couple of the sprinters, and the race was a successfully handled by the club officials.

The second event on the indoor program is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 15, and is the second annual mile tournament, open to athletes who are interested in track and field.

Times and places:

1st—W. A. Thistlewaite, 11 mins., 47.8 secs.

2nd—J. Brown, 12 mins., 16 secs.

3rd—D. McNeil, 12 mins., 18 secs.

4th—J. Martin—12 mins., 26 secs.

Curling News

Playing up at High Park rink Wednesday, in Ontario Ladies' Tankard play, two local rinks skipped by Mrs. V. Selkirk and Mrs. G. Wood gave a good account of themselves. In the morning game Mrs. Selkirk won from Mrs. Dr. Gooch, Hamilton Victoria, by 10-6, and then went out in the afternoon and defeated Mrs. McCandless, Sarnia, 14-6.

Mrs G. Wood won her only game by the one-sided score of 20-3 over Mrs. G. Cole, Sarnia.

The games continue today.

Over in Lindsay our boys did not do so well. Both rinks were out of the money.

The B-C elimination series began this morning at 9.00 o'clock. Eleven teams are entered. It is most likely the final game will be played this evening.

We could do with more rinks for the men's bonspiel—Saturday.

Trojan Juves Up Two In Playdowns

Sparked by Buckton and the Robinson brothers the Peterborough Trojans outfought the Port Hope juveniles 4 to 2 Tuesday night in Port Hope. The play was rough with plenty of highsticking trips and elbowing. The husky Port Hopers kept the Trojans on the move with their hustling play. Port Hope rattled two goals in the twine before the Trojans replied.

Play in the first period was fast with plenty of thrills at each end of the rink. Medhurst caught the right hand corner of the Trojan net on a screen shot to open the scoring. Later McKeen scored from a corner faceoff. The play became all Port Hope near the end of the period but they failed to increase the score. In the second period after nice saves by both goalies, Buckton rocketed the puck into the Port Hope net with a backhander. Port Hopers did everything but score. They missed the open net and hi tthe goal posts, but didn't count. Early in the third period G. Robinson scored on a breakaway, pulling the goalie out of the net neatly.

After the scene of battle had shifted from one end to the other rapidly, B. Robinson rapped home a pass from G. Robinson. Ashton, the Port Hope goalie, made save after save but the Hopers couldn't clear the puck. Finally B. Robinson checked a defenceman by the net to snare the puck and score.

Buckton, G. Robinson and B. Robinson line scored all the Trojan goals. Besides scoring they backchecked well. Batley in goal robbed Port Hopers on many apparent sure goals. Dotzko turned in a nice chore on defence and the forward line to star for Port Hope.

Lineups:

Trojan Juveniles—Goal, Batley; defence, Armstrong, Bigford; centre, Jenson; wings, Doris, C. Jones; alternates, Fowler, B. Jones, Buckton, G. Robinson, B. Robinson, Douglas.

Port Hope Juveniles — Goal, Ashton; defence, Flesh, Evans; centre, McKean; wings, Freeman, Pillsworth; alternates, Dotzko; Lendhan, Medhurst, Wilcox, Campbell, Downey.

Central Drops One To Confederation

Confederation Seniors took a 5-2 School Hockey League win over Central yesterday on goals by Outwater 2, Dunstan, Holland and Bryan. Wall counted both for the losers. It was a fine game all the way and close enough, with the winners scoring two each in the second and third frames. The teams:

Central—Goal, Bertrand; defence, Brooks and Black; centre, Foster; wings, Wall and Kelly; alternates, Patterson, Delahaye, Rowley, Noble and Gardner.

Confederation— Goal, Tyndall; defence, Miller and Brooks; centre, Daniels; wings, Outwater and Crowter; alternates, Bryan, Post, Holland and Dunstan.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Murray Hayes, a fleet running halfback with McGill University Redmen, climaxed a brilliant college football career by carrying off the Fred Wigle Memorial Trophy for 1948 at the annual McGill football dinner Wednesday night at Montreal.

Selection of Hayes as the most valuable player to his team last season came as no surprise to the gathering of coaches, officials and players.

Hayes has been an outstanding performer in his last three years at McGill and was named to the Inter-Collegiate All-Star team for the last two seasons.

Coach Vic Obeck of McGill University's football squad, has rejected a lucrative offer from Boston University and will remain as head coach at McGill, it was announced at Wednesday night's annual McGill football banquet. Obeck did not say if he had been offered the No. 1 coaching spot at the New England University.

Several members of last year's Grey Cup champion Calgary Stampeders and a number of West Coast High School football stars have applied for entrance to McGill University, it was announced Wednesday night at McGill's annual football banquet at Montreal. It was also disclosed that Tommy Manastersky, a halfback who performed with the Big Four Montreal Alouettes two seasons back, had filed papers for entrance to McGill.

Tommy Henrich, brilliant New York Yankee outfielder, Wednesday became the fourth highest salaried player in the club's history when he signed his 1949 contract for a reported $40,000. He was believed to have been given a $15,000 boost over his 1948 salary of $25,000. Only Babe Ruth, Joe DiMaggio and Lou Gehrig ever signed bigger contracts.

Big Walt Judnich has been sold to Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League, Cleveland Indians announced Wednesday night. The husky outfielder whom the Tribe acquired from St. Louis Browns a year ago went to Pittsburgh on a straight cash deal, but the sum was not disclosed.

The teams:

Tweed — Goal, Cournyea; defence, Gehan and Cotton; centre, Rivers; wings, Vance and Meraw; alternates, Carmichael, Magnes, Reid, Leal, Rogers and Courtney.

McGill Principal Denies Expulsions

MONTREAL, Feb. 10 (CP). — F. Cyril James, Vice-Chancellor and Principal of McGill University, described as "completely inaccurate" a Moscow report that Dean H. N. Fieldhouse had expelled McGill students who had participated in the restoration of Lidice in Czechoslovakia last year.

Dean Fieldhouse was described in the report as a "furious reactionary who even before the war spoke in defence of the Fascist states."

Dr. James also said that there was "not a grain of truth" in the report that McGill University students were protesting the expulsion by Dean Fieldhouse.

He told The Canadian Press that a number of students were reprimanded by the Dean for reprimanded very leniently by the Dean for staying in Czechoslovakia and Hungary after they were instructed to return home.

Banned Player Files Suit For $300,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Organized baseball has shed its historical shyness toward legal action and is prepared to fight the latest attack against its contracts all the way to the United States Supreme Court.

The legal structure is challenged in a $300,000 damage suit by Danny Gardella, an outfielder now banned from organized baseball because he jumped from New York Giants to the Mexican League in 1946.

A United States appeal court ruled Wednesday that the suit may be heard. Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, one of the five defendants, said baseball lawyers are ready to go to the Supreme Court if necessary.

The suit charged baseball with being a monopoloy because of the reserve clause in every contract which binds a player to one club for life unless he is sold, traded or released. Gardella also charged that baseball should be subject to American anti-trust laws because of the large fees received by clubs for radio and television rights.

The ramifications of the suit affect most professional sports, operate under similar contract including hockey, since they provisions.

THE STURDY GREEK PEASANT WOMEN refuse to give in to despair. This woman, carrying a load of fodder from the fields near Dodoni, does double duty. While working, her hands are busy twisting coarse yarn.

THIS WOMAN was happy, because she had something to do. Her husband built her this loom, and she was the only refugee to do constructive work.

COOKING, since there are no stoves at the Ionnina camp, presents a problem. Most of the Greek women cook over open fires in front of their tents. This woman's mid-day meal is a panful of fried onions.

THIS ROW OF PYRAMID-STYLE ARMY TENTS is home to Greek refugees at a camp in Ionnina. As many as seven families often live in one tent. The camp is badly located on the side of a hill. Water runs through the tents, adding to the miseries of the homeless. The ditch, which runs in front of the tents, is the only facility for sanitation the camp possesses. Once, this spot was an old Jewish walled cemetery.

600,000 Persons Cared For In Greek Camps

In Greece today, almost 10 per cent of the population is homeless. Many refugee camps take care of the estimated 600,000 persons forced to flee the civil war. Through one of these camps went Mrs. Cornelia Pinchot, widow of the former governor of Pennsylvania. "Curious old ladies were about as welcome as curious reporters," she said, on her return, but nevertheless her curiosity was rewarded. She visited a camp in Ionnina in the Pindus Mountains region, where the refugees lived in Army tents and ate relief rations. She found no stoves, almost no mattresses, no beds or furniture. And sanitary facilities were nonexistent. Many Greeks fleeing to the hills do so because they feel conditions could not possibly be worse under the Communists. Americans dare not fail in the Greek experiment, says Mrs. Pinchot, lest this philosophy of despair spread to other non-Communist countries. Mrs. Pinchot brought these exclusive pictures back with her.

INSIDE THIS ONE TENT live 27 persons, refugees from the village of Vassiliko in the Pogoni region. Although the Greek army has recaptured their home, they don't feel safe in their own beds because of continuing guerrilla activity. They prefer the tent, where each family lives in two to four square yards.

January Receipts Total $4,396.39

January receipts at City Clerk Outram's office amounted to $4,396.39. Licenses contributed $570.50; police court fines $861.25; parking meters $1,857.50; miscellaneous payments $1,107.14. Total receipts from the parking meters since their use began May 12, 1947, were $45,834.60.

Dollar parking tickets were issued to 84 motorists in January: parking stickers brought in $870; garbage tags $24 and three master plan booklets $4.14.

Of the 119 births last month, 84 were to city residents; six to unmarried parents; and of the 42 deaths recorded, 25 were residents of the city.

Employment Sets Record

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 — (CP)— Industrial employment in Canada reached an all-time high in December when seasonal activity in logging and retail trade overcame declines in manufacturing and some of the service industries. The bureau of statistics said Wednesday that the general employment index number stood at 204.1 at Dec. 1, a gain of half a point over Nov. 1 and 4.5 points above the level for the same date a year ago. The index is based on 100, the 1926 average.

Wartime Houses Revenue $42,625 in '48

Peymants by Central Mortgage and Housing Coroporation in lieu of taxes on the houses still held in the Crown's name amounted last year to $42,625.60 as reported by City Clerk Outram.

Some of these houses were built by Housing Enterprises Ltd. and other by Wartime Housing. Many of the original blocks have been sold, and other sales are taking place from time to time. As they pass into private ownership they become liable for the regular assessment and taxation of the municipality.

Of the total, $33,877.62 was collected from Public School supporting tenants, and $8,747.98 from Separate School supporters.

Distribution of this money was as follows: current liabilities: Collegiate Institute $3,904.65; Public Schools $7,510.22; Separate Schools $2,342.40; city general expenses $27,332.64.

Upside Down View Complicates Life

HALIFAX, England, Feb. 10 — (CP) — Imagine yourself walking upstairs with the sensation of going down; seeing actors on the screen upside down; in fact, seeing everything topsy-turvy.

This is what happens to 14-year-old Shirley Lee. She reads her books upside down, sees the school blackboard upside down.

She writes by placing a pad before her, her pen in her left hand. Curling her left wrist and arms well round, she forms her letters upside down and backwards, starting from the bottom right hand corner of the page.

Specialists who have been consulted think Shirley's queer outlook on life is due to an optic nerve not working.

Her father says: "One or two letters have reached us from surgeons who would like to operate on Shirley as an experiment but we feel the risk to her is one we are not justified in taking."

"First time we really noticed her upside-down view of things," says Mrs. Lee " was one night when she was trying to do homework—a plan of the room. We couldn't get her to draw it right. The corners kept getting mixed up. Previous to that we had noticed that she always kept falling upstairs. Never once did she fall downstairs.

"When finally we took her to an oculist it did not take him long to say he could do nothing for her."

Scottish Immigrant Boy Founded Standard Time

TORONTN Feb. 10,—The world system and Standard Time zones, more indispensable with every advance in air travel, has its 70th birthday this week and it has a special significance for Toronto.

It was from Toronto, in 1879, that the world was given a system eliminating the confusion caused by every town, city and village setting its watch to its own solar time. Sir Sandford Fleming, the Toronto man who figured out a way to end the confusion and announced his plan here in a lecture on Richmond St. E., left behind him an amazing record of achievement when he died in 1915.

Finishing his school education in Scotland at the age of 12, he trained in the apprenticeship system. It was a start to a career in which he became Canada's foremost engineer, a railway builder, philosopher and designer of the British Empire cable system of the C.P.R. His ideas on time reckoning and notation still are too advanced for popular acceptance.

Sandford Fleming's system for a Standard Time zone system was eventually put into world operation but, as far as Fleming was concerned, it was only a start. Universal or Cosmoc Time, by which every clock on the earth would point to the same time at any given moment, was his dream. In the 1880s strong persuasive efforts were made from Canada towards its adoption. It proved to be too far ahead of world thought and apparently still is.

Story Little Known

At least two volumes of biography have been written about Sir Sandford, but the average Canadian knows little of his story.

Born in Kircaldy, Scotland, Sandford was the son of Andrew Greg Fleming, a sturdy cabinet maker who raised a family of six boys and two girls.

At 12 he left the local borough school to start training as an apprentice land surveyor and civil engineer. Six years later he was on his way to Canada with his brother David.

They first went to Peterboro where relatives had settled, and the young draftsman found plenty to do. He was hired to draw plans for the proposed St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church in Peterboro and also one of Cobourg.

Four years later he moved to Toronto to join his father, mother and the rest of the family who had arrived there to settle. He became apprenticed for two years to Stoughton Dennis, a surveyor of Westcn.

First Headline

He received his qualification as a surveyor and engineer of the United Privinces of Upper and Lower Canada by writing government examinations at Montreal; and hit his first headline. While he was writing his exams, the famous Montreal riots broke out and the Parliament buildings were destroyed by fire.

With three others, young Fleming saved a prized oil painting of Queen Victoria from the burning government buildings. Local newspapers noted the deed; the young engineer stayed in Montreal and his progress was swift. He got a job with the Northern Railway and, by 1857, had become the Northern's chief engineer.

When the Inter-Colonial railway—biggest of its time—was built, Sandford Fleming was in charge. When the CPR was formed, he was appointed its chief engineer and had charge of the whole survey of the transcontinental route. He personally led the party which found the Yellowhead Pass, and demonstrated its practicability for the railroad. With Collingwood Schreiber, an Englishman, Fleming formed a Toronto engineering firm which prospered with the rapidly developing country. With the need for a closely-knit British Empire in mind, he urged, planned and finally saw built, the globe-girdling Empire cable system of the CPR, with Canada as the nerve centre.

Grew From Hobby

But his greatest achievement resulted from a hobby. With other Toronto men, Sandford Fleming founded the Canadian Institute (now the Royal Canadian Institute) for scientific and philosophic discussion, and became its first secretary. At one meeting, he discussed informally the defects in the local system of time reckoning. Kingston's noon came 11 minutes before Toronto's and Montreal's 23. Travellers had to alter their watches at every town they passed and reasonable time reckoning for railway was almost impossible.

Mr. Fleming, irked because he had missed trains, said he had devised a system to cure the world's time troubles. He agreed to present his views to the Institute and on Feb. 8 1879, he read his famous paper on "Time and Time Reckoning" in the Institute building on Richmond St., E. (now the Sons of England Hall). It embodied the whole Standard Time zone system as it is now used.

Proposed were 24 time belts around the world with a width of 15 degrees each. The Canadian Institute and other agencies publicized the matter and the Marquis of Lorne, Canada's Governor General, sent copies of the address to all world governments. The Czar of Russia took an active interest and called an international time convention in Rome in 1882. Another convention was held in Washington in 1883 and most countries then accepted the Fleming system of zones.

Knighted by Queen

Queen Victoria knighted the originator and other honors fell fast upon him, including chancellorship of Queen's University, but Sir Sandford never failed to press for world acceptance of his full ideas on time. He felt that the whole earth should use Greenwich time, and the hours should be numbered from one to 24.

This would mean that when it was, for instance, 10 o'clock in the morning in London, it would also be 10 in Toronto, although the sun would not yet have risen here (it would be 5 a. m. under the present system. Similarly, when it was 17 o'clock in Greenwich (5 p.m.) Toronto clocks would also point to 17, although it would be actually solar noon.

Sir Sandford argued that all that was necessary was to equip watches and clocks with new faces, reading from one to 24, and to accustom the public to adjust its thinking to the new system.

Tho solar day, he argued, would still regulate the routine of life in each place. People would still begin work in the morning, dine at noon and sleep at night. But not at the same time by the clock. Toronto banks instead of being said to open at 10 a.m. and close at 3 p.m., would open at 15 o'clock and close at 20. People would go home for supper at 22 o'clock.

By the universal system, confusion and inconvenience would be eliminated; travelers would no longer have to change watches; mistake would be avoided, and time would be reconized in its true concept as an indivisible unity measured out by the revolving of the earth itself as the great natural chronometer. This was Sir Sandford's argument.

Water Department Revenue Shows Increase of $25,000

Peterborough Utilities Commission Waterworks Dept. has reported a revenue of $192,554.50 for 1948, and increase of $26,000 over the previous year.

Operating expenses, including the usual reserves and interest and principal payments on debentures, amounted to $194,865.71. In 1946 the figure was $166,645.06.

Part of the increase in revenue is explained by the fact that water rates were increased by 25 per cent. Also 400 new consumers were added the list. It was explained that the added expenses are explained b ythe rising cost of labor and materials, and the rapid expansion of the system to meet the needs of the new housing and other construction.

During the year 30,000 feet of water mains were added, and 443 water services. This construction was all for new homes except for a mile of 24" force main.

In 1948 a debenture issue of $200,000 was sold to provide the money for this work, and the interest and principal payments on those have added materially to the yearly expense.

While the Department had one of its largest programs of expansion, there is still a considerable amount to be done. On file are requests for water service which will require 10,000 feet of main and 200 services.

The Commission will complete the 24" force main early in the summer, and is also considering the construction of a 12" main to increase the service to East City. This will entail the installation of a pipe in the bed of the river, and with the co-operation of the City Council, it is expected the work will be done in 1949.

The total amount of water pumped to the City was 1545 million gallons, an increase of 11% over the previous year. The increase averages 450,000 gallons per day.

A record pumpage was established of 6,616,000 gallons, last August 27, and this taxed the capacity of the filtration plant and pumping station. The Commission is making a study of the situation, and it likely that the supply facilities will have to be increased.

A new 6,000,000 gallon 9 day electric motor-driven pump is now on order and will be delivered next Fall.

In order to increase the pressures in the western part of the City, and to provide service to the new Civic Hospital, a booster pumping station will be constructed in the vicinity of Weller and Monaghan Road. This will pump through an 8" main to an elevated tank behind the hospital.

All material for this project is on order, and it is expected the station and tank will be in operation in October, 1949.

Passion Play To Be Resumed

OBERAMMERGAU, Germany, Feb. (Reuters)—This little Bavarian community has decided to resume the performance of its world-famous passion play in 1950.

But to put the mechanics of the theatre in order and replenish the wardrobe of the 1,200 local peasant-actors, it will have to appeal for voluntary contributions amounting to 1,000,000 deutschemarks ($300,000).

The need for extensive repairs is due to the 16-year interruption since the tercentenary performance of 1934, the longest interruption since the play was first instituted. The lack of funds now is due to last summer's German currency reform which wiped out all municipal savings—and the play is a municipal enterprise. Ever since 1840, the community had succeeded in paying all the expenses of the play out of receipts.

But now, the community has lost its reserves and has to ask for help. If necessary, it will send a mission to the United States to collect donations from admirers of the play.

What is certain is that Oberammergau is determined that the play, round which local life has centred for more than three centuries, must go on. Johan Georg Lang, who produced the paly in 1930 and 1934, has been chosen to prodce it again in 1950.

To Let Beards Grow

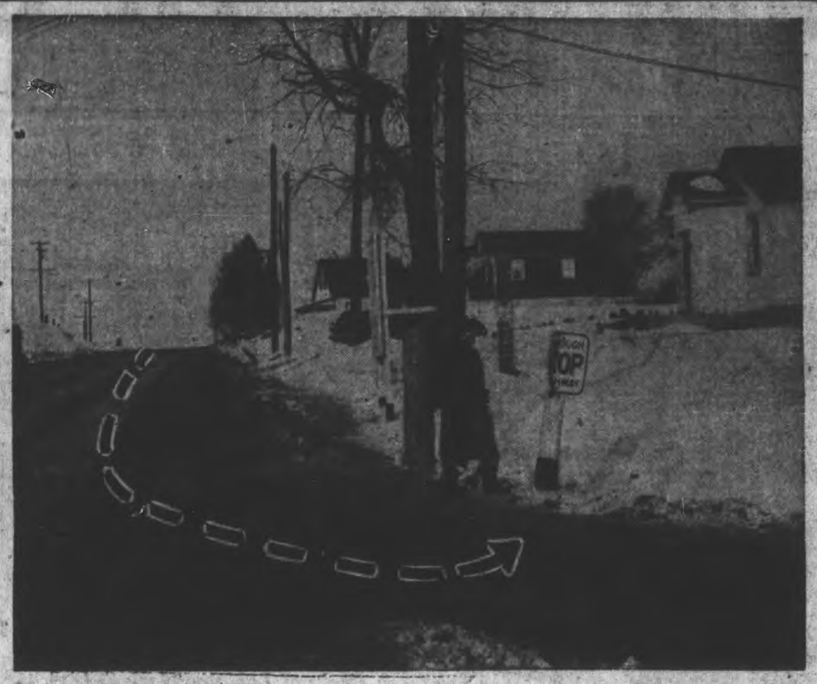
Next May, the potential actors will start to let their hair and beards grow so that a final selection of the 103 speaking parts can be made by the fall.

Johann Lang is the brother of village mayor, Raimund Lang, and cousin of Alois Lang, recently "denazified" who played the part of Christ at the last two presentations of the play, and his predecessor Anton Lang.

No less than 11 Langs took part in the 1934 jubilee presentation, and they are only one of many local families who have inherited prominent association with the play for 100 years and more.

One of the chief worries of the village during the long interruption has been to give the children and young people enough opportunity, by periodic rehearsals, to get acquainted with the atmosphere of the play.

By 1960, the first of the war and post-war refugees, who have swollen the village population from 3,000 to more than 5,000, will qualify for participation under the only rule: that newcomers must have been settled long enough to have seen one presentation before being admitted to the cast.



LAD DIES WHEN truck swerves into children. Lily Wells, Grade 8 pupil in Breslau public school, stands at scene of accident in which another pupil, Douglas Davidson, 5, was killed Wednesday on the Kitchener-Guelph Highway outside Breslau. Beyond her is hill on which the police say Kitchener-bound truck went out of control after collision with car driven by school principal.

NAMED BY INDIANS

Niagara is said to be an Iroquois word meaning "Thunderer of Waters," another Indian word "Oneangarall" means strait or neck.

DOUGLAS DAVIDSON, 5, was killed in a collision near Breslau.

Committee Receives 11 Safety Suggestions

MARMORA, Feb. 10—(ENS)—Deloro Safety Committee was presented with 11 suggestions which F. Gray put before the meeting on behalf of the Suggestions Committee at this month's meeting in the Electric Shop. The chairman was C. H Buskard.

W. Regan announced that four awards has been allotted and that the Star had gone to the General Division.

C. T. Nicholson reported for the Inspection Committee and C. Brady was named floating member for February. Activities of the Publicity Committee were related by R. E. Neal, and T. Cousins reported the work of the Health and Investigation Committee. Monthly statement of the Trustee Relief funds was presented by the chairman, and the report of the Plant Bulletin by M. J. Corrigan.

Plan General Amnesty

TEL AVIV, Israel, Feb. 10 (AP)—An Israeli government spokesman said Wednesday night Israel's cabinet has proposed a general amnesty for prisoners, both civil and political, except for those serving life terms or under death sentences. Two former Stern Gang leaders, Nathan Friedman - Yellin and Jacob Shmuelewitz, are to be sentenced in court today on charges they led a terrorist body.

Ambassador-At-Large

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (AP)—President Truman and State Secretary Acheson have chosen Philip C. Jessup to represent the United States at future major international conferences, it was learned Wednesday night. Jessup, who would be given the rank of ambassador-at-large, has been United States representative on the United Nations Security Council.

Air Force Film Role May Go To Lancaster

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 10 (AP)—Burt Lancaster is angling a deal that may mean a lengthy connection with 20th-Fox.

The film tough guy has been talking with the studio about the lead in "12 o'Clock High," an air force picture which, like "Command Decision," will be bereft of females. Studio boss Darryl Zanuck is sold on Lancaster.

Burt now is doing "Rope of Sand."

Scenes and Sights

Betty Hutton says she's all set to do the life of Theda Bara for Columbia. It will be played strictly for laughs, along the lines of "Perils of Pauline."

Director John Farrow was telling me about a coincidence. He was running rushes of a pie-throwing scene of "Red, Hot and Blue" and who should be in the projection room but Mack Bennett. The master pie-thrower, whose biography will be filmed by Paramount, commended Farrow's technique and went into a lecture on the art of the hurled custard. . .

Photoplay's selections of the five most popular movie actresses gives an interesting sidelight. They are Ingrid Bergman, June Allyson, Rita Hayworth, Jennifer Jones and Esther Williams. Their average age is 28. That would seem to prove that the public wants its female favorites young.

Capsule Review

"Heart to Heart" (M.G.M.) shows the power of the screen as an information medium. Made by Herbert Morgan in co-operation with the Associated Press, this short film deals powerfully with the subject most important to you—your own health. It's main theme: Heart disease, the No. 1 killer, can be cured by better living. The film has been nominated for an Academy Award.

Few Attending Church In US Dr. Gallagher Says

In the United Kingdom today the two most significant aspects of religious life are the low percentage of the population taking an active part in church work, and the alertness of the church leadership to the tasks ahead. This opinion was expressed on Wednesday night by the Rev. Dr. W. J. Gallagher, secretary of the Canadian Council of Churches, in the third weekly meeting of the SO-ED course.

Dr. Gallagher this summer completed a three-month tour of the United Kingdom, France, Holland and Germany, and he chose as his topic "Europe Today."

"While Britain is still in some senses a Christian country only a very small proportion of the population takes an active part in the work of the church," he said. He estimated that this amounted to not more than 20 per cent. of the whole.

Many more people than this profess Christianity, he said, and from this philosophy stem the general presuppositions underlying the life and thought of the population.

Church Leadership is keenly alive to the problems facing it, he said. And he contended that ambitious plans are being laid for evangelization and education.

Despite the ever-present worry of austerity in post-war Britain, Dr. Gallagher said the chief concern of churchmen was "undisciplined living."

Gambling Rampant

Every year £1,000,000,000 are being spent on gambling, he stated. He quoted a recent London survey which estimated that half of the people's income was being spent on such pursuits as drinking and gambling.

Another problem in Britain is housing. During the past three years 750,000 houses have been constructed, but 4,000,000 are needed, he said.

Dr. Gallagher emphasized that his trip to Europe was primarily to attend the World Council of Churches which was held in Amsterdam this past summer, and his opinions were those of "any other casual observer." His concern as he travelled, he stated, was less the economic and political conditions of the country than the ecclesiastical.

General conditions in England have improved during the past two years claimed Dr. Gallagher. While the situation is still "very grim" there are more goods in the shop windows and rationing is gradually coming off.

"We have no idea how difficult it is to live under these conditions of inflation," said the speaker referring to the economic situation in France. On the official cate of exchange a United States dollar could be exchanged for 300 francs.

He said that 300 francs would buy a good steak dinner in Paris but that this was far beyond the means of the average Frenchman. A large proportion of the people, including clergy, lived in "grinding poverty."

In France he said the great difficulty of the churches was combatting the secular feelings of the masses. "It is highly cultured but not a Christian country."

Of 40,000,000 inhabitants he said that 10,000,000 are Roman Catholic, 1,000,000 are Protestant and 9,000,000 profess no religious faith.

In spite of these difficulties the Reformed Church of France is doing extensive evangelical work, declared the speaker. In Paris as many as 15,000 people had attended meetings.

Holland is suffering from war devastation, loss of markets in Central Europe and the loss of her Indonesian Empire, he said.

He spoke of the high regard in which Canadians are held in Holland today. They are hailed as liberators.

Revival in Holland

"Before the war church life in Holland was dull and dormant," said Dr. Gallagher. "But since the war there has been a vigorous and revived church."

The best way to describe present social conditions in Germany is "life among the ruins," he said. In Frankfurt "it looked as though the whole city was completely laid waste." And he added that this was true of almost every city in Germany over 100,000 population.

"The moral, physical and spiritual devastation is worse than the physical," he stated. "The great mass of the people is apathetic, cynical and hopeless. They see no future and live from hand to mouth."

One of the greatest problems was the fact that in Central and Western Germany 50 per cent of the dwellings have been made uninhabitable by Allied bombing; yet 50 per cent more people have crowded into that area. Most of them are refugees.

He said that this caused social tensions particularly between the original inhabitants and the newcomers.

"The church is the one surviving institution still able to do anything for the people," he said.

Dr. Gallagher was introduced to the So-Ed members by the Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon and thanked by Leo Copp.

Vets Abandon Home Project

Veterans' Home project of the Peterborough Legion, Branch 52, has been abandoned. At a meeting of the Veterans' Home committee, they found the original cost and soared and this coupled with the upkeep of the Home after it was in operation would be considerably higher than estimated.

By agreement between all the clubs and Branches of the Legion all money received for this project will be returned. Any private donations must be picked up from Mel Turner, chairman of the Veterans' Home Committee. The money will be kept in the bank for one year. And money not called for by that time will be turned over to the local Branch of the Legion. This money will be put in their Poppy Fund.

"We feel that the cost is too high and that the Home is a Federal government problem," said Mel Turner. "A resolution is being put through the Branches of the Legion in the district. This resolution will go to the provincial command, then to the government. The need of a Veterans' home is acute."

Had Liquor In Car

Donald Tully, 667 Chamberlain St., and Edward Byrne, 594 Downie St., were each fined $15 and $2.50 costs on guilty pleas to having liquor in a place other than a residence in court today. Evidence of Provincial Constable Gordon Langton was that the two accused had been caught on the parking lot of a dance pavilion near the city. Several bottles of liquor were ordered confiscated by the court.

Young Desperados

OAKVILLE, Feb. 10—(CP).—An excited resident of this nearby Toronto town telephoned police yesterday and said four children were roaming the street—armed with .22 calibre rifles and revolvers. Minutes later the young desperados surrendered, complete with cap guns and cork-firing pop guns. They ranged in age from nine to 13 years.

Property Sold For $30,000; Bought For $10

By HARRY THEOBALD.

City council took a last look at the King St. car barn Monday night in full knowledge that it had already slipped through the municipal fingers with profit to Peterborough Bus Lines of which Frank Mitchell of Windsor is president.

Nothing has altered the previous information transpiring a month or more ago that the property sold by the city to the bus company has been transferred to Irwin-Godson Limited, Ford agents.

The members of the council were informed at the committee of the whole meeting this week that there was no clause in the agreement of sale between the city and the bus people affording to the city priority of repurchase if the company decided to sell it.

On the other hand it has been distinctly recalled that consideration for the city was expressed when the bus company was trying to buy the property. First offer was actually four figures, and was pushed up over the $10,000 mark by the bids and efforts of several other interests to buy the place.

bought the Percy Edwards build-

Peterborough Bus Lines have ing at Hunter St. and Driscoll Terrace, and have been using it all winter. It is understood that the last of the buses will be moved to the Ashburnham location when the housing space for the barns has been substantially increased by a proposed addition.

Probably to all the members of the council, the discovery of the facts of the agreement must have been a gradually developing surprise.

The Examiner was told that Mr. Frank Mitchell has said that there is nothing in the agreement with the city requiring the company to turn the King St. property back to the council in the event of selling. And that was a reiterated statement within the last week.

When this prospect was first learned by the council in conversation with Mr. Mitchell relating to increased fares and so on, the discussions were broken off for the purpose of investigation. Since then nothing has been learned that offers any comfort to the present council.

The council was especially interested in the King St. barn as offering ample accommodation for a board of works yard, the housing of city-owned trucks and cars, and probably the engaging of a full time mechanic to keep them in repair.

The bid of Irwin-Godson Ltd. is said to be approximately $30,000 for land and building. They plan to erect a modern motor sales and display building with garage and service station.

An ironic phase of this deal is the Bus Company's removal to the building on Hunter St. that was put up by Percy Edwards on part of the property that was first considered as site of the Memorial Community Centre.

It was once reported that Mr. Edwards would turn the land, then vacant, over to the city. The adjoining land was owned by the Quaker Oats Company, who held it out as a gift to the city for the centre location.

The latest shift in all this fumbling is the direction of attention to the north side of Burnham St., opposite the Ashburnham Bowl, as a possible site for the centre. That spot is diagonally across the corner from the Edwards—plus Quaker Oats—property that was deliberately rejected when it could have been acquired at half or one-third the amount that is being mentioned for the purchase of Burnham St. properties.

City Council is now in the position of trying to forget the bus barn deal. Opinion still holds in some quarters that preference to the city, in the event of resale, was written into the first draft of the agreement, but that in revision it disappeared. Reaction to the deal as it was progressing was a feeling of satisfaction that "everything had been taken care of"; that if the bus company decided to sell the King St. property, the city would have first chance to buy it at the amount paid by the company, plus any capital expenditure by them on the property.

Collegiate Students Make Use Of Library Each Borrows Average Of 10 Books A Year

Circulation at Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School library averaged 10 books for every student last year, and total circulation was 11,014. These figures are only for the library and not of the classroom book borrowing.

Fiction led the students' choice with a circulation of 4,236. Literature and philology were second with 1,415; biography, 1,262, and travel 1,188, followed closely in reading selection. Religious books borrowed totalled 60. This is one-tenth of the circulation of that type at the Public Library. There are approximately 1,000 students at PCVS and 35,000 people in Peterborough.

Classes are held in the library for library science and study periods, and students also use the library for reference work before and after school.

Every Grade 9 student has at least one period a week in the study of library science in the PCVS library. They study the different parts of a book and their uses, the arrangement of the library and workings of the Dewey Decimal System, the use of the catalogue and how to use special reference books. The dictionary's and encyclopedia's correct use is taught and problems assigned in their use.

Library Club has 30 members who help the librarian, Miss Genevieve Fowler, with the circulation before and after school. They also help other students with reference problems and arrange displays in the library and throughout the school.

Conviction Is Registered In Gaming House Charge

Charles Griffin, employee of Glen's Lunch, King St., was found guilty today of keeping a common gaming house. Judgment of Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, had been reserved from the hearing of the evidence on February 1. The question of sentence and confiscation of the pin-ball machine involved was reserved to February 17, as have other charges against other city persons involving similar machines.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw made application asking for a court order to seize the machine. Defence counsel Thomas J. Carley entered strong objections to this. (Machines of this type are valued at $600 to $1,000 each).

Mr. Carley referred to a similar case in police court here five years ago in which Magistrate O. A. Langley had refused to order confiscation. It had been pointed out in that case that the machine was not in itself illegal, that it could be used for amusement.

Mr. Carley said that the machine belonged to an innocent third party and that it would be unfair to penalize him.

Mr. Bradshaw, for the crown, argued that the machine could be used for gambling purposes and that it is "a particularly vicious type of machine." The object of the drive, to "stamp out" such devices, would be well served if the machine were destroyed, he said.

In his judgment, Magistrate Philp said that he had "no hesitation in finding this comes within the meaning of a common gaming house under the law". The main defence was that Griffin, a salaried employee, was not the keeper. Decisions had held, however, that if the accused were proven to have the appearance of being the keeper of the premises. This the crown had proved, he ruled.

$20,285 Asked For Equipment

Supervision committee of the Board of Education met Wednesday night to strike its estimates. With Dr. H. G. Carleton, chairman, absent from the city for several weeks, F. H. Jobbitt, chairman of the board, presided.

Supervision committee estimates have to do with the purchasing of supplies and equipment, printing, buying of textbooks, band instruments and many other items.

Total struck by the committee and which will be sent on to the finance committee amounted to $20,285. Last year the total was $21,330. These are divided up, 1948 figures in brackets—$11,875 ($11,850) for public schools; $4,729 ($4,873) Collegiate Academic, and $3,681 ($4.607) Collegiate Vocational.

Dismiss Charges

Chester Crowe of Toronto was freed of two charges of breaking, entering and theft and two charges of receiving stolen goods in police court today. No evidence was offered by the crown and the charges were dismissed. The charges had dealt with receiving outboard motors belonging to Eric Morin and John Mose, Lakefield and the theft charges were related to break-ins at the boathouses of Eric Morin and Gerald Northey at Lakefield. Crowe had pleaded not guilty to all the charges.

Punch Board Cases Get Underway

The "battle of the punchboards" got underway in police court today. First of a number of charges against city public places for having punchboards is being heard by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C. It is a charge against Roy C. Sanderson of Sandy's Cigar Store, 233 Hunter St., West. The charges were laid following a visit in January of the Anti-Gambling Branch of the Ontario Provincial Police from Toronto. It is headed by Inspector W. Tomlinson. Sanderson has pleaded not guilty.

Defence counsel Thomas J. Carley objected vigorously this morning, before the evidence began, on the wording of the charge, which he said was "absurd....it doesn't make sense."

The charge originally read: "...did unlawfully offer for sale, barter or exchange any lots, cards, tickets or other means or devise for advancing, lending, giving, selling or otnerwise disposing of any property by lots, tickets or any mode of chance whatsoever, to wit, punchboards, contrary to the provisions..."

Crown counsel John A. Bradshaw agreed with Mr. Carley that the charge was badly worded, but said that the wording had been taken from the Criminal Code. He agreed to several amendments which dropped a number of "anys" from the wording. Magistrate Philp said that the section of the Code had been made broad so that many types of offensives could be included.

Another objection of Mr. Carley was the lack of specific information in the charge.

"Where the crown and police have a definite action in mind, in fairness to the accused, it should be so stated in the charge...the only effect otherwise can be embarrassment to the accused's defence..."

First crown witness in the lengthy hearing, which is being continued today, was Provincial Constable John Cronin of the Anti-Gambling Branch. He testified about a visit to Sanderson's store in which punchboards were displayed on the counter.

20 Below A Year Ago, Streets Deserted Last Night's Mildness Brought Crowds Out

Peterborough and its neighboring district was staying home stoking stoves and furnaces against the 20 below zero weather of the forepart of February a year ago.

But, the snows of yesteryear are pleasantly forgotten in the comparative mildness of recent weeks, with only occasional and brief dips below the zero line. Folks are going places these nights, and car parkings indicate that many are heading into Peterborough from the townships and villages.

Friday night the Cinderella Ball drew 800, Gene Krupa 1,200 the Legion-Stouffville 1,000; skating carnival more than 400, and the theatres counted few empty seats.

Folks were abroad again last night. The Petes-Legion game was credited with more than 900; the mauling program at Brock St. another 900 or more; Major Bennett IODE Valentine ball 600; the Marmora hockey game in Lakefield took 100 or more from hereabouts; two buses went to Toronto for the Leafs game, one from Silverwoods and the other was a Lincoln shoe group; and the theatres drew their mid-week share of the composite gate.

The market was packed with cars. Others lined nearby streets, and the Brock St. crowd parked up and down George St. above Hunter.

Community Chest Leaders Named In $75,000 Drive

Ross L. Dobbin has announced the chairmen of the four divisions entrusted with raising the record sum of $75,000 for the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund. Mrs. W. E. Fanning is once again head of the Women's Division which has the same quota as last year—$4,000. In 1948 Mrs. Fanning and her fellow-workers reached their objective with money to spare. She succeeded Mrs. J. R. Marshall four years ago.

Head of the Industrial Division is Ian McRae, who has been on the committee since the fund's inception in 1941. Quota for this division has been raised from $25,000 to $32,000.

Retail Division, whose chairman is W. C. (Chris) Hughes, has been boosted from $13,000 to $16,500; and the Special Names with Gordon Matthews as chairman is expected to raise $22,500.

Purpose of this 9th annual canvass will be to raise money for social agencies doing beneficial work locally. By undertaking this one united campaign for a week it eliminates the necessity of individual soliciting for funds during the year.

Included on the list are St. Vincent's Orphanage, Salvation Army (local work), YMCA and YWCA (local work), Visiting Homemaker's Service, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Peterborough Humane Society, Victorian Order of Nurses, Children's Aid Society, Canadian Red Cross Society, Ontrario Caner Fund and other agencies approved by the Fund Committee.

Raised Half Million

Since 1941 the fund raised about $500,000 by soliciting firms retail establishments, and private individuals. In 1947 the objective was $50,000; in 1948 it was $60,000; this year an additional $15,000 is being asked for.

All agencies that apply for aid carefully scrutinized to ensure that their work is local and thus bring benefit to the immediate community.

The following is a list of the firms on the Industrial Division, with the various contact men on each:

LEARNING TO WEAVE is complicated business at the outset but advanced students find the craft a very gratifying one. A three-week course sponsored by Department of Planning and Development started at Dixon House in Peterborough on Monday. Shown above, Mrs. J. McKerchar of Lakefield gets some pointers on threading her loom from Miss Nan Scott, instructress, Right.

Instruction In Home Weaving Is Under Way At Dixon House

Home Weaving service of the Department of Planning and Development started instruction classes at Dixon House on Monday. There are under the direction of Miss N. Scott who will be in the city for three weeks.

Over the weekend the equipment arrived and was assembled. It consists of four 27-inch looms, five 45-inch looms, five table looms, a warping mill, several bobbins of yarn and boxes of literature. Weaving courses are planned for communities that can assemble classes of seven and not more than 12 students. The cost is $7.50 for a three-week course in which students work through 50 samples in the syllabus. They learn a number of difficult weavings, pattern drafting and acquire a good understanding of the mechanics of a floor loom.

The course was started in September 1947 with four months of planning, assembling materials and equipment and general organizational work. The first three week course was taught in January 1948 and, during the year, 350 students in Ontario were instructed. Some of the centres in which courses were held more than once are St. Thomas, Huntsville, and Peterborough.

The instructress, Miss N. Scott taught weaving for ten years at the Guildford School of Arts and Crafts in Surrey and last summer taught weaving at the Banff School of Arts which is sponsored by the University of Alberta.

120 Hours Instruction

The course offers about 120 hours of weaving instruction and by the time students have completed it, their interest will carry them along to the point of purchasing their own looms. Eventually they will produce craft work for sale through retail channels on the advice of the Department of Planning and Development. The craft of hand weaving was planned in response to a large demand as a teaching and advisory service designed to bring supplementary incomes into areas.

It is of interest to note that the looms are made in L'Islet, Quebec, and Miss Scott said that they were thoroughly satisfactory. They are built to withstand a great deal of abuse in the matter of knock-down and assembly and shipping over great distances. In some centres where men of mechanical bent are not available, Miss Scott has to do this work in addition to class instruction.

United States' Prices Found To Be More In Line With Those In Canada

By HAZEL PAULL

Housewives are hit most severely by the cost of living rise which, during the past three years has seen the price of almost every commodity boosted. But Canadians can gain some comfort from a comparison of food prices in this country and the United States.

Glimpse at a Washington, US, woman's family budget shows that Canadian prices did not reach quite the same high level and was thus spared much of the embarrassment which had to be faced in the States.

The past two or three months have brought a drop in the price of nearly all foods in the States, however, which indicates that perhaps the ceiling has been reached there but in Canada, price reductions are coming much more slowly. The recent slide in the States has brought prices there more in line with current Canadian prices, and even below in some instances where certain commodities sell 15 or 20 cents below present Peterborough prices.

Margarine lower

One brand of margarine which is selling here for 44 cents a pound is priced at only 35 cents in Washington. Rib roast sells there for 59 and 55 cents a pound, which is much the same price as charged in Peterborough stores, but round steaks and sirloin steaks are 10 cents a pound cheaper here. Rump steak, which is approximately 49 cents in Peterborough costs an extra 30 cents in Washington; smoked ham sells in Canada at 59 cents in camparison with Washington's 65 cents. Other Washington prices are: pork roast, 35 cents for rib end and 47 for loin; lamb shoulder, 43 and 39 cents; pork sausages, 39 cents and sliced bacon ranges from 42 to 53 cents a pound. Grade A eggs are 59 cents a dozen in the States and only 47 in Peterborough.

Fish prices vary only a few cents, with Washington price of haddock fillets at 43 cents a pound and Peterborough's at 41; fillets of sole are 53 in the States and 50 cents in Peterborough; salmon steaks are 17 cents lower than Washington's 69 cent price but fresh oysters sell for 69 cents a pint in the States and cost around a dollar in Peterborough.

Household Goods Reduced

The States have also been enjoying a considerable price reduction in household goods such as bed linen and cleaning utensils. Many of the January sale prices were as low as prices here. All woollen blankets were selling for $3.95 in one store and $4.99 in another.

A fair idea of household prices in Washington can be obtained from the following prices advertised in recent weeks. Gas cookers with automatically lighting burners and drop door with storage compartments for towel dryer and cutlery—$199.50; 5 ft. steel sink and cabinet with spray—$129.88; vacuum cleaner, $18.88 whistling electric kettle—$3.95.

Although by no means the best quality, fur coats are sold in the States from between $60 and $90 and nylon hose, although once again not the finest grade, sell for $1 a pair.

While the States, after years of soaring prices, are experiencing the first respite since before the war, Canada's cost of living index is showing few signs of relief. Only last week the Bureau of Statistics reported the cost of living index at its all time high.

Polish Vet Jailed

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Feb. 10—(CP)—Antoni Szulc, 35-year-old Polish army veteran who came to Canada in 1946, Wednesday was sentenced to 10 years in penitentiary for attempting to murder Helen Sobuliak near her north Lethbridge home last Dec. 16. On a charge of unlawfully wounding Mrs. Helen Tillack, he was sentenced to two years in penitentiary, both sentences to run concurrently.

FLYING GRANDFATHER — Fifty, and a grandfather, Capt. O. P. Jones, senior pilot of the British Overseas Airways, is shown at the controls of his transatlantic aircraft after logging his 3,000,000th mile in the air. The oldest pilot flying a commercial airline, Capt. Jones hopes to continue flying for several years yet. A few months ago things looked different. Capt. Jones had a misplaced spinal disk necessitating painful surgery. It was doubtful if he could fly again, but he re-passed all tests for his licence, and is now starting on his fourth million—miles that is.

See New Clash With Russia Over Mindszenty

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—American officials foresaw today a new clash between Russia and the western powers growing out of the treason trial and conviction of Cardinal Mindszenty in Communist Hungary.

Authorities predicted the clash will come when the United States and other western powers try to call Hungary to account for its actions against the Cardinal. They expect Russia will immediately spring to the defence of its satellite state.

Such a course has been foreshadowed by the consistent support given the Hungarian regime by the radio and other propaganda agencies of Moscow.

Authorities here assert that the Cardinal's conviction and life sentence is by no means to be treated as an isolated instance. They regard it rather as the latest outstanding example of a wave of oppression which has been sweeping over the Russian border countries in Europe for more than two years.

The House of Representatives late yesterday adopted a resolution urging that the United States protest Hungary's treatment of Cardinal Mindszenty, either through the U.N. or other "appropriate" means.

State Secretary Acheson directly linked Russia with the Mindszenty case yesterday. He said that an appeal to the U.N. is under consideration.

On the point of the Hungarian government's responsibility, Acheson declared that "the people of Hungary have been increasingly denied the exercise of fundamental human rights and freedoms" during the last two years.

HERALD EGRLY NAVIGATION — At the earliest date in the history of navigation in the St. Lawrence River, icebreakers this week started their annual task of opening a path through the ice between Quebec and Montreal. The Ernest Lapointe and the N. B. McLean are shown here as they started from Quebec Harbor. The exceptionally mild winter filled the river with flimsy scattered ice.

Former Bethany Lady Dies At 82 In B.C.

BETHANY, Feb. 10—(ENS).—Mrs. George Steer, aged 82 years, and formerly of Bethany, died on February 4 in New Westminster, BC. Following the service, the body was taken to Vancouver for burial.

Born in Cavan township, Margaret Gillespie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gillespie, she came with her parents at an early age to reside in Bethany until her marriage to George Steer when she moved to Yellowgrass, Sask., and later to Vancouver. Two years ago she had been home to Bethany on an extended visit. Her husband predeceased her 10 years ago.

Of her father's family of 12 children, only two sisters survive, Mrs. William Cavano (Emma) of Bethany and Mrs. Harvey Staples (Nellie) in New Westminster.

RUSSIANS STRIP BERLIN BUILDINGS — In front of Hitler's Reichschancellery, in the Russian sector of Berlin, women workers tear up paving stones. They'll be used to reconstruct buildings for the Russian-sponsored "People's Council," the Soviet's new government for East Germany. The Reichschancellery's costly Italian marble and mosaics are also being torn out, and will go into a memorial to the Red Army.

Believe Cardinal's Trial Unfair But Accurately Reported By Press

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP).—How the trial of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty looked to a British reporter is told in Wednesday's London Daily Express. The Express prints a telephoned interview with its correspondent, Peter Burchett — the only British reporter who could get an entry visa from the Hungarian government. The questions and Burchett's replies:

Q.: How did the trial compare with a trial in a British court?

A.: People's court procedure, both in effect and appearance, is disquieting to anyone accustomed to British justice.

First of all the people's court has adopted the traditional Hungarian court practice — which is widely used in Europe—of taking all the evidence from the prisoners while in jail.

This evidence is then merely read out in court, although it can, of course, be challenged by the prisoners.

There must always be a suspicion that the evidence was originally extracted by third-degree methods.

There is a traditional method of getting information from prisoners—the same system was used by the police of the Hapsburg Empire—by the police who collaborated with the Nazis during the war.

Teams of questioners work, hour after hour, day and night. When the victim sinks forward in a sleepy stupor bright lights are flashed on to his eyes. After a few days of this treament, it is easy to imagine his breaking down.

The trial does not start until statements of guilt have been obtained. In contrast to the British methods, the state prosecutes only those whom it has already decided are guilty.

The people's court in Budapest was composed of one professional judge, Dr. Vilmos Olthys, and four representatives of the political parties and the trades unions. Two of these men were Communists.

Q. Was the press hoodwinked at the trial?

A. If there was any trickery by the Hungarian Government it has done long before the prisoners entered the court.

Every Word Heard

Correspondents sat only 10 feet away from the prisoners and about 30 feet from the judges. Every word could be heard and every gesture seen.

Translators were provided by the Hungarian Foreign Office for those who wanted them.

My interpreter was a woman. She whispered the translation into English of every word as it was spoken.

A copy of the court record was available at the end of each day's hearing.

Q. Why did the Cardinal, after denying the charges, confess? Why did his whole attitude change when he was brought to trial?

A. According to the court, Mindszenty was confronted in prison with masses of documents and evidence that it would be difficult to deny. He was left to brood on this. Then, at the last moment, we was visited by Archbishop Czapik, who was a bishop while Mindszenty was still a parish priest.

The archbishop, it was said in court, told Mindszenty that the bench of Hungarian bishops could not support him in his defiance. They had decided to await the outcome of the trial.

He had 35 days and nights in prison. One after another, personalities of the government and church called on him. It may have been suggested to him that diplomacy would win more for the church than defiance.

His appearance in court was sombre and morose.

Cardinal Broods

While other prisoners talked together, the Cardinal stood alone, silent and brooding. If he did not look like a man who had been tortured or drugged, he did look like one who had been defeated.

Q. How did the other prisoners look?

A. On the evidence of appearance, speech, agility of mind, and ability to express themselves, one must say that the prisoners, at least during their appearance in court, seemed in a normal state of mind.

The dominating personality in the trial turned out to be Professor Justin Baranyay.

In his final speech, which lasted more than an hour, he said he still believed in the monarchy. He had expected a third World War and made his plans accordingly. As soon as "Anglo-American forces entered Hungary and overthrew the present government" he was ready to create a new one.

Q. Who were the prisoners defended?

A. All the prisoners chose their own lawyers with the exception of the Cardinal's secretary, Andras Zakar, who was appointed one by the state.

The lawyers chosen were not the best available. Few of the most prominent lawyers in Hungary wished to be identified with the defence of the Cardinal and his associates.

It depended partly on the personal courage of the defence lawyers how far they went in combatting the present charges.

Cardinal Mindszenty's lawyer, for instance, said his case was difficult in view of his client's surprising admission of guilt.

BIGGER THEY ARE, HARDER HE FALLS—Phillip Edwards likes his women on the pleasingly plump side. Edwards' first wife, who died two years ago, weighed 210. When he decided he should remarry, he advertised for a spouse weighing at least 196. Out of 400 applicants, he chose Mrs. Alice Barnes, and so they were married in London. Alice weighs a neat 252.

Expect Inquiry Into Gambling

LONDON, Feb. 10—(CP)—Appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate every phase of gambling in Britain except card games was expected to be announced in the House of Commons today by Prime Minister Attlee.

Newspapers agreed today would be the date for the long-anticipated government effort to siphon off a fair share of profits made in Britain's seventh biggest industry.

As Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Baldwin Government, Winston Churchill in 1926 levied a so-called "turnover tax" of five per cent of every bet made. Three years later he repealed the tax, calling it a fiasco.

The tax yielded a little more than £2,000,000 ($8,000,000) in one year. The betting turnover in the United Kingdom at that time was estimated at £800,000,000 a year.

To elude contributing five per cent to the government, gamblers used any and all devices.

A punter, wanting to have a flutter on a favorite, would stroll past the betting ring and stroke the cuff of his sleeve with one, two or three fingers under a pre-arranged code. There was nothing on paper—but the "cuff bettor" still collected if his steed won.

There has been no systematic effort to tap gambling profits since 1926. Since then betting of all forms—horses, dogs, football pools, bingo—has flourished.

Figures for 1948 will not be released for some months but it is generally believed the level is a little below flush years of 1946-47. Official estimates have placed the 1947 figure for all forms of gambling at £1,000,000,000, compared with half that total in the pre-war years.

In 1946 the totes at greyhound racetracks took in a record sum of £199,000,000. An estimated £200,000,000 passed into the satchels of Britain's 35,000 dog-track bookmakers.

In the last budget, Sir Stafford Cripps, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, imposed a graduated tax starting at £6 daily for bookmakers in the two-shilling (40-cent) ring. In the 15-shilling ($3) enclosure the men with the hard hats and raucous voices paid £48.

CHIEF JUSTICE — Since the retirement of Sir Lyman Duff as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada in January, 1943, that post has been held by Thibaudeau Rinfret, 69. If the Federal Government passes the legislation to abolish appeals to Britain's Privy Council, Mr. Justice Rinfret will head a body which will be the last resort for Canadians. This legislation was forecast in the Speech from the Throne opening the current session of Parliament. He will retire from his $20,000 a year position when he reaches his 75th birthday.

Expert Tells Fair Officials Zoning Essential To Success Of Exhibitions

Officials of the Ontario agricultural societies Wednesday got pointers on a master plan for fall fairs that was aimed at packing them in, keeping them happy and showing a profit.

Tips on methods of luring and satisfying the public came from R. J. Pearce, fair designer and consultant from Raleigh, N. C. Mr. Pearce drawled out a program that covered everything from where to put the entrance and exit gates to the barker on the midway.

Mr. Pearce, at the Class B Fairs section of the annual meeting of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies, said all units which go to make up a modern fair should be arranged in such a way that they would give the show an attractive appearance, be acceptable to the public and show a profit.

"Fairs should be zoned the same as cities and towns are zoned," he told the meeting at the King Edward Hotel. "These should cover the agricultural zone, industrial zone, recreation zone, and each should dovetail into the other while remaining distinct in itself and serving a definite purpose."

Educational exhibits, he felt, should include school shows, federal exhibits, fine arts, fish and game. Fairs should have twice as many exits as entrances, and the entrance should be considered in the same light as a theatre entrance.

Discusses Entrances

Entrances, he told Class B Fair leaders, should be 50 feet from the thoroughfare, just in case the hoped-for crowds happened to gang up at one time. There should be good attendants, plenty of space for ticket purchasers, and an orderly corridor leading into the fair.

Building should, if possible, be arranged in courts and "not in long rows or blocks without an opportunity for the spectator to see each building from some distant point." Each court should lead easily into the others.

Mr. Pearce thought it would be a good idea, too, for exhibit buildings to be arranged that all exhibits could be seen, rather than merely those in one aisle. Livestock buildings should be arranged so that city dwellers would get a look at the stock—farmers will go and look anyway, but to get the "city slickers" in the buildings must be arranged in a manner that will interest them.

President A. C. Gamble of Richmond gave an optimistic report and said interest of young people in calf clubs and similar groups had increased last year. Spirit of competition at fall fairs, he said, was conductive to better agriculture.

Soil Conservation

CAPETOWN —(CP) —Nearly 10,000,000 acres, approximately 4.5 per cent of the agricultural land of South Africa, have been declared soil conservation areas, according to the first annual report of the soil conservation board.

Charges Abbott Implies M.P. Dishonest

OTTAWA, Feb. 10 — (CP)— Alan Cockeram (PC — York South) rose on a question of privilege in the Commons Wednesday to take exception to a statement of Finance Minister Abbott which "implied I did something dishonest."

Mr. Cockeram had asked earlier if the government would remove its restrictions on the sale of newly-mined golds.

"I am aware of the special interest which he has in the matter," said Mr. Abbott. "I shall take his question as notice and see whether I can give an answer at an early date."

Mr. Cockeram said the first part of the answer implied he asked the question as a representative of the gold-mining industry. He said he had asked the question because the gold-mining industry has far-reaching effects on the economy of Canada.

He asked that Mr. Abbott withdraw the implication.

The minister declined, saying he had simply made a completely accurate statement of fact. Mr. Cockeram had spoken to him on numerous occasions about gold and had made several speeches on it.

Never Get Honest Answer

"I never got an honest or frank statement from the minister," said Mr. Cockeram. "He always comes back with some flip answer that means nothing."

Mr. Abbott said that if he was in the habit of asking for retractions he would ask Mr. Cockeram to withdraw his statement that he had never received an "honest" answer. However, knowing Mr. Cockeram as well as he did he would not ask for the withdrawal.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Mr. Abbott should withdraw the implication that Mr. Cockeram was serving a special interest.

The incident ended after Speaker Gaspard Fauteux said he did not think any doubt had been cast on the honesty of either Mr. Cockeram or Mr. Abbott.

MAKES GOOD—Leon Jolson is the latest to discover that America is still the land of opportunity. The 38-year-old former Displaced Person arrived in New York penniless two years ago. With a $2,000 loan he built up a sewing machine importing and sales firm that now does a $1,000,000 annual business.

Ribbon Tricks Pep Up Ensemble for Easter Parade

BL ALICIA HART

Clever ensembling tricks which will spruce up spring togs are yours for the investment in a yard or two of ribbon. Crisp ribbon accessories can be whipped up in a few minutes and may be used to lift the simple costume into high-style company. New nylon, taffeta, and grosgrain ribbons offer you a dazzling variety of polka-dots, checks, stripes, plaids, iridescent weaves and multi-colored combinations from which to choose for your accessories.

You might, for example, ensemble a polka-dotted ribbon sheathe made for your umbrella with a matching hatband used to encircle the crown of last year's straw sailor. For the sailor, select ribbon as wide as the crown of your hat to make a bold show of polka dots. Tack down band, tie ribbon in back and let streamer ends floats. Buy four-inch wide ribbon in a duplicate polk dot for making a matching umbrella sheathe.

To make, pin ribbon around umbrella so that finished sheathe will fit tightly from rib top to tip of stick. Now, slip off pinned cover and stitch. Hem-cut edges, top and bottom—most sheathes can be made to fit tightly without the need for a snap or button closing at the top.

You can turn a simple blouse and skirt combination into a spring ensemble by mantling your shoulders with a luxuriously fringed ribbon stole. Plan to match stole to a bow-tied band on a spring bonnet. All you need to do to make a stole is to sew lengths of ribbon together. Before stitching, line up ribbon lengths so that print patterns are exactly matched. You can either fringe the ribbon ends or you can hem the ends and sew on harmonizing silk fringe of extravagant length.

Elect Conservative Women Asked Study Current Events

Mrs. J. Cridland was re-elected president of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association in Peterborough at the annual meeting Wednesday afternoon. Two new appointments to the executive are Mrs. R. Hutton as third vice president and Mrs. D. Miller as secretary.

Other members re-elected are: first vice-president, Mrs. T. Skinner; second vice-president, Mrs. W. Hughes; treasurer, Mrs. R. G. Cottrell. Mrs. E. Wand took the chair during nominations.

Ward chairman appointed are: north, Mrs. F. Staunton; centre, Mrs. J. Pickering; west, Mrs. H. Wilson, east. Mrs. A. Leach; south, Mrs. Fisher; Claraday, Mrs. R. Pilling. It was suggested that an official assistant be appointed for each chairman.

Members were asked to ponder thoughtfully on curretn events and keep up to date on all happenings by reading the newspapers thoroughly in a brief address by president, Mrs. Cridland. She read lines from a number of clippings to show there are many current matters of great interest to such a group. In political vein, it was noted that Quebec can turn out 75 per cent of its voters in an election while Ontario is far behind.

The speaker quoted a remark "Such is the deadly nature of communism once accepted it can never be gotten rid of. Communists can afford to lose 20 elections if they win the 21st, for there will be no 22nd."

Mr. Gordon K. Fraser MP spoke of a feeling of confidence that his party will go over the top in another election. His usual optimism is more than doubled since winning the by-election in Quebec this week he said.

The member said he believes many people are forgetting that he has been elected to serve them and are not writing to him about matters whic he might be able to help them with. No postage is required on such letters he reminded.

The extreme need of food help in Britain was explained by Mr. Fred G. Mann, chairman of the United Emergency Fund for Britain. He quoted from papers received today from his sister in England details of rations which show they are much less than when he visited his homeland two and half years ago. Two week's ration is: 1 pound sugar, 10 cents worth butter (about 2 oz.), 3 cent lard, 8 cents of margarine. Each week they are allowed 28 cents of meat and he noted that in order to vary the menu they take 1l cents of corned beef one week in order to have a pound of sausage and part of a rabbit the next. Two rashers of bacon are given each week.

Through UEFB $5. worth of food is purchased wholesale for $4 and costs of transporting it to England are 79 cent, considerably less than individual charges.

In order to make a donation to this fund the Association has arranged to hold a tea at the home of Mrs. Jas. Juby, Boswell Ave. on Thursday afternoon, February 24.

Aims and objects of the Local Council of Women were outlined by the president of that body, Mrs. Wm. Addyman. She said it is democratic and non-partisan and will tolerate nothing of a communist nature. For this reason the organization has been wiped out behind the iron curtain, but exists in every other country of the world. "It challenges all women to promote good will among all peope," she said.

Annoucement was made of the speakers coming Friday, February 25, in the interest of the Jewish-Christian Brotherhood week. All were invited to attend a tea in the Empress Hotel that afternoon.

Valentine Ball Gay Setting Aids Enjoyment IODE Event

Highlight of the winter as always was the Major Bennett Chapter's annual Valentine Ball. Nearly 300 couples attended it Wednesday evening at Club Aragon. The gay and colorful setting arranged by the members was greatly admired. Silver tree trunks and graceful branches were in winter bareness except for bright red hearts tipping each limb, and gave the impression of a small forest, with a clearing made for Bob Kinsman and his band. A huge red and silver heart highlighted the backdrop, and there were more hearts, arrows and cupids around the hall and balloons all over the ceiling. Posters in the Valentine manner announced the Ball's sponsorship.

Formal attire was observed and the beautifully gowned ladies paired with escorts in meticulous white tie and tails made a truly gala scene. Corsages were made available at the door by Chapter members who offered a splendid variety of flowers in shades to match with a kaleidescope of dress colors.

Draws were made for handsome door prizes which went to Mr. and Mrs. R. Marston, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hogan, Miss Ann Forbes and Mr. Brown.

Lending their patronage to the dance were Mayor M. J. Swanston and Mrs. Swanston, Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, M.P. and Mrs. Fraser, Lieut.-Col. W. Gordon Hall and Mrs. Hall, honorary regent. They received with Mrs. George Barns, retiring regent of the chapter, who was assisted by Mr. Barns.

DOROTHY DIX

Says Second Trial Offers Good Chance of Happiness

DEAR MISS DIX: What is your opinion about the separation of husbands and wives? My husband left me and now he wants to come back to the children and me and for us to forget all that has happened and to start fresh. Do you think a mother alone can make a success in rearing her children? Do you think that if a couple still care for each other they can blot out the past and make their children a better home and give them a better start in life than the mother could do alone?

Dorothy Dix

What is necessary to make a success of a marriage that once has failed?

A HOPEFUL WIFE AND MOTHER.

ANSWER: It takes love, and lots of it, to make a go of any marriage for, all malarky to the contrary, no marriage ever came up to the expectations of the high contracting parties. No bride ever turned out to be the pin-feathered angel her bridegroom thought he was getting. No husband was ever the great lover of a girl's dreams.

They all had selfishness and egotism and whims and other unpleasant peculiarities, and if the husband and wife did not have enough love to offset their mates' faults, the marriage went on the rocks. But the saving factor in thousands of marriages is that so many husbands and wives who have been fighting together like Kilkenny cats don't rush to the divorce courts.

Time to Cool Off

They separate, and that gives him time to cool off and think the situation over and come to their senses. The husband discovers that with all her faults he loves Mary Jane still, and Mary Jane soaks her pillow with tears because life is dust and ashes to her without her Tom, and both of them are conscience-stricken when they look at their little children and think how they have betrayed them.

So I think that the husbands and wives who have parted in anger are very wise when they kiss and make up and give marriage a second trial. They have had a hard lesson that has left them wiser, more tolerant, more forgiving, more appreciative of each other's good qualities.

My earnest advice to all separated couples is to give marriage another trial before they throw it into the discard.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My boy friend has asked me to wait six years before we get married. He gives no specific reason for this, but tells everyone he loves me and will marry me when the time comes. He never takes me out to any place of amusement. Sometimes I don't see him for weeks.

Is this love? Is it worth while waiting for? I love him very much, but cannot understand his actions. tell me what to do.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, your boy friend doesn't seem to be an impetuous lover. Evidently he is taking time to analyze the situation and determine whether he really wants you for a wife or not. But it strikes me that he is a trifle dilatory if he expects you to wait six years for him to make up his mind. You must be a descendant of Patient Griselda if you hang around waiting on this slow-moving lover. Any girl with spunk would make him put up, or shut up, for it doesn't pay a girl to wait too long for a wedding ring. A girl doesn't get prettier and younger and more desirable as time goes by.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY RIX: My problem is boys. I am 13 and in the eighth grade. I have no trouble with girl friends, only with boys. I am sociable, a neat dresser and considered pretty. I have several boy friends, but the ones I like ignore me or insult me.

I am very hurt by this and I hope you have a remedy for my problem.

PUZZLED.

ANSWER: You are certainly beginning to have boy trouble early in life. It is time enough to start worrying over dates and steadies and sweethearts and parties and rivalries after you have gotten out of the kindergarten class. For a mere babe to try to act as sophisticated as grown people is enough to make the angels weep.

When I read the letters from you children, and I get hundreds of them, I am filled with pity because you are throwing away the most beautiful and precious thing in the world—your youth and innocence. And I wonder what sort of mothers you have who aid and abet you kids in your folly.

Making Deep Meat Pie Out of Leftover Roast Beef

By MARY MOORE

I quote: "Once in one of your replies to a reader you said to make a meat pie out of leftover cold roast beef.

"Now I'm 22 years old and have worked in an office since I was 16, and was married last year and am still doing office work.

"My husband, until we were married, boarded in a rooming-house and is so happy to have our own little apartment, that he gloats over everything that I cook and even starts to wash the dishes when I would dawdle over the evening paper a little longer. And what's more he brings my breakfast to bed on Sunday mornings.

"Now I want to do everything I can to be a good cook and this meat pie you mention appeals to me—it seems so much more important than a dish of hash — which is all I know to make with a cold roast besides slice it".

Josie.

That letter meant to me that there is a happily married young pair with all of the makings of a long happy life together. Long may they strive to please one another.

Deep Meat Pie

Using the drippings from the pan and the pan gravy, or made gravy which is left over, make thin gravy by heating these in a pan with enough boiling water to make up to 1½ cups (for 2 hungry people). Stir 1½ tablespoons flour with 2 tablespoons cold water to a smooth paste, and stir this into the boiling liquid. Add the cold roast meat which has been cut into about 1½-inch pieces, enough to make 2 good servings of meat. Add enough salt and pepper to suit your taste. Parboil 2 or 3 each small onions and carrots, add them. Pour all into casserole. Top with rich pie pastry:

Rich Pie Pastry (for a small meat pie in small casserole): 1½ cups flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup good quality shortening, about 3½ to 4 tablespoons ice cold water. Sift flour and salt together. Cut in the shortening with a pastry blender until particles are size of small peas. Sprinkle the water over top, and mixing it in just enough with a fork to make the pastry form a ball on end of fork. Roll out on lightly floured board to size of top of casserole plus about ½-inch to fold under at edge. You may want to make more pastry to use to line sides of casserole before pouring in meat mixture. If so, edges of side lining and top crust must be pinched together to make them seal—put a little water at edge to insure this.

Bake meat pie at 475 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes to quickly dry and brown crust, then reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. to make contents of pie boil and finish cooking vegetables.

This type of pie is good with biscuit dough crust—and I like biscuit dough cut out like doughnuts for it allows the gravy to boil up through the holes.

Biscuit Dough for Crust for Meat Pie: Sift together 2 cups cake flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, and cut in 4 tablespoons shortening with pastry blender. Add about 2-3 cup milk stirring it with a fork until dough will hold together. Tip out of bowl onto well-floured board, pat out or roll out to 1-inch thickness; with floured cutter cut out in biscuits about 3 inches in diameter, and if you like doughnut shapes too cut out centre with doughnut cutter. Place on top of hot meat and vegtable mix in casserole and bake in very hot oven of 475 deg. Fahr. throughout, having dish standing at bottom of oven.

Technicians Ensure Safer Flying

By RAE CORELLI

MONCTON, N. B., Feb. 10 (CP) —A handful of technicians in a small building at this transportation city's Lakeburn Airport daily are ensuring safer passage for thousands of Trans-Atlantic air travellers.

The group, the transport department's air traffic control branch, maintains the invisible fingers of radar and direction finding on the pulse of the world's ocean air routes 24 hours a day.

Joining forces with similar centres at New York, Prestwick, Shannon and the Azores, these men are insurance against collisions, ignorance of bad weather and against confusion. In short they are the traffic cops information bureau of the airways.

ATC's "ear" — radio stations fringing the control area—keep the centre here informed on what is going on over the ocean's air lanes by direct telephone hookup. The area under its jurisdiction extends from the United States border west half-way across the Atlantic, north to the Arctic circle and some south of Halifax.

All airborne sky-giants over the ocean make periodical reports to ATC through one of its "ears." By these reports, and because every Trans-Ocean aircraft files a flight plan before take-off, ATC knows exactly where any plane is at any time.

Flight plans are relayed to other centres so that these control points know when and at what speed and altitude a plane enters their area. Flight plans must be adhered to. To change altitude, speed or course, a pilot must have premission of the control centre in his area.

MORE ABOUT—
Keays Planning

Dowdell, rather than the court reporter.

The presiding magistrate, T. Y. Wills, had refused to sign the transcript, Keays testified.

Keays produced Magistrate Wills' judgment in the case. The judgment said Ervine had found the damaged posts September 28.

Keays said the judgment implied it could believe neither Keays, Ervine nor Constable G. R. Purdy, the other officer involved.

Keays submitted that Ervine should have laid a charge against "John Doe" if he had actually found the broken posts. This would have enabled him to proceed with charges after finding the person responsible. Otherwise, under the Summary Convictions Act, Keays said, charge would have to be laid within 10 days of the alleged offence.

Keays submitted an officer of Ervine's service would have done these if he actually had found the damaged posts.

Never Forwarded

He charged that reports he made about the alleged irregularities were never forwarded to Provincial Police Headquarters.

He asked for production of one of his reports, which he said was held back at Belleville. He said there was no stamp it had ever been received at the Commissioner's office.

"It came from the Commissioner's office," said Commission Counsel C. P. Hope.

"I'll come to that, Mr. Hope," Keays said. "I know where this came from."

Mr. Hope pointed out there was a stamp indicating it had been sent from Belleville to Toronto.

"I don't know when this was put on," Keays said. "I have asked for certain documents you have not seen fit to produce."

Keays said the report was marked for the attention of the Highways Department, but there was no record that it had ever been forwarded.

No Records There

He said he had checked highways department files and no records were there. They had been held up by Commissioner Stringer's office to "whitewash" the affair.

He produced a Highways Department letter to the district highways engineer, saying the police had never reported the damaged posts to the highways department.

Once, when Mr. Hope said there was no necessity to produce a document Keays requested, the constable said if Mr. Hope would admit Keays' original charges there would have been no necessity of a royal commission.

"I'm making my remarks to Mr. Commissioner and I don't need any comment from you," Mr. Hope snapped.

"I'm commenting," Keays replied. "I'm here as witness and counsel both and can't get in and out of the witness box."

False Charge

Keays testified that Inspector W. A. Page falsely accused him of stealing files from the office of the Picton Provincial Police detachment. The files were found a few days later in the detachment.

"The stigma is still with me that I returned these files," he said. "I couldn't get a hearing or a chance to examine these officers."

While Keays was in Niagara Falls, he said he received a telephone call from his son at Belleville asking if his father was "running away" from Belleville.

"I was depressed," Keays said. "...I had set my course decent and clean."

Keays testified that he interviewed Commissioner Stringer in Niagara Falls and told him of the false accusations. The Commissioner told "me not to bother, it was only jealousy," Keays said.

Transferred Back

In April, 1948, he was ordered transferred back to Belleville and asked for production of the letter from Commissioner Stringer ordering the move.

"That letter is marked confidential," Mr. Hope said.

"Aren't all police files confidential?" Keays asked. "I haven't made anything public yet. Mr. Blackwell (Attorney General Leslie Blackwell) sought fit to make it public."

Keays read the letter which said he was posted to Belleville where his family still lived on the recommendation of the Ontario Health Department. The department said the move was in the interest of Keays "physical and mental" interest.

When Keays returned to Belleville, he was told by Inspector Page that he "wasn't wanted" in Niagara Falls, the constable testified.

Keays said Page gave him written instructions ordering him to remain at district headquarters and not "to drive any government vehicle or take part in any investigation...you have been in the habit of ordering other constables around...in future you will obey orders and not give them."

Keays said he told the inspector the instructions were "ruining my career and depriving me of my powers as a police officer."

Keays introduced a copy of a letter Page wrote Commissioner Stringer April 16, 1948. It said "full apologies" were made by Keays and that there was a "great deal more harmony" in the detachment when Keays was at Niagara Falls.

The letter said "some of the Crown Attorneys will not have him (Keays) take part in investigations or appear in their courts."

"I played solitaire at District Headquarters for two months," Keays said.

He produced the Commissioner's reply to Page, suggesting Page had "been a little too drastic" in his instructions to Keays.

The letter suggested that Page transfer Keays to a smaller detachment in the district.

Food Shortage Critical In U.S. Storm Areas

CHICAGO, Feb. 10 (AP)—Food and fuel shortage became critical in some communities in the snow-locked western states today as weary rescue crews battled new wind and snow storms. Emergency measures were stepped up to rescue hundreds reported isolated—some for weeks.

Rail lines and highways over a four-state area were blocked by huge snow drifts, leaving thousands of persons stranded. Thirty-one passenger trains, carrying some 6,000 travellers, were stalled.

Conditions in Wyoming were reported to be the most critical since the first blizzard struck the state Jan. 2.

Fresh gales out of the Gulf of Alaska roared out of the Pacific northwest last night, hitting north central Idaho and moving into northern Utah and Wyoming, accompanied by sub-zero temperatures. The strong winds were expected to extend into Nebraska and the Dakotas by tonight, the United States weather bureau said. The area has been hit by severe wind storms since Sunday.

Mrs. E. Nelson Hostess For WMS Supper

DARTFORD, Feb. 10 —(ENS) —Mrs. Earl Nelson was hostess in her own home to the Women's Missionary Society for the annual pot luck supper. Mrs. A. McCracken, president, was chairman of the meeting which followed.

Those who presented reports and conducted business at the meeting were Mrs. Sykes, Mrs. Clarence McKague and Mrs. Arthur Ward. Mrs. Muriel Darling was program convener, the Rev. N. G. Lester played the mandolin and sang and Mrs. Percy gave a reading.

Next meeting will be held at Mrs. Hayden Aikinson's home.

News ..... In Brief ...

By The Canadian Press

LONDON — Concern among British industrialists over German competition in export markets was stressed in parliament. The President of the Board of Trade, Harold Wilson, was asked what representations had been made to him by British industries on the point. He answered that it was appreciated that the volume of German exports must increase rapidly in the next few years if Germany is to pay her way and cease to be a burden on American and British taxpayers.

MIAMI, Fla.—William Monroe White, 77, noted hydraulic engineer, died. He helped design and build many large North American hydro-electric installations, including those at Niagara Falls.

BUENOS AIRES— Federal police said they had arrested at least 20 persons in connection with a printers' contract strike which has halted publication of all Buenos Aires newspapers. The arrests were made in front of printers tried to hold a meeting.

DENMARK, S.C.— About 1,000 robed and hooded members of the Klu Klux Klan paraded in a heavy rain to hear a speech by the Klan's Grand Dragon, Samuel Green of Atlanta, Ga. He spoke along the line's of the Klan's "white supremacy" policy.

Dr. Gordon Langley Listed In Blue Book

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—(Special) —A Peterborough resident, Dr. Gordon R. Langley, 239 Burnham St., has satisfied the rigid standards set up by the Engineers Joint Council for inclusion in "Who's Who In Engineering," which has just come off the press her. Only "top-notchers" in the profession were selected for the blue book, which was compiled through the cooperation of engineering bodies in Canada and the United States.

Mr. Langley is chief engineer for the Peterborough works of the Canadian General Electric Company. Practically his entire business career has been spent with the General Electric Company in Peterborough and Schenectady, N.Y.

Included in the volume are only those of "acknowledged professional eminence," those with ten years' active practice, five of it being in important engineering work, and, finally, teachers of engineering subjects in accredited colleges.

Only a small fraction of the several hundred thousand graduate engineers in Canada and the United States accepted for the "Who's Who".

A Greater Star

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 10 (AP). —Two months in jail will make Robert Mitchum a bigger film star than ever, says one of his bosses. David O. Selznick, head of Selznick Studio, which with RKO, has Mitchum under contract, declared:

"Bob will come out of his trouble a finer man, and will go on to an even greater success than he enjoyed prior to this unfortunate situation."

Dutch Envoy Protests Aussie Accusation

MELBOURNE, Feb. 10 (CP)— The Netherlands Minister to Australia has sent a strong note of protest to Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian External Affairs Minister, against an attack yesterday by Immigration Minister Arthur Calwell on the Dutch administration of the Netherlands East Indies.

Calwell, in his speech, said an opposition motion for adjournment of the House to discuss the deportation of an Indonesian woman and her eight Indonesian children was part of a Netherlands plan to embarrass the Australian government because of its interest in Indonesia and participation in the current Asian Conference at New Delhi.

The Indonesian woman, Mrs. Annie O'Keefe, was evacuated with her children to Australia during the war. She married an Australian, John O'Keefe, but has been ordered deported under the Australian government policy of returning Asiatics brought here during the war to their homes.

Middlemen Take Too Much Profit

NORWOOD, Feb. 10—(ENS).— At the Farm Forum on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Legge, RR 2, Norwood, the members continued discussion of marketing of farm produce.

This centred around the amount of time farmers could spend in preparing their products in an attractive and saleable form, and how much money should be spent for advertising.

Some thought farmers have all they can manage to produce the goods, and that grading, packaging, etc., should be done by a co-op at a reasonable cost. It was agreed that middlemen take too large a share of the consumers' dollar and expect more profit than the farmers. With high costs of labor, machinery, etc., farmers do not make enough profit to permit expensive advertising, and it was decided that consumers would object to higher prices necessary to cover extra costs.

After the business part of the meeting, a contest took place, followed by games. Mrs. Legge served refreshments.

Need For Blood Stressed By Mrs. Grylls

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 10—(ENS)—Mrs. S. A. Grylls was guest speaker at the Red Cross meeting Tuesday and talked on "Blood."

The average cost of a pint of blood is $25, but with the new Red Cross service the blood and plasma is free, she said.

Hospitals figure their quota for blood required as one bottle per bed per year. Blood is delivered every ten days in refrigerator trucks. The main laboratories are at Chorley Park, Toronto.

"Blood is vital in both war and peace. During the war, blood was processed into plasma; the new program deals with whole blood and any oversupply is processed into plasma. Mobile clinics will radiate in all directions from Toronto, and everyone between the ages of 18 and 65 is asked to take blood donors' cards."

Mrs. Bob McCracken moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Grylls. Mrs. Walter Yale in seconding the vote of thanks, said her life was saved through a blood transfusion following a car accident ten years ago, and spoke highly of the work done by the blood donors.

Dr. Lloyd Bailey complimented Mrs. Grylls on her talk.

Mrs. Wallace Hendren, school nurse, reported that inoculations for whooping cough, tetanus and diphtheria had been completed in the Public School, also all the heads examined and all found to be clean.

Mrs. W. Leonard, Mrs. Hendren and Mrs. McCracken were appointed delegates to the Red Cross convention in Toronto.

E. W. Bailey announced that the Legion men would do the canvassing for the Red Cross campaign.

The society decided to not send out cards announcing the meetings for the time being, but to announce the meetings in the churches, the bulletin board and The Examiner.

Arthur Morris volunteered to canvas Young's Point school district for the campaign, and Mr. E. W. Bailey and Mr. J. McKerchar will divide Lakefield Village into zones for easier canvassing.

Mrs. W. Leonard, president, presided for the meeting.

TOWNSEND PLAN is revived as Dr. Francis E. Townsend (centre), now 81, talks with Representatives John Blatnik and Homer D. Angell, who have introduced bills into Congress to enact the Townsend plan. Dr. Townsend was founder of an old-age pension movement which received wide popularity before the war.

Grocery Store Fire Checked In Good Time

MILLBROOK, Feb. 10 (ENS)—Fire of unknown origin broke out in the office of Medd's groceteria about 9.30 on Tuesday morning making good headway before it was discovered. The door was closed between the office and the main store and the fire must have started some considerable time before smoke was noticed issuing from the door of Mr. Medd's office.

Some shelves were burned and a quantity of invoices dating back to the time of the previous owner, G. E. Burnham, but nothing of any value was destroyed. Damage will amount to between $25 and $30.

Fire extinguishers kept in the store did a good job until the prompt arrival of the fire company, when in little more than 10 minutes the flames, which burst out alarmingly when the door was opened, were completely subdued.

No More Waking Up Mornings Feeling Achy, Tired And Dizzy

This Man Tells of Grand Relief From Backache, Indigestion and Constipation. "Feel Like a Different Person Since Taking Syntona," He Says.

Whether you are 18 or 80 you may at times begin to feel over-tired, listless and run down. Digestion is impaired, appetite is lost, nerves on edge and sleep is neither sound nor restful. In times such as this Syntona Herbal Compound has proved extremely helpful to many hundreds of men and women. Additional symptoms such as backache, rheumatic pains, dizzy feelings and headaches usually disappear.

Here is the experience of Mr. Robert H. Patterson, Thamesford, Ontario, as reported only a few days ago:

"I was a victim of constipation, which caused me no end of other troubles. I started every day by awakening with a dizzy, tired, achy feeling and my back was often so lame I could hardly straighten up. My food was not digesting at all well. After meals I would suffer from gas, indigestion and sour acid risings.

"I heard a lot of praise for Syntona, so decided to give it a trial. I got a bottle and soon found this medicine did all that was said about it.

"I never had anything before that was so satisfactory in relieving constipation and in addition to that I soon began to feel better in many other ways. I found I was able to get better sleep and was awakening mornings feeling more rested and refreshed. The dizziness left me and also the aches and pains are gone now, so I don't feel fatigued as I did before. I have no trouble now with gas, or sour stomach after my meals and my appetite is greatly improved."

Syntona is sold and highly recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

15 Protestant Ministers Will Be Tried For Treason In Bulgaria

SOFIA, Feb. 11—(AP).—Communist-governed Bulgaria is going to put 15 Protestant ministers and officials on trial soon on charges of treason, violating currency laws and spying for Britain and the United States. Vladimir Topencharov, Deputy Foreign Minister, said the churchmen already had "fully confessed" to the spy charges.

The government last night announced the names of those arrested for the first time, disclosed the indictments and named 12 American and British churchmen, educators and officials who it said acted as "contacts" in the spying activities.

The fifteen indicted are leaders of the United Evangelical Church. Represented in the church are the Methodist, Baptist, Pentacost and Congregational faiths.

Vassil Ziapkov, head of the Congregational church in Bulgaria and religious representative of the United Evangelical church, was alleged to be the "heart" of the treasonable activity.

Others indicted included: Yanko Ivanov, his deputy and supervisor of Methodist churches in Bulgaria; Nikala Mihailov, head of the Baptists; Georgi Chernev, head of the Pentacost church.

The four named are members of the supreme council of the United Evangelical Church in Bulgaria. The other 11 are Protestant ministers.

Three More Trials

In addition, Topencharov said two or three more trials of Protestants will be held in the provinces.

The indictment named 12 Americans and Britons as "organs of foreign intelligence and representatives of international reaction" who visited Bulgaria at various times since 1944 and made contact with the 15 accused either directly or indirectly. These were: Cyril Black, professor of Russian history at Princeton University, who has been an adviser to the United States delegation in the United Nations Balkan Commission.

John Evarts Horner, former acting United States political representative at Sofia.

Louis Reck, present United States commercial representative in Sofia.

Rival Unions Battle At Plant 20 People Hurt

EAST MOLINE, Ill., Feb. 11—(AP)—About 20 persons were injured, including two top officials of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) in a 20-minute pitched battle yesterday between some 300 members of two rival CIO unions.

Both officials were arrested after the bloody brawl at the gates of the East Moline works of the International Harvester Company. On one side were some 70 UAW organizers. They were opposed by more than 200 workers at the plant, members of the United Farm Equipment Workers Union.

Thirteen of the injured received treatment at a hospital for bloody and broken noses, cuts, broken arms, bashed heads, and cracked ribs. Only one was a plant worker. The unionists injured included John W. Livingston of Detroit, UAW Vice-President and Director of the union's agricultural implement department, and Pat Greathouse, of Chicago, UAW Regional Director.

Arvid Sheets, President of F. E. Local 104, said he will ask warrants today charging the two CIO officials with inviting a riot. They were summoned to appear today before a police magistrate on the disorderly conduct charges.

Sheets said "our membership does not intend to permit outside labor bosses to destroy the things we have worked so hard and so long to accomplish."

Brighton Man Killed In Fall From Tree

COBOURG, Feb. 11—(ENS).—Falling 20 feet from a tree to an ice surface, 67-year-old John Franklin Austin of Souris, Man., was killed instantly Thursday afternoon. He was trimming limbs on a tree at the farm of Ernest Plumpton, north of Brighton, where he was visiting. Leaning against a rotten limb, his weight cracked it and the elderly man fell. His injuries, a fractured skull and spine, were fatal.

No decision as to an inquest has yet been reached by Dr. F. M. Dure, coroner. Provincial Constable Bill Baluk of Cobourg investigated.

Irish Vote To Remain Part Of U.K.

Government Retains Legislature Control 90% Cast Ballots

BELFAST, Feb. 11 — (CP).—Sir Basil Brooke's Pro-Partition Unionist Government to-day was re-elected and won a "mandate" for Northern Ireland to continue as part of the United Kingdom.

The election was fought on the single issue of "King or Republic." Mounting returns showed the government retained control of the 52-seat Legislature and there were indications its majority may have been increased.

At 8:45 a.m. EST to-day the Unionists held the 27 seats necessary for re-election. Opposing parties held five. These figures include 20 seats which went unopposed and four other seats in Queen's University will not be determined until the end of the month.

About 90 per cent of Northern Ireland's 495,744 registered voters were reported to have cast ballots.

The first Nationalist victory came in East Tyrone, where Joseph Stewart carried the tri-color banner of Eire.

Government Sweep

Hugh Minford won the only seat contested in County Antrim to give the Government a sweep of the seven Antrim seats.

The first woman to gain election was Unionist housewife Dinah McNabb of North Armagh.

An upset victory in Belfast was scored by Alderman Thomas Cole, who defeated Labor member of Parliament Harry Downey.

Downey had been pledged to support the entry of Ulster's six counties into a new Republic of Ireland. Cole's margin was 3,674 to 3,390.

Three Unionist cabinet ministers were returned to Parliament by big majorities in the Belfast districts. They are Col. S. H. Hall-Thompson, Education; Maj. Maynard Sinclair, Finance, and William Grant, Health.

Mining Town Cut Off By Snow Avalanche

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—(AP).—A new cold wave moved into sections of the snow-bound western states today and snowslides and minor floods menaced areas in the Pacific northwest.

Strong winds continued to swirl the mountainous snow in the western plains, hampering the reopening of highways and clearing of rail lines.

The army, Red Cross and other agencies planned no let-up in the fight to save the lives of humans and livestock.

The mining town of Burke, Idaho, was reported isolated by a 300-foot-wide snow avalanche which buried roads, rail and communication lines. No homes were in the path of the slide, which was estimated 150 feet deep in some places. It was not immediately determined if any travellers were caught in the slide.

Charge Textile Executive Evades $2,500,000 Tax

MONTREAL, Feb. 11—(CP)—After a year of investigation, the Federal Department of Revenue signed complaints in criminal court here yesterday against Albert Sansoucy, Montreal textile wholesaler, charging him with income tax evasions amounting to $2,500,000.

The complaints, 45 in all, are lodged against Sansoucy, Albert Soucy et Frere, Ltd., and Albert Soucy, Ltd.

Government lawyers said that Sansoucy owed the government $2,500,000 in back taxes. Under the double penalty clause, Sansoucy stands to lose $5,000,000 in fines, penalties, interest and taxes if there is a conviction or a plea of guilty.

Besides with being charged with violating every major regulation in the Income Tax Act, the textile executive is also charged with violating the War Income Tax and the Excess Profit Tax Act.

The income tax charges include making false statements to tax officers, buying and selling securities and bonds under fictitious names, secreting his assets, placing them in the names of others and fictitious persons, failing to make an income tax return and destroying his account book.

The offences are alleged to have been committed between 1943 and 1946.

Last May, the government obtained a writ from the Exchequer Court enabling it to retain $1,000,000 in cash and bonds seized from a safety deposit box belonging to Sansoucy. It was issued on the grounds that there was danger that the money might be lost.

Information in one of yesterday's complaints was that Sansoucy's 1943 income tax return, filed in 1947, listed his taxable income as $5,391, instead of $281,045. As a result, he evaded payment of an income tax of $251,067.

Expel Hungarian

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—(AP).—The United States today retaliated against Hungary for expulsion of two American officials from Budapest by ordering a top Hungarian diplomat out of the United States. The diplomat ordered to leave "as soon as possible" is John G. Florian, first secretary of the Legation here. The State Department notified Minister Andrew Sik yesterday that Florian is no longer "persona grata," or acceptable as a representative of his government.

Judge Testifies In Inquiry At Belleville

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 11—(CP)—Constable J. E. Keayes still was on the stand today as a Royal Commission began the fifth day of its probe into the administration of justice in this eastern Ontario city.

Again the drab Hastings County court room was packed with spectators.

For more than hour he continued to lay police records and letters before the Commissioner, Mr. Justice Keiller MacKay. He said they supported his testimony and other documents produced during the first four days of the hearing.

During a lull in the hearing while commission officials searched for a document, Keays told the Commission he was not represented by a lawyer because the Police Association of Ontario had told him it could not take part in the Commission.

As he continued to ask for documents, Mr. Hope said: "This is getting beyond all reason."

Asks for Letter

Keays was asking for a letter the Police Association sent the Attorney General.

Mr. Justice MacKay said he could see no relevance to the letter.

"Whim, caprice, and fancy speculation have nothing to do with this inquiry," he said. "I can't accept letters written by outsiders as evidence."

Mr. Hope said the letter just contained a "rehash of what the constable has taken a week to tell us."

Keays concluded his testimony at noon, after being in the witness box for more than 26 hours and filing 88 separate exhibits.

Ask Judge Called

Mr. Hope asked that Judge C. W. A. Marion be called as a witness before the cross-examination of Keays.

Mr. Marion was Prescott and Russell counties crown attorney in 1940.

He said no written reports had been submitted to him in connection with the shooting of Provincial Constable Harold Dent and the shooting of John Miki in 1940.

He said, however, that as a crown attorney he preferred to work from verbal rather than written reports.

Miki was shot by Sgt. J. A. Stringer after the fatal shooting of Dent.

Under questioning by Keays, Judge Marion said he was made familiar with the details of the shooting and Stringer's statement by verbal reports from Keays and other officers.

Two Hearings

Keays suggested that there were two separate hearings at the coroner's inquest.

Embassy Trucks Smash Through Battle Lines

RANGOON, Feb. 11—(APP).—British Embassy trucks last night entered beleaguered Insein, 10 miles north of Rangoon, and safely evacuated 45 British nationals who had been caught in the rebel-held town.

The trucks, manned by Embassy officials, entered Insein amid the glare of bursting shells before another moonlight battle between government troops and Karen rebels.

The rescued Britons described their experience as "nightmarish".

They said they lived for 10 days on a diet of salt and rice given them by the rebel tribesmen.

Trout Creek Block Is Destroyed

Baby Asphyxiated As Parents Brave Flames In Rescue

TROUT CREEK, Ont., Feb. 11 (CP)—A five-months-old child died today after being carried from his burning home as fire razed the business section of this farming community 20 miles south of North Bay. Damage has been estimated at $70,000.

The thermometer registered 20 degrees below zero as tiny John Wesley Osborne apparently died as a result of asphyxiation. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Osborne, both suffered severe burns as they attempted to rescue the child. Mrs. Osborne crawled through a window to reach the infant.

As fire struck the village of less than 500 persons, it destroyed the Frank Quinlan general store, operated by Mr. Osborne. It also destroyed Victor Mogridge's Trout Creek general store, apartments above it, and a warehouse and an adjacent feed store

(Mr. Quinlan, who owned the general store, is the son of the late Mr. M. H. Quinlan of Peterborough).

Send Help

The North Bay fire department arrived at the scene shortly before 10 o'clock this morning to help weary members of the Trout Creek volunteer brigade. The volunteers had battled the blaze since it was discovered two hours earlier.

The fire is believed to have originated at Osborne's store and firefighters struggled this morning to save the Bank of Nova Scotia building. A thick pall of smoke hung over Powassan, seven miles away.

Buildings destroyed are located on the village's main street, across from Evers Hotel. The hotel was crammed with articles salvaged from the fire-demolished stores.

Find Role Of Pacific Widening Dispute

TOKCO, Feb. 11 — (AP) — Strong difference of opinion between Gen. MacArthur and Washington appear to be growing over the role of the Pacific in American defence plans.

The issue is the same as during the war—whether the Pacific and the Orient should be slighted in favor of a major military concentration in Europe.

Against a backdrop of Communist victories in China, MacArthur is believed to have requested more troops and aircraft. Dominant opinion in Washington, however, apparently is that primary emphasis must be placed on Europe.

Cut From Wreckage

SUDBURY, Feb. 11 (CP).—Bodies of two Indian trappers killed in a plane crash 24 miles northeast of Gogama, will have to be cut from the wreckage, police revealed today. Provincial Constable N. Cowie, who flew to the scene of the tragedy from Gogama, said it was impossible to remove the bodies without cutting the wreckage.

Teachers Ask Ottawa Boost Education Fund

OTTAWA, Feb. 11—(CP)—The Canadian Teachers Federation today asked the Federal Government to give education a financial boost.

The request was made in a 14-page brief presented to Prime Minister St. Laurent by a four-man delegation from the CTF, which speaks for 58,000 teachers across the country.

The brief said the Federal Government should see that shifting taxes do not deprive the provinces of their ability to meet their responsibilities in education.

Readjustments in provincial subsidies arranged by Federal-Provincial agreement, would not solve the problem, it continued.

"We believe that a straight per pupil capita grant would bring the greatest benefits compatible with the safeguards which certain provinces would require to guarantee that the Federal Government would not infringe upon their jurisdiction in the field of education," the brief said.

Provincial Share

"We believe that any system of Federal aid should be contingent upon the provinces maintaining or bettering their present level of payments toward education."

Describing the teacher shortage as "one of the most serious problems facing the country today," the brief said the quality of a child's teacher was the "basic factor" in his educational welfare.

The brief noted that increased school attendance "resulting in some areas largely from the application of children's allowances" only intensifies the need for greater assistance to provide qualified teachers, equipment and suitable school buildings to cope with the increased enrolment.

Deportation Case Ruling Postponed

MONTREAL, Feb. 11—(CP) — The case of Count Jacques Duge de Bernonville, fighting a deportation order to his native France where he is under sentence of death for wartime collaboration with the Germans, will come up in superior court within the next two weeks.

Judgment on the 51-year-old count's habeas corpus application was postponed indefinitely yesterday by Mr. Justice Louis Cousineau because of pressure of other court duties. Mr. Justice Cousineau said the case would be heard in about a week.

Carr Whisked Into Canada By Way Of Prescott; To Be Arraigned Shortly

US Immigration Officers Escort Pair Across River On Ferry; Gouzenko Likely Witness In New Trial

OTTAWA, Feb. 11—(CP).—Sam Carr, alleged key figure in the Soviet spy ring, today was whisked into Canada to face charges arising from the Dominion's 1946 espionage probe. The Russian-born Carr and his wife, picked up in the United States a fortnight ago on immigration charges, were brought across the St. Lawrence River at Prescott, and turned over to Canadian authorities.

His wife, who is not wanted on any charge in Canada, was allowed to go free but RCMP took Carr into custody and headed for Ottawa, where Justice Department officials set the stage for a court hearing.

Carr, who fled Canada three years ago when the spy case broke, will be arraigned on charges connected with a false passport case. The Royal Commission which probed the espionage case quoted Russian documents, indicating Carr had received a sum of money in connection with obtaining a false passport allegedly for a Russian agent.

The prisoner and police escort left Prescott about 11 a.m. He was booked in city police station later.

US immigration and police officers escorted the Carrs across the river on the 9.30 a.m. ferry. RCMP had a car waiting for him and he was immediately whisked towards Ottawa, 60 miles away.

Mrs. Carr left for the Prescott railway station with the object of taking the noon train for Toronto.

Arraigned Soon

The Justice Department announced that Carr, alleged central figure in the Russian espionage case, will be arraigned later today or tomorrow before Magistrate Glenn Strike.

Justice Department officials said Carr will be formally arraigned on a charge of conspiracy to commit forgery with a number of officials of the Russian Embassy, including Col. Nikolai Zabotin, military attache who headed the spy network of which Carr alleged was one of the two Canadian ring-leaders.

The charge was said to have to do with the forgery of passports.

The Crown will be represented by Robert Forsyth, KC, in his last court appearance for the Department of Justice before becoming a judge in Ontario's York county.

J. R. Cartwright, KC, of Toronto will resume his role as prosecution lawyer.

Witnesses are expected to include Igor Gouzenko, Zabotin's former cipher clerk, who disclosures touched off the spy trials, and Dr. John Soboloff, Toronto medical practitioner, who has been fined in connection with the passport case.

Strikers Go To Toronto To Present Case

PARIS, Ont., Feb. 11 (CP) — A bus load of United Textile Workers of America (AFL), now in their fourth week of a wages strike against the Penman Woollen Mills here, left today for Toronto to lobby the provincial legislature.

Union spokesmen here said the group would ask their case be heard in the House and would present a petition asking provincial police be withdrawn from the town.

In Toronto, a Labor Department spokesman said Labor Minister Daley did not plan to meet the union delegation.

A new touch was added to the strike scene this morning when two young children carried large placards in a picket line. A five-year-old boy carried the sign "My dad is fighting for better wages." His nine-year-old sister stood beside him, holding a placard with the words: "Why don't you help him?"

Staff Inspector F. B. Creasy voiced criticism of the union's tactics in bringing small children into the picket line. Organizer William E. Stewart replied that the union was quite within its rights.

An autopsy conducted last week by Dr. W. J. Deadman on the body of Mrs. May Cardy, a non-striking employee of the Penman Mills, was reported today to have revealed the woman's death was not due to violence. She suffered a stroke.

Truck Sinks But 4 Escape

TRENTON, Feb. 11 — Breaking through the ice, a truck containing three men and a 12-year-old boy sank to the bottom of the Trent River Thursday morning, but all four managed to escape with nothing more than a wetting.

"It was a near thing," said Alphonse Gingras, Trenton contractor, who was behind the wheel of the truck. "We didn't have too much time to get out."

Gingras and the others, Douglas Westfall, William McCoustra and the boy, Howard Foshay, were returning to shore across the ice when the front wheels entered an expansion crack which widened under the pressure, Fosha was seated in McCoustra's lap.

Russia Stakes Out Claim In Antarctic

MOSCOW, Feb. 11—(AP)—Russia today staked out a claim to participation in any international discussion over the vast Antarctic.

The official Soviet news agency, Tass, said in a statement that "Russian scientific investigations have priority in discovery and investigation of the Antarctic."

Tass said "certain states" recently attempted to decide Antarctic questions without Russia and that these attempts cannot but arouse the decisive protest of the Soviet public."

Russia's all-union Geographic Society adopted unanimously a resolution emphasizing the 'right' of the Soviet to participate in "the questions of the Antartic."

GENERALS ON TRIAL — Three French generals stand at the bar of justice in a Paris military court, accused of trying to make a deal with Germans when they were held as prisoners of war. Left to right are: Gen. Jacques D'Arras, 64; Gen. Rene-Paul Dubuisson, 69; and Gen. Alfred Marie Fagalde, 70. The prosecution contends the generals asked the Nazis for official posts and special privileges.

Compulsory Army Training Only Defence Gen. Crerar Tells Quebec

Not Enough In Next War Just To Produce Must Also Furnish Men; Sure French Province Recognizes Necessity

QUEBEC, Feb. 11—(CP). — The problem of being able to mobilize maximum, adequately trained forces just as soon as war closely threatens can be solved only by now accepting the procedure of compulsory military training, Gen. H. D. G. Crerar said here Thursday night. The former commander of the First Canadian Army overseas spoke to the Quebec section of the Canadian Military Institute.

He disagreed with suggested policies that Canada's contribution to the winning of a third world war, "should it be forced upon us, can best be made by producing the means by which our allies can do the fighting...."

"I cannot believe," said Gen. Crerar "that Canadians would accept delayed, even dilatory, arrangements for active military participation in the struggle, depending initially even for local defence requirements on sound assistance from the USA.

Must Produce Share

Gen. Crerar said that the fact Canada, with 13,000,000 population, could contribute little military manpower compared with the United States in any world conflict was not a good argument against the country not producing at least its proportionate share.

"Certainly it is not a view which can possibly appeal to the countries of Western Europe and to the United Kingdom which are being urged to create and maintain the maximum armed forces of which they are capable."

Not In Keeping

"I am frequently told," he said, "that no political party in Canada...would be ensured of public support if it proclaimed itself in favor of compulsory military training in peacetime. I am also told that the main stumbling block to such vitally important pre-war arrangements lies in the attitude of the population of Quebec...

"Well, I just don't believe that appreciation to be in keeping with present-day realities. It was not the view of many thousands of French-speaking Canadians who served with such distinction in the first Canadian Army in the last war..."

He observed that a recent poll on this question showed the majority of thousands of youngsters, young men and women of Canada were in favor of compulsory training—and the Quebec percentage actually led returns from Ontario and all other provinces.

The two men in the truck, Gordon Sherwin of Cobourg and his 65-year-old father Frank Sherwin, dragged the car driver from the burning vehicle. The car was driven by Harold Sexsmith of Warkworth.

Boy Down Twice

"When the truck started to settle, I shouted to the others to jump," Gingras recounted. "I opened the door on my side and jumped into the water. Westfall was next to me and he did the same. McCoustra pushed the boy off his lap through the left-hand door, and tried to get out the right-hand side. But the door was jammed and he had to slide over and get out the other door. By that time the truck had settled into the water.

Gingras managed to clamber on to the ice and assist Westfall out of the icy river. Both grabbed Foshay who was floundering in the water. The boy had gone under twice before he was fished out.

"McCoustra had quite a struggle to get to the surface," Gingras said. "We got him on to the ice, too."

The shivering quartet were given warm clothing and hot drinks at a near-by cabin and were none the worse.

Judge Testifies

He suggested that all the witnesses but Stringer could testify only about the shooting of Dent.

Judge Marion said he had learned for the first time the other day that a material witness had not been called to testify at the inquest.

Keays produced a 1940 newspaper report, which said a George Smith had driven Stringer in pursuit of Miki.

"It's the first time I heard of it," the Judge said. "I didn't know of any person being within hearing."

Judge Marion said he did not call Keays as a witness at the inquest because Keays wanted to "theorize" as a witness rather than present facts.

"I disagreed with your conception of a witness on that particular occasion," the Judge said.

Keays asked which officer was in charge of the investigation. Judge Marion said there "were about 50" policemen there but "you took it upon yourself to conduct the investigation."

Commons Moves Newfoundland Debate Speedily

OTTAWA, Feb. 11 (CP)—The Commons, which originally voted to set aside two weeks for the debate on Newfoundland, yesterday completed a detailed study of the 50 clauses in Bill 11, the bulky document containing the financial and other terms of union.

Opposition members made an unsuccessful bid to have some details changed as the discussion ranged from old age pensions to finances and from railway operations to veterans allowances.

Progressive Conservative and CCF members urged that the government make old age pensions payable in Newfoundland as from March 31, the date set for the consummation of union.

Prime Minister St. Laurent explained that Canadian and Newfoundland representatives had agreed that the pensions would not be paid until the Newfoundland Legislature passes a bill providing for old age pensions.

He said the Federal Act could be amended to make the Federal Government share of the pensions retroactive to March 31. But it had been considered that such action would be unfair to other Canadians. He said that the aged of many provinces had to wait a long time for their provincial governments to pass old age pensions legislation after the Federal legislation had been passed in 1927.

Allowances Retroactive

Mr. St. Laurent said family allowances could be paid retroactive from March 31 because the allowances are administered solely by the Federal Government, whereas the pensions are administered by the Provincial Governments.

The Federal Government pays 75 per cent of the cost of pensions up to $30 a month.

George Drew, opposition leader, reiterated a charge that the Federal Government planned to pay for an over-all social security platform through the imposition of a "poll tax."

Defence Minister Claxton, who was Health Minister at the time of the conference, reiterated his denial of the charge.

Five Actresses Oscar Nominees

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11—(AP). —It looks like a hot race for the top female academy award and a runaway for Sir Laurence Olivier among the men.

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences last night announced nominations for its 1948 awards. The top selections are:

Best performance by an actress —Ingrid Bergman, "Joan of Arc"; Olivia de Havilland, "The Snake Pit"; Irene Dunne, "I Remember Mama"; Barbara Stanwyck, "Sorry, Wrong Number"; Jane Wyman, "Johnny Belinda."

Best performance by an actor—Lou Ayres, "Johnny Belinda"; Montgomery Clift, "The Search"; Dan Dailey, "When My Baby Smiles At Me"; Sir Laurence Olivier, "Hamlet"; Clifton Webb, "Sitting Pretty."

The best motion picture — "Hamlet," "Johnny Belinda," "The Red Shoes," "The Snake Pit," "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre."

In the feminine race local observers generally regard the leaders as Jane Wyman for her performance as a deaf mute in "Belinda" and Olivia de Havilland as the mental patient in "The Snake Pit."

Release Church Head

WARSAW, Feb. 11—(AP)—Usually reliable sources reported Thursday the release of the head of the Polish Independent Orthodox Church after 10 months under house arrest, while others said 34 Roman Catholic priests have been arrested in Southern Poland. The Orthodox Church head is the Metropolitan Dionysus. The Communist-led government last year withdrew official recognition of the church.

Defeat Plan To Reduce Arms Third

Russians Planning To Raise Issue Again In Commission

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Feb. 11 —(CP)—A Russian demand for prohibition of the atomic bomb and a cut in big-five armaments was beaten down last night in the United Nations Security Council.

Instead, the council sent to its commission for conventional armaments a resolution from the U.N. general assembly to continue work on studies toward limiting convention armaments.

Russian delegate Jakob Malik immediately served notice he will raise the arms issue again in the commission for conventional armaments and in the U.N. atomic energy commission.

A Russian resolution including similar demands was overwhelmingly defeated last fall by the general assembly in Paris.

Only Russia and the Soviet Ukraine voted for the resolution which demanded that the United States tell how many atomic bombs she has.

Want Arms Cut Third

The defeated resolution, which contained a slap at the North Atlantic Pact, would have ordered a one-third arms cut by March 1, 1950, by Britain, the United States, France, China and Russia.

It would also have instructed the atomic energy commission to submit by June a treaty prohibiting atomic weapons and a treaty for control of atomic energy, both to become effective simultaneously.

Russia has an untold number of army divisions while the Western World only a few. A one-third cut in the Russian army would still leave it many times the size of all western divisions combined.

The council also voted on a surprise Russian proposal calling on the council to send to the arms commission and to the atomic commission both the assembly resolution and the Soviet proposal on arms control. This was defeated.

Need More Public Schools Supt. Wightman Tells Board

Increasing pressure on the city's school system may be met with the erection sometime in the future of an intermediate school, which would ease the present crowded conditions in both elementary and secondary schools. This course was suggested by Superintendent K. S. Wightman in his annual report to the Board of Education.

The Board, he said, is faced with the problem either of "adding to most of the present buildings or of erecting one or two entirely new schools. Some of the former there must be to meet the immediate situation...but as a general policy it has not much to commend it." He said the intermediate school idea, which would benefit the system from both sides, would be "much better."

Outlining the present accommodations in schools here, he said that it was fortunate that at the opening of new term there were 12 additional classrooms in Queen Mary and Confederation Schools. The extra space relieved the situation for this year, "but unfortunately left no margin for the future." The Queen Mary rooms were occupied at once, and the one which was reserved at Connaught must be given up to class use next fall.

It was felt last year that the most imminent shortage of space was in the north. This threat has not yet materialized, said the report, due largely to the fact that class rooms and laboratories in use fall considerably short of what is needed for most effective work. Just how soon the increased enrolment of the elementary schools will affect the Collegiate is difficult to predict. The Grade 8 enrolment at the end of 1948 is slightly less than at the end of 1947, but it is significant that there are 230 more pupils to the end of Grade 4 than there were a year ago, and nearly 400 more in the first four grades than there were two years ago. It will not be long before the effect of this growth will be felt in the secondary school, and increased school accommodation cannot be provided overnight."

many of the houses in construction in that area are not yet occupied. At the moment, the situation in the Queen Mary and Prince of Wales districts is giving most concern.

Using Basement

When Queen Mary School opened in September, there were so many children that it was not possible to take all the rooms out of the basement as had been planned. One had to remain. The present Kindergarten enrolment at that school is 75. These, as well as 35 Grade 2 pupils from Parkhill must be accommodated in other rooms next September. To make place for them, one Grade 8 class of 30 pupils will be moving out. Failing some other form of relief, it will be necessary to fill all the basement rooms again, and even this device will not avoid overcrowded classes.

A similar condition will have to be met at Prince of Wales school. Room will have to be found for 80 kindergarten pupils and possibly another 20 from May's school. On the credit side is the graduation in June of two Grade 8 classes, but against this must be set the heavy present enrolment in the junior and intermediate grades. For example, there are two Grade 2 classes of forty-four each—enough for three classes had there been a vacant room available.

The opening of an additional classroom at King George school last September left little space for further expansion, but the danger of overcrowding there does not appear likely to become serious for the next year or two. When the housing project between Park ed, Confederation school will St. and Monaghan Rd. is complethave more than it can handle even allowing for the assistance that can be given by Grove school. Only at Central and King Edward can it be predicted that next year's pupils can be accommodated without difficulty.

"Although there is a slight increase in enrolment at PCVS, there is a definite lack of supplementary space chiefly because, wherever possible, it has been put to class room use. A number of federation for assembly purposes

Papers Draw Comments Of Senators

OTTAWA, Feb. 11—(CP)—The journalistic mesits of several daily newspapers drew the comments of the Senate Thursday as the chamber got into a brief tangle over a bill involving the Globe Printing Company which publishes the Toronto Globe and Mail.

Piloting the measure, Senator Peter Campbell (L-Ontario) said it would allow the Globe Printing Company to increase from $30,000 to $100,000 the annual value—in effect, the net annual rental value—of the real estate it can hold.

This would allow the firm to get title and ownership of the building in which the paper is published, now held by the Mail Printing Company.

Senator Norman Lambert (L-Ontario), recalling "very close associations" with the background of the firm, moved that the chamber send the bill to committee for further study.

He said he found it hard to relate the figure of $100,000 to the real and actual value of properties owned by the two companies, or to see how it related to the carrying on of the newspaper.

Nothing Sinister

Senator Campbell said the figure related only to rental value and that he had been assured that the amount would be sufficient. There was "nothing sinister" in the bill. The company was incorporated in 1866; the bill would amend its powers.

Intervening, Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, urged that the Senate try to get bills through to demonstrate its capabilities to the Commons.

As for the Globe and Mail, it was "a very good paper, one of the very best papers in Canada . . it ranks with the Montreal Star, the Winnipeg Free Press . . ."

A Liberal senator interjected: "Not the Free Press."

"Oh yes," said Senator Haig, "the Free Press is a good newspaper; it agrees with me on wheat and any paper that does that is all right."

Newspaper Man Challenges World Progress

T. J. Allen, assistant editor of The Examiner, challenged the modern acceptance of the meaning of the word progress at vice-president's night of the Kinsmen Club Thursday. He said that when people talk today about progress they refer to change, not to progress.

"There are only three kinds of true progress," Mr. Allen declared. "The progress of a living person from the cradle to the grave; the diurnal progress of the world on its axis from morning to night and night to morning; and the progress of our earth and solar system from the chaotic beginning to the final disintegration. All else is merely movement and change," he explained.

Mr. Allen said that the word progress had not meant constant improvement until recent times. In Queen Elizabeth's day it meant a journey. The queen made royal progresses from London to Richmond.

"In early times people did not believe in anything so wicked as progress. Individuals moved from one stratum to another, but they were not so presumptuous as to believe that this kind of progress meant that all society and the world was improving and progressing."

Mr. Allen suggested that the idea of progress was inspired by the devil, that it came into people's minds when the Industrial Revolution was creating widespread misery, polluted cities and wretched poverty among workmen.

In support of his theme that so-called progress is merely change, the speaker analyzed some of the modern things which are called progressive — newer houses, bigger and more numerous roads, huge bridges, more abundant clothing, television, and great cities. He said that the common soldiers of the Roman legions in ancient Britain had better housing than Britons in the eighteenth century, that men's dress had retrogressed since the days of the fine gentlemen of the seventeenth century. He compared the beautiful and solid roads and bridges built 2,000 years ago by the Romans with modern roads and bridges. He admitted that a city like New York was a splendid and beautiful human achievement when seen from a ship in harbor at sundown, but doubted that even New York represented true progress.

"Underneath the beauty are great slums and millions of people rushing around doing things of no eternal consequence, for reasons they do not comprehend."

City v. Village

He contrasted unfavorably such a modern city with an unprogressive village which he had encountered in Bohemia. He remarked that modern wars are the largest and bloodiest that mankind had ever known, and called attention to a sentence engraved on the wall of the Memorial Chamber in the Peace Tower at Ottawa: "The Canadian corps returned to the Lens sector, having gained two square miles at a cost of 16,404 casualties." The speaker asked if such a record were an indication of progress.

"Let us rid ourselves of this word progress and get back to more honest beliefs, which will stand us in better stead," he said.

Mr. Allen was introduced by Harry Huff and thanked by J. K. Sheehy.

Alfred Quemby sang two solos.

Provincial Parliament In Session

The M.P.P.'s slipped into their seats at Queen's Park yesterday before most Ontarians knew that a session was approaching. The lack of public interest, thus betrayed is owing to two things. One is that Provincial Parliaments are declining in legislative importance, partly because so much Provincial work is now covered by executive orders and departmental officers. An indication of this decline in Provincial legislatures' importance is the trend toward shorter and shorter sessions. The second reason for the lack of public interest in the present Ontario legislative session is that the colourful Mr. Drew is no longer in the House to spark the debates. The new Premier, Mr. Kennedy, has the respect of his colleagues but not the public eye.

* * *

Several matters which should rouse general interest will come before the Assembly—Hydro and margarine, for instance. One item of unfinished business which the Opposition Leader, Mr. E. B. Jolliffe of the C.C.F., has quickly and properly brought up is the Royal Commission on Education. This was established several years ago and it has not given its report. The serious, and perhaps unwarranted, delay is hampering local Boards of Education and teachers all across the Province. They must know the recommendations and decisions before they can get on with needed building and changes in studies.

* * *

Chief interest in the session will likely be centred not on what is accomplished, but on how the Conservatives line up for the party leadership in Ontario. Premier Kennedy has said he will not be a candidate. He is 73 years old. The Party convention will be held at the end of April. The selection of the new leader is important to all in Ontario, because he will become the next Premier. Thus the individual performances at Queen's Park and the manoeuvres behind the scenes during the present session will bear watching.

Twenty Years A Papal State

The Vatican City State is twenty years old today. On February 11th, 1929, Mussolini and Pope Pius XI reached agreement which would restore to the Holy See its status as a temporal state lost when Rome was incorporated into the new Kingdom of Italy in 1870. Since then the Popes had incarcerated themselves inside the Vatican walls as a protest against the loss of their sovereign status. The Lateran Treaty of 1929 brought into existence the new state called Vatican City; the Pope felt free thereby to walk in the world again; other nations gave the tiny new nation diplomatic recognition, and the vestige of the Holy Roman Empire which had declined by 1870 into a small group of small principalities was revived.

Vatican City State is made up chiefly of St. Peter's, the Vatican Palace and gardens, and a wall which encloses them. It has a small railway, a wireless station, and its own postage stamps. Its size is no indication of its importance. Most of the great nations of the world have ambassadors at the court of the Vatican, for it is the temporal as well as spiritual centre of a world-wide congregation. As we have remarked before in these columns, it is the whispering-gallery of Europe. Canada has been slow to recognize its importance and to take advantage of its diplomatic opportunities. We have not an accredited representative in Vatican City State. Can we afford in this uneasy age not to have one?

Faithful To The Natural Law

The Federal Bureau of Statistics has released figures on the birth and death rates in 1945. The natural increase in French-Canada exceeded that of English-speaking Canada and all other groups combined. That is to say that more than fifty per cent. of the 1945 increase in population in Canada of births over deaths was in French-Canadian families. This, says Le Devoir of Montreal, attests the "solidarity of our religious and family traditions":

"It is evident that immigration can equal and exceed our natural growth during certain periods; the experience of a century shows, however, that our birth rate can allow us to remain a minority sufficiently strong for us to defend our rights and even foresee a better future than our present situation. Indeed, we ourselves should try to carry out a little immigration and attract to our group neo-Canadians already settled in the country, as well as expatriates who come to find refuge among us, especially those who are already united to us by religious ties....

"We shall have many dangers to combat, such as, for example, the present housing scarcity, which is a serious threat. But if we remain faithful to the natural law, to our family virtues, Providence will allow us to pursue on American soil, our vocation as a French and Catholic people. That is the lesson to be drawn from the vital statistics of 1945".

Le Devoir does not remark that high birth rates and large families do not necessarily mean an improvement in the conditions of living, better educational means and greater opportunities for French-Canadians to direct and share in affairs of state.

Communism And Canadian Unions

The President of the Canadian Trades and Labour, Mr. Percy Bengough, and three other Canadian representatives have been on the mat in Miami. The C.C.L. is affiliated with the American Federation of Labour, and A.F.L. executives have called on the T.L.C. leaders to purge the Congress of "every vestige of Communist influence". At first glance it seems presumptuous of an American labour organization to tell a Canadian group what it should or should not do. However, the T.L.C. receives substantial financial support from the A.F.L. and must therefore expect to receive some direction. The unions have parallels in company organizations. It not infrequently happens that American bosses of big international firms put the Canadian bosses on Chicago or New York mats.

We are not at the moment concerned to discuss the amount of communistic influence in Canadian unions, nor what kind of housecleaning is required. We do wish, however, to call attention to the A.F.L. executive's statement that "We can not and will not comprise with the Communists whose number one objective both in the United States and in Canada is the destruction of movements such as ours". It must be very clear to all union men that communism or any other totalitarian practice—like Nazism or Fascism—kills unions, except state unions in which the men have no voice. There are no unions in Russia, there were none in Hitler's Germany or Mussolini's Italy, which British, Canadian or American workmen could call unions.

Canadian union leaders are showing, in general, a commendable sense of their responsibility not only to labour, but to the whole Canadian society of which union men are now so important a part. Communism is much greater and more imminent in unions than in other organizations, for there it first attempts to corrupt in a large way. It is well that our unions should be constantly alert to the danger.

The Death Of J. F. Pringle

We joint in the general regret at the death of Mr. James F. Pringle, vice-president of the Central Region of the Canadian National Railways. He was one of the ablest railway men in Canada, and his technical knowledge was respected and consulted by many countries beyond our borders. During the Second World War his duties were especially heavy, and it was owing to his direction, in a large measure, that the railways of Canada were able to make their fine contribution to our war work. He was known to many people in Peterborough and all of them, we are sure, join us in offering sympathy to his wife and his family.

Mr. Pringle died at his work. The pleasant years of retirement which he might have expected were not granted to him. As with many another man in this busy country, we may perhaps assume that his heavy duties, and his attention to them, shortened his life. This is part of the sacrifice which a young country demands of its capable men.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column, particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

DEAR SIR: You have referred at various times to Poole's History of Peterborough, 1867. Can the book be bought now? Who was Poole?

ANSWER: Poole's "Sketch of The Early Settlement and Subsequent Progress of The Town of Peterborough and each Township in the County of Peterborough", published in 1867 is something of a collector's item. There are many copies extant locally, but present owners like to keep them. The late Mr. F. H. Dobbin who did much valuable work in collecting and setting down information about Peterborough and its personalities in the period 1870-1900, prepared typescript notes on the medical profession. From these papers I have the following information about Dr. Poole.

He was Thomas W. Poole, M.D. He practised in Norwood in the late '50's and in 1864 removed to Peterborough to become Editor of the Peterborough Weekly Review, which was then owned by Robert Romaine (hence our Romaine Street). After a few years at this work he decided to resume his medical practice and went for that purpose to Lindsay. He died, according to Mr. Dobbin's account, on August 27th, 1905. From other sources I have learned that Dr. Poole was a Roman Catholic, that his brother was the Reverend W. H. Poole, onetime pastor of George Street Methodist Church (now George Street United). This clerical Poole was nicknamed "Anglo-Israel Poole" — presumably because he was a British Israelite. The medical Poole had a son who was a veterinary, whose office was on the east side of Water Street, between Hunter and Brock, in the building which has been so long occupied by the Ocean Blend Tea Company.

I have reason to believe that there is some error in Mr. Dobbin's statement that Dr. Poole died on August 27th, 1905, and shall refer to it again when I have been able to study other records.

ALPHA: How many pigs can a sow have in one litter? I am not planning to take up hog-raising in town, but it looks to me like a pretty good business if you can get twenty little pigs from one. My buddy at the next machine says you can get 20 a time. I say no, not by half. Who is right? To be honest, neither of us knows anything about pigs at all except that pigs is pigs.

ANSWER: If that is all you know about pigs, I would advise you to stay out of the pig business, for there is more to hog-raising than meets the nose....Brood sows are put to boar when large enough, which would be when they are seven or eight months old. Usually only six or eight of the first litter are raised, although more may have been born. In subsequent litters ten or twelve are raised. Sows pig twice a year. I do not know what the record litter is—in this district or any other. Some of my rural readers may be kind enough to write in about this.

The biggest litter I ever encountered was in Ireland—16 young pigs. That, I am sure, was not a record crop. This particular litter interested me personally because it posed a feeding problem. It happened that the sow had exactly sixteen taps. However, one of them was unpopular (perhaps there was something wrong with its plumbing) and the sixteen day-old pigs scrapped for the fifteen nozzles, leaving the sixteenth untenanted. The runt of the litter of course lost in the scrambles and hourly became more of a runt. Time and again I introduced him to the sixteenth and free tap but he would have none of it, nor would any of the others. The farmer watched my efforts with amusement and even gave me permission to try to raise the runt on a bottle. So I took the creature into the kitchen, put him into a box beside the fireplace and spoon-fed him at intervals during the second day of his life. It was his last day. Whether my kindness to dumb animals was mistaken or ne pined from loneliness, at dawn of the next morning he was a corpse. I blame the pig, not myself; he obviously did not have enough guts to fight for existence. He was buried unceremoniously. That was my last attempt to raise hogs.

THE authorship of the verses referred to two weeks ago has been determined, thanks to the diligent eye and memory of a Toronto reader of this column. Thus my moral (and intellectual) certainty that they were not by Sir Thomas More—as stated by an earlier correspondent who sent them to me—has been vindicated. The Toronto reader has written: "You were right in doubting that Sir Thomas More wrote the stanza beginning 'I see His face in every flower.' The author was the ill-starred Irish lyric poet and editor Joseph Mary Plunkett (born Dublin 1887) who was condemned to death by the British authorities for his part in the Easter week rising in 1916. I think that consideration of all three stanzas acquits him of the charge of 'pedestrianism.'" The verses enclosed are as follows:

I see His blood upon the rose,
And in the stars the glory of His eyes.
His body gleams amid eternal snows,
His tears fall from the skies.
I see His face in every flower;
The thunder, and the singing of the birds
Are but His voice—and, carven by His power,
Rocks are His written words.
All pathways by His feet are worn,
His strong heart stirs the ever-beating sea,
His crown of thorns is twined with every thorn,
His cross is every tree.

Plunkett's authorship of the verses extenuates my criticism of them as good poetry.

ALPHA: I think that the bloke who asked the question last week about Canada having any colonies if off the beam. He says that he has never heard of a nation that did not become great without colonies. Has he never heard of the U.S.A.? Perhaps he thinks that it is not a great country.

ANSWER: Your point is well taken. The U.S.A. has not depended on a colonial empire for its raw wealth. It has its internal empire, which it proceeded to annex after 1776. By "accessions" (of Louisiana, Oregon, Florida, etc.) it added 2,846,260 square miles to the original 892,135 of the original thirteen states. Further, the U.S.A. has depended on its dollars and machines, rather than on colonies. Nevertheless, the U.S.A. has colonies or "accessions" outside the U.S. proper. They are: Alaska, the Hawaiian Islands, Puerto Rico, Guam, American Samoa, the Panama Canal Zone, Danish West Indies (Virgin Islands) and six other small island groups like Wake and the Christmas Islands. The ownership of the latter is disputed by Great Britain. It is part of my answer to remark that at present the American army has 129,000 troops in the Pacific area, 90,000 in Europe, and military, air force and naval bases scattered all over the world.

Letters To The Editor

KIND WORDS FOR LITTLE THEATRE

Sir: One of the chief things that has struck me during my long residence in Peterborough has been the paucity of correspondence in the columns of the Examiner and the habit of so many of those who write, preferring to use the initials of their names rather than see their full ones in print.

I think that those who write systematically could easily be counted on the digits of one hand. Of these, the most alive to the use of this column must be the Hon. G. N. Gordon, who for many years has been most interested and alert in municipal and local activities. He must have been discouraged, as many others must have been, at the seeming nonchalance that has rewarded his efforts to bring his views before the public. The latest example of this lack of interest in public affairs is the almost total silence that has followed the magnificent performance of "The Taming of the Shrew" by the people at large in the public press. For three nights that performance was witnessed by splendid audiences, two weeks ago, in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute. The applause was great and immediate and the actors and actresses who contributed to the pleasure they had given must have been gratified indeed. But since the last evening's performance little or nothing has been heard or written of the great success of the play. No encomium of the promoters' efforts or of the excellence of the acting of the entire cast has been pronounced and it seems to be about time that the city threw off its lethargy and acknowledged the fact that she has in her midst as promising aspirants as any place of her importance for high honour in the fields of drama and of music.

I have had a long life and seen many amateur and professional productions in that time but I honestly affirm that never have I viewed such a finished piece of amateur work as it was my privilege to witness on the evening I was present at the play.

I do not claim to be a critic but I do know when a play is acted well and it astonished me to see so large a company carrying their parts through without any apparent nervousness and with such thorough enjoyment in performing what they were called upon to do. The performers showed ample confidence in their instructors and the amount of care that was bestowed on the scenery, and the deftness with which everything was accomplished was beyond all praise.

I have no means of knowing how such a fine piece of work was done winout it costing anything to the city at large. Whatever it was it must have been infinitesimally small as I never heard of any demand or request for financial help. It has been a pure labour of love, to all appearance, for the work, and as such should appeal in the best way possible to our hearts.

In a few days time the company will journey to Brockville to perform in the tournament that takes place for the prize for the best acted drama, every year. The company will start off in the feeling that it has the goodwill and fervent hopes of all for their success in the coming trial. If they lose, their supporters will at least feel that they have lost to very doughty antagonists and if they win they will bring great honour to city of their allegiance.

Let us help them in every encouraging way that we can.

FRED. M. DELAFOSSE.

SAYS BUS SERVICE IS POOR

Sir: I am a stranger to this country and have lived in Peterborough only a few short weeks, after having travelled in numerous cities in England, the U.S.A. and Canada, but the service received from the drivers of the Peterborough Bus Lines is the poorest I have ever seen.

Numbers of times I have asked to be told when I reached a certain stop—knowing only the name of the street—to find I am never told! I find myself a few blocks away from my destination, after realizing I have not been told where I should have alighted. Once I was even driven around the bus route twice before the driver remembered me, and that was only after a reminder I was still there!

Some of the drivers are very polite and helpful, but others are so grim and unsmiling I would prefer to not go on the bus at all.

The people of Peterborough I find very generous and kind, but could something not be done to bring efficiency and co-operation from the drivers of the Peterborough Bus Lines?

Yours very truly,
A STRANGER IN THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH.

Bible Message

And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed: and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee. And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

And Jesus knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts? For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk? But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy,) Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house. And he arose, and departed to his house. But when the multitudes saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such power unto men.

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd.

Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest. (Matt. 9: 2-3, 35-38.)

Unconsidered Trifles

As the train pulled up at the wayside station the guard noticed smoke pouring out of a compartment labelled "No Smoking." Opening the door, he eyed the six guilty-looking passengers seated inside.

"Gentlemen," he remarked, "there are two rules on this line which are repeatedly broken. First, that smoking is forbidden in carriages not set aside for that purpose. Second, that the company's servants may not accept bribes. You have already broken one of these rules."

The lady of the house was interviewing a prospective housekeeper.

"You are an experienced cook?" she asked.

"Oh, no, I can't cook," answered the girl.

"But you understand housework and cleaning, I suppose?"

"No, I'm afraid I've never done any of that either," the girl replied cheerfully.

But—but what can you do?" asked the lady despairingly.

"I can assemble a machine gun," was the prompt reply.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Predicting that within 10 years, television will both boom and revolutionize sports, Bill Fay—in Collier's—says: "New York, Chicago and other large centres will build weather-beating indoor fields for telecasts." Other things he foresees are minor ball loops disappearing, major leagues expanding to the West Coast, unoccupied bleachers razed, enlarged parks for home-run clouting, golf galleries giving way to stroke-by-stroke camera views, and big money through advertising. Boxing matches in television studios, bookies operating by video sets and many minor sports hitting a high as "telegenic" festures.

* * * * * *

If we're still around writing sports then, if television comes to Peterborough, and if the boss will buy us a good set—three rather large "ifs" at the moment—our job should be much more comfortable. We could then sit at home in an easy chair of an afternoon or evening with pad on knee and pencil in hand, making notes of this or that game. True, one would have to suffer the inevitable "courtesy of Blah-Blah Furniture Co. with form-fitting chairs to fit the lowest budget, etc."—but look at the saving in mufflers, rain coats, rubbers and cough syrup. Ah, dreams....

Secretary Glen Carson of the Legion Hockey Club tells us: "Don Coughlin can have his release when he returns to us equipment and part of the money our club paid him last year. We're not holding him from the Petes for spite, but we must be reimbursed. He was with us for three years and we had planned on using him for defence this season, but he quit coming out to practices." As yesterday was the last signing date for OHA certificates this season, Coughlin won't be playing with the Petes now. The Legion and Petes have two postponed games yet to work in ere group playoffs commence. We hope they decide to play hockey and cut out the bad feeling and feuding before any more players get hurt.

Juniors Getting Set

With the end of their OHA junior "B" schedule practically here, Coach Archie Weir's local Oddfellows are set for playoffs next week. Looks to us now like it'll be Toronto Lions vs. Toronto Royals in one semi-final bracket and Oshawa vs. the IOOF-ers in the other. Two out of three series, with the finalists tangling in a best-of-five affair. Winner hits into provincial playdowns as the loser hangs up gear for this semester. The improving Triple Links think they can hurdle the semi-finals and make a real showing in group sawoffs. They tackle Lindsay Mustangs at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena to wind up the home schedule, and it ought to be a speedy junior joust.

* * * * * *

Elimination has started setting in already for local puck squads. Two of the PMHA-ers fell by the wayside last eve in second round OMHA playdowns. Belleville beat Clapper's 10-1 to win their midget series 13-5 on Quinte ice, though the tilt was closer than the score indicates. And Port Hope juveniles took Trojans 7-2 here to gain that round 9-6. The local lads battled hard, but the Hopers earned the decision and were congratulated after by Coach Johnny Godfrey. One bright spot was the Marines' bantam victory over Port Hope, the Peterborough boys running wild in a 20-0 game to sweep the series 28-1. Jerry Frizzelle led the way with six goals and an assist. They now meet Newmarket, Orillia or Midland.

Curling Notes

By HERB MARTIN

It will be Dr. R. Clark's local rink that will go to Oshawa to play against the winner of the other section of this district, in the annual B-C competition. With 10 rinks entered from Lindsay, Fenelon Falls, Lakefield, and Peterborough, Umpire R. F. Downey got the boys away in fairly good time yesterday morning.

The morning games were somewhat on the one-sided score but the games improved as the day passed on.

The final game between Dr. Clark and Dr. Laidley was close all the way and it was only on the last two ends that the local boys felt safe.

The games were witnessed by a good crowd and they certainly enjoyed the day's curling.

Up in Toronto yesterday, Mrs. G. Woods' rink was eliminated in the Ontario Ladies' Tankard play, while Mrs. Vern Selkirk's quartette advanced to the semi-finals. The games continue today.

The committee needs 10 more rinks for Saturday's 'spiel.

Clapper's Drop From Race In Quinte Rink

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 11—Running wild in the second and third periods, the Belleville Gunners eliminated Peterborough Clapper's here last night in the second round of the OMHA midget "B" playdowns by a 10-1 count, so Gunners won the round by a 13-5 score.

Gunners led 1-0 at the end of the first period and after that took over matters. Their passing plays were too much for the bigger Peterborough team, but the score does not indicate the difference. It was a good hockey game with both teams going all out, but the Gunners' plays were clicking too much for the Petes.

They rammed home four goals in the second period and five more in the third. Carey for Gunners scored three. Whalen two, Barret, Milligan and Lally the others. Stewart got the Petes' lone tally in the second period. Three penalties were handed out, two of them going to the Gunners.

The teams:

Peterborough — Goal, Curtis; defence, Stewart Kimball; centre, Mongraw; wings, Clapper, Sullivan; subs, Ferguson, Murdock, Floyd, Seabrook, Kimball, Wood, P. Mongraw, Scriver.

Belleville — Goal, Schrieder; defence, Green, Milligan; centre, Barrett; wings, Whalen, Carey; subs, Allen, Lally, Hull, Jones, Siliott, Blain, Thompson, Barclay.

Officials—Referees: Perry Everett, Belleville, Bill Rohmane, Peterborough.

Adam Brown, Chicago winger, who scored what proved to be the winning goal as the Black Hawks beat New York 3-1.

Saddler Underdog

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—(AP) — Sandy Saddler, a vicious knockout winner over Willie Pep last October, is a surprising underdog in tonight's Madison Square Garden rematch, the first defence of his world featherweight title. The first sellout crowd since Rocky Graziano-Marty Servo in 1946, more than 18,500 will watch slim Sandy from Harlem try to prove it was no mistake when he flattened Pep in 2:38 of the fourth round Oct. 29. The pick here is Saddler, probably by a knockout; in less than the 15-round limit.

Lakefield Wins Against Ajax By 7-3 Score

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 12—(ENS)—The local juveniles won 7-2 for a five-point lead in the first game of their OMHA juvenile "C" series with Ajax here last night. The return game is in Whitby on Saturday. The homesters were down two in the first, sewed it up in the second and swept to a good lead in a wide-open third chukker of a fairly clean tilt. The teams:

Ajax—Goal, Kemp; defence, Turner and Ward; centre, Popper; wings, Ogden and Stoneman; alternates, Charlton, Collins, Rollins, Ariss, Hill, Hart, Burrows and Johnston.

Lakefield—Goal, Don Wasson; defence, Dean Wasson and Dracup; centre, Fawcett; wings, Hunter and Geraldi; alternates, Hockaday, Hamblin, Montgomery, R. Calberry, Morrison, Coons and Blake.

Referees—Deeth and Bell.

Summary:

Hawks Climb From Cellar Trounce New Yorkers 3-1

By JOHN D. HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The old principle of balance seems to be underlined anew in the three-quarters National Hockey League race.

The principle is based on a combination of offensive power and defensive strength. Detroit Red Wings, apparently coasting to the championship with a 12-point lead over Boston, are the best example.

Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers show the reverse side of the coin. Hawks have a high-scoring, free-wheeling outfit who can score plenty of goals. New York has a solid goalie and a fair defence but can't score goals. All season, the two clubs have been struggling to stay out of last place.

Thursday night the Hawks pushed Rangers out of fifth place by a single point when they won 3-1 in New York. The other NHL teams were idle, except for Montreal Canadiens, who played an exhibition game in Owen Sound, and beat the local Mercurys 9-4.

The New Yorkers took a first-period lead on Alex Kaleta's counter at 9.45 but in the second, Gus Bodnar tied it up. Adam Brown and Roy Conacher banged in the winners for the Hawks in the third.

Ends Slump

The game ended a disastrous slump for Chicago. Before Thursday night the Hawks had lost five straight and they had won only one game in their last 11.

In the exhibition game, the Mercurys were strengthened by five Montreal players, Roger Leger, Hal Laycoe, Billy Reay, Rip Riopelle and Joe Carveth.

Elmer Lach paced the winning Montreal attack with three goals, with Maurice Richard and Leo Gravelle netting two each. The others went to Doug Harvey and Glen Harmon.

For the Mercurys of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, Doug Gillespie, Riopelle and Leger were the scorers.

Belgian Driver Killed In Bobsled Racing

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 11 —(AP)—Stunned by an accident that killed Max Houben, veteran Olympic driver, and critically injured his brakeman, the Belgians withdrew today from the world two-man bobsled championships and left three countries to vie for honors.

The Belgian's tragic accident, first fatal one to occur on the Mt. Van Hoevenberg run, came shortly after two American teams had qualified for the championships in trial runs.

The Belgians' speeding craft left the icy course about half way down the curling slopes, striking some heavy poles and plunging into a small shed housing water pipes.

The 32-year-old Houben, who piloted the Belgian four-man sled to second place in the winter Olympics at St. Moritz last year, suffered head and chest injuries He died about an hour and a half after the accident.

Port Hope Wins To Rub Out Legion Trojans

By FRED MAYBEE

Bill Crawford's Port Hope Juveniles overcame a two goal deficit suffered in Tuesday's game in Port Hope, by defeating Johnny Godfrey's Legion Trojans 7-2 in the night-cap of a double-header of OMHA playoff hockey at Civic last night.

Trojans surprised their friends and themselves but Port Hope were much better on the night's play and deserved the verdict. They played clean, fast, aggressive hockey to win out after spotting the locals another goal on the round at the three minute mark in the first as Brian Robinson whistled a doozy past Ashton to make it look safe.

Led the Way

Archie Campbell, star winger for the lakeshore squad who scored four goals himself, three in the third, rifled one past Batley at 5.50 to narrow the margin to two. The teams battled up and down for 11 minutes at terrific speed till finally Wilcox combined with Medhurst for the Hopers to cut the round lead to one. The visitors added two more early in the second as Evans and Goody clicked in neat style, to go one up. Buster Jensen tied up the round at 13.05 on a beautiful solo effort as the crowd went hysterical.

Archie Campbell salted the game away by pulling the hat trick in the third, three goals, with Wilcox and Medhurst assisting on two, to wind up the scoring. Trojans tried hard, play was fairly even and all the boys gave their best. They were outlucked several times on great stops by Ashton but on the whole the visitors earned the verdict. Coach Godfrey congratulated the winners. A fine crowd saw both games.

The teams:

Port Hope—Goal, Ashton; defence, Flesch, Goody; centre, B. Downey; wings, Dotzko, Fisher, alternates, Pillsworth, Lenahan, McKeen, Wilcox, Campbell, Medhurst, Evans, Freeman.

The trophy was donated by Lou and Nat Turofsky, Toronto sports photographers.

for your community

For many years, we, a member of the Poster Advertising Association of Canada, have been in the business of supplying the general public with timely news regarding Canadian products and services. Through the various types of Outdoor Advertising—"24-sheet" Posters, Painted Bulletins, Claude Neon Displays and Electric Spectaculars—we have helped to distribute information about the things business has to offer for the enrichment of life. Lately we have been casting about for some means of using our facilities, at our own expense, to make an additional contribution to the public welfare.

We might have helped promote safe driving; but many organizations are already doing that. We might have urged more temperate living, but there are an infinite number of opinions as to what constitutes temperate living. We might have concentrated on good citizenship, but that is too vague and nebulous to awaken any active response.

Therefore we determined to use a simple but powerful appeal which we believe will be received with pleasure by the community at large—an appeal to support the local church. The accompanying reproductions show two posters which will be rotated month about in this and other areas, on full size, full-colour 24-sheet Posters, as a contribution to the welfare of the community. If they are well received, if they stimulate interest in the Christian Church, we will be more than satisfied.

Ask Election Changed

TORONTO, Feb. 11—(CP) — Board of Control Thursday decided to ask City Council to move ahead the date of civic elections from Jan. 1 to some time in November or December. The outgoing council still would retain power through "the lame duck" period until Jan. 1, the present election date here.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

Are you preparing some special activity to commemorate the foundation of our movement by the late Baden Powell of Gilwell? Looking over the present sheet we note the following:

St. John's—annual father and son banquet, Feb. 25; St. Luke's—father and son, mother and daughter, no date fixed; St. Paul's—district church parade Sunday, Feb. 20 in the evening; Knox—dedication of colors Feb. 27; Salvation Army—rally in the Citadel Sunday morning.

These are only five of a possible 17 programs. What are you doing?

Your scribe dropped in on the St. John's Pack Friday evening to find the attendance low. Akela Clegg was out of town and Basketballitus seemed to have mowed down the other leaders with the exception of Baloo Pat Martyn. I was called on to take a game and told the story of Rikki Tikki Tavi at he camp fire.

Group Committee Meeting.—Discussion regarding the annual banquet ended with the go ahead signal and a special meeting being held Friday. President and secretary of the Mothers' Auxiliary were invited to attend. Date of Banquet is Feb. 25 at 6.30 p.m.

All Saints.—The Pack was pleased to have as guests for the evening Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence and the members of St. Albans' Mission Pack. Games of "Catch It and Be Quick" soon had the boys intermixed and getting to know each other.

Tests passed were: Time telling—Peter Johnson, Peter Green, Ralph Daniels, Scott Morley, Ronald Jackson, Jim Parker, Wayne Smith, Ronald Wilson and Donald York.

St. Paul's.—Sixer R. Findlay led the Grand Howl at the opening ceremonies with the Cubs gathered in circle formation and before the circle broke, Kenneth Sloan and Donald Barry were fully accepted into the world wide brotherhood of scouting through the simple but impressive investiture ceremony. Malcolm Findlay was made Sixer of the White Six, with Roger Malloney being promoted to Second of the same Six and Douglas Hardwick was raised to the rank of Second to the Red Six. The parents of the boys were present for these ceremonies.

Trinity.—Inspection took the form of Stations at the last meeting causing a sudden polishing of boots etc. as each lad prepared to get sidetracked. A game of "Poacher" helped in the letting off steam before settling down to study at which Messrs. B. I. Burgess, Spearin and Dr. Perry assisted.

In the Six corners the Cubs went to work with newspaper and string to dress up one of their members as one of the Jungle animals. Red Six chose a wolf. Grey and Black Sixes combined to represent a goat, and the Tawny Six carried away the honours with a pheasant.

Tests passed during the evening were: leap frog by Jim Robertson; somersault, John White Kenneth Sanderson, William Burgess, Ronald Brazor; Union Jack, William Burgess, Bob Perry; signalling, Jack Freeman.

Craft Show.—We understand that a special meeting is being held tonight at the Legion Hall to which every Cub and Scout Master has been invited to discuss fully plans for the annual craft show at Market Hall.

Camporee.—No news has been received of the possobility of holding the Camporee again this year. We know that the former commit tee will not be acting but would suggest that the Scoutmasters form a committee with the permission of the Commissioner and Local Association.

At the present time it is arranged that three members of the local association will attend the Provincial meeting in Hamilton this weekend. They are E. J. McDonald, Mr. Johnson, and your Scribe.

TURNING THE PAGES OF "CANADA UNLIMITED"

Canadian mining industry started with the "Compagnie des Forges" which built the St. Maurice Forges in 1737. For 150 years they processed iron which lay in great deposits along the St. Maurice River.

Mining discoveries grew, making Canada richer. Gold was found in British Columbia in 1858. And when, in 1889, Sudbury Mines revealed a fabulous wealth of copper, nickel and platinum, mining became a major industry and a leading world producer of alloys and precious metals.

The great iron deposits of Northern Quebec and Labrador give far-seeing men faith in the future of Canadian mining. They know there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

And mining is only one phase of Canada's developm... The full story is told in "Canada Unlimited", an illustrated 144-page book published by the O'Keefe Foundation. You may obtain your copy by sending 25c in cash (no stamps or cheques, please) to "Canada Unlimited", Dept. N3-2, O'Keefe House, Toronto, Ontario. All monies received will be donated to the Canadian Citizenship Council.*

THIS IS WHITE CANE WEEK

Fourth Nation-Wide Campaign For Courtesy Assistance To The Blind

It Is Up TO YOU To Help The Blind!

THE WHITE CANE AS A SYMBOL

As the symbol of blindness, the White Cane signifies the desire of blind men and women for independence and social responsibility. On the street, with the White Cane to guide them, they can travel alone. They are free to come and go as they will. This freedom is conditional to some extent upon the courtesy of the sighted public. But it is freedom nonetheless. Which of us has not become confused in a strange district and asked a passerby to set us on the right road? We don't feel inferior in any way, and once we have got our bearing, we can go on our way. The same is true of the blind man.

The men and women who carry the White Cane are not beings set apart. They seek to enter every phase of ordinary life, finding their way with their White Canes, hoping that those who can see will regard them as the normal citizens that they are.

LISTEN FOR THE TAPPING CANE

- Listen for the Tapping Cane which is the blind man's polite request for assistance. Then "do as you would be done by" and lend a helping hand to the less fortunate.
- A little thought on your part will indicate the right course of action. Don't take things for granted. Always ask the blind man what assistance he needs. He is quite capable of telling you and will not be embarrassed by explaining exactly where he wants to go, what bus he wants to get on, etc.
- Go the whole way. If you are letting a blind man out of your car or have given him other assistance, be sure before leaving him that he knows exactly where he is and that he has his bearings so that he can start off on his own again with confidence and safety.
- If you are driving a car take a little extra time and give that sightless person with a white cane the right-of-way.

Courtesy and Assistance

The use of the White Cane is a practical method of assisting the blind to greater independence through the intelligent co-operation of the sighted public. If you wish to be courteous to those who are blind, assist them whenever possible. The following are a few suggestions:

DO allow a blind person to follow you when guiding him off or on a bus.

DO assist the blind person to locate entrances to homes, stores, etc.

DO remember that the steady tapping of a White Cane signifies that a blind person wishes your assistance.

DO ask a blind person where he wishes to go and be sure he has his bearings before you leave him.

DO remember never to push or forcibly steer a blind person.

DO remind the cyclist that his approach is silent and to allow the blind person to pass in front of him.

DON'T race your car motor while waiting for a traffic light when a blind person is crossing in front of you; as this may confuse him.

DON'T leave obstacles such as bicycles or children's toys on the sidewalk. They cannot be seen by a blind pedestrian and may cause serious accidents.

DON'T leave your car door open while parked. It may cause a serious accident to a pedestrian, and especially to the blind pedestrian.

Say King Hopes To Revive Australian Tour

LONDON Feb. 11—(CP)—The The King hopes to revive soon plans for a royal tour of Australia and New Zealand, dropped when he became ill last November.

Commenting on reports that the trip may be made in 1950, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said Thursday.

"It should be remembered that the tour was only postponed. It was never cancelled."

Evidence that the king himself determined to make the visit was given in a telegram he sent Monday to a dinner of the New Zealand Society.

The King continues to make "very good progress" in his recovery from an obstruction of the leg arteries, the palace spokesman said. He takes frequent walks at his Sandringham Estate in Norfolk, where he is staying with the rest of the Royal Family.

Court circles reoprt the King's health seems to have steadily improved since he went to Sandringham Jan. 8, but he still cannot climb stairs.

He cannot go to the marshes to shoot ducks as he usually does on a Sandringham holiday.

A Buckingham Palace official said Thursday that it was impossible to forecast any date on which the Royal Family might resume their plans for the Australasian visit.

Court circles said the visit was unlikely to take place this year.

Synagogue Power Problem For Jewish Government

TEL AVIV, Feb. 11—(CP)—The new state of Israel soon will draw upa permanent constitution linking the ancient Hebraic tradion of the Old Testament of modern concepts of government. One of the chief problems which confronts the newly-elected constituent assembly which will draft the constitution is: just how much of a part should Jewish religious tradition play in the government framework of the new country?

There are two widely-opposed schools of thought.

An orthodox group asserts that the political law of the new state should be indentical in all respects to inherited religious tradition.

Another group, represented by political left-winger and including non-believers in the orthodox Jewish religion, demands a separation between Synagogue and state. In between these extremes there is a large group which favors compromise based on mutual tolerance.

The first meeting of the Assembly, which may be busy at its task for several months, is planned for Jerusalem, to emphasize Israel's demand that the Jewish-inhabited part of the Holy City should be part of the Jewish State.

Predict Republic

What kind of political framework will replace the provisional council, headed by Dr. Chaim Weizmann, which took over the reins with the proclamation of independence of the Jewish State last May 14?

All agree that Isreal will be a republic. There is a disagreement, however, whether there will be one or two national chambers in the legislative branch.

The proposed constitution would have one house, with between 80 and 100 members.

Parliament, or the Chamber of Deputies, would elect the president, who would serve for five year and be permitted to hold a second term.

In the parliament would be concentrated all power of legislation. The parliament would control the army, as a precaution against militarist tendencies.

Determined Stand Eases World Tension

TORONTO, FeFb. 11 (CP) — A "determined but unprovocative" stand by the Western democracies has led to present easing in international tension, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Thursday night.

Speaking to members of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies, Mr. Pearson said the easing of tension had not been caused by any change of tactics by Communist forces.

He urged support of the Atlantic Pact between the western democracies as the surest method of checking Communist aggression. There was only "small risk" in the guarantee that Canada would go to the aid of a member of the pact if it were attacked, compared to the greater risk involved in another war.

The present stand of Communist countries indicated that democracies should not "lower their guard," but he urged that any peace overture should be met half way.

Cleared Of Disloyalty

In addition, he will be paid about $5,000 in back salary covering the period of his suspension.

Three Major Public School Extensions Contemplated By Board Of Education

Investigation into the possibility of three major extensions of the city's public school system—including the construction of a primary school in Ashburnham — was approved by the Board of Education on Thursday night. The report of the Accommodation Committee of the Board requested that further information on the projects be obtained.

An architect has been engaged to prepare preliminary plans of a proposed two-room extension to be built on Parkhill School to ease crowded conditions there.

The Committee recommended that a valuator be employed to place a value on the part of the C.G.E. property lying between the Prince of Wales School boundary and the line of the extension to Wolfe St. With a future view to possible purchase of this lot, Dr. R. C. Honey said in presenting the report, that section was the most logical for extending that school's accommodations.

It was emphasized that the search for a site in Ashburnham for a school there was "only a preliminary step," and that actual construction would sometime in the future when the need was felt. While sites were still available, the committee recommended that they should be investigated.

Mother Begs For Relief Husband Doesn't Like Work

"Of course Clarence ought to work," was the agreement of a worried and rather helpless looking mother before the welfare committee of the Council Thursday afternoon. Some of the circumstances were reminiscent of scenes of appeal to the city's relief tribunal during the misery of the depression period. But basically they were poles apart. In the industrial stagnation many people had to ask for assistance because they could not get work and income. In this solitary instance of yesterday the family is in want because the husband won't work. Possibly it is a case of mental attitude. At any rate Ald. Dick Raine suggested that a psychiatrist might be of some help.

This man was released from jail to take a job with the city. It was handed to him. Mr. Metheral drove him to municipal yard, introduced him, and dropped around several times to enquire about him.

An Easy Job

"He couldn't have gotten an easier job," Mr. Metheral said. "It was made to order for nim. Jim Burgess would have been satisfied with this chap on any decent showing. It is obvious that he doesn't believe in work. Finally he was leaving home in the morning, parking his lunch at the C. P. R. station and then vanishing for the rest of the day. Some one began asking about him. He wasn't around. At his home his wife said he was working all right because he left every morning.

An adult in appearance, this man was actually playing hookey from the Townsend St. job. Recently he has been pressing the welfare committee for relief. His wife said yesterday there wasn't a crumb in the house for the children. Red Cross has sent packages Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite of All Saint's Church was called upon for help, and Ald. Pat Anglesey, dealing with his first case of importunity and real need, promised that maybe the committee would make allowance.

"If the wife would do the buying of groceries with the food vouchers, they might get along better," Mr. Metheral said. "This man buys things that are not needed and has gone home with a load of goods the very day the Red Cross sent a parcel."

Mr. Metheral mentioned several cases of applications to him for work or relief from men who had been working and for one reason or another threw up their jobs. One man in a nearby village decided he wasn't going to waste an hour a day going to and from work at the CGE. So, he quit, and recently he gravitated to the relief office which is financed by people who keep on working.

In this first case Thursday the proposed solution was almost humorous. Mr. Metheral said he could give the family the fullest allowance provided by department if a doctor would declare the man unfit for work. This would be shareable relief, the government paying part. So, Mayor Swanston and Ald. Raine mentioned the names of several doctors whom they thought might take a reasonable view of this man who quite plainly has the notion that the community should keep him and his offspring. The family has fallen into the habit of overspending their weekly voucher. They were one week over the allowance.

Punch Board Cases Bring $262 Fines

Five more convictions for gambling offences in the city were registered in police court Thursday afternoon. Fines and costs totalling $262.50 were imposed by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, as five accused pleaded guilty to having punchboards on their premises. Each was fined $50 and $2.50 costs. Four pleaded guilty and one charge was contested. The sentence of Charles Griffin, against whom a guilty judgment to keeping a common gaming house was given, was reserved until February 17. Other charges dealing with gambling have been adjourned to the same date.

Those convicted were: Percy J. Harrison, Coffee Bar, 711 Water St.; House Coffee Shoppe, 865 Water St.; William Mantell, Bill's Place, 1017 Monaghan Rd.; Jack Drysdale, Jerry's Fish and Chips, 63 George St.; James Marett, Fowler's barber shop, 14 Maria St.

Marett pleaded not guilty to the charge. His counsel, John W. Corkery, argued that the accused did not "induce" anyone to use the punchboard beside the cash register in the establishment. The members of the anti-gambling branch of the Provincial Police who made the investigation, said in their evidence that Marett had not asked them to use the board or suggested it. Magistrate Philp held that its presence on the counter in view was sufficient inducement.

645 Refused Admission At Civic In '48

While there were fewer patients admitted to Civic Hospital in 1948 than in 1947 and fewer patient-days recorded, the cost per patient-day has increased more than eight per cent., John Hornal, superintendent, reported to the Board of Governors on Thursday.

A comparison of hospital figures for 1947 and 1948 follows: patient-days (private, semi-private, public, newly-born infants), 48,483 and 47,886; average number of patients a day, 132.8 and 130.8; average patient stay, 10.40 and 10.28; average cost per patient-day (infant days computated as quarter adult days), $7.44 and $9.05; patients in residence, 119 and 139; patients admitted, 3,877 and 3,769; live births, 728 and 761; total patients treated, 4,658 and 4,659; deaths, 167 and 148; stillbirths, 23 and 16; operations (major), 775 and 736, (minor) 1,750 and 1,834; meals (for patients), 120,821 and 114,727, (for staff) 140,136 and 131,423.

Average daily ward revenue derived from private and semi-private patients has increased by 77 cents—$5.19 to $5.96; and the average daily ward revenue derived from public ward patients has increased by $1.05 (51 cents of this being a Government subsidy).

Since 1946 the average cost to the hospital for patient treatment has risen by approximately 50 per cent. In 1940 the cost was $62.35; in 1947, $77.38; and in 1948, $93.14.

When asked by J. L. Weisn why the increase had been so great, Mr. Hornal replied:

Paid Low Salaries

"The cost of giving service in hospitals has gone up more than in many other kinds of business because 10 years ago hospitals paid notoriously low salaries."

He explained that if the hospitals wanted competent personnel they would have to pay reasonable salaries; and the price of supplies is up also, he said.

In his report to the board he stated that because of lack of accommodation 645 requests for admission had to be turned down.

"For the first time in seven years we have no significant increase to report in the volume of service rendered," he said. "There is a slight decrease from 1947 in the number of patients served and in the number of patient-days service given. There were increases in the number of babies born in the hospital and in the number of operations performed. The pressure for the use of the hospital has been as great as formerly. Six hundred and forty-five requests for admission were denied because of lack of accommodation when needed."

"While present facilities do not permit of any great expansion in the amount of service given, yet every effort has been made to maintain and if possible increase the quality of service. The medical staff have given careful consideration to and have approved a set of bylaws which it is hoped will tend to improve the organization of their services."

New Appointments

"Several departments have been strengthened by the addition of new members to their staffs. Among these may be mentioned Miss Aileen Morgan, BH Sc., who has been appointed chief dietitian; Miss Margaret McIntyre, RN, who has taken over the duties of housekeeper, and Robert Merchant, who has been appointed chief technician under Dr. C. B. Waite in the laboratory."

He called the attention of the board members to the fact that there had been a substantial increase in the number of days of indigent patients. There were 5,156 patient-days in 1948 as compared with 3,948 in 1947—an increase of more than 30 per cent. Treatment of indigent patients constituted more than 26 per cent. of all public ward treatment, he said.

One of the gratifying features of the report, he contended, was decrease in the average patient's stay as compared with the previous year. In 1947 the average visit was 10.4 days, compared with 10.28 in 1948.

"The interest shown by the community as evidenced by the favorable vote for the issue of $1,500,000 of debentures and by the donations made and promised is very heartening and is deeply appreciated," said Mr. Hornal.

He also paid tribute to the Women's Auxiliary for their contribution during the past year, not only in the form of money, but also in service. And he thanked the Alumnae Association, the clergy and the medical staff for their work.

The Board of Governors, under Chairman Marshall, the professional and lay staffs of the hospital, Miss A. L. Thompson, director of nursing, and E. G. Shiner, accountant, also came in for high praise from the superintendent.

JOHN R. MARSHAL

Mr. Marshall thanked Board members for their confidence in him and said that he, together with the others, was eagerly looking forward to the opening of the new hospital.

A resolution passed unanimously expressing the thanks of the Board to Mr. Marshall for his work during 1948.

This year's building committee will consist of the chairman of the Board, chairmen of the standing committees, and the representative from the City Council, Alderman Hugh Waddell.

In conformity with two by-laws passed recently, Alderman Raine becomes a member of the Board replacing Mayor Swanston, and the president of the Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. Breckenridge, automatically becomes a member.

Thirty Homes Burgled In 1948

Thirty private homes and 61 stores and offices were broken into by thieves during 1948, Chief Thompson's annual report to the Police Commission shows. The detective department carried out investigations in all cases. In 10 of the house-breaking cases, the stolen goods were recovered and court action taken against those responsible.

Nine of the stores and office cases were successfully dealt with, with goods returned and prosecutions carried out.

Drunk Drivers Show Decrease; No Big Crimes

There were no major crimes in Peterborough in 1948, Chief Constable John Thompson told the Police Commission on Thursday. His annual report showed that there was an increase of nearly 25 per cent in the number of cases brought into court during the year, compared to 1947. The total last year was 2,310 and in the previous year it was 1,882.

Fines and costs collected in 1948 amounted to $18,117.30, an increase of about $3,300. The total amount of money collected by the Department in all activities was $52,702.85.

Chief Thompson's comments on the report said that the record was one of which every citizen could be proud.

"It shows the very respectable type of citizens . . . living in and around the city of Peterborough." He paid tribute to the work of the force in general, mentioning particularly the investigators of the Detective branch and the new Identification department. The new section includes a full reorganization of the police information files and contains facilities for photography, fingerprinting and other aids to criminal study.

The report showed a breakdown of all the cases handled by the city department. Most striking increase was the number of prosecutions under the Highway Traffic Act. Of the 921 persons charged, convictions were registered against 806. There were 531 charges in 1947.

Liquor control cases listed were about the same as the previous year—481 charged with 453 convictions. There were 457 cases in 1947.

There were 86 convictions for causing disturbances during the year. No charges under this section of the Criminal Code were listed in the 1947 report.

Drunk driving—regarded by police as among the gravest of offences to public safety—were cut nearly in half, with 12 convictions in 16 cases. There were 23 the year before. Four drivers were also convicted out of nine charged with being drunk while in charge of a motor vehicle.

There was little sexual crime in the city. Two charges and one conviction for gross indecency and three found guilty of indecent acts are listed. In 1947, there was one rape, two indecent assaults, two indecent acts.

During the year, there were 16 convictions under government war regulations. Eleven were for breaches of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Act, one for housing regulations and four for leasehold regulations.

340 Parking Charges

There were 340 charges laid for violation of the city's parking bylaw in 1948, compared to 279 the previous year. Charges under other city bylaws totalled 49, compared to 55.

Following are the other types of charges heard in court during the year, with the 1947 figure bracketed if available:

Police Estimates Up $13,000 Over 1948 To Buy Radio-Equipped Truck For Drunks

Estimates for police costs to the city for the coming year were approved by the Police Commission on Thursday at $96,817.30, which is about $13,000 higher than the 1948 expenditures. Main item of the increase was a boost of nearly $8,000 for salary increases. This includes the $200-a-year jump previously approved by the Commission and regular and special increases to department members Total salaries in 1949 will be $81,000, which includes $1,000 for members of the Commission.

Another major item added is a new small truck, to be used to handle drunks and other prisoners and for hauling in bulky found property such as bicycles. The two police cruisers are now being used for this purpose, and Chief Constable John Thompson pointed out that the excessive wear on those vehicles would be easier with the addition in this third mobile unit. It will be equipped with radio. The total cost of the truck and radio is estimated at $2,100.

The estimates also provide an expense of $1,500 for proposed clerical assistance in the department and in connection with the duties of the crown attorney.

Other items of the budget (with 1948 expenditure in brackets) are: upkeep of cars and motorcycle, including overhaul of motorcycle, $2,500 ($2,685.56); clothing and equipment, $4,665 ($5,873.94); printing, stationery and postage, $600 ($807.30); upkeep of police quarters, $500 ($446.68); upkeep of radio, $350 ($230.72); insurance on cars, motorcycle and radio, $250 ($173.70); telegraphs and telephone, $350 ($347.02); meals for prisoners, $275 ($244.29); special police, $100 ($15); new identification equipment, including $423.50 already paid, $675 ($599.85); incidentals, $300 ($274.20).

There were 1,083 dog tags sold in the city in 1948, bringing in total fees of $2,330. This is slightly higher than 1947's figures.

NO PLACE TO GO

At the rate of more than two a night, "lodgers"—men without home, friends or funds—slept in the city police cells. There were 709 such wanderers accommodated in 1947.

MAMA, I'M LOST!

During 1948, the city Police Department acted as temporary guardian to 14 children who had strayed from their keepers. One a month is about average there. In 1947, there were 11.

BIG DAY FOR SKIERS

Skiing enthusiasts will be out in large numbers at Bethany on Sunday for Peterborough Club's championships. Chief attraction will be the downhill and slalom, which is being organized by George Cooke.

COMMENDS CHIEF

The Police Commission on Thursday went on record to express its appreciation for the "fine report of the year's work" done by Chief Constable John Thompson.

COLD MORNING

Weather recorder Jim Harrison reports that the mercury slid to six below zero last night and by 9 a.m. had risen only two degrees. There are few reports of early-morning workers' cars being stalled but starting batteries took a beating when cold engines were being started.

Eight Gas Station Operators Plead Guilty

Eight Peterborough gasoline service station operators were fined a total of $650 and ordered to pay costs amounting to $65 when W. J. A. Fair KC, entered a plea of guilty on their behalf today on a total of 26 charges of violating the city bylaw governing operating hours of gasoline outlets.

All the offences took place last summer but the cases were adjourned by Magistrate W. R. Philp K. C. to await the result of an appeal lodged in County court which served as a "test case" on this issue.

Judge Sheldon L. Smoke upheld the validity of the bylaw last Friday when he dismissed an appeal against a conviction by Magistrate Philp in a case identical to those settled today.

Maximum penalty for infringing the bylaw, which allows only a specified 15 per cent of the service station operators in this city to remain open after seven in the evening, is $50 but after Mr. Fair had asked for leniency, the magistrate imposed fines of $25 on each of 26 charges with $2.50 costs on each.

Alec E. Elliott K. C. who was representing the crown, asked the magistrate to impose the maximum penalty. He said that regulations governing hours of business for stores, barbers and other establishments had been enforced for years and the service operators had kept their stations open knowing full well that they were contravening the law. He said that the accused men probably found they could make more money by keeping their stations open after seven o'clock during the summer months even though they were liable to a $50 fine.

There were five charges against John and George Thompson of Thompson Bros. Gas Station on George and Rink Sts.; one against John and Arthur Thompson; two against the Thompson Service Station; five against Albert Bianco and Moore and Bianco Service Station, 135 Park Hill Rd.; one against Albert Bianco and Godfrey Moore; three against Leonard Burke of The Eastgate Inn Service, Downer's Corner; one against Burke Service Station; six against John Russelle of Russelle's Service Station, Water St., and two against Vincent Crebar of Crebar's Service Station, Highway

Queen's Oldest Graduate Is 92

WINNIPEG, Feb. 11 —(CP)— P. A. Macdonald of Winnipeg, 92, is the oldest living graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.

Mr. Macdonald, born in Gananoque, in 1857, has lived in Winnipeg since 1880. He was master in chancery at the law courts until 1911, when he went into private practice. For several years he was public utility commissioner for Manitoba, but resigned in 1922.

He was graduted from Queen's in arts in 1876, articled in law and was admitted to the bar in Toronto in 1879. In his younger days he was a noted athlete.

Mrs. Macdonald stays with his daughter, Miss Louise Macdonald. He reads without his glasses, his hearing is good, and his son, Dr. P. A. Macdonald, head of the Manitoba Cancer Institute, pronounces him in excellent health.

He likes a good walk, but contents himself with watching golf. Neither of his two children followed him in the choice of Queen's University. His son was graduated from the University of Manitoba. He has two grandchildren.

In 1934, Queen's students honored Mr. Macdonald by dedicating their yearbook to him and to a Toronto classmate, now dead.

Minister Raps Prejudices Shown By Whites

Lashing out at "nonsensical prejudices", the Rev. Ivan Morgan, gave Kiwanians on Thursday a stirring picture of the contribution made by colored people and Jews to the progress and culture of civilization.

"Thoughts of white man being superior to other peoples is nonsense If you were blind for one week, you would find there are no difference in racial groups. The difference is only skin deep." said Mr. Morgan.

Mr. Morgan said if all the development of the non-whites disappeared we would only have about one-third of what we have now. Examples of this are margarine and some of the cures for modern diseases. Margarine was developed by a negro and most cures were found by Jewish scientists, he said.

Basing his moral on the development of the making of books Mr. Morgan spoke of the history of printing, paper and the alphabet.

"Printing was not used for books in Europe until late in the 15th century. Before that time all printing was done by hand in Europe. Books were expensive therefore only being limited to the wealthy and the select", he explained. "The invention of printing was made in China and has proved to be more important than all wars and treaties since then. Johann Gutenberg introduced printing to Europe in 1454. After a number of lawsuits his press was taken from him to pay his debts."

"Printing has now developed to such an extent it is hard to realize a world without printing." said Mr. Morgan.

Paper made by machines dates back only to 1793 in Europe, England in 1804, and United States in 1820, said Mr. Morgan. Before that the number of books was limited. In 1309 paper was reported to have been made form cotton. England got the paper from Spain who acquired the idea from the Orient. Who invented paper in the first place is still a mystery. Mr. Morgan said that before paper was invented palm leaf strips, wood, ivory, wax, stone and clay were used to write on. The Chinese used silk at one time for that purpose. Parchment was used and is used today in some special cases as the wedding certificate of Princess Elizabeth's. Earliest form of writing was done by the cave-dwellers on the walls of the homes.

Mr. Morgan spoke briefly of the alphabet saying it first made its appearance in Italy having come from Greece, Phoenicia, Crete and probably Palestine. Pictures on walls and stones indicate man's attempt to record his thoughts on everlasting form.

Mr. Morgan was introduced by Stanley Northrop and thanked by E. A. Pridham, past president of the club.

Rose Day this year will be sponsored by the Kiwanis club. It will be held on May 28.

FOR THE RECORD—Members taking their seats at the opening of the fourth session of the 22nd Manitoba Legislature this week found something new had been added. A switchboard complete with operator—Miss Aileen Innes—is located just inside the main entrance to the Chamber. Her job is to operate recording equipment installed throughout the House. When a member speaks during the debate his words will now be recorded by the new type tape-recording apparatus providing a permanent record of Legislature proceedings.

He-Man Stars Popular Again

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11 (AP) —The gravy train has come to a halt for movie stars, at least at at one studio.

The studio is Universal- International and casting chief Bob Palmer feels strongly about it. He blames stars for much of the industry's current economic troubles:

"With more freedom, the actors could have ruined the industry. They got too much power during the war years. Now the administrative end will take over again and run things."

Palmer's harsh words follow two pertinent news items. One reported a loss of $3,000,000 in Universal's report for the last fiscal year.

And Salaries

Tho other story disclosed recent salaries paid by U-I.

Star salaries can often be the difference between profit and loss on a picture, Palmer said. "You pay out $200,000 for an old star and $100,000 for a featured player," he illustrated, "and that $300,000 is probably the gravy of the picture."

U-I has embarked on a policy of home-grown stars.

"New faces bring new life to the box-office and cut costs," Palmer explained. He mentioned Richard Widmark as an instance where a new personality can inject adrenalin to sagging theatre returns.

New Faces

The studio is now combing the wood for fresh (and inexpensive) talent and the casting chief said that radio and little theatres are the best sources.

The type of talent?

"Leading men have swung back to the rugged type again," Palmer said. "Clark Gable was the original of that type. Then came the pretty-boy cycle headed by Robert Taylor and Tyrone Power. After that, the baby-faced, shy typified by Jimmy Stewart and Van Johnson. Now we are back to the he-man."

Bethany WA Meets

BETHANY, Feb. 11—(ENS)—Mrs. C. Cummiskey and Mrs. Clarence Page were joint hostesses to the Women's Association of the United Church on Tuesday. Mrs. George Waddell presided. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Herb Coppins. Miss Maude Rodwell read the Scripture lesson and Mrs. L. Millson gave thoughts on the lesson. Mrs. A. H. Monk gave the topic. A Bible quiz, prepared by Miss Elsie Richardson, was won by Mrs. T. Jackson. Mr. Crandell closed the meeting with prayer. Lunch was served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Preston Neals, Mrs. Harold Sanderson and Mrs. Wellington Fallis.

Parish Priest Tried

ROME, Feb. 11—(AP) — An Italian news agency dispatch from Trieste said today a parish priest had been tried by a People's Tribunal at Capodistria, Yugoslavia, on charges of "economic sabotage" and sentenced to 20 days in jail. The agency said the priest was Rev. Carlo Essig of Corte D'Isola.

Sets Town In Uproar

WILLMAR, Minn., Feb. 11—(AP)—a radio entertainer's false report that a carload of wild animals was loose in the streets set Willmar on its collective ear Wednesday night. Calls from scores of frightened citizens swamped the police telephone switchboard. A number of people hastily organized defence parties. Many householders bolted doors and turned on all lights.

Total accidents in 1948 jumped 163 over the 1947 figure to a total of 741. Total damage was $48.599. There were 103 persons injured. 57 of them seriously enough to require hospital treatment. Snow Or No?

COBOURG, Feb. 11.—(ENS).—Ski Club officials are keeping their fingers crossed in the hope that the few inches of snow out at the Northumberland Forest Ski Club will remain for the Cobourg Collegiate ski meet scheduled for February 19. Better still, they are hoping for a good fall of snow before that date. The ski meet is sponsored by the local Collegiate and teams are expected from Cobourg, Peterborough, Oshawa, Belleville, Collingwood, Malvern Collegiate, Toronto, and Port Hope.

City Uses 11,222 Telephones Started 80 Years Ago With 15

First telephone conversation was held in Peterborough in 1879, exactly 80 years ago and a year later the Bell Telephone Company started operating 15 lines in this city. From these modest beginnings the telephone system has developed into a major undertaking with 11,222 telephones connecting 9,400 establishments in the city. Conversation has no rival as the most common and probably the most popular pastime and it is, therefore, not surprising that the installation of new telephones is a never-ending process.

Ten years ago there were 6,051 telephones in the city and today the figure is nearly double with a list of 488 people who have been waiting more than a year.

The past 10 years have been a period of expansion with the dial system coming into operation in 1939, the year in which the Bell Telephone Company removed to the exchange on Hunter St; 2000 dial terminals were installed last May and at the present time the exchange is having an additional 1500 terminals built in the new part of the building which is now being completed.

New terminals are not the only requirements to satisfy the increasing demand for the telephone. Outside plants are now working to capacity and it will take a major construction before many new telephones can be installed.

Record of the Bell Telephone Company which are kept at Montreal, record D. H. C. Burnett as being the first Peterborough subscriber followed a few weeks later by William Cluxton, R. Fairbairn, W. H. and J. J. McBain. These historic events were told to the world in the following newspaper report of December 10, 1879:

Talk Privately

"The Dominion Telegraph Company is erecting wires to connect the office of the company with the storehouse of Messrs. Cluxton and McBain and Mr. Cluxton's office. A new and improved telephone is to be used (Blake transmitter) and will be so arranged that they can communicate with each point by means of a cut-off, without interferring with the other and all communications are thus made private.

A few moths later, on April 29, 1880, the Bell Telephone Company of Canada was incorporated and the first Bell exchange was opened here—to serve 15 subscribers—during this year.

On Dec. 4, 1883, the long distance line between Port Hope and Lindsay via Millbrook and Omemee, with a loop to Peterborough was completed. Connection with Toronto and Belleville was obtained at Port Hope. The number of subscribers in Peterborough grew rapidly after the erection of these long distance lines although it was far more difficult to telephone from Peterborough to Toronto in those days than to put a call thorugh to England today.

Line to Young's Point

The first organiser of the Bell Telephone Company, the late S. F. Sise sr. has left the following diary entries:

"September 6, 1882—Authorised line from Peterborough to Young's Point."

"April 5, 1885—Authorised line between Peterborough and Lindsay.

"May 5, 1885—Authorized line between Peterborough and Lakefield."

One Exchange Preferred

"July 7, 1890—Peterborough has 173 paying subscribers."

About 1890 an organisation known as the Ontario Telephone Company was established in Peterborough in opposition to the Bell Telephone Company. Commenting on this chapter of local telephone history the Peterborough Times reported some years later:

"This competition lasted about one year. The enterprise was a failure for no other reason than the unmitigated nuisance of the double service without a single compensating advantage."

In 1905 the Canadian Machine Telephone Company opened an automatic exchange here. This company made an assignment on Dec. 28, 1923 and its assets were acquired by the Bell Telephone Company in 1925.

Meanwhile the Bell Company's business in Peterborough was expanding rapidly. Encouraged by the growth in the number of subscribers, the company constructed its own building and improved the plant. This included the installation of a new central energy switchboard—at that time the largest of its kind in Canada.

Two Alarm Fire

two-alarm fire Thursday night partially destroyed a three-storey government-expropriated Wellington street building, on the day the government ordered the tenant to vacate the premises. Firfighers, battling the blaze for more than an hour, confined flames to the top floor of the brick structure, at 318 Wellington street, across from the Supreme Court of Canada Building. Damage was estimated at $25,000.

Horn Saves Driver

HUNTSVILLE, Ont., Feb. 11 — (CP)—Harold Meredith Thursday was saved from his flaming automobile when the horn jammed, sounded continuously and aroused him from unconsciousness. Meredith's car skidded on the icy road south of here, struck a snowbank, turned oover four times and burst into flame. 'I came to with the horn blowing," he said, "so I pushed myself out."

Cancel Bus Schedules

REGINA, Feb. 11—(CP)—All bus schedules to and from Regina were cancelled Thursday night as a southeasterly blizzard swept across the province. Highway officials said many roads now open were in danger of being closed.

City Policemen On The Tall Side

From the annual report of the Police Department, it is possible to form a composite picture of the average member of Peterborough's finest. There are 32 members of the force at present.

Are they six-footers? Strictly by the scale, the average slides just a shade below that mark, but misses it by a hair. One man on tiptoes on the measuring rod would have put it over. The exact average height is 5 feet 11 and 29-32nd inches.

The ages of the police range from 21 to 64, with an average of 37 years.

Twenty-seven are Canadians by birth. Three were born in Scotland, one in England, and one in Ireland.

Honor Saint Valentine With Cranberry Heart Cake

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Here is a cake that looks like a bright red valentine. It is all ribboned and bowed with bands of fluffy whipped cream.

Cranberry Heart Cake

One and one-third cups sifted cake flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, separated, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/3 cup water, 1 package strawberry gelatin, - can whole cranberry sauce.

Combine baking powder, salt and sifted flour and sift twice again. Beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually beat in half the sugar (about 2 tablespoons at a time)

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add remaining sugar and vanilla. Continue beating until very thick. Slowly add water, stirring constantly. Fold in beaten egg whites. Sift about ¼ cup dry ingredients at one time over surface, then fold into egg mixture. Turn into heart-staped pan or square-cake pan (8x8x12 inches) that has been greased on the bottom and lined with waxed paper. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 to 50 minutes. Invert on cake rack until cake is cool. Remove from pan. Peel off paper from bottom of cake. Use pan to mold cranberry topping.

Topping: Dissolve gelatin according to direction on package —reducing water by ½ cup. When gelatin begins to gel, stir in cranberry sauce. Pour into pan in which cake was baked. Chill in refrigerator until firm. Unmold on top of cake. Pipe with sweetened whipped cream.

Tuna Delicious
(Serves 6)

Two cans tuna, 1 cup cream sauce, 2 (8-ounce) cans tomato sauce, 1 small green pepper, chopped, ¼ pound cheddar cheese, grated, 1 can sliced mushrooms, 1 package frozen asparagus tips, 1 package noodles, cooked.

Combine cream sauce, canned tomato sauce, green pepper, cheese, mushrooms and tuna. Arrange cooked noodles in bottom of greased baking dish. Pour on tuna mixture. Arrange thawed asparagus tips on top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 40 minutes.

Valentine Cocktail. Chilled pineapple and maraschino juice. Garnish with wedge of pineapple and cherry on toothpick.

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit, cooked whole wheat cereal, enriched toast, butter or margarine, jelly, coffee, milk.

VALENTINE LUNCHEON PARTY: Valentine cocktail, tuna delicious, pascal celery and ripe olives, tiny hot biscuits or rolls, butter or margarine, cranberry heart cake, tea milk.

DINNER: Boiled tongue, horseradish sauce, parsley boiled potatoes, creamed buttered broccoli, pickled beet and lettuce salad, rye bread, butter or margarine, sliced oranges and bananas, sponge cake, coffee, milk.

Spring Gloves Have Taken to Frills

Spring glove styles take frills in hand. Washable nylon makes net-ruffled crocheted mitts (top left) and sheer pink gloves with double-fluted cuffs (bottom center). Double cuffs of white cotton gauntlets (top right) are adaptable to sleeve length. Twin tabs on cuffs of beige capeskin gloves (bottom right) unbutton to show brown inset. Pink leather fluting ruffles navy gloves (bottom left).

NEW YORK—(NEA)— Quick-drying, no-need-to-press nylon takes like a duck to water to the frilly glove styles stressed for Spring.

Gloves of sheer, 51-guage nylon fabric edged with triple rows of frilly fluting launder like stockings, dry in 10 minutes and need no pressing to restore their impeccable pleats.

Neither do hand-crocheted gloves of white nylon yarn present any problem of upkeep, despite the fact that they are net-ruffled elbow-length evening mitts.

Nylon is not the only fabric that carries frills to the hands this Spring. Even double-woven white cottons do. Take, as proof, six button-length cotton gauntlets, double-cuffed with hand-stitched scallops. These cuffs may be turned up or down, according to the length of the sleeves with which they are worn.

Even capeskin makes its surrender to frills. One style of navy blue capeskin looks as ruffly as a petticoat with fluted edges of pink leather forming frills at the wrist. Tailored capeskins not only go fancy but put on a fine performance. On two-tones capeskins, for example, there are twin triangles of contrasting leather tabbing the wrists. If a woman wants to turn her gloves of two colors into one, she simply buttons the twin triangles into a single tab which shows the lining and eliminates the contrasting color.

London Students Seek In Vain To House Wives

LONDON, Feb. 11 —(CP)— Every day Mrs. Leslie Shirlaw has to advise young students at London University not to marry.

Several times a week she must say to a student and his wife: "Don't have children yet. If you do, you may be lucky to get a garret."

There are two folders at "Heartbreak House"—the name given to London University Lodgings Bureau—telling of the plight of hundreds of students and their wives living in London County Council rest camps in gas-lit, single rooms and in squalid tenements.

"For many married couples living on the government grant of £360 ($1,440) a year the position is absolutely desperate," Mrs. Shirlaw said.

"We have 4,000 names of people on our files who are prepared to take in students but when I hear of a couple of rooms to let in an attic, the married students almost fight for them."

"If a student's wife tells her landlady she is expecting a child it nearly always means a request that she should find other accommodation."

"Last week three students' wives entered hospital to have children. They were told they could not go back to their lodging and their belongings were cleared out."

"Scores of students and their wives are living in frightful dens where it is almost impossible to study. One couple, living in a garret with gas lighting, has to carry water in pails from the basement to the fifth floor where they live."

"If the wives work the husbands lose the government grant.'"

Social Situations

SITUATION: You become acquainted with a much older man who from the start calls you "Jim" and you wonder whether to call his "Robert" or "Mr. Smith."

WRONG WAY: Call him by his first name.

RIGHT WAY: In deference to his age cal him 'Mr. Smith" unless he asks you to call him by hs first name.

30 Period Rooms In Exquisite Miniature Show

TORONTO, Feb. 11—(CP).—A treasure hunt through Europe's most fabulous antique shops for rare art objects has produced a collection of miniature rooms which would make Tom Thumb feel like an overgrown Goliath.

Thirty period rooms furnished in exquisite detail went on public display here today at the Toronto Art Gallery in the only Canadian showing of the collection of Mrs. James Ward Thorne of Chicago.

The rooms, scaled one inch to the foot, have been estimated at $5,000 each.

On authentic reproduction of German, English and French styles, the collection dates back to 1505, and illustrates much of the modes and life of the time.

Architectural design, carved ceilings and stained-glass windows are exact duplications of either specific rooms or are composite types. There are more than 150 pieces in each room, including crystal chandeliers and Oriental rugs.

Mrs. Thorne is a perfectionist who insists that even door knobs must be carved in the period style represented by the room.

"Lived-In" Look

Although all rooms are given a "lived-in" look by books on tables, open violin cases and animals stretched before the fire, the elaborate furniture of most periods would make a contemporary uneasy.

"I poked around in the most obscure and interesting shops in Paris, Rome, Florence and London," Mrs. Thorne said.

When she couldn't buy just what she wanted in the exact size requirements, she trained her own cabinet-makers, jewellers and interior decorators to make furnishings. Mrs. Thorne did most of her own upholstering, curtains and needle point rugs.

An English firm made a special tea service in Wedgewood china which sits on a tray the size of a 50-cent piece.

Mrs. H. Tremaine Elected Head

Life Members's Club of the Local Council of Women ratified a new slate of officers presented by the nominating committee at the annual dinner meeting Thursday evening. Mrs. H. Tremaine is the new president, succeeding Mrs. F. Merrett who was in office two years.

Vice president is Mrs. A. Leach; secreatry, Mrs. C. G. Collins; treasurer, Mrs. J. M. Fanning; social convener, Mrs. M. H. Drysdale; program convener, Mrs. H. R. Scott; transportation, Mrs. W. H. Morton; visiting, Mrs. K. Simpson.

Chairman of committee, Mrs. Simpson, read the report.

Mrs. C. M. Scott presided for the election. Notice of a motion on amendment to the constitution will be sent out to members prior to the next business meeting.

Mrs. Allan Mann was appointed convener of nominations committee for next year, assisted by Mrs. J. Low and Mrs. C. Olaveson.

St. Joseph Student Nurses Have Gay Valentine Dance

Red and white streamers garlanded the auditorium of St. Joseph's nurses' residence as it became a Valentine ballroom on Thursday evening, Student nurses were entertaining their friends and guests at a lovely dance, and had put up most attractive decorations which represented considerable thought and work.

First to meet the eye were the highlighting silhouettes, a girl in party dress, carried out in red, and her partner, a white figure in full evening dress. In the centre a huge red heart with a border of small white ones was fastened to a curtain of curling streamers.

Mr. Jack Dane acted as chairman and distributed prizes for novelty dances to Miss Mary Corkery and Harold Ayotte, Mrs. D. W. Aitken and Jack Brady, Mrs. Cook and Carmen DeCarlo, Miss Teresa Garvey and Bill Ethier.

Rev. Kibblewhite Addresses Life Members Club of LCW

"If the contribution of women were taken out of that great trilogy—church, home and school—hardly one of the three could carry on," was a suppostiion made by the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite. He was guest speaker at the Life Members Club of the Local Council of Women, annual dinner meeting Thursday evening in Hooper's palm room.

The main address dealt with two most potent factors in life today — ideas and individuals. "Great advances have come when some individual got an idea," he said. "We see this all through the Bible and in history up to our modern times." He cited the amazing story of Helen Keller whose idea tranformed a life that was almost finished before it began.

"Every organization which is represented in this club began with an idea," he pointed out, "so has every great building and all great advances in the sphere of human relations." Florence Nightingale contributed one of the greatest ideas, he mentioned, and the Swiss of Salerno who brought the Red Cross Society another.

To individuals who may often feel their efforts are fuule he said: "A good peace is impossible if people go on in a selfish way." He spoke of radio appeals during the war which made every listener feel if he did not contribute his bit the entire effort would bog down. "When fighting ended there were no more appeals and we are sliding back into the apathetic feeling, there is not much I can do."

Turning to the greatest evil of today, Communism, Mr. Kibblewhite said he fears many do not know the true facts of this movement. "In China it is not Russians, but Chinese who went to Russia for education, who made it a Communist country. Where 19 might come East and only one go to Russia, that one would return thrilled with Communist ways and immediately start drawing others to him. In this country we show no keenness for our way of life to the foreigner; we are not pleased with out government, but are mostly complaining about one thing or another. That is the feeling these people sense and it does not appeal. Furthermore we do not accept them as friends or make them at home."

"Each one of us has a contribution to make. If we believe in God we have a tremendous storehouse of power to put our ideas into effect," he concluded.

Mrs. C. G. Collins introduced Mr. Kibblewhite who is a Westerner, past Olympic track star with many trophies, who recently did some teaching in the new visual aid method of education. Mrs. H. T. Rehill expressed appreciation of his address.

Introduction of new life members, Mrs. A. A. McIntyre and Mrs. C. Olaveson was made by Mrs. Wm. Addyman, president of Local Council of Women, in which all life members are also members.

Mrs. F. Merrett, Life Members' Club president, who presided, welcomed them. Though the group was formed primarily for sociability and fellowship among those who had worked in Local Council and retired from activity, she pointed out that they have also done a considerable amount of welfare work.

Secretary Miss M. Ferguson read letters from Mrs. G. K. Fraser and Senator Iva C. Failis regretting they were not present. Also several letters of appreciation for parcels sent overseas. Contents of a Christmas parcel sent were read by Mrs. W. H. Saunders who was assisted in buying and packing by Mrs. B. W. Harvey and Mrs Merrett.

Visiting convener Mrs. K. Simpson, reported 13 notes and four cards sent to sick members and two sympathy cards.

A color film of English countryside scenes was the introduction of an interesting talk on that country by Miss Grace Simpson. The speaker gave a day to day account of the sightseeing tours she took while holidaying in England last fall. Her first stop was at St. Ives where they really had cats every place, even places you would never think of finding a cat, there there were," she said. The streets were like alleys and the houses very small and all painted in pastel tones.

Cornish legends and her impressions of the places referred to added spice to her talk. Her large collection of pictures illustrated the travelogue.

Mrs. J. Dutton expressed sincere enjoyment in the talk about her own homeland.

Spring flowers on the dinner tables were delightful and were highlighted by lighted ivory candles. Hearts, cupids and arrows honored St. Valentine, and most attractive novelty place cards and napkins were in the club colors, royal blue and white.

Club members presented the flowers to Mrs. Merrett at the close and added compliments on the place cards and invitations she had designed.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Names Congeniality Bedrock Of Happily Married Couple

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: The man I am engaged to has every virtue, BUT we do not care for the same things. He loves dancing and bridge playing. I am a home body and like to read. A discussion of the newest books would bore him to tears. Yet the idea of giving him up is simply unbearable.

Dorothy Dix

There is another man who is in love with me and we are perfectly congenial, but I don't love him and could part from him without a pang. Can you straighten me out? I am in my early forties.

MATILDA H.

ANSWER: Well, I think congeniality is the very bedrock of a successful marriage. The only husbands and wives who never get on each other's nerves are those who have the same habits and who have been brought up in pretty much the same environment and with the same point of view.

The only husbands and wives who never bore each other are those who are interested in the same things, who enjoy the same things, who like to do the same things. The only peaceful homes are those in which the husbands and wives agree about fundamental things and in which there is no argument or discussion.

The best man and the best woman in the world, the most intelligent and high-minded man and woman, the man and woman who are most earnestly desirous of doing their duty as husband and wife, will make a failure of marriage and be utterly miserable if they are not congenial.

Not Easy To Change

At your age I think I would go all out for congeniality in a mate, for as we get along in years it is not easy to adapt ourselves to others and to change our tastes and habits. We are too old to learn new tricks, and the chance of a woman in her forties learning to prefer dancing and bridge to good books is pretty slim. Marriage lasts a long time and it seems longer if you are married to someone who bores you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married for many years to a man who up until three years ago seemed to love me very much. However, out of a clear sky and for no reason that I know of, for the last three years he has refused to live with me. In fact, he hardly speaks to me, except to tell me that he is sick and tired of me and wants a divorce.

We have no children, but I have made up my mind that I am not going to give him a divorce. Not that I love him any more, but I am going to hold him just for spite. Don't you think I am right?

A WIFE

ANSWER: I don't see how any woman who has any self-respect can try to hold a man who wants to be rid of her. I should think that in such a case she would speed him on his way and be glad and thankful to be free of him. And I should think she would be far happier if she would put him out of her life, for then she could forget him and let the unpleasant incident of her marriage be closed.

Certainly for a wife to live in a house with a husband who hates her and who will not even speak to her must keep her continually stirred up and infuriated. That sort of situation will wreck any woman in body and soul.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Do boys prefer the indifferent, unsympathetic type of girl, or the sweet, sympathizing girl?

A HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT

ANSWER: I don't think boys like girls who highhat them. They like girls who show that they appreciate them and admire them, and who are always ready to lend an ear when they want to talk about themselves.

Especially is this true of the spoiled boys of today. Dear Lady Disdain would never get a date if she pursued her tactics of snubbing the modern lad.

Furs All Lengths At Lower Prices Outlook for '49

There's good news for the ladies who can't afford a new fur coat to match the "new look," Sol Vogel of New York, internationally recognized fur designer, told members of the Retail Furriers Guild that fur fashions for 1949 will feature every length of coat! Fur coats will be proportioned for the average woman who is 5'5" tall.

However, if a woman is below average height her dealer will have a style to suit her type, and eliminate that old roly-poly appearance.

Then there is the all important question of price. One dealer stated that there would be a drop in prices of fur coats, but the managing director of the Guild, would not comment.

The added length of the coat with more skins being used has kept prices out of the reach of the average woman and has resulted in an alarming drop in sales. Whether or not the manufacturer will have to make shorter coats to meet the market remains to be seen. Perhaps this new "proportioned" style will solve the problem.

Rather worried fur dealers say that this has been the worst year in ten for their business! Women just can't afford the high-priced fur coats on the market. "The wartime days when every munition worker could afford a fur coat are gone for good, I am afraid" moaned one dealer. Now the furriers and fur designers must put their heads together and create a coat that fits the customer . . . and the budget!

Fats And Oils Quota Up, Boosts Oleo

Find US Decontrol Easing Prices Of Margarine, Lard

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 (CP) — Margarine may soon flow more plentifully into Canadian homes on a sea of edible fats and oils let loose from the United States.

The two commodities—major ingredients in the manufacture of the butter substitute and shortening—were for a long time scarce enough to make large-quantity margarine production difficult in Canada.

Fats and oils decontrol in the United States may also have the effect of easing prices of margarine, lard, salad oils and soap, government officials say.

It was likely, said one government spokesman, that the immediate effect would be on lard, driving the price of that article below 24 cents a pound on the retail market.

Since there was no importation control on the amount of fats and oils which can enter Canada, there was also the possibility, said the same spokesman, that prices of other agricultural commodities may decline

Adverse Effect

There would be an adverse effect, he said, on Canada's own small fats and oils industry which could not compete with American prices on the open market.

In pre-war years, when margarine was banned, Canada imported more than 200,000,000 pounds of oils and fats annually.

In Washington Commerce Secretary James Sawyer said individual shipments of fats and oils to Europe would continue to be licensed—to make sure they go to Marshall-Plan countries—but that the quota limitations to particular countries no longer will be imposed.

The decontrol followed protests from Congress members and producers that the export curbs had served to build up surpluses in the U.S. and to lower American prices.

The disclosure of the decontrol in Ottawa followed a Commons announcement that 71 more articles were removed this week from the dwindling list of goods requiring permits for export.

George McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, said the new removals reduces to 275 commodities. January 1, 1949, it included 520 items.

Major items taken out of the restricted class are iron ore, linseed oil and flaxseed oil, household machinery and appliances, beans, peas, all fruits and all vegetables, except potatoes.

AUSTRIAN PEACE TREATY DISCUSSED —Representatives of the United States, France, Soviet Russia and Great Britain met in Lancaster House, London, recently to discuss any likely basis for resumption of talks on the Austrian peace treaty. These talks were terminated on May 6, 1948, when agreement could not be reached on future frontiers of the country. From left are: Samuel Reber, USA; Marcel Berthelot, France; Georgi Nikolaevich Zaroubin, USSR; and J. A. Majoribanks, Great Britain. Another European peace treaty entered the picture yesterday when Great Britain formally claimed again her right to look into the case of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty under the treaty Hungary signed as a defeated satellite of the Axis.

Must Change Attitude Tito Informed

No Hostile Country Can Be Member Of Soviet Aid Group

LONDON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Russia today told Yugoslavia she (Yugoslavia) is out in the cold on the Communist - model "Marshall Plan" until she changes her hostile attitude.

The Soviet position was stated in a note broadcast by Russia's official news agency, Tass, in reply to a Yugoslav protest at being left out of the Economic Council of Mutual Aid.

This latest rebuff to Premier Tito was broadcast as two other developments were reported which might cocern Yugoslavia.

A Yugoslav move before the Big Four's deputy foreign ministers here was believed to indicate she was getting ready to seek a compromise on a settlement of her claims against Austria.

Russia and Yugoslavia have been at outs since last June when Tito's Communist party was thrown out of the nine-power cominform on the grounds that he was too nationalistic and not a true Marxist.

The feud was intensified when Russia and some of her east European satellites drastically cut down on Yugoslav trade. Then Yugoslavia was left out of a conference in Moscow last month when Russia, Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia organized E.C.M.A. as an answer to the Marshall Plan.

Hostile Position

The Soviet note, as broadcast by Tass and recorded here by the Soviet monitor, said Yugoslavia protested Feb. 1 that this was an act of discrimination and contradicted her treaty of mutual aid with Russia and the other east European countries.

The Soviet reply, delivered in Belgrade yesterday, said the Yugoslav government itself "excluded any possibility of Yugoslavia's participation in the Moscow conference by taking up a hostile position towards the U.S.S.R. and countries of the people democracies."

The reply said there was no discrimination against Yugoslavia and that Yugoslavia's "hostile position" was a complete contradiction of the Soviet-Yugoslav treaty of friendship and mutual aid.

As for the principle of equality in E.C.M.A., said the Soviet note, any attempt to represent it as something new for Russia "is one more proof of the hypocrisy of the Yugoslav government."

The note said the Yugoslav government was trying to mislead its people by false pretensions, while "conducting wholesale reprisals against, and arrests of Yugoslav citizens who stand for friendship with the U.S.S.R. and countries of the people's democracies."

The note concluded by saying Russia wished Yugoslavia could be a member of E.C.M.A. but such participation "is possibly only in the event that the Yugoslav government gives up its hostile policy."

Peace Within Month

NANKING, Feb. 12—(AP).—A member of Nanking's unofficial delegation to Communist - held Peiping said today the Reds gave assurances that formal peace negotiations would be held within 30 days. A spokesman said Gen. Yeh Chien-ying expected talks would begin within a month to end formally China's long civil war. Yeh is Mayor of Peiping.

Cross-Examine Constable At Belleville

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 12—(CP)—A 44-year-old police constable whose allegations against senior police and crown officers brought a royal commission hearing here, now faces cross-examination after a week in which he has elaborated his charges.

The constable, J. E. Keays of the Ontario Provincial Police, hurled his charges for five days against seven provincial policemen — including W. H. Stringer, commissioner of police for Ontario—and the Hastings county crown attorney, B. C. Donnan.

He told the commission of alleged fraud, perjury, obstruction of police investigations, suppression of evidence and drinking parties attended by uniformed policemen.

He told the commission, too, that his repeated reports of these irregularities were brushed aside or ignored by his superiors.

Next week, Keays faces cross examination.

He told the commission of alleged fraud, perjury, obstruction of police investigations, suppression of evidence and drinking parties attended by uniformed policemen.

He told the commission, too, that his repeated reports of these irregularities were brushed aside or ignored by his superiors.

Not Impressed

As the commission, headed by Mr. Justice Keller Mackay of the Ontario Supreme Court, adjourned Friday, Judge C. W. A. Marion testified Keays had made one of these reports to him in 1940 but he was "not impressed."

Besides Commissioner Stringer and Mr. Donnan, Keays has named these police officers: Inspector T. W. Cousans, Inspector W. A. Page, Sgt. J. A. Stringer, Cpl. Sam Ervine, and Constables J. B. Driscoll and G. R. Purdy.

These, in effect, are the main allegations— he denies they are "charges"—Keays has made:

1—St. Stringer lied to a coroner's inquest in 1940 and Inspector Cousans told Keays to "subdue" contradictory evidence.

2—Donnan suppressed evidence and interfered with the investigation of a business associate who was tried for fraud in 1946.

3—Purdy submitted a false accident report and Ervine altered police records and committed perjury to help an "influential friend."

4—Commissioner Stringer and Inspector Page ignored Keay's reports of these irregularities.

Remand Carr Without Bail On Conspiracy Charge In Ottawa City Police Court

Alleged Leader Of Russian Spy Ring Does Not Plead, Or Elect Trial; Not Much Concerned At Answering Questions

OTTAWA, Feb. 12—(CP).—Sam Carr was arraigned in City Court today on a charge of conspiracy and was immediately remanded without bail until Monday, Feb. 21, at 11 a.m. The alleged ringleader in the Soviet spy ring did not plead and did not elect his method of trial, which could be before a magistrate or an immediate trial in a higher court.

He was not represented by counsel. He was returned to county jail after telling the court he would not ask for bail at this time.

Carr, brought to Ottawa Friday after being deported at Prescott, Ont., by United States authorities, wore a blue suit and red-and-white necktie in his initial court appearance. He appeared serious but not greatly concerned as he answered questions of Deputy Magistrate Joachim Sauve and Crown Counsel Robert Forsyth with a slightly foreign accent.

The charge read in court accused Carr of conspiracy with a considerable number of Russian embassy officials and Dr. John Soboloff of Toronto to forge a Canadian passport.

Turned over to the R.C.M.P. at Prescott, Friday by United States immigration officials, the stocky, bespectacled Carr was accused of carrying on his activities from 1942 to 1946 inclusive in Ottawa, Ontario county of York and other parts of Ontario and Quebec.

Dr. Soboloff, a Toronto medical practioner, has been fined in connection with the passport case. He is expected to be called as a witness in the Carr case.

Carr entered the courtroom with a number of plainclothes police and a group of men accused of other offences. He sat in the high wooden dock with four other men, a neat, impassive, clean-shaven man.

Canada Achieves All-Time Record In British Trade

OTTAWA, Feb. 12. (CP) — United Kingdom goods enjoyed one of their best selling years the Canadian market in 1948.

The government's Bureau of Statistics noted yesterday that value of Canada's import of British goods amounted to almost $300,000,000—an all-time high.

During the same year, Canada expanded its total foreign trade to achieve a record-busting total of $5,747,000,000. This was seven per cent higher than in 1947 and more than 30 per cent higher than in 1946.

Imports from the United States in 1948 totalled $1,806,000,000, down $169,000,000 from the 1947 aggregate. Restricting her imports and expanding her exports to the US, Canada cut her unfavorable trade balance with that country to one-third the 1947 figure.

The balance was a debit of $283,600,000 compared with $918,-100,000 in 1947.

Total imports from all British countries amounted to $504,100,-000, compared with $354,400,000 in 1948 and $11,300,000 in pre-war 1938.

Newfoundland exported $11,-091,000 worth of goods to Canada, compared with $67,000 in 1938.

US Can't Defend Japan If War Breaks

TOKYO, Feb. 12—(Reuters)—The United States is reconciled to the loss of Japan in the event of war, it was learned today from authoritative American sources.

A recent strategic survey of the world has convinced at least some of the leading military experts in Washington that Japan is not defendable. They are privately advocating early withdrawal of all U. S. occupation forces.

The Pacific generally is regarded in the light of the survey as of minor strategic importance and no American forces will be wasted on its defense.

This conclusion has been reached, it is learned despite the full realization that Australia and the Philippines—to mention only two countries primarily concerned in Pacific defense — would consider their positions seriously jeopardized because of the possibility of Russia moving in to replace the outgoing Americans.

It is emphasized, however, that the final decision to quit Japan has not been reached. Presumably it would concern both the state and army departments.

The principal factors affecting this new American approach to Japan are that the loss of industrial Western Europe in a war with the Soviet Union would at best delay the winning of a third world war for between 15 and 40 years. At worst it would result in a Soviet victory.

Truman Recalls Eisenhower To Decide Military Policy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 — (AP). — The United States has called Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower back into service to help answer some grave questions of future military policy. The wartime supreme allied commander was named by the White House yesterday to serve as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff—a group which includes the top military men of the United States Army, Navy and Air Force, as well as the chief of staff to the President.

Eisenhower is on leave from his job as president of Columbia University.

As principal military adviser to President Truman and Defence Secretary Forrestal, he will have an important part in deciding such vital questions as these:

1. Should the United States concentrate its defence planning in the Atlantic-European area, leaving Pacific defence in a secondary spot?

2. How much of its arms can the United States spare to bulwark its Allies in Western Europe and elsewhere?

Announcement of Eisenhower's appointment closely followed dispatches from Tokyo saying that the United States may soon review its entire military position in Asia as a result of a visit to that area by Army's Secretary Royall.

There were suggestions — not denied in Washington—that in global strategy the Pacific zone might again assume the position it had in the Second World War, when the enemy there was merely held at bay until victory in Europe was assured.

This concept, highly unpopular with Gen. MacArthur when he was Supreme Allied Commander in the Pacific during the war, is expected to be equally unsatisfactory to him now.

Due back in Washington Tuesday, Royall told a press conference at Hawaii he and MacArthur were confident the United States is in position "in event of war in the Far East involving us to meet all comers."

'King's Men' Get 37-11 Margin

BELFAST, Feb. 12. (CP) — Complete returns from voting in the Thursday election gave the "King's Men" a 37-11 margin in the House of Commons.

Tabulations on four other contested seats, held by Queen's University in Belfast, will not be available for some time. Voting there was conducted by mail. Political observers expect the Majority Unionist party, which favors continued union with Britain, to pick up two or three of these seats.

As the votes were being counted, Eire announced she will officially become the Republic of Ireland on Easter Monday, April 18. That is the 33rd anniversary of the Irish rebellion against Britain.

The Eire Dail (parliament), when it passed the republic of Ireland Act cutting Eire's last ties with Britain, left the way open for the six northern counties, largely Protestant, to join the 26 predominating Roman Catholic counties in the republic.

Sir Basil Brooke, prime minister of northern Ireland and a Unionist, said the election outcome showed Northern Ireland wanted to stay in the United Kingdom.

Blazing Sawdust Threatens Houses

TORONTO, Feb. 12—(CP) — Flaming sawdust threatened a row of homes in the West Toronto district early today when a three-alarm fire roared through the Longworth Milling Co. plant, causing more than $55,000 damage.

Firemen extinguished the wind-blown flames and confined the blaze to the north and east wings of the plane.

One fireman was injured and six others were overcome by smoke while fighting the fire.

Princess' New Boy Friend Starts Tongues Wagging

LONDON, Feb. 12 — (CP). — A fresh romantic rumor developed on Friday with the departure of Princess Margaret for picturesque Mountfield Court at Robertsbridge, Sussex. Mountfield Court is the family home of Capt. Tom Egerton, 21-year-old former Coldstream Guardsman.

For gossips, the 18-year-old Margaret's week-end has an idyllic sound. Friday night she was entertained at a family dinner party. To-day she accompanies Egerton to the Lingfield Races and to a dance in the evening. Sunday she will go with the family to the morning service at the ancient village church in Mountfield.

The public attached some significance to the fact that Margaret is staying at the home of a commoner. But a Buckingham Palace official pointed out that no precedent is being created. Margaret has many friends who are not titled and some of her mother's relatives are commoners.

The Egertons are connected with some of the best families in Britain. Tom, formerly a captain in the Coldstream Guards, is a direct descendant of Edward Christopher Egerton, a member of Parliament in the 19th century whose brother became Lord Egerton.

Margaret met Egerton in December when she and her sister Elizabeth attended the Bertram Mills Circus at Olympia. The introduction was performed by Margaret's friend, the Marques of Hartington. A week later she was seen with Egerton at a west-end theatre

This week-end she is meeting his parents, Cmdr. Hugh Sydney Egerton, RN, retired, and Mrs. Egerton for the first time. It is believed the Princess received a written invitation from Mrs. Egerton last week.

When Princess Margaret left Buckingham Palace by automobile on Friday it was noted that she was smiling and vivacious—but Buckingham Palace officials betrayed no excitement.

Say Cominform Meets In Prague

PRAGUE, Feb. 12 — (AP). — A Warsaw dispatch said Friday the Cominform was believed to be meeting in Czechoslovakia.

A well-informed Polish source reported in Warsaw that Poland was being represented by Jakub Ferman, Under-Secretary to the Council of Ministers, and Aleksander Zawadzki First Vice-Premier. Both were delegates to the last session of the Cominform—the international Communist Information Bureau—in Bucharest.

The report coincided with the rumors that Andrei Vishinsky, Russian Deputy Foreign Minister who has been visiting Czechoslovakia, is again in the Hotel Imperial Sanitarium at Karlovy Vary. He spent a week-end there recently.

Pope Requests Special Masses

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 12—(AP)—Pope Pius, in an apostolic exhortation to Catholic clergy throughout the world, called today for special masses "to expiate the crime of the enemies of God."

"A conspiracy has been formed against the Lord" in certain countries, he said, in calling for special masses April 10.

The Pope's 1,100-word appeal did not name any countries, nor mention Communism by name. But there was no question but that the Pontiff had in mind the trial, conviction and sentencing of Joseph Cardinal Mindszeny, primate of Hungary.

US Trusts To Cold Facts To Coax Norway Into Pact

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The United States has placed its trust in "cold facts" to coax Norway into formal partnership in the cold war against Russia.

Officials said Foreign Minister Halvard Lange of Norway got plenty of information but a minimum of persuasion during the five days he spent here seeking replies to his questions about the North Atlantic Defence Alliance being negotiated by the western powers.

Late yesterday Lange started home to report to an anxiously-waiting government in Oslo after receiving from State Secretary Acheson the official American view of the best way to defend Scandinavia from possible attack.

The Norwegian official plans additional talks with Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain on Northern Europe's defence prospects.

Once Lange returns, Norway must draft a note to Russia in answer to Moscow's unexpected bid for a non-aggression treaty.

The big question for Norway is whether the guarantees of American help are strong enough to risk antagonizing the Soviet government by joining with the Western Alliance.

Russia, which has a common border with Norway, has bitterly denounced the Atlantic Pact as an "aggressive" move not in keeping with the United Nations. That has been taken as a clear warning to Norway not to link up with the western powers.

But officials here indicated confidence that the information Lange is relaying will be enough to convince Norwegian authorities to take this chance.

As he left Washington, Lange made it clear that the United States State Department had not tried to influence his government's decision during his stay.

Winston Churchill To Visit U.S. In March

LONDON, Feb. 12—(Reuters)—Winston Churchill, who will address the convocation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge, Mass., March 31, will sail for New York from Southampton aboard the Queen Elizabeth March 18, it was announced today.

President Truman will address the convocation April 1.

Whether the two will meet is not known, the White House said yesterday in making the announcement.

An aide to Churchill said "nothing can be said at the moment as to whether he is likely to visit Canada."

During his stay in the United States, Churchill will be the guest of Bernard M. Baruch, American elder statesman, said the announcement issued by the Conservative central office.

Holland Admits 'War' Mistake

THE HAGUE, Feb. 12 (AP) — A new Netherlands Minister of Overseas Territories will be called on to help solve the tangled dispute over Indonesia.

Dr. E. M. Sassen, foreign minister, resigned his post last night because of a cabinet disagreement over Indonesian policy.

The resignation was believed to have averted a more sweeping government crisis.

Dr. D. Soemitro, the Indonesian Republic's representative to the United Nations, said in New York that Dr. Sassen's resignation meant Dutch authorities now realize their "police action" in the rich islands of Java and Sumatra was a "mistake."

Sassen, Soemitro said, represented "the most reactionary group" in the Dutch cabinet.

The U.N. Security Council two weeks ago brought matters to a head by approving an American-backed plan to restore the Indonesian Republic.

The Council ordered a special U.N. Commission to go into the dispute and report back by Feb. 15—one month before the target date for setting up a new interim government.

St. Laurent Visiting Truman In Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP) —Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, making his first foreign trip as Canada's top official, today began a weekend visit which includes talks with President Truman.

The Canadian leader told reporters Friday night when he arrived in a Canadian Government plane from Ottawa that he hopes concrete plans for the North Atlantic defence alliance will be ready soon.

He will lunch with the President at noon today and a formal discussion later.

Urge Commons To Adopt Marketing Act

OTTAWA, Feb. 12—(CP)—Adoption of a National Marketing Act to provide greater security for Canadian agriculture was urged yesterday in the Commons by representatives of some of Canada's major food-producing areas.

Stressing the curtailment of food sales to the United Kingdom and the possibilities of reductions in other markets, the members said a national marketing act is necessary to provide for the orderly handling of Canada's surplus agriculture products.

The requests, made in the session's first debate on agriculture, brought no immediate response from the government. Agriculture Minister Gardiner possibly will express the Cabinet's views when the debate resumes Monday.

The debate centred on a resolution to a bill providing for a one-year extension to the Agriculture Products Act, the legislation which gives the Canadian Meat Board the Dairy Products Board and the Special Products Board the authority to purchase food needed to fill contracts with the United Kingdom.

The agriculture debate was swung to the question of wheat by Arthur Ross (PC-Souris) who said farmers have lost $2,000,000,000 through the United Kingdom contract because other farm prices were based on the wheat price.

The loss, he said, should be made up out of the Federal Treasury and should not be left solely on the shoulders of the wheat products. Mr. Zaplitny and Mr. Fair supported this view.

Mr. Ross said farmers are worried about their future and they deserved proper national marketing legislation.

Mr. Reid, (L-New Westminster) sugested that if Canada cannot obtain a higher price for eggs sold to Britain, the government should give Canadian egg producers the right to seek better markets. Now they have to sell to the Special Products Board.

Maj.-Gen. Pearkes (PC-Nanaimo), said that surely some of the exchange restrictions, which are limiting Canadian food sales, could be lifted to permit the distribution of products needed in many parts of the world.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Feb. 12 — (CP)— Rye again spotlighted a lower trend in coarse grain futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, losing ground in trade that saw moderate selling and thin support. The Winnipeg exchange was affected by an early declining trend on the Chicago Grain Market.

Declines in oats and barley in the early half of the session were moderate and oats recovered later to close around previous levels. Oats attracted support from shippers and mills. Barley drew some light export demand and processor buying. Prices on the whole moved narrowly in a dull trading session.

Robber Trio Jailed 2 Years

ST. CATHARINES, Feb. 12 — Three St. Catharines men, charged with robbery with violence following an assault on Kenneth McIntosh, a Woodstock salesman, in a hotel room on Jan. 11. were each sentenced to serve two years and six months in Kingston Penitentiary when they pleaded guilty before Magistrate H. D. Hallett Friday. On a second charge of stealing McIntosh's car, each was sentenced to one year concurrent with the other sentence.

Those sentenced were William Pheasant, 20; William Horodenchuk, 23, and William Boychuk, 22 All three have previous records. Two girls, Rose Wade) 18, and Olga Kisselchuk, 19, had charges of the theft of the car withdrawn. All five have been in custody since early in January. The three men were arrested in the stolen car by provincial police near Perth, on Jan. 12. The girls were arrested at Actinolite where the Wade girls mother now resides. Olgo Kisselchuk comes from Bishop's Falls, Newfoundland, and had been working in St. Catharines as a waitress.

Evidence showed McIntosh picked up the two girls on the Queen Elizabeth Way as they were hitchhiking home. On arrival at St. Catharines he took them to his hotel room. One of the girls left the room, and returned with Pheasant, who left shortly afterward.

When McIntosh answered a knock on the door he was confronted by Pheasant and the other two men. Pheasant hit him on the jaw, and one of the other men hit him over the head with some weighty object; knocking him out. When he regained consciousness, his money, two watches, car keys and personal papers were missing.

Urges Citizens To Get New Passports

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 (CP)—Persons wanting to renew all Canadian passports are being asked to have them replaced with new ones instead, External Affairs Minister Pearson told the Commons Friday.

Mr. Pearson, answering a question from G. K. Fraser(PC—Peterborough West), said the changed practice resulted from the Canadian Citizenship Act which went into effect at the start of 1947.

"Since that time," he added, "it has been found that certain inconvenices arose in renewing old passports which had been issued before Jan. 1, 1947, because the national status of Canadians was not accurately described in those passports.

He added the passport situation now is under review, particularly with regard to the practice in other commonwealth countries that have a similar problem.

Mr. Pearson said he did not have full information at hand and would make a more detailed statement later.

Mr. Speaight paid particular tribute to Hazel Cleghorn on an "easy and effective" performance of Mrs. Craig.

"Craig's Wife" was directed by Mrs. Cara Malcolm.

Other theatre groups in the festival are London Little Theatre, Simcoe Little Theatre, and the Players' Guild of Hamilton. Windsor Theatre Guild gave its performance of "The Man Who Came to Dinner" at the opening of the three-day event.

Announcement of the winning group will be made Saturday night.

Jesus Fulfilled On Earth All That Was Promised

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Jesus began His ministry at home, which was the proper and natural place to begin, but also the most difficult.

His sayings, "A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country," and "A man's foes shall be those of his own household," express a truth widely exemplified in human experience. How many men of genius have had to win their way and fame against the strong opposition of parents, who designed them for something else! How many men of achievement and fame won in the outside world have received belated honor from communities that regarded them with suspicion in their youth!

Jesus, of course, did not have the embarrassment of the average youth, who rises to preach in his own home town. He had lived an exemplary life. As Luke tells us. He had increased in favor with man, as well as with God. There were no unsavory escapades, or unworthy incidents, such as might become all too vividly remembered by a youth speaking even in deep sincerity to those who had known him well.

But to preach in Nazareth, nevertheless, was not easy for the Master. His own brothers, as we know from John 7:1-5 did not believe in Him, or His professed mission, although at least two of them later became earnest Christians and leaders in the church.

The favor wth which His fellow townsmen had viewed Him soon disappeared as Jesus announced that mission and ministry; and with the blindness and prejudiced zeal that have been the curse of the otherwise religiously earnest all through the history of religion, they not only rejected Him, but they sought to throw Him from the brow of a nearby hill and kill Him.

Jesus must have sensed these dangers, for "He knew what was in man." But He dared to face them, and to declare in the place where He was brought up, the consciousness of the mission and ministry to which He had been called, to fulfill the prophecy of Isaiah. "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because He hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; He hath sent me to heal the broken - hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives and recovery of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of he Lord."

Whl should such words, or such a claim, have moved anybody to anger? If He who announced such a ministry could not perform it, where was anyone the worse? Gamaliel had much better sense and wisdom, "If the work be of man it shall come to naught; if it be of God ye cannot prevail against it."

The Gospels tell the story of how those words spoken in Nazareth, and the ministry begun there, were vindicated in all that the Master said and did. In teaching, preaching, and healing He fulfilled all that a great prophet had declared of God's plan and purpose.

Trapping Licences Helping Protect Indian Trappers

COCHRANE, Feb. 12—(CP)—Trapping licences are helping to protect Ontario's Indian trappers who live north of the northernmost line of the C.N.R. against invasion of their traditional hunting rounds by outsiders.

Until the start of the 1947-48 trapping season, few of the estimated 2,000-3,000 Indian trappers north of that line of steel stretching from the Quebec to the Manitoba boundaries ever held a trapping licence or made a report on fur trapped during the winter. The fur trader looked after some details and the Indian trapper himself had little idea of what the game regulations meant or of how they concerned him.

For the most part, Indian trappers in that part of Ontario confined their hunting and trapping operations to the ground on which their fathers before them had trapped. Each Indian band had its own hunting round.

But in recent years, white trappers had begun to find their way into the Indian trapping territory The lands department became concerned lest the white trappers take over the Indian trapping grounds, as they had to a great extent farther south. Then the department decided to register the grounds of all the Indian trappers.

The work, started in the summer of 1947, still is continuing. To date, more than 2,000 Indian trappers have been registered. Possibly another 1,000 have yet to be registered but it is expected the job will be completed by next fall.

At first, the Indians did not take kindly to the idea of becoming licensed trappers. But lands department men convinced them that registering trapping grounds would be to their advantage.

Swedish King's Doctor Dies

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 12—(CP) Dr. Axel Munthe, 91, chief physician to King Gustav of Sweden, died Friday in a private palace suite, after a long illness.

Dr. Munthe was the author of the best-seller 20 years ago, "The Story of San Michele."

Dr. Munthe took his medical degree in Paris and after a distinguished and adventurous career in medicine, became physician to Queen Victoria of Sweden and subsequent Swedish royal families.

When he was 40 he wrote a book of memoirs, "Memories and Vagaries," published in 1897. In 1899 he published a second book, "Letters From a Mourning City," concerning Naples in the grip of a cholera epidemic.

Nearly 50 years ago he acquired and rebuilt a villa on the Isle of Capri, off the coast of Southern Italy. "The Story of San Michele" describing the building of the house on the site of Roman Imperial pleasure-haunts, is also a rambling biography. In it the author reminisces about celebrities he came in contact with, including French author Guy de Maupassant and Charcot, the spectacular French hypnotist.

The book, published in 1929, ran to 12 editions in a year and to 64 in less than 10 years. His success as a writer astounded him.

Finishes Testimony

After Keays finished his testimony yesterday, Judge Marion was called to testify on the 1940 shooting of John Miki and Provincial Constable Harold Dent. The Judge was Crown Attorney for Prescott and Russell Counties in 1940 when Miki was shot and killed by Sgt. Stringer after Miki had shot Dent.

Judge Marion said Keays had told him he believed Sgt. Stringers' version of the shooting was untrue. But the constable offered only "theorizing" and "inference" to back up his statements, the Judge said.

He had told Keays he was at liberty to testify at the coroner's inquest, but Keays had refused to testiffy unless he could expound these theories.

"I was satisfied and am still satisfied that Sgt. Stringer did his duty," said Judge Marion.

Keays, who changed his name from Soubliere during the war, has served 12 years on the Ontario Provincial Police and three in the RCMP.

Under cross-examination, he admitted he had married while in the RCMP, against police regulations, and was discharged from the force.

90 International Parleys Attended By Canada In 1948

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 (AP) — Canada's fast-growing importance in world-wide activities is emphasized in the annual report of the External Affairs Department. The report discloses that in 1948 this country sent delegations to 90 international conferences.

MARQUIS DIES—The Marquis of Londonderry, Britain's former Secretary of State for Air, who died at his home in County Down, Ireland, recently at the age of 70.

The report, prepared by Escott Reid, acting under-secretary, and tabled in the Commons by External Affairs Minister Pearson, is in effect a handbook on international affairs.

The department, organized immediately after the First World War, has grown to a staff of 216 officers of whom 116 serve abroad and 1,213 staff members of whom 640 are with foreign missions.

Canada now maintains diplomatic missions in 29 countries, 11 consular offices and four special missions abroad

The missions are with the United Nations at Lake Success, at the European office of the UN in Geneva, the military mission in Germany and the liaison mission in Japan.

Seven new foreign posts were established in 1948 but the report comments:

"No comparable expansion is contemplated during the coming year."

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 (CP). — Dr. Rodolphe Chevrier, 80, dean of Ottawa physicians and at one time medical consultant to the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, died suddenly at his home Friday night. Former medical adviser to the government's pension board, he served as a member of the Federal District Commission until his death.

INDIANS DON'T WANT IT

VANCOUVER—Attention those people who say "give the country back to the Indians." The Indians don't want it. Chief Andy Paull Friday scanned power shortages, Arctic temperatures, tons of snow and perhaps more coming. "This neck of the woods was okay when my ancestors rode herd," said the chief. "But ever since the white man took over things have gone from bad to worse."

Say Liberals See Writing On Wall

FORT WILLIAM, Feb. 12 (CP). —The Liberal Government has seen "the handwriting on the wall" as a result of the recent Progressive Conservative victory in the Nicolet-Yamaska by-election, Donald M. Fleming, Progressive Conservative MP for Toronto-Eglinton, said Friday night.

He told a party nominating convention here that it was "almost impossible" to exaggerate the importance of the by-election triumph.

"The Liberal defeat in Nicolet-Yamaska in the by-election of 1910 signalled the forthcoming defeat of the Liberal Party in Quebec and throughout Canada at the general election in 1911. It has done the same thing again and the Liberals know it.

"You never saw people so glum as were the Liberals in the House of Commons on Monday night when the returns from Nicolet-Yamaska were announced.

Urge Ontario Increase Livestock Herds

TORONTO, Feb. 12 — (CP) — Ontario farmers were urged Friday to increase production of livestock as a means of raising the North American living standard and as a form of food stockpiling for hemispheric defence.

Dr. Karl D. Butler of Washington, head of an educational organization for United States farmer co-operatives, told the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies that nations with large livestock herds have an automatic cushion between the people and the harvests.

"These herds simply represent stored food on the hoof If the need arises, a part of the capital stock in animals can be butchered, adding to the immediate food supply and, at the same time, grain which the livestock would have eaten is released for human consumption."

E. H. Buck of Paris was elected president. Other officers are: vice-presidents Ben Bleeker of Halloway, George W. Boyer, of Bracebridge; secretary, J. A. Carroll; treasurer, M. B. Cochran, Almonte.

In the women's division, Mrs. F. H. Henderson of Napanee was elected president, and Ina Hodgins of Carp and Mrs. W. A. Hume of Campbellford vice-presidents. Mrs. H. A. Dickenson, Mount Hope is sec.-treasurer.

Veterans Given Better Care Gregg Declares

COBOURG, Feb. 12—(ENS)—Much more had been done for the veterans of the last war than for those of the First World War, the Hon. Milton Gregg, minister of veterans' affairs, told a Liberal meeting here Friday night.

The work of his department in this last war had been a great social effort, to prepare the men and women coming out of war service for the civil life to follow. The veterans received a fervent and patriotic welcome when they came back after the first great war. There was the old Soldiers Settlement Board to help them and many were given training in shoe repair work, in fact so many became shoe repairers that there weren't enough shoes for them to repair. The immediate post-war feeling for the serviceman was warm but it was not long until the worship of the golden calf in the early twenties became the major obsession of the people until the crash of 1929. When that came, 90% of the unemployed veterans possessed no skills other than would equip them for pick and shovel jobs, the Hon. Mr. Gregg said,

It was a different story after the second great war, the speaker declared. As early as 1940 the federal government began to plan for the civil re-establishment of the service men and women so re-establishment structure would that by the time the war ended the re-establishment structure would be ready for use, and it was.

The government had also realized that the war had interrupted the plans of young men and women to seek university training or to learn trades and vocations. Accordingly the government decided that assistance should be given to the men and women when they came out of the service to carry out the plans which the war had halted. Fifty-five thousand obtained loans to learn professions, participated under the Veterans' Land Act or got established in businesses of their own. One hundred thousand benefited under the plan to help them in special fields of skill and 58,000 took university courses in a variety of professions. Pension increases were granted to badly disabled and also in cases of veterans allowances to those who were not in the badly disabled category, the speaker explained.

WILLING TO CONFER

VICTORIA — Premier Byron Johnson told the legislature the British Columbia government is "prepared to enter a dominion-provincial-municipal conference to work out a plan having as its objective the construction of low-rental housing projects." The premier said the government "has been deeply concerned with regard to the housing situation. . ."

4,000 Marooned By Snow New Cold Wave On Way

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—(AP)—More than 4,000 persons were marooned today by heavy snows in California and Idaho and a mass of cold air pushed southward from Canada over northwestern part of the country and moved into northeastern Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska and the Dakotas. It was expected to spread over Kansas, Minnesota and parts of Iowa and Illinois.

Temperatures dropped and winds up to 40 miles an hour and gusts up to 70 reblocked miles of the newly-snow-cleared highways and rail lines.

Below zero readings ranged from -17 at Lewiston, Mont., to -5 at Rapid City, S.D., as the cold front moved into the plains. Northern New England also reported sub-zero temperatures today, with a low of -14 at Caribou, Me.

Four thousand dam workers living in trailer homes in the Feather River Canyon near Quincy, Calif., were cut off by heavy snow. They expressed fear their homes would be washed away if warmer weather set in or rains flood the river. A snowslide halted rail travel between Quincy and Oroville.

The food shortage became more critical for the 500 persons in Stibnitz, Ida., a mining community which has been snowbound for more than a week. A plane planned to fly 4,700 pounds of food to the town today.

Hay-lift operations were halted in many sections of Nevada and ground travel in many parts of Wyoming was at a near-standstill. Planes are ferrying passengers from stalled trains to Denver and Salt Lake City. Rawlins, Wyo. was getting food supplies by air as all roads into the community remained blocked.

Truman Forces Issue In Steel Fight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—President Truman has demanded a showdown in the bitter fight raging between steel industry leaders and certain government officials and legislators.

Crux of the controversy is the question: "Is the steel industry expanding fast enough?"

Practically all the industry men reply "yes." Many say that production will catch up with the demand within two years. Their opponents say that present expansion programs are so inadequate that a continuing shortage of steel is in prospect and that it will present the nation's entire productive plant from reaching full capacity. More steel plants are needed, they add, for defence reasons.

Men in the anti-industry camp have even proposed that the government build steel plants if industry refuses to build fast enough.

The president in his message to Congress on the state of the union indicated he agreed that this should be done if it is true that more plants are needed than industry is willing to build. First, however, he proposed that congress "authorizes an immediate study of the adequacy of production facilities."

If it is found necessary, he continued, Congress should "authorize government loans for the expansion of production facilities." Congress, he went on, should "authorize the construction of such facilities if action by private industry fails to meet our needs."

The cry immediately arose throughout the steel world that such a proposal was socialistic and amounted to nationalization.

Steel Statistics

Here are the crucial statistics on American steel:

1. The steel industry, engaged in a massive post-war expansion program, says it now has the capacity to produce 96,120,930 net tons of raw steel annually, greater than ever before in war or peace. (The commerce department concurs in this figure.) Wartime peak capacity was 95,505,000 tons in 1944. Further expansion now planned is expected to 98,000,000 tons by 1950.

2. But the planned boost won't be enough, say the men on the other side of the question. C. Girard Davidson, assistant secretary of the interior, says steel production should be increased by 10,000,000 tons annually.

A present shortage of steel is generally admitted. Steel magazine, an industry publication, said in December that the steel shortage "gives every promise of continuing for months." Iron Age, a trade weekly, said "if steel is as short by the end of 1949 as it is now, there will be more fireworks over the capacity problem than the industry has seen yet."

Big steel makers predicted in the summer of 1947 that steel supply would catch up with the demand by the end of 1949. What they think now they have not revealed. Commerce department officials won't even guess publicly if supply is even within reaching distance of demand.

Steel men say that to increase the steel-making capacity faster than the present program will reduce, rather than increase, the immediate supply of steel. Their reason is that it would take a vast amount of steel to build the steel making plants. Also, they say, construction costs are now so high that to build more plants would make it necessary to raise steel prices again.

WMS Prize Won By Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Feb. 12 (ENS)—Accomplishments of mission workers in China was the worship theme at the February meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of St. Andrew's United church on Wednesday, with Mrs. Edmund Ball as hostess, and the president, Mrs. G. McQuade, presiding.

The supply committee was voted $5 for material and several pairs of socks knitted by Mrs. Seivewright were ready for shipment to China.

A summary of recent events in China was given by the hostess.

It was announced that the local Auxiliary had won the prize, Books for the Book Shelf, for holding the highest record in the Presbytery for individual reading of missionary books.

Secretary Mrs. F. P. Stinson reported more than $12 received in fees and donations at the January meeting. Mrs. R. Matchett gave the stewardship message, and Mrs. Ridge and Mrs. Seiveright reported for community friendship, a number of calls having been made on sick and shut-in members.

The meeting studied the work of a Chinese man who had written the gospel in simple form for Chinese mothers.

Mrs. Weston Fallis organized a quiz, and Mrs. Lawrence Winslow sang the prayer hymn accompanied by Miss E. L. Hetherington. The hostess, assisted by her niece, Miss Jean Burnham, and Mrs. D. L. Lunn, served tea. Group E was in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. J. Ridge will be hostess for the March meeting when Miss Gertrude Clarry, delegate to the Presbyterial, will give the resave a life.

Police Chief Makes Three Suggestions

Chief Constable John Thompson made three recommendations concerning improvement of traffic control in the city in his annual report to the Police Commission on Thursday.

As previously recommended, the chief asked that stop-and-go traffic lights be put on certain busy intersections in and near the business section. He stressed the immediate need of such lights at King and George Sts. and at Sherbrooke and George Sts.

His report also included a 1947 recommendation in which he asked that a bylaw be passed prohibiting cars pulling in to park on the left side of streets facing oncoming traffic.

"This has become a quite common practise and is a very dangerous one."

Another bylaw urged by the police head was one to prohibit vehicles from making "U" turns at any intersection where stop-and-go lights are in operation.

The commission, approving the report, has passed the suggestions on to the City Council.

Monaghan Township Pays More For Pupils

North Monaghan Township will be charged an additional five cents per pupil day for resident children attending city schools. The jump in rate from 50 to 55 cents was made by the Board of Education on Thursday night. The new rate will apply 53 pupils. Eleven kindergarten students are not included in the increase.

Unit cost for public school pupils in 1948 was 58.7 per pupil day, the annual report of the superintendent showed. It was pointed out that the Board was entitled to charge fees up to the limit of actual cost.

MARMORA, Feb. 12—(ENS)—Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Frank Sweet on Wednesday.

A letter from the Ontario president, with a circular from the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada appealing for used clothing for people in Europe was read and it was decided to have clothing left at the home of Mrs. H. W. Sabine. Mrs. Garth Sabine and Mrs. R. E. Neal were appointed to take responsibility for this project.

The meeting decided to provide food for a needy family.

The special committee which met the village council to discuss the proposed hall decoration scheme reported to the meeting. Members wanted a list of donors to the project to be published. A donation was reported having been received from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion.

A committee was appointed to arrange a square dance to be held in aid of the decoration fund.

The district president, Mrs. Clifford Clancy of Wellman's Corners, will be invited to the April meeting.

Miss Grace Warren presented a paper on "Hastings County, Past and Present." This was followed by a map drawing contest of Ontario and the Great Lakes, which was won by Mrs. Frank Bobyk.

Legal New Deal For British Army And RAF

By STUART UNDERHILL

LONDON, Feb. 12—(CP)—A legal "new deal" for the British Army and the R.A.F. is in the making, including the right of appeal from courts-martial findings.

A committee appointed by the war office in 1946 has recommended changes in the two services' legal procedures. Those not needing legislation for implementation already are in force while the others are being prepared for prsentation to Parliament.

The committee's six-point submission was:

1. Appeals should be permitted on points of law when courts-martial findings are returned against offenders who pleaded innocent.

2. Service trials ought to be speedier. Dispositions on oath and statutory declarations should be admitted. Findings should be unanimous; failing unanimity new trials should be in order.

3. Delay in bringing offenders to trial ought to be discouraged. Reports should be submitted every eight days on progress of cases against prisoners still under close arrest and waiting trial. It should be illegal to detain a man longer than 90 days without trial If untried then he should be discharged, ineligible for rearrest on the same count.

4. Sentences should be pronounced in open court.

5. The judge advocate general ought to attend to judicial matters only.

6. Punishment should be limited, six months for any one non-treasonable offence with an overriding maximum of 12 months for two or more offences.

The regulations are to apply to officers as well as to other ranks.

Marquess Dead

BELFAST, Feb. 12—(Reuters)—The Marquess of Londonderry, Britain's former secretary of state for air, died at his home, Mount Stewart Newtownwards, County Down, early today. He was 70. MR. AND MRS. JOHN FREEMAN

Sons, Daughters To Attend Freeman Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. John Freeman, 532 Patterson St., will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday. They expect their two daughters, two sons and their families to be with them for a quiet day. They were married in Charlotte Street Methodist Church and in 1912 puchased their present home. For the past several years Mr. Freeman has been employed with the city Board of Works and he plans to continue with them as he is in the best of health.

He was born on a farm east of Bobcaygeon in Harvey township and moved with his parents into the village when he was 10 years old. At reaching his majority he worked in the north country for some time and came back to Bobcaygeon to go into business for a few years. He later was in the hotel business at McCracken's Landing, Stony Lake.

It was here that he met, Mable McCracken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCracken and granddaughter of the original Hamilton McCracken who settled in Dummer township, from Northern Ireland. Mr. Freeman's grandparents also came from the same part of Ireland.

After their marriage they settled in Peterborough and although they have travelled away from home on trips, they still like their home life. They both agree that Peterborough is one of the finest places in which one could live.

Mr. Freeman used to be a member of the IOOF and they have been members of Trinity United Church for many years.

The Story of Family Security that Figures can't tell

A message from the more than fifty British, Canadian and United States life insurance companies in Canada and their agents

Why so many people own life insurance

More than any other type of financial protection, life insurance brings freedom from worry about the future. It offers the easiest, most dependable way to provide security for the family and income for old age. No wonder almost all of the nation's families are protected in this way!

The amount of new life insurance protection put in force by Canadians during 1948 was 1 billion, 500 million dollars.

Cheques that start a new life!

When life insurance payments are made to policyholders, countless dreams come true! These payments make it possible to set up a new business, travel, send a boy or girl to college, or retire. This is how most policyholders and their families benefit from their life insurance.

Living policyholders in Canada received life insurance payments totalling $115 million in 1948.

Homes are kept together

Imagine what life insurance payments mean to families that lose their breadwinners! Such payments mean that widows and children can be kept together, mortgages paid off, children kept at school. In many instances, life insurance is the only sizable asset left by many Canadians at death.

Last year, the life insurance companies paid out $75 million for death claim benefits.

• • •

In 1948 the life insurance companies and their agents faithfully served over four-and-one-half million policyholders in all walks of life, in every part of the nation.

It should be obvious to any person who examines the structure of life insurance operation in Canada that the whole range of its activities is conducted in the public interes.

Life Insurance Served You in These Ways Too!

Building for progress

Last year millions of dollars were invested for policyholders by life insurance companies. Result: new schools, roads, power plants, bridges, industrial plants and many other projects were constructed, promoting progress and creating jobs from coast to coast.

Aiding war against disease

By subscribing substantial sums to medical research projects last year, the life insurance companies continued to help science to fight cancer, tuberculosis, heart ailments and polio. These and similar projects were supported to help Canadians live longer, healthier lives!

U.K. Engineering Mission Report

Last autumn an engineering "Mission" sponsored by the British Board of Trade came to Canada for seven weeks. The Mission, which included six engineering industrialists and five other experts was headed by Mr. (now Sir) E. H. Gilpin. Its task was to find out if, how and where British capital equipment could be more extensively sold in Canada. The Mission's report has now been issued. Some of its findings are interesting to laymen. The Mission believes that Canada offers a solid and expanding long-term market for British engineering goods. "It is, however, a difficult market. The buying centres are far apart. The Canadian engineering industry is strong and versatile. The United States is a formidable competitor with whom it will need energy and skill to compete".

* * *

The British investigators considered, we think with long-headed perspicacity, that there are opportunities in Western Canada which should not be neglected. They noted that while the Canadian engineering industry is in certain directions capable of supplying the requirements of the domestic market, there are many gaps that have to be filled by imports, most of which now come from the U.S.A. The British industrial exporters are setting out to compete with the Americans in filling the gaps. They are also alert to developing new Canadian markets, which, unless our own industrialists look sharp, they may be able to get. They are seeking long-term business in a thorough, large way.

* * *

The Report of the Mission urges British industry to realize that "the Canadian is a discriminating buyer" and to supply him with equipment at least equal to that offered by other competitors, at the right price and on promised delivery times. "United Kingdom manufacturers must adapt themselves to Canadian requirements and specifications, which are mostly based upon United States technical and dimensional standards and 'eye-appeal'. The Americans have taught us to want "eye-appeal". The British must cater to that whim, but need not underestimate our even higher regard for solid worth which does not meet the eye. One of the more fruitful suggestions contained in the Report is that young Canadian engineers be invited to put in a term at U.K. engineering works as a form of post-graduate training. Engineers like other people are disposed to like, use and recommend what is familiar. Most Canadian engineers know American machinery; many of them do terms of duty in American plants. A term in Britain would certainly help the sale of British equipment in Canada.

* * *

The engineering Mission and its Report are further evidence that Britain is not down-and-out. She is very much on her toes, ready to take proper advantage where opening can be found. This is to Canada's advantage, for we cannot continue to sell Britain as much as we are doing or as much as we wish—especially of agricultural produce—unless Britain sells to us in exchange. Her market in Canada must be chiefly for manufactured products such as capital engineering equipment. It is a good sign for Canada as for Britain, that Canada, as reported earlier in the week, has displaced the U.S.A. as Britain's best customer.

"Derry Aughrim, Inniskillen And The Boyne"

Elections in Northern Ireland are the amazement of the democratic world; they are completely predictable. Wednesday's election followed the pattern of all elections since Northern Ireland has had a Parliament of its own, that is since 1920. This Parliament, made up of a Senate and a House of Commons of 52 members which sits in Belfast, is a separate unit from the U.K. Parliament to which the six Ulster counties send thirteen members. It is the watch-dog of Northern Ireland against Eire. The Government has been the same since 1920, although there have been two Prime Ministers, Sir James Craig (Lord Craigavon) and after his death, Sir Basil Brooke. It is the Government of the Unionist Party, whose policy has but one major clause: to preserve the existence of Northern Ireland as an integral part of the United Kingdom and to resist union with Southern Ireland. On this all elections are fought. The present year has been a good one for rallying Protestant voters to the cause, and concentrating their Roman Catholic opponents into the opposite camp, for this year Eire proclaimed its complete independence of Britain and the Empire, while still including the six northern counties as theoretical parts of the new Republic. So the voting was heavy and the campaign even more vigorous than the last.

The old slogans were paraded again: "No Surrender", "Not an Inch", "We Are The King's Men", "Derry Aughrim, Inniskillen and the Boyne". The last patriotic slogan refers to struggles between the North and the South since Cromwell's day, to struggles when the Nationalists were put down. Such electioneering seems anachronistic in these times of a British Labour Government and demands for social security. The Nationalists, who want union with Eire, kept their green flags low, and talked about improving Ulster's economic and social conditions. It did not avail against the Union Jack. Sir Basil Brooke was returned to power, as his party always will be so long as there is a Protestant majority in most of the six counties and so long as there is any threat of union with Eire. The voting was democratic, in an Irish sort of way — for friendly polling-booth attendants can look with a blind eye if the same person turns up to vote two or three times under different names.

It was also quiet, in an Irish fashion. Few heads were split. Most countries fight to rid themselves of external government. It is not so with Northern Ireland. That province will fight if Britain should even consider dropping it from the United Kingdom.

An Address From The Gallows

When Austin Craft was hanged in Kingston a few days ago he left a message which he meant to edify his fellowmen; prison authorities refused to release it for publication. It had been the intention of a Kingston preacher who had ministered to Craft during his last hours to read this message from his pulpit; indeed he had advertised this fact. But the message was suppressed, and we think rightly so.

In the days of public hangings it was quite the usual thing for the condemned man to address the crowd, and some felons postponed death for an hour or two with a prolonged speech. There were several kinds of gallows oratory: there was the Take Warning by Me style, which recommended itself warmly to preachers; there was the Short Life and a Merry One style, much favoured by highwaymen; there was the Prison Vision style, affected by criminals of a religious turn, who pretended to have had revelations in jail; and there was the Vindictive style, in which all the associates of the felon, and his lawyers and judges, were foundly abused (for if a man cannot speak his mind on the gallows, where can he?). But nowadays hangings are private affairs, and so far as we can learn the criminal rarely speaks at all.

Craft, however, was an unusual prisoner. In court he lectured and sermonized at great length about his life and the evils of his ways, and he apparently wished a posthumous message to be read to an audience. It was an interesting idea, but we think that the prison authorities were right to baulk it.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A building investigator says that if repairs had not been undertaken in time, the White House might have fallen on the Trumans. Well, if a house has to fall on you, it might as well be a good one.

A picture described as "a well-fed postwar baby" on a campaign leaflet of the British Labour party turned out to be a photograph of the young Duke of Kent, taken in 1935. The practical advantages of a constitutional monarchy, even to a radical party, are undeniable.

A social scientist says that one of the big problems of today is finding occupations for our leisure time. Perhaps some people are suffering in this way, but we are not among them; we are so far behind with all our leisure pursuits that the thought of all that piled-up fun is giving us a nervous breakdown.

We read of an Ottawa girl who spent five days in jail for buying and drinking beer; she was nineteen. Curious that the law which will not let her do this will permit her to marry any man she chooses, and to people the world with whatever may be the result of that match.

Diary Of A Peasant Revolutionary

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Felt tired and languid, and did not put my nose outside the door all day. This was shocking conduct, for I am assured by all the health fiends among my friends that there is nothing like fresh air to raise one's spirits. "All your little troubles shrink to their proper size when you take them out under the sky", one of these zealots loves to tell me. But I had no troubles, little or big, today. I was just weary, and I stayed indoors in a delicious hot fug from morn till eve, turning over the leaves of books, shuffling from room to room, poking the fire, eating and making nests of cushions for myself whenever I wanted them and having a thoroughly good time—the kind of time, I imagine, that a hibernating badger enjoys. There was plenty of air in my house, and much of it was fairly fresh; it was also deliciously warm.

MONDAY: Met a man today who had recently returned from France, where he had been living the life of Riley, eating in the finest restaurants, sitting in a box on the Second Tier at the Opera every second night, and causing taxis to drive beside him, carrying his parcels, as he strolled along the boulevards. All this grandeur is the result of the collapse of the franc, which may now be bought by the bushel for quite modest sums of English or Canadian currency. If only I were an entirely free man, what a life I would lead! I should skip from country to country, always going where the currency was cheapest, and I should live like a lord—or rather, the way lords lived in the eighteenth century. Living in Canada, though healthy, has never been cheap within my recollection, and although this is probably a good thing it keeps us with our noses to the grindstone to such a degree that a widespread delusion has grown up here that the grindstone constitutes the whole of life. Everybody ought to have one thorough money splurge in his lifetime, for the good of his soul.

* * *

TUESDAY: Pictures in the morning paper of two men who died yesterday, and I imagine that both pictures were taken twenty years ago; I deduce this from the collars, hair-dos and general freshness of the subjects. Should everyone have a picture taken every year, to avoid this sort of thing?.... Wandering in a bookshop today found "Sex and The Love Life" and "Blackstone's Tricks Everyone Can Do" side by side on one of the shelves; a strange, but not illogical grouping which I recommend to librarians....Chatted this evening to a man who is in the calendar business and who tells me that one mighty industry recently distributed several hundreds of thousands of calendars in which April was credited with 31 days. This is probably the result of a secret coup by the calendar reformers. I do not personally favour calendar reform as I am a friend to inconvenience and inconsistency, believing that the illogicality of our present calendar serves as a useful reminder of the capriciousness of fate and the mutability of all things. The calendar reformers just want to be cosy. A pox on cosiness!

WEDNESDAY: Saw the much-discussed film 'The Red Shoes" today, and was greatly pleased with it. But at heart I disagree with its theme, which is the old one that It is Worth While Giving Up A Career (However Fine) For Love. This is pernicious nonsense, for love quickly withers when great and prolonged sacrifices are demanded to maintain it. What is more, a man or woman who is capable of having a great career must go and have it, or he (or she) will become cranky and intolerable and markedly unloveable; bottled-up genius turns to vinegar, and then to vitriol, with remarkable alacrity. And what, pray, is love? In its first ecstasies it is all lollipops and rockets, no doubt, but as times goes on it changes its nature and becomes a very superior form of contentment. If a career has been sacrificed for it the contentment will never come, for in middle-age no amount of canoodling with another middle-aged person will make up for frustration. Boys and Girls, listen to the wise words of Uncle Marchbanks: if you are a genius (even a small one) don't let love drag you off the tracks; real love will probably permit you to be a genius as well. (Dorothy Dix please copy.)

THURSDAY: Had to appear today before a large audience of women. I sat on a platform, without any table in front of me, for more than an hour, while other people talked and the women stared mercilessly. Discovered that my socks were falling down and that my ankles looked like the legs of a Jacobean table. Problem: to pull up the socks, drawing attention to my plight and perhaps scandalizing the females with a lubricious peep of male leg, or to ignore the matter, pretending to be above such trifles? Tried to compromise (always a mistake) by plucking gently at my socks through my trouser legs. This merely hitched my trousers higher, giving the effect of knee breeches. Then tried to squirm in my seat in such a way that my trouser legs would descend to their proper level. Effect that of a dog with worms. Contemplated rushing off the stage to adjust my dress, but thought this might be misunderstood. Misery. The other men on the stage had perfectly fitting socks, and they regarded me with contempt. It is these small miseries, falling short of tragedy, which make life bitter....Shook hands with many women. Hands all clean and dry. More than can be said for any audience of men I have ever met.

FRIDAY: Watched some plasterers at work today. The journeymen were all as clean as a whistle, but the apprentice was so thick in plaster that he looked like the statue of the Commendatore in a cheap production of "Don Giovanni".

SATURDAY: I have nothing against the Government of Canada, except that it spends a lot of money, which I should like to retain for my own use. I think it would be a good plan if citizens could earmark their tax money for particular uses, as they are permitted to do when giving to the Community Chest. And it often occurs to me that there are not enough marks of the incendiary torch or the revolutionary bullet on our Houses of Parliament; our legislators have had too soft a time, through the years, and they are at ease in Zion. What the country needs is a first-class Peasant Revolt, and I sometimes think that I am just the peasant to lead it. Imagine us marching upon Ottawa from all parts of the country, with our fountain pens resolutely flung over our shoulders, crumpled tax-forms in our hands, and our eyes ablaze with the passion for freedom and lower taxes. We would be dispersed, of course, by the military, and in due course we would be chained to our desks again, but at least our masters would have found out that the spirit of manhood and the desire to spend our own money was not dead within us.

The Mysterious Doctor Carl Klodius

(By SEYMOUR FREIDIN IN MONTREAL STAR)

A POWERFULLY significant parallel between the methods employed by Nazi Germany to establish economic control over Eastern Europe and Soviet hegemony in the same area has emerged with Moscow's announcement of a Council for Economic Mutual Assistance.

Curiously, the architect of the Nazi system of economic penetration in Central and Eastern Europe may well be the brains behind Russia's similar link of controls which culminated in the latest project. This man is the mysterious Dr. Karl Klodius, Adolf Hitler's trouble-shooting trade expert for Southeastern Europe.

That he has had something to do with Russia's current tactics is the conviction of political exiles from Central and Eastern Europe and the opinion of many American observers who watched the Soviet development of control and exploitation of the Eastern European economies. If he himself has not mapped the strategy, it certainly follows his pattern of work for the Nazis.

Klodius has been in Moscow about four and one-half years. He was seized by Russian troops, and his arrest was acclaimed by Radio Moscow as the apprehension of one of the top and most dangerous of war criminals. Instead of being tried, he is said to have become an expert consultant to the Ministry of Foreign Trade.

* * *

Follows Nazi Pattern

IN essence, the publicly announced Soviet assistance council matches the network established for the Nazis by Klodius, who whipped around the Balkans with large staffs of "technicians" before and during the war. Until Germany began to lose the war, an appearance of Klodius in any one of a half-dozen capitals was the harbinger of a negotiated trade pact—negotiated in favour of Germany.

After the Russians forced the Czechoslovaks to repudiate their acceptance of the invitation to participate in Marshall plan talks in the summer of 1947 they began to build up a backlog of trade treaties and mutual-assistance pacts among their satellite countries —until the Cominform break wih Tito—strengthened those links with co-operative pledges among themselves.

Those pacts have since been reinvigorated, with pointed exclusion of Yugoslavia. But they are all significant in one highly important detail: Moscow has reaped a golden harvest by demanding and receiving bargains in commodities ranging from raw materials to heavy industrial goods and selling, in turn, at prices which have been higher than those prevalent in the world market.

The framework of such profitable enterprise was previously woven for Nazi Germany by Dr. Klodius's approach was basically simple, especially in the days when Hitler's armies occupied most of the key capitals in Europe. The agricultural and oil production of Central and Eastern Europe was the source of supply most coveted by the Nazis. Further industrial requirements not already assured by force of arms were acquired under trade terms by which Germany paid far less than value received.

In addition, Klodius always inserted long-range "exploration" terms in the trade pacts which provided for German exploitation of resources for lengthy or indefinite periods, as in his treaty with Romania for oil rights.

Exiled Eastern European political figures, many of whom had to deal with the Russians in trade matters after the war and some of whom had negotiated with Klodius before the war, have protested in the past about the similarity of Nazi and Soviet methods of economic control.

* * *

Privileged Guest

THEY said that after Klodius was trapped in Bucharest, he was whisked directly to Russia, where he has been a privileged guest as have other German technicians and scientists whose advice the Soviet Union has solicited.

The Soviet method of economic penetration in Romania and Hungary, it was pointed out, matched to a very striking degree the German controls in such occupied countries as France, Belgium and Yugoslavia. The Russians set up companies known as "fifty-fifty" concerns in Budapest and Bucharest which provided on paper for joint participation by Soviet representatives and delegates of the country concerned.

These companies covered the most vital economic phases of the countries concerned, such as air and rail communications, oil, coal, metals and shipping. Technically, the partner of Russia had equal rights. The catch, however, in the fifty-fifty agreements has been the prerogative of the Soviet secretary general to dispose of assets as he deems fit. Between each of the unsuccessful Austrian treaty talks the Russians attempted to negotiate fifty-fifty contracts in Vienna, but were rebuffed.

Klodius's trade agreements, which usually were accompanied by loud pronouncements from Berlin on the merits of the pacts and the mutual benefits accruing to the Reich and the other partner, have been similarly duplicated in treaties between Russia and her satellites.

And he said, It is a light thing that thou shouldest be m yservant to raise up the tribes of Jacob, and to restore the preserved of Israel: I will also give thee for a light of the Gentiles, that thou mayest be my salvation unto the end of the earth. And he came by the Spirit into the temple: and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him after the custom of the law, then took he him up in his arms, and blessed God, and said, Lord, now letest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word: for mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all people; a light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel. SAYS MINDSZENTY INVITED HIS FATE

Sir: If you will so permit, I would like to voice my opinion in regard to the Mindszenty trial.

It has always been understood that when a man assumes the role of preacher, whether the office be that of parish priest, or minister, cardinal or bishop, he is bound to refrain from party politics. His calling includes all people, regardless of race. When however, his interests becomes aroused to political prejudice and he acts as a-go-between or stool-pigeon, he must then abide by whatever fate the minds of destiny determine.

With PETE McGILLEN

THIS MILD WEATHER has even the ducks mixed up. Jim Thompson, bank manager, reports seeing a flock of 30 wild ducks heading north-east Wednesday evening. If they kept on they would cross Stony lake near Crowe's Landing. Without even considering superstition I'd take this as a sign of an early spring. The ducks were flying in a broken V with one leg of the V, about eight ducks longer than the other. This would be a good time for the conservationists to build some nests for the wood ducks. The nest boxes are mounted on cedar poles and the poles driven into the mud about 100 feet or more from shore in some quiet bay, where there are no summer cottages. In some sections, the men build such boxes and then erect them by chopping holes in the ice. If anyone wants complete specifications I can supply them. The wood duck appears to be increasing in number in this district, and a little additional protection, and provision for safe nesting would increase the number still more.

FOXES AND WOLVES seem to like this part of Ontario. Up in Victoria county they started to pay $5 bounty on foxes last November 20. To date 821 foxes have been killed and the bounties collected. That means the taxpayers have contributed $4,105. Bounty paying became fashionable in Peterborough county on January 1, and so far Mrs. Spurway has paid out 733, three dollar bounties. The fox pelts have been appearing on an average of 80 a week, and the reporting day is Thursday. Down in Northumberland, the Council introduced a bounty plan in November, at $2, but on January 15, this was raised to $3. Up to the latter date, 200 claims had come in, but now each township clerk has been empowered to pay the bounty money, so a complete check will not be available for some time. At Campbellford, the clerk of Seymour says more than 100 pelts have been reported to him, but so far he has not received any definite instructions on what to do. It looks as if about 2,000 foxes have been killed so far.

CITY PEOPLE are unaware of the damage wrought by these predators. One woman living on the road running east from Nassau into Douro township reports the loss of more than 30 chickens last Spring. Other reports from the townships of Otonabee and Smith, Harvey and Ennismore reveal losses ranging from several turkeys to entire flocks of ducks, and geese, which mean the red-furred marauders often tire of their usual diet of field mice. It could be that skunks, hawks and weasels make substantial contributions to this decimation of the poultry flocks. At any rate, with the great number of foxes in the district, a few more organized hunts should be undertaken. One area that should have at least ten of the animals is north of the Nassau road to Douro, about one mile east of the canal." Farmers in this section would be glad to see the hunters pay them a visit. It is likely that arrangements will be made for another hunt on Feb. 19.

BIRD HOUSE BUILDING competition will be sponsored again this year by the Fish and Game Protective Association. This worthwhile project was held a few years ago, and was a complete success. It not only serves the purpose of interesting boys in protecting the song birds, but is a curb against juvenile delinquency. During the first project, many fathers spent hours with their sons at work benches, teaching them how to construct these nesting units. The boys showed originality in their work, and interest was particularly keen in the rural schools. There are several classes, ranging from open type jobs for robins and classy miniature cottages for house wrens. The rules of the contest and all details have been circulated in all separate and public schools in the city and county. Complete information will be published later. Fred Goodfellow, who took such a keen interest in the competition before and who donated a cup for annual competition is chairman of the bird house building committee again this year. Several members of the executive are also on that committee.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

STRANGE THINGS happen in the realm of radio. During the last fox hunt signal men of the 50th Heavy A.A. Regiment were getting programs from somewhere in the States, on their walkie-talkies. These portable units are said to have an effective range of one mile and a half. Yet they brought in musical programs, and station calls from hundreds of miles away. It was funny to see a husky artilleryman slogging through the swamps in 15 inches of snow, with a rifleman beside him, and suddenly the man with the gun would start to dance to the music. The 19 sets, one of which was the central command post also carried the music, classical, popular and Hawaiian during the day. Either an army or police radio was also being picked up. The broadcasters, one with a pronounced southern accent would call "Love four Nan Able, come in, come in". Then another voice would call "Love four Nan Item, calling Love four Nan Able, can you hear me?". Then there was the third member on the air. His message was "Love four Nan Jake calling, Love Nan four Able". Apparently they were having trouble hearing each other, but the messages were clear way up in Canada.

ENGINEERS IN RADIO say this is known as a "kickback from the sky", and is due to cloud formations and weather conditions being of a certain character. During the hunt, Signal Sgt. Ed. Killingbeck, and Capt. Phil Sargeant called the Americans several times but could not make contact with them. The station obviously was "Love four Nan Able", and it could either be a traffic control post in one of the large cities, or on some part of the complex highway system in the States. It could have been an army set-up also, as the American forces use walk-talkie extensively. One voice reported "no traffic in this area", but that did not convey much information. If any of the outdoor writers happen to know where the southern circuit was located, the Peterborough Fish and Game would like to send them a detailed report on the hunt.

RANDOM CASTS: Dr. Alan Secord, Toronto, was handed a pheasant leg band a few days ago. The band carried the inscription "F and G, 1947". This means Fish and Game, released in 1947. The metal band was found in the stomach of a fox shot in Dufferin county near Brampton . Partridges are having a good winter, sleet has been scarce and snow conditions are not interfering with their feeding habits . Hunters report seeing quite a number of weasel tracks Evening grosbeaks are making their appearance locally. These yellow and black birds travel in flocks and feed on tree and bush buds. They are most often seen on the Manitoba maples, and are sometimes mistaken for robins . . The Pine Grosbeak will make his appearance later No report yet on the price of muskrats this year Fox hunting is supposed to end on February 28, but there should be a further announcement on that soon... Cardinals have been reported in the Ottawa valley this week.

HELLO SHRIMP: Just about the biggest and the smallest pets in the city are the property of Constable Redge McMillan, Wolsley St. "King" the Great Dane surveys with amusement two tiny Golden Hamsters which together would weigh less than one of his paws. The little rodents, still unusual in Canada, are kept as pets. Their main value has been for medical research. Highly susceptible to human diseases, the hamster breeds four times as fast as guinea pigs, and has been an important factor in tests.

Birds Choose Mates On Valentine's Day While Humans Mail Sentimental Blurbs

By C. H. IRESON

The origin of Valentine's Day is even more obscure than that of many of our customs which have come down to us through the centuries.

Saint Valentine, in the days of the Roman Empire was the name of a number of saints of whom the best known were two whose festival fell on February 14; the one a Roman priest, the other a bishop.

The association of this lovers' festival with Valentine seems to arise from the fact that the feast of the Saint falls in early spring. Both the saints mentioned are said to have been martyred on the same day, February 14, about 270 A.D.

The practice of sending Valentines on that day seems to be a survival by a very circuitous route, of the custom of Roman youth and maidens drawing lots to establish temporary companionship during a festival held at that time of year.

The observance of Valentine's Day is a very old one, and the original idea is clearly set forth in Bailey's Dictionary (1721) as follows: "Valentine—about this time of year in the month of February the birds choose their mates and thence probably arose the custom of young men and maidens sending special loving messages on this day". In very early days the recipients were evidently chosen by lot. In 1698 an account of the custom in England says that on St. Valentine's Day "an even number of maids and bachelors each write their names on a billet which they roll up and draw by lot, the men taking the maid's billets, and the maid the men's, so that each of the young men lights upon a girl that he calls his Valentine, and each of the girls upon a young man that she calls hers".

It was supposed that on this days the birds chose their mates, and that hence arose the notion tha the first unmarried person whom one met on Valentine's Day was destined wife or husband. A combination of both ideas is found in a verse of a poem by the poet Gay:

"Last Valentine the day when birds of kind
Their paramours with mutuals chirping find
The first I spied and the first swain we see
In spite of fortune shall our true love be."

As time went by young people discarded the idea of having their mates provided for them by chance, but began to choose their own and they sent to the chosen one a token which has developed into the modern Valentine. We find a reference to this in Peppys' Diary. On February 14, 1667, he wrote "to my wife's bedside came letter with Mercer to be her Valentine and brought her names writ upon blue paper very pretty" and on the same date he adds "I do observe the drawing of mottos as well as names—so that Pierce who draw my wife's did also draw a motto 'Most courteous and most fair'."

In the days of quill pens and costly postage, transmission of Valentines by mail was an expensive business, and many Valentines were of home manufacture, and delivered by hand. With the reduction of the postage rates and improved methods of production the Valentine came into its own—the Valentine by choice and not by chance.

The better type of Valentines of half a century ago, as one brings it to mind, was really dainty production. Often with lace and silk trimmings with little cupids flying around with bow and arrow transfixing loving hearts with some sentimental message.

As the other extreme were Valentines of a very objectionable type. To be bought for a penny they were long strips of common paper, on which caricatures and offensive personalities were drawn and crudely colored with a few lines of objectionable doggerel underneath.

These lampoons have died a deserved death "unhonored and unsung" and the majority of modern Valentines are artistic, and in good taste and obtaining an increasing popularity.

Man Who Developed Be-Bop Quiet Pianist In Harlem

By GEORGE TUCKER

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The spark that ignited the be-bop school of jazz music is a lonely and rarely seen pianist who lives in the San Juan Hill section of New York—a Negro tenement neighborhood in which all the dime novel plots you ever saw about the joys and sorrows of jazz musicians are continually going on.

This pianist's name is Thelonious Sphere Monk. Not for one minute does he consider himself eccentric. But:

He wears a thin and scraggy goatee because he hates razors. He wears blue berets because he hate hats. He is partial to green knit neckties, and he wears gorgeous spectacles of gold and silver whose ear-hooks are half-inch wide.

Jazz historians and critics are pretty well agreed that Thelonious is the true originator of be-bop. This form of music is an offshoot of swing with twitching rhythms and unmelodic harmonies which began to make itself felt 10 years ago and has grown into a recognizable movement only in the last two years.

Orrin Keepnews, a current jazz writer, credits Monk with being one of the very first to play this style.

Monk says flatly that he is the originator of the school. Such be-bop greats as Dizzy Gillespie, Charlie Parker and others say they gathered at Monk's feet 10 years ago to hear the new sounds as he worked out the chords in after-hour sessions in Minton's Playhouse in West Harlem.

They found Monk a man with great musical imagination, whose piano has been likened to the surrealism of Dali. In the little seven-by-eight-foot room where Monk broods and culls his mystical rhythms there is a photograph inscribed, "to Thelonious, my first and only inspiration—your boy Dizzy". Gillespie is a talented trumpeter whose band is billed "King of Be-bop."

Technically, be-bop is characterized by the accenting of passing notes, especially flatted fifths and ninths. It is a dissonant and staccato spasm, played at breakneck pace. As boogie-woogie went back to Bach, be-bop must have some kind of kinship with Stravinsky, for nearly all be-boppers are Stravinsky fans.

Aside from occasional professional appearances and in record outting sessions at blue note records, Thelonious is rarely seen. He was born in the same small shabby apartment on San Juan Hill where he lives today with his mother.

So peculiar in habit is this brooding musician he has been known to refuse jobs which were sorely needed, preferring to remain in the little room which some call the inner sanctum of be-bop.

This room is lighted by a single dim bulb. In addition to the scarred piano there is a single couch and a chair. Plastered to the ceiling is a photograph of Bill Holiday, Negro night clug singer.

Though Thelonious at 30 is heavy with inspiration, he doesn't work much at commercializing his wares—a circumstance that makes his mother unhappy.

His behavior at the piano is similar to his life— he broods and composes for two days and night without pause. He is as likely to eat four or five meals in a few hours and sleep for two days.

Men Deserting Families Closely Followed By Police

By HAZEL POULL

Skipping fathers—those fellows who get tired of family life and desert their wives and children, not only give their families trouble but they also keep the police on the go. A month rarely passes without someone being escorted back to Peterborough, invariably from Toronto.

Children's Aid superintendent Miss Rachael Young, who tries to help solve many of the problems arising from a man's desertion of wife and family, finds that in many cases the husband who plays truant is usually a man who entered marriage on too flimsy a basis and was not prepared to assume the position of head of a family. She recalls several instances of young men who were juvenile delinquents, marrying before they were able to conduct themselves as law abiding citizens and in those cases, the added responsibility of marriage invariably proved too much.

There are not as many instances now of husbands quitting their families without warning, Miss Young says. When husbands decide they no longer want to stay at home to help raise the children, they usually come to an agreement with their wives before setting off. Many of the cases of desertion today are instances of men quitting their normal place or residence in an attempt to evade regular maintenance payments.

If a woman wants to charge her husband with desertion, the law does not allow her to do so until he has been absent for two weeks City Police Chief Jack Thompson says that in nine cases out of ten the women are so happy to see their husbands again that they withdraw the charge of desertion when the police return the culprits.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C. says there are always some Peterborough men on the run from home, but there has been no noticeable increase. The police have been concentrating more on this work he says, and a great deal of time and money is spent in trying to re-unite runaway husbands with their families

Hamster Mother Protects Her Young By Hiding Them In Pouch Inside Cheek

By BOB BUCHANAN.

It's a funny-looking little creature, four or five inches long, weighing three ounces—if it's a big one. The scientific name for it—"mesocricetus auratus" — is just about as big as the tiny rodent which bears it. The golden hamster is an amazing and amusing little fellow whose attractions as a pet are overshadowed only by the unique qualities which nature has given it. Most prolific of all mammals, they are being used in increasing numbers for scientific research. Science or not, "cute" is the only word for the hamster.

Peterborough's only sizable colony is owned by Reg McMillan of Woisley St., an officer of the city police force. He has about 50 hamsters. They are kept as pets for the whole family, which includes four-year-old Mark and Carl, 11.

Mr. McMillan's hamsters live in the basement of his home, in about 30 separated pens. They are no problem to feed as their diet includes everything eatable except fatty meat and citrus fruits. Friendly to persons they know they are sensitive to strange noises. Natural show-offs, the "ham" of the hamsters emerges when they are brought up from their below-decks quarters to entertain the family and guests. Clinging to the fingers, the perky little creatures perform acrobatic feats with ease.

The present group of 50 all came from a single pair, which Mr. McMillan obtained about six months ago from the first person to bring them to the city from Alabama. With their marvellously short period to produce young (only 16 days), mating has to be strictly controlled—or the results might be a virtual flood of little hamsters.

"I'm afraid we'd have a cellar full if we didn't keep them separated," explained Mr. McMillan with a smile.

The hamster is an appealing little animal. There are many stories from the United States of difficulties in research laboratories where they are used It appears the problem develops when some soft-hearted technician cannot bring himself to the point of facing those shiny, chummy eyes with a dissecting knife poised.

It has a pink nose and bulging black eyes. Its fine pelt is silk-like in its touch. The skin is unusually pliant and ranges in color from golden tan in the summer to mahogany red in winter. When fully grown, the hamster is about five or six inches long. A monster of the tribe may weigh as much as four ounces.

They are used in the United States and England for laboratory experimental work, and they are being introduced slowly into Canadian research centres.

They are the answer to a medical researcher's dream. Having probably the most responsive constitution of all animals, their reactions in tests are more rapid and definite than other animals commonly used for lab work. Extensive work with them was first carried out in respiratory diseases tuberculosis, influenza and many others. Testing the effects of serums, drugs and diets are other uses.

Just how sensitive the hamster is to human ailments can be seen with Mr. McMillan's pets. Exhaling one's breath near them causes them to draw back. If you have a cold, treat the hamster with respect—he'll also catch it, if you merely breathe on him.

Not only are they susceptible to human ills, but they contract these diseases faster and in severer doses. Thousands of lives were saved by the American armed forces research on tropical diseases with hamsters during the recent war.

Dentists as well as doctors have found the hamster valuable. For instance, the effects of a diet deficiency will show up in their teeth within a few days.

Man knows very little about the origin and backgrounud of the hamster. The first pair apparently was brought to the United States in 1938, probably smuggled through Palestine from Syria, which is thought to be their native habitat. The first known record of the golden hamsters (the full name) dates from 1930, when a Hebrew zoologist dug up a litter near the Syrian city of Aleppo.

It is a night-living animal and the miniature inmates of the McMillan zoo spend most of the day sleeping on their cotton-batting nest floors. At night, allowed out of the pen, the hamster crawls with a slinking motion, its stomach dragging the ground like an underslung dachshund.

After making the little animal the prey of practically everything else on earth, nature balanced its timidity with a friendliness rarely matched by other creatures.

Hamsters are neat housekeepers, the McMillans have found. They adapt themselves easily to varying climatic conditions There is no animal odor with these ideal household pets. The main consideration with them is to avoid noises. Evidentally they haven't become accustomed to the change from the desert silence from which their ancestors came. A sudden noise throws them into a frenzy of fear.

They have two roomy shoulder pouches into which food is crammed when it is first given them. These pouches extend from the inside of the cheek to well down over the shoulders. A frightened mother of a new litter will grab her young in her mouth and hide them in her pouch. If she is not reassured immediately, the baby hamsters may suffocate.

The hamster 16-day reproduction cycle is about one-quarter the breeding time of guinea pigs and half that of rabbits. With the average litter running five to 11, and the average female capable of bearing six litters in a life span of two and a half years, the quantity assumes alarming numbers.

Because its popularity as a pet as well as the growing use in scientific work, it will take even this fast-familying little fellow a long time to over-produce himself.

Triple Links End Schedule With Victory Over Lindsay

Walloping the Lindsay Mustangs 11-2 at Civic Arena last night, the Triple Link OHA "B" puckists wound up their home schedule on the right note. They were just playing out the string as the game meant nothing, the Oddfellows opening their group semi-final playoffs in Oshawa on Monday. A slim crowd braved the cold to see a speedy clean, and one-sided tussle on fast ice.

Don Floyd led the snipers with four scoring points, while Ted Collins and Tommy Birch had three apiece. Crowley, Truss and Fryia were in on a pair each, and Bill Berwick also played a good game. The Lindsay boys battled back but they were weak in goal throuirhm and outclassed pretty well throughout. Jenkins, Lewis and Dysart turned in a good effort for the visitors. The score was 4-0 in the first frame and 7-1 going into the third.

Collins and Floyd cumbined for two in the first chukker, with Floyd getting another alone, and Crowley counting one from Truss. Penalties went to McPhee and J. Correlly of Lindsay, with Wyatt of the IOOF squad getting two, and Bill Berwick one. All were for minor offences, but the Weir team was shorthanded two players at one time with Lindsay unable to beat Byers for a counter. Birch got a pair in the second on passes from O'Heron and Anderson, as Truss got the other local marker from Fryia. Jenkins dented the hemp for Lindsay, aided by Lewis. Floyd, Birch, McPhee and O'Heron drew penalties.

The visitors fought hard in the speedy third chapter but were outscored 4-1. Fryia, Birch, Pagett and Wyatt counted for the homesters on nice work, with an assist each going to Crowley, Ball Berwick, Collins and Floyd. Jenkins notched one for the losers, with Lewis assisting. Fryia drew a pair of penalties and Wyatt one near the close.

Can't Keep 'Em Down

Basketball playoffs are nearing in the various categories. Marines "A" and "B" men cagers and the Towne Togs (lasses) will shortly be hitting the provincial path. Junior "B" and bantam PCI-ers end their schedules next week, but the junior "A" and senior boys have three more weeks of group games. Girls' results of last night should be in elsewhere. Two men's exhibitions at the YM tonight, starting at seven bells. First fray has Toronto Tulip AC against Marines "B", the Tulips being the only unbeaten "B" club in Toronto this semester. Then, East York Grads of the Toronto senior circuit play Marines "A", the locals having edged 'em once before 45-43.

Gord Young tells us there'll be a grid picture of the Calgary-Ottawa final shown at eight p.m. Tuesday in the "Y", followed by a meeting. Panthers Football Club borrowed the film from the CRU, and players, ex-players and others interested are invited for free. The meeting will be a general discussion of plans for next autumn as the big-shouldered boys have high hopes of fielding a winning ORFU club this year. They made a fair showing last fall but fell to Orillia Bombers, who in turn bowed to Cobourg, provincial champs.

City Baseball League, Peterborough Senior Club and other ball enthusiasts will meet shortly to line up a committee to make plans for the annual OBA convention here in April. The Ontario Baseball Association met here once before—on April 4, 1931—and last year was invited to hold the '49 convention in Peterborough. The COBL and Lakeshore League will be asked to send a large delegation up so this part of the province will be well represented. No need of worrying about the Niagara district, the Western Ontario section nor the Toronto and Hamilton areas—they always have plenty of delegates on deck. Bill Kay and Mayor Max Swanston are former local OBA men, and so is Jack Turner, now living in in Northern Ontario.

Wind Up With A Win

A large crowd stayed away from the OHA junior "B" game here last evening—finding it too frosty — as the Oddfellows wound up their home schedule with an 11-3 win o'er Lindsay. Racked up an early lead and kept battling the biscuit by the visitors' sub goalie, their regular netter hopping to the 'Caygeon intermediates. IOOF-ers looked good as they prime for their playoff tilt in Oshawa on Monday. Floyd led them at bat, with Collins and Birch next. We liked the work of Crowley all evening, while Truss, Fryia and Bill Berwick caught the eye with a neat chore. Byers was solid in the twine teepee. And, boyoboyoboy, wasn't it chilly down there!

Public school hockey playoffs are coming up next week. Senior semi-finalists, Confederation and Central, clash at 3.30 Monday aft in Civic Arena, D. Lawless refereeing. Winner goes against Prince of Wales there Wednesday afternoon for the title, D. Crawford refereeing. The final standing is in tonight for the senior setup. Juniors have their sudden-death semi-final and final the same days, right after the senior jousts, and the ice must be cleared by 5.30 each day. Haven't heard the names of the junior playoff teams yet. These loops had to cram a lot of tilts due to a mild January but the end of the trail is in sight now for the survivors.

Tigers Dump Dukes 4-2 Conick Wins Scoring Title

By The Canadian Press.

The revamped Hamilton Tigers caused a lot of trouble as they wound up the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A schedule last night.

Fleet Johnny Conick paced the Tigers to a 4-2 win over the Dukes in Toronto. It was a two-fold victory for Conick. His four points gave him the individual scoring title and squashed any hope pudgy Howie Harvey, Toronto netminder, had of winning the leading goaltender's award.

Instead, it gave Marcel Pelletier the Turofsky Trophy when his Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen downed the last-place Stratford Indians 2-1 in another Senior A game.

In the Junior A loop, the fifth-place St. Catharines Teepees defeated the last-place Galt Rockets 10-2, the second-place Barrie Flyers downed the seventh place Toronto Marlboros 5-2, and the fourth-place Oshawa Generals beat the sixth-place Guelph Biltmores 5-2.

Point Total 72

Conick ran his point total to 72 —consisting of 33 goals and 29 assists—and garnered the Moose Ecclestone Trophy. He tied the count 1-1 early in the second period and then assisted on three third period goals. Harvey needed a shutout to secure the Turofsky award. He finished up with a goal average of 2.74 a game for 38 games, while Pelletier has 2.70 for 40 games.

Other Hamilton scorers were Tom Smelle, Clare Shillington, and Brian Robertson. Johnny McLelland and Chuck Blair tallied for Toronto.

At Simcoe the battling Indians made the Dutchmen extend themselves all the way. Goals by Bill Curik and Art Herchenratter in the first period carried Kitchener through. The Indians tallied late in the third period when George Blake counted. The win left Kitchener in first place —four points ahead of Toronto.

St. Catharines went up 2-0 in the first period, made it 5-2 in the second, and outscored Galt 5-1 in the third period. Gerry Toppazzini paced the winners with four goals. Others went to Red Sullivan with two and Obie O'Brien, Bill Buschlen, Tom Buck and Bobby Knowles with one apiece. George Ford got two for Galt.

Congratulations are in order to Mrs. Vern Selkirk and her rink on the wonderful showing they made in the Ontario Ladies' Tankard. True, they did not win the Tankard, but they were runners-up and that is worthy of consideration. When you consider that there were 23 rinks from all parts of Ontario entered, and probably some of the best lady curlers in Ontario entered, our local ladies did well. They were defeated in the final game by Mrs. Code of High Park, Toronto. And once again we offer congratulations and say well done.

Larry Johnson of Winnipeg won the senior men's three mile race, only final of Friday's opening card in the Canadian Amateur speed skating championships at Saskatoon. The two-day meet started in sub-zero temperatures with a biting wind, as more than 75 skaters started competition with opening heats in four events plus the senior three mile.

Ralph (Bucky) Buchanan, 26, star right winger from the Quebec Senior Hockey League, will probably make his National Hockey League debut with New York Rangers Saturday night in Boston. Now with Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, he will play with the last-place Rangers for two games, Manager Frank Boucher said Friday.

At San Antonio, chunky Johnny Palmer shot a five-under-par 66 Friday to take the lead at the midway mark of the $10,000 Texas Open with a 36-hole total of 133. In second place was Dick Metz who laid down a 68 to go with his 66 of Thursday for 134. In third place was Chick Harbert with 136.

The three St. Louis Cardinals who jumped to the Mexican Baseball League would be welcomed if Commissioner A. B. Chandler lifts the five-year suspension on players who went south of the border. "We'd be glad to have the boys back," said Cardinal owner Fred M. Saigh, Jr. The three Cardinals who jumped to Mexico in May, 1946, are pitchers Max Lanier and Fred Martin and infielder Lou Klein.

Montreal Judge Wants Referees To Follow Rules

MONTREAL, Feb. 12—(CP)—A Montreal Superior Court Judge predicts that hockey will suffer the same fate as lacrosse unless President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League does a "about-face" and forces his referees to adhere to the rule book.

The jurist, Judge Joseph Archambault, while a rabid hockey fans at games here is a keen student of the game and can practically recite the entire rule book from memory:

"As long as Clarence Campbell is president of the National Hockey League I feel that the rules will not be adhered to according to the true interpretation of the rule book."

His honor recited the recent Toronto-Montreal game here when Kenny Reardon of the Canucks and Leafs' Bill Barilko collided near the boards resulting in Reardon receiving a shoulder separation.

"It was a clear case of board-"But Barilko was not penalized by referee George Gravel."

His Honor who said he was a little 'bewildered" by the officiating of "Campbell's referees, said he talked over the Reardon incident with Mr. Campbell following the game.

"Mr. Campbell said that it was Reardon's own fault."

His Lordship was a star performer at the turn of the century when he played with Laval University.

"Campbell is forced to yield to the demands of the hockey club owners in giving the American fans blood and thunder," he said. "But they miss the fine points of the game."

The judge said that the game could be brought under control by three simple changes in the present system.

1. Revive the two-man refereeing system.
2. Place both linesmen at each blueline off the ice.
3. Adhere strictly to the rules.

Marmora Gets 8-5 Win Over Frankford

MARMORA, Feb. 12—(ENS)—Before a crowd of 1,050, a third of which comprised supporters of the visiting team, Bata-Frankford went down to defeat at the hands of Marmora in the latter's last home league fixture on Friday by the score of 8-5.

A unique feature of this fast, clean game was the fact that the three penalties for minor infringements came in the first period. Marmora had the best of the argument in the first and second periods but the visitors asserted themselves in the third to lower the margin against them, Schmidt being prominent and getting two unassisted goals. Both goalies brought off magnificent saves and a high pitch of excitement marked the whole encounter.

The teams:

Bata-Frankford—Goal, Davis; defence, Schmidt, Aquino; centre, Cooke; wings, Rankin, McKee; alternates, R. Mason, H. Mason, Desjardine, Forster, Hood, Howard, Courtney, Heidman, Farmer.

Marmora—Goal, Borland; defence, G. Leonard, E. Leonard; centre, Cousins; wings, Lavender, K. Trumble; alternates, E. Trumble, McInroy, Goodchild, Kerr, Nicholson, Brooks.

Referee—W. M. Bowen, Trenton; T. Cousins, Deloro.

Summary:

Marmora — (McInroy (E. Trumble) 13.20.

Bata - Frankford — Rankin (Schmidt) 13.50.

Penalties—Cooke, Kerr, Forster.

Second Period:

Marmora — G. Leonard (E. Leonard 2.10.

Two Favorites For Lady Byng Hockey Trophy

By BERT ALLEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Two amazing men will be throwing checks at each other when the league-leading Detroit Red Wings invade Maple Leaf Gardens for a clash with Toronto Maple Leafs tonight.

Amazing, that is, in these days of slam-bang, helter-skelter hockey prevalent in the National League. Real "gentlemen" in all sense of the word are Detroit's Bill Quackenbush and Toronto's Harry Watson. Each has yet to draw a penalty with three-quarters of the schedule completed.

That the Lady Byng trophy for sportsmanlike play will go to one of these two is almost a lead-pipe cinch.

For Quackenbush, a defenceman, going 46 games with his spotless record still intact is indeed a remarkable feat. No defenceman has ever won the Lady Byng.

On top of his clean play, Quackenbush is the leading scorer among the NHL defencemen with six goals and 12 assists. He figures to take down $1,000 for making the All-Star team, and another $1,000 for the Lady Byng, if he makes the grade.

Watson's record is nearly as impressive. He is eighth in the scoring race with 19 goals and 16 assists. His 19 markers are only one less than the leaders, Sid Abel of Detroit and Chicago's Jim Conacher, have chalked up.

Aviation History Has Many Weird, Wild Inventions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12. —(AP).—Airport visitors at Hagerstown, Md., are startled by a scrawny frame sporting two half-cylinders which hikes down the runway, hops into the air and lands.

The machine, called a "channel wing,' was devised by Willard R. Custer, an automobile mechanic who took up aeronautics after seeing a barn unroofed in a storm. Custer wanted to know how the wind exerted such force. Twenty years, a lot of work and some $200,000 have been invested in the answer.

Custer's plane is the oddest of the season, but is not particularly freakish in the background of aviation history. Many inventors' ideas appear to have resulted from being hit by a barn roof.

There was, for example, the persistent person who proposed that a powerful magnet be hung in front of the airplane to draw it forward. Just asking, "What's going to move the magnet, Mister?" doesn't discourage such people.

One of the strangest of all aircraft was the "Cygnet," brainchild of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone. This was a "tetrahedral kite," resembling a billboard in size and shape.

You can make a tetrahedron by folding a square of paper with two opposite points together. Bell mounted 3,393 such double triangles made of silk over wood frames in the Cygnet.

The 42-foot kite flew in 1907 while being towed behind the little steamer Blue Hill on the Bras d'Or Lakes near Baddeck, N.S., the Bell summer home. With Lieut. Thomas Selfridge at the controls, the kite rose about 170 feet. However, smoke from the Blue Hill hid the plane and it was dragged apart when Selfridge landed unknown to the steamer captain.

Built Bigger One

Bell, who assembled and financed a small group known as "Aerial Experiment Association," built a still larger kite in which an engine was to be mounted. The project was not completed.

Every heavier-than-aair craft, whether jet fighter, mammoth flying boat or helicopter, uses the principles of flight developed by the Wright brothers for their "Kittyhawk." Some, like the channel wing, vary the application, but only those which use the Wright principles have flown so far.

An Italian idea in aircraft was related to the Custer channel wing, but had its propeller completely encircled. The goal was to increase propeller thrust.

The opposite extreme was the Gallandet D-4, test flown by the United States Navy at Pensacola, Fla., in 1917. Its propeller encircled the fuselage. Both types flew.

Many ideas, such as the magnet attractor, are completely false conceptions. One such was the proposal to have an electrical discharge from the tail, propelling the plane by "electric repulsion." Many proposals are or the use of electric power. Where to get this power usually is left to the next guy to figure out.

A sample of he fantastic ideas for defying the law of gravity is a proposal for the plane with holes in the cabin floor through which compressed air would be expelled, while a large belt with corresponding holes revolved about the cabin. By doing everything just right, the inventor said, the plane would ride on the node of a standing sound wave. You take it from there.

Pep Keeps Title In Savage Brawl

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 — (CP) —Willie Pep still has it. Battle-worn and weary with 11 stitches in cuts around both eyes, Wee Willie again holds the feather-weight boxing championship of the world after a four-month lapse. Sandy Saddler, the spindle-legged Harlem slasher who dethroned Pep on a fourth-round knockout October 29, yielded to the ex-champ in a savage 15-round brawl last night at Madison Square Garden.

No man in modern fight history ever recaptured the undisputed 126-pound crown after he lost it, before Pep did the trick.

Johnston had a beef about the work of Referee Eddie Joseph, who, along with the two judges, made the verdict unanimous. Charlie thought Joseph gave Saddler all the worst of it in the clinches Once, in the second round, Joseph was unable to break the fighters. When he did, Pep stepped on Sandy's foot It was that kind of a brawl, no quarter given nor asked.

The fight was fairly close, but the Associated Press card had it 9-6 in favor of Pep. Referee Joseph scored it 10-5, Judge Harold Barnes had it 9-5 with one even, and Judge Jack O'Sullivan voted 9-6 for Pep to make it unanimous.

TCS Gets $100,000 Arena In Memory of Campbell

By The Canadian Press.

A $100,000 hockey arena on the campus of Trinity College School at Port Hope, will perpetuate the memory of Peter Campbell, Toronto sportsman and business executive who died last fall.

The steel and red brick structure, to be known as The Peter Campbell Memorial Arena, is the gift of George McCullagh of Toronto, publisher of the Globe and Mail and the Evening Telegram. The donation was announced on Friday night at Toronto.

Announcement of the donation was made by Headmaster P. A. C. Ketchum at the annual dinner of the TCS Old Boys' Association Mr. Ketchum further revealed that the arena, to be equipped with an artificial ice plant, would be available to school and town leagues in Port Hope.

First to hear the great news were the 250 students at TCS. They were assembled in the school gym at noon Friday and told of the project by "the head." The walls of the big gym echoed and re-choed to the acclaim of the pupils when a senior prefect called for three cheers for the donor.

TCS has been without an indoor rink since the disastrous school fire of 1928. Since then the school has played all its senior games in the Port Hope arena with interhouse matches played on open rinks on the campus.

In making the official announcement Mr. Ketchum said that tenders would be called for almost immediately, and that it was hoped to have the building ready by next fall.

Present plans call for an ice surface 180 by 80 feet with seating accommodation for approximately 1,000. There will probably be standing room for another 500 spectators.

Attended TCS

Peter Campbell attended Trinity College School from 1903 to 1909, and in later years was one of the school's most enthusiastic supporters.

While at TCS he captained both football and hockey teams, and in 1908 led the former to the first "Little Big Four" title in the school's history. His interest and sterling devotion to his old school never diminished.

He served TCS as a governor and shortly before his death gave generously of his own limited material wealth to a memorial campaign to raise a quarter of a million dollars.

Jolliffe Denies Using Influence

TORONTO, Feb. 12 (CP) — Opposition Leader E. B. Jolliffe told the Ontario Legislature Friday that at no time did he take any steps or speak to any person to avoid being charged with speeding.

Mr. Jolliffe referred to newspaper reports of a Royal Commission sitting at Belleville to hear charges of miscarriages of justice made by Ontario Police Constable J. E. Keays against several of his superiors.

Constable Keays quoted Corporal Sam Ervine of having advised a provincial police constable not to prefer speeding charges against Jolliffe because "Jolliffe might get elected." Keays said that when Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan was asked for advice, Mr. Donnan said: "Don't charge Jolliffe, he's a good friend of George Drew."

Mr. Jolliffe told the legislative body that when he was stopped for speeding, he asked that the summons be sent to his Toronto office. He heard no more of the summons.

St. Peter's Victors

HASTINGS, Feb. 12 (ENS)—St. Peter's midget hockey team of Peterborough trimmed the Hastings midgets by a score of 8 to 2 in Hastings Recreational Centre on Friday evening.

Close To Agreement

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (CP) —J. C. Van Essche of Belgium, vice-chairman of the International Wheat Conference, indicated Friday that exporters and importers are close to agreement on prices. He declined to say definitely whether the thorny issue is definitely settled. But, with obvious enthusiasm, he told a press conference that the 56-country committee of-the-whole will meet Monday to consider the text of the proposed world pact.

Blind Skier Enjoys Sports

KITCHENER, Feb. 12 (CP). — Peter Lipnicki of Kitchener, believed to be Canada's only blind skier, says sports are a "must" for the sightless.

The 25-year-old piano tuner and rooming house operator has added skiing to his other sports achievements, which include tobogganning, ice and roller skating, bicycling and track.

"A blind person has a lot more difficulty getting around if he does not take up sports," Peter said. "They develop his balance and give him a measure of confidence."

Lipnicki, who suffered an eye injury at the age of four and was totally blind at 11, developed his balance while learning to ride a bicycle. His younger brother rode on the handlebar and gave directions, calling "one" to turn right and "two" to swerve left.

While tobogganning with his wife Alberta this winter, Peter stood up on the sled and right then decided to learn to ski.

Sticking to the gentler slopes for a start, Peter climbs them to judge distance. On the downgrade, he lets his poles drag lightly to help him avoid falls.

One day—each week,

The Boy

who delivers

your Examiner

calls to collect

He has so many customers he can't afford to give credit for he must pay for his papers on fixed dates and counts on his collections to make his payments. Your courteous carrier boy assumes a financial burden he cannot afford to carry when you ask him to wait for his money. He collects on the same day each week — you know which day — and when he has to "call again" to collect from you, delivery of his whole route is delayed on several days. Have the money ready for the boy the day he collects—the correct change, if convenient. Help him to meet his financial obligations promptly, and to make delivery on time every day.

The Statement You helped to make . . .

You may be one of the 16,000 who made use of the services of The Grey & Bruce Trust & Savings Company in 1948. If so, this simplified statement is a record of what we have accomplished together. Money received has been put to work for the good of all and due care has been taken for its safety. Children's saving plans have been successfully carried on in the schools of Owen Sound and Peterborough in order to teach our children the value of saving. Over $2,950,000.00 is loaned to home owners in Peterborough and so we repeat this is your statement. The Company's progress is a reflection of the progress of the community.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

The president, Mr. G. D. Fleming, in addressing the shareholders, paid warm tribute to the memory of the late Mr. W. S. Middlebro', K.C., former president of the Company, who passed away on November 17, 1948. To fill the balance of Mr. Middlebro's term as director, Mr. F. G. MacKay, K.C. of Owen Sound, has joined the board.

The president pointed out that the Company serves two of the finest sections of Ontario—the Peterborough district and the Grey, Bruce and Simcoe area.

"These districts have diversified economies of agriculture, commerce, shipping and manufacturing and give an excellent field for Trust Company operations. Our location for operation is good, our diversification is good, and the opportunities of the Grey and Bruce Trust and Savings are good. The communities we serve are not boom and bust communities and the growth of the Company can go along safely and surely with the growth of these areas.

The Grey and Bruce Trust is now 60 years old and no new stock has been issued since 1926. Due to the increased growth of the Company and the many requests from present shareholders and customers, the Directors are asking approval of issue 7,106 shares of capital stock which will increase the capital to $900,000.

In 1948 the thrifty people have entrusted $11,989,618 to the Company on which they receive 2% on savings and 3% on time deposits. $5,183,080. of this money has been invested in mortgages the balance in bonds and securities. Our Estates Department now has over $3,480,050 of assets under administration. Since 1926 the total assets under administration has grown from $1,306,763. to $16,355,433. This growth has not been easy. There were the sad days of the 30's, the unrelenting demand for money for the war effort, the sale and purchase of many millions of victory bonds. The Company still has over $3,000,000.in these victory bonds which helped greatly at the time of the country's need and it now gives top security to the Company's depositors and shareholders and liquidity in case of any unforeseen demands.

"Your Company is in a very strong position. It has fulfilled its trusts to its depositors, customers, borrowers and in spite of the increase of cost in doing business, shows an increase in profits after taxes over last year."

Mr. Fleming suggested that the shareholders use all of the services of their own Company and expressed the thanks of the Directors to a fine loyal staff and its 16,000 customers.

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

In seconding the motion for the adoption of the Annual Report, I would like to say that the continued success of our Company has been due to a sound, progressive policy which we have adhered to through the years and to a group of loyal officers and employees who have efficiently handled the business of the Company in a courteous and friendly manner.

The net profits for the year after providing for interest on deposits, guaranteed investments, management expenses, etc., are $88,498.19. This has been appropriated as follows; dividends $38,129.00, government taxes other than real estate, $10,034.55, depreciation on building and fixtures $7,501.42. We have transferred to reserves $32,833.22. We are pleased to again report an increase in our deposits and guaranteed investments of $1,943,862. The total funds in this section are now $11,948,971. Of this amount, $6,484,749 are funds received on deposit. We have in cash, bonds and securities $6,130,918. Dominion of Canada, provincial and municipal bonds and cash amount to $5,500,000.

We have been conservative in our investing and have followed the practice of diversification not only in the selecting of bonds and securities but also in choosing first mortgages. I may say that the time deposits, or guaranteed investment funds, supply the greater portion of our mortgage money. We, therefore, have $5,464,222. in this section and have loaned on mortgages to the extent of $5,138,524. This does not include additional mortgages in our capital account.

You will be interested to know that our mortgages are distributed in the following districts:

Owen Sound Area	$ 816,342
Barrie	561,112
Toronto	386,447
Oakville	225,966
Peterborough	2,214,220
Belleville Area	311,302
Other Districts	667,398
	$5,182,787

The average loan is slightly less than $3,000.00 and while our Company is not allowed to build houses we have endeavoured to assist in loaning on new homes wherever possible. I would like to assure you that our loaning policy has been conservative under prevailing prices. We believe that the peak in property values has passed and that we have to prepare for a moderate decline in values during the next five or ten years.

The total Estates and Trust in our care is $3,480,054, an increase of $396,066. This increase has taken place after making distribution of over $1,000,000.

You may remember that a year ago we started a Penny Savings plan in the schools in Owen Sound and Peterborough. You will be interested to know that there are 5,000 depositors in Owen Sound and Peterborough with a total on deposit of $35,000. About 50% of the children attending public school are taking advantage of Penny Savings. I may say that this Penny Savings system does not pay the Company from the dollars and cents view point but one thing is certain, many of these children are getting their first education in thrift through The Grey and Bruce Penny Savings Plan. We are constantly reminded, by the parents of the children, of its value and its service to the community.

May I suggest to the shareholders that they have a real opportunity as ambassadors of goodwill to further develop the business of their Company. Our Officers and Staff welcome your suggestions at any time. With your co-operation we shall go forward together. I have much pleasure in seconding the adoption of the Financial Statement and Annual Report for the year 1948.

Up front seats are provided for 16 lawyers, eight on each side. Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret occupies the centre chair beneath the coat of arms when the court is in session.

City's Education Costs Increase Steadily—Report

Cost of educating the city's children has increased nearly 10 per cent in one year. A breakdown of the unit expenditures in the annual report of Schools Superintendent K. S. Wightman details the advance in the pre-pupil rate in Peterborough. In the public schools, in 1948, it cost $113.27 a pupil to operate the schools. This is $11.67 higher than the 1947 figure and more than $25 higher than the cost in 1945.

Expressed in cost per pupil day, the 1948 figure is 58.7 cents compared with 52.3 cents in 1947.

Of the $113.27 in 1948, $79.60 was raised by municipal taxes.

In the Academic section of P.C.V.S., the unit cost for the year was $176.80, an increase over 1947 when it was $170.91. Share of this paid by the city taxpayers was $123.49 in 1948. The year's increase, to 91 cents a pupil day, represents a three cent increase.

Total costs per pupil was heaviest in the Vocational section of P.C.V.S. It amounted to $317.65. Of this, $118.66 came from municipal taxes. Pupil-day cost in the city—public and P.C.V.S.—amounted to $621,102.28 in the year. Provincial grants in 1948 were $100,241.27, more than 8,000 higher than the previous year. Since 1944—when the total grants were $15,849.90—aid from the province has increased steadily.

Superintendent Wightman commented that the increases were to be expected "at a time of general increase of prices."

Salaries Big Factor

"Unit costs can be easily misinterpreted if one does not take into account all the factors which influence them. They are affected by attendance. They depend on the number of pupils per teacher and go down as that number is increased, and up as it is lessened. Salary change effect them strongly since salaries make up nearly 80 per cent of the total cost."

"They are merely a convenient method of showing comparative costs, and do not afford any estimate of the efficiency of the school system even in a financial sense. A determined effort to bring them down without regard to the needs of the schools would, of course, have a very marked effect on efficiency."

"Crowd the classrooms, neglect the buildings, curtail the purchase of supplies and equipment, and cost will drop; at the same time every dollar spent will bring smaller returns in educational results. Fortunately there appears to be no demand for that kind of false economy."

"A business firm can, at the end of the year, by balancing one column of figures against another show the exact profit or loss. No such definite measurement of progress can be made in reporting on a school system. Results are more often potential than immediate and only time will show the quality of the product."

"It is believed that there is ample evidence that the schools of Peterborough have had a healthy growth during the year. All the problem have not been solved, nor have all the desired results been achieved. Perfection still eludes us and it is well that it should for the mere illusion of that state brings a fatal stagnation.

Dollar Saving In Newfoundland

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 — (CP) — Canada's dollar - conservation measures, which block the outflow of United States dollars by prohibiting imports from U.S. dollar areas, will go into effect in Newfoundland when the island becomes the 10th province.

This provision is expected to be contained in the government's "omnibus" bill, a measure to extend existing Federal laws to Newfoundland, when it comes up for discussion in the Commons today.

Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons Thursday that Canada's Foreign-Exchange Control Board already operates in Newfoundland and that U.S. dollar exchange entering that country always has been available to Canada through the close inter-locking of the Canadian and Newfoundland banking systems.

Canada has provided Newfoundland with its requirements of U.S. dollars.

Extension of the import control to the new province will ensure that there is no "loop-hole" through which Canadian importers will be able to bring in banned American-made goods.

Goldwyn Gets Battle Stars

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12 (AP)—Seasoned observers weren't surprised at Sam Goldwyn's recent tirades against Teresa Wright and Eric Johnston. They just added two more battle stars to the producer's long combat record.

Goldwyn fired actress Wright and resigned from the Producers' Association, whose head, Eric Johnson, then commented: "good." That set Sam off. He unleashed a rebuke accusing Johnston of using the association for his own publicity.

Independent

Goldwyn offers a refreshing note in a town too often marked by staid official announcements. Fiercely independent, he's not afraid to tangle with anyone.

Soon after he merged his interests into the new Metro-Goldyn-Mayer, he left the big firm to retain his independence. Nothing makes him madder than the mistaken notion that he still has connections with M-G-M, one of the big studios he has often condemned.

In his long battle history, we find Sam resigning from the producer's group the first time in 1933, accusing one of its members, Jack Warner, of "bootlegging talent."

In 1936, Goldwyn himself was the object of a $5,000,000 suit by Paramount for allegedly snatching away Gary Cooper. It was settled by a friendly agreement.

Veteran Who Led Hotel Squatters Now Helping Truck It Away

VANCOUVER, Feb. 12 (CP)—Bob McEwen, 240-pound veteran, who sparked the squatters, invasion of the Old Hotel Vancouver three years ago, is back at the scene of his campaign helping to tear down the huge structure.

Now he is president of a trucking company, hauling away bathtubs and other weighty bricabrac to be sold as salvage.

With his English war bride he lived on the hotel's 10th floor for eight months and their daughter was born there, but the Seaforth Highlanders' veteran has no regrets. "The old place needed to be torn down," he said.

When McEwen returned from overseas there were 7,000 veterans' families in Canada in need of homes and he was one of them.

He expressed his displeasure with housing conditions by pegging a tent on Vancouver's court house lawn. With three other veterans he kindled a fire and remained for a day.

On Jan. 26, 1946, he led 36 veterans to the Old Vancouver, just vacated by the army, arranged for food and beds to be brought in. Soon there was 1,200 in the building. These have all been cared for in new veterans' housing developments.

McEwen is credited also with organizing the "Bring Our Brides Home Association," and with getting three additional ships added to the war bride run.

Things are better now. The McEwens live in a four-room bungalow. His trucking company has three dump trucks and two flat-deck trucks, and he is vice-president of the Independent Truck Owners' Association.

"I've got such a reputation for stirring up trouble," he says, "maybe I'd better stay quiet and let somebody else tilt at the windmills for a while."

MILLION-DOLLAR COURT HOUSE—With legislation to abolish appeals to Britain's Privy Council forecast in the Speech from the Throne, Canada's Supreme Court, 74 years old this spring, may finally live up to its name. Secret Jet Tests

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton Friday night announced satisfactory completion of first-test runs of a jet engine which may be used as the power unit for the RCAF's new long-range secret jet fighter. Defence Department officers described the engine as "the largest known to have reached a comparable stage of development in North America."

Hundreds Serve To Reduce Accidents

TORONTO, Feb. 12 — Mr. L. H. Ingram, of The Quaker Oats Co. of Canada Limited, Peterborough, in his report as president of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, points out that in addition to the paid staff of the organization there are about 700 industrialists from the company presidents down who are giving freely of their time and effort in the work of the associations and serving on committees of the various class safety associations and divisions. Mr. Ingram says that this voluntary army is doing a job for industry which could not be measured in actual dollars and cents.

This is most impressive, and Mr. Ingram goes on to remind industry that these 700 persons receive no remuneration other than the satisfaction derived in being identified with this effort to better industrial conditions.

Manvers Wants Road Taken Over

BETHANY, Feb. 12—(ENS)—Manvers Twp., is asking the support of Ops Twp. in a request that Victoria County and the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham take over the boundary road between the two townships as a County road.

The motion was precipitated by the attendance at the regular meeting of the Council of a deputation of ratepayers from the northern part of the municipality. Besides the taking over of the road by the County the deputation asked for better snow plowing service.

Accounts were received from Hydro Electric Power Commission for Hall and Street Lights, School Sections No. 4-12 and 15 for school money, and claims for sheep killed.

Mrs. Carr Organizes Husband's Defence

TORONTO, Feb. 12 (CP) — Mrs. Sam Carr who reached Toronto today from New York, said she planned to start organizing her husband's defence against charges that he is a Russian agent.

A tiny dark woman with self-assurance and ready wit, she said she was going to arrange for counsel for her husband, but had not yet decided whom to retain.

On the train trip to Toronto from Prescott, where she entered Canada after travelling from New York, she exchanged light banter with reporters and photographers. Meanwhile, her husband was being booked in an Ottawa police station on a charge of conspiracy to utter forged documents.

Reporters asked her about her future plans should her husband be convicted. She replied:

"I am sure he is not guilty of the charge."

To Stand Trial In Holdup Case

OSHAWA, Feb. 12—Harry L. Francis, Toronto, Friday was committed for trial by Magistrate F. S. Ebbs on a charge of attempted robbery, Frank Kennedy, also of Toronto, was acquitted after both men had elected trial by a higher court on a joint charge of attempting to rob a drugstore at Brooklin on the night of Jan. 10.

William McBain, proprietor of the store, said he was just closing up when two men rattled the door. He opened it and a man, whom he identified as Francis, asked him for a package of cigarettes.

Both men eased their way into the store past him and one of them snarled at him "keep your mouth shut, not a word out of you." The men had their hands in their pockets.

"With that I went out the door like a shot,' the witness said. He got as far as the curb and turned to see the men driving away in an automobile.

On Jan. 17, McBain said he went to Toronto to attend a police lineup at headquarters. He was able to identify Francis. He denied that he mistakenly picked a Toronto policeman out of the line.

A. W. S. Greer, defense counsel for Kennedy, asked immediate dismissal of the charge against his client on the grounds there had been no identification. Magistrate Ebbs concurred. Bail for Francis was set at $4,000.

Daley Scolds Plant, Strikers

TORONTO, Feb. 12 (CP) — Labor Minister Daley said Friday both parties concerned in the United Textile Workers (AFL) wages strike at Penman's Mills, Paris, Ont., "seem determined to battle it out to the finish." There was nothing more the Labor Department could do, he said.

Mr. Daley spoke in answer to a question by Opposition Leader E. B. Jolliffe.

A 45-member delegation of strikers Friday asked Premier Kennedy to withdraw from Paris a provincial police detachment sent to the town to keep order at the strike scene.

The Premier replied that the provincial police would be withdrawn as soon as the town council, which asked that the police be sent to Paris, requested the withdrawal.

The Premier said the government would do all in its power to settle the strike. He expressed hope that the Company would see its way clear to accept Labor Minister Daley's invitation to enter into strike settlement talks. The Union said it was willing to negotiate a settlement but the company made its acceptance conditional upon a return to work by the more than 200 strikers.

Man Worthy Of His Hire Is Ideal Of Good Work

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Why stand ye here all the day idle? Because no man hath hired us.—St. Matthew 20:5.

"He that hath ears to hear let him hear" is a command frequently uttered by the Master. What does it mean? The hearing ear implies is that you have not only the faculty of hearing but the desire to understand what the speaker says. The Master is uttering this parable to the people of the soil, "the common people who heard Him gladly." They listened and nodded their heads in approval when they heard the biting words "because no man hath hired us." They marvelled at the fact that all should be paid the same. They understood the complaint "we have bourne the heat and burden of the day. They went away wondering what it meant.

The depression after the First War is still in the minds of many when multitudes cried, "No man hath hired us." As you think of those days of depression its repetition lies in the background of our minds. It should be our daily prayer that God may raise up wise and able men to guide our leaders of industries that no man may utter this awful cry, "No man hath hired us."

There are two sides of looking at work. The pay or wages is the uppermost thought in most minds. They say that the laborer is worthy of his hire and he needs bread to satisfy hunger. "In the sweat of thy brow thou shalt eat thy bread" is not a curse but a blessing. You have to earn your bread by the toil of hand or brain

Are you truly thankful that you have work to do and do you perform your work thoroughly and well in the sight of God? An employer of labor remarked: "There were only two laborers in this village; I have one and my brother the other." What did he mean? These two men did not need a foreman over them. They did their work because they desired to be just and upright in all their dealings. Herein lies the nobility of work, whether hand or brain.

Let us meditate upon the key thought of this parable. The Master paid all the workers the same wage, not because they earned it, but because they were willing to work. What do you put into your work? A stone mason working on a cathedral gave the proper answer: "I am not looking for the closing hour; nor for my wages I receive. I am building a cathedral." He had discovered the ideal of labor that honest work, hand or brain, will last beyond the life of the worker.

This writer never passes the garbage cleaners of a city without waving his hand in salutation. The work of such men keeps our families from plague and disease. The black death was caused by the filth and refuse left in the streets to rot.

You may have steady employment and looking forward to a well-earned pension in your declining days. Yet your heart should be burdened with horror of unemployment for multitudes. You may see no solution, but you recognize that unemployment means rotting of character.

A man who had worked his way into a profession by long hours of toil told his old friend that his son now had a good job, fine wages and short working hours, adding that his son would not have to work as hard as he had. His friend replied: "Tom, you are by God's grace a man of stirling character, partly due to those long hours of toil. You will have to pray still more earnestly that your son may be able to face the temptations from idle hours and a good salary."

It is the hope of this writer that the words, "No man hath hired us," will sink into your heart and cause you to lift up your mind in prayer that God may not again send us this terrible unemployment.

Whoso is wise will ponder these things: saith the Lord.

Bible's Ideal For Housewife Followed By British Women

By NORMAN CRIBBENS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Feb. 12—(CP)—Doctors, after making a study of tired housewives, have concluded that the ideal housewife described in the last chapter of Proverbs can still be found.

The Book of Proverbs describes the "virtuous woman whose price is "far above rubies."

Sixty-one housewives between 26 and 64 were included in the survey. Their husbands belonged to an income group of £5 ($20) a week or less and most of them had young children at home.

Dr. Stella Instone in her report on the survey, published in a British medical journal, The Lancet, discussed housewifely qualities unuder these headings:

Husband: "The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her She will do him good and not evil all the days of her life." Most of the housewives said their marriages were happy but qualified the statement with such remarks as "apart from arguments," "on the whole" and "mustn't grumble."

Sewing and mending: "She seeketh wool and flax and worketh willingly with her hands." Twenty-one women said they had "no leisure at all." Of the remainder most were free for an hour or two in the afternoon or evening, but even then they were "often occupied with sewing, mending or knitting."

"Food From Afar

Queuing: "She is like the merchant-ships, she bringeth her food from afar." All women interviewed complained of having to queue for food, sometimes for as long as an hour.

Feeding the family: "She riseth while it is yet night and giveth meat to her household." Many women said they gave up their own rations to the family, and prepared meals at all hours.

Clothes: "She maketh herself covering of tapestry; her clothing is silk and purple." Most housewives were tidily dressed and clean.

Children: Her children arise up and call her blessed." Children of 12 to 15 were the most helpful to their mothers. Those who had left school and were going to work were generally reluctant to help.

Personal character: "Strength and honour are her clothing." Dr. Instone said despite their "preoccupied and sometimes bewildered looks," many women had a "certain dignity of their own." Some radiated contentment and good health and invariably the homes they made were happy homes.

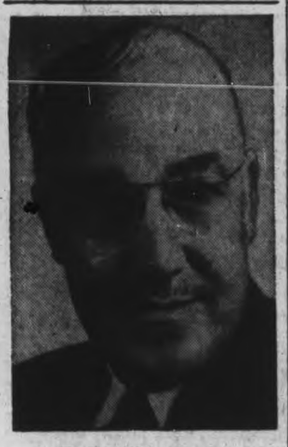
Brig. Macdonald Dies

MONTREAL, Feb. 12. (CP) — Brig. Nicholl Bennett MacDonald, 44, who supervised the arrival overseas of the first Canadian contingent in the last war, died in hospital here Friday after a lengthy illness. In 1942 he was appointed deputy quarter master general at National Defence Headquarters in Ottawa with the rank of brigadier.



S. H. YOUNG, Toronto is chairman of the Ontario Division of the Red Cross. This organization will open its annual drive for funds on Feb. 28 and the provincial quota is two million dollars. The objective for Canada is five millions.

Appropriate $2,000 Inspector's Salary

Appropiation of $2,000 for an assistant plumbing inspector is included in the requisition of A. G. Metheral's department which was passed by the welfare committee of the council at $4,203.

It was reported that Mr. A. W. Archibald could no longer continue as part-time assistant.

The appropriation last year was $3,004, and payments $3,050. The allowance for an assistant was proposed at $800, but was increased by $1200 in the expection that competent help might be attracted. One prospect was casually mentioned, but with four years in the trade he was said to be receiving a wage of $1.75 an hour, and was not interested in the city's secondary job.

Four Wolves Shot South Of Rice Lake Pack Of 10 Reported In That District

ROSENEATH, Feb. 12 (ENS) —Four wolves, one of them weighing more than 45 pounds have been shot in the western section of Alnwick Township in the past week. Hunters from Alderville including Stewart, Eugene and Steve Smoke have taken part. The 45-pounder was shot on Thursday.

First reports were that the brute weighed "about 100 pounds" and for some hours, it was on exhibition near Centenary Church. Estimates of the weight, which were based on the unusual size of the wolf, took a drop after the weighing. The hide was purchased by Ambrose Atkinson, near Warkworth.

A pack of about 10 wolves have been roaming the township recently, farmers have reported, and hunters are scouring the district for more trophies.

To X-Ray 25,000 In Peterborough Starting Apr. 25

Plans for X-raying 25,000 in Peterborough were discussed by the County Tuberculosis Association this week at the city hall. Alex Miller of the Ontario Department of Health said Peterborough, Belleville and Ottawa were the only cities in the province that had not been "mass X-rayed". They are on the program for 1949.

The Peterborough survey will begin on the industrial front April 25. It is expected that two weeks will be occupied with the 10,800 employees of the cities industries.

Next on the list will be the secondary schools, and finally the public. Rural Peterborough is not being left out of the scope of this survey. Mr. Chas. H. Elliott said today that between 5,000 and 10,000 people from the county will be examined with the 25,000 that are estimated for the city.

The public generally has been thoroughly impressed with the value of the X-ray in the expanding campaign against T.B., and there is no longer a trace of objection to the examination. There were a few hold-outs, because they did not understand the value of this service, at is inception some years ago, but response today in unanimous.

Constable Appears Car Thieves Flee

Vigilance on the part of PC Andre Dalton early today is believed to have prevented the theft of a car parked at the rear of the Brock Street Summer Gardens.

Constable Dalton had just finished checking the office of Dr. Arthur Johnson on Brock St. at about 4:30 a.m. when he saw two men run across the road, apparently coming from the laneway between the Summer Gardens and the Robb and Hendren garage. They jumped into a car parked on the north side of Brock St. approximately 50 yards west of the Orange Hall, and the car was driven away, west on Brock.

The dark-colored vehicle, believed to be a 1938-39 sedan, reached Aylmer St. before the constable reached the Summer Gardens. It was driven without any lights being turned on.

After turning in an alarm he went back to the laneway to investigate. Three cars were parked at the rear of the Summer Gardens; two of them locked, but the right door of the third was open.

The wires had been pulled away from the ignition. Apparently the intention had been to join them and thus start the car. Other wiring was found on the floor of the vehicle.

Police were informed by the owner of the car that he had parked it there at 10 p.m. on Friday night and that the doors had not been locked.

The two men who ran from the constable were described as of medium build and dressed in dark clothes.

Finds Option On Site For Memorial Centre Recalls Delays Have Cost Taxpayers Money

Ed Riley recently came upon the option given by Percy Edwards for the sale of the Hunter St.-Driscoll Terrace corner for the Memorial Centre site for $10,000.

"'Herbert Bradburn and I called on Mr. Edwards on behalf of the Centre committee," Mr. Riley recalled. "He agreed to give the city the option for 60 days. Then we called on Reg Faryon at the Quaker Oats about the rest of that property at the east end of the bridge, on the north side of Hunter St. The company owned the bulk of it, and the committee had a notion that Quaker Oats might make a gift of the land He told us he couldn't give an immediate answer, but would let us know in a few days. Before the week was out, we received the word that Quaker was giving us their land."

The interest and potence which attached temporarily to the scrap of paper are departed and almost forgotten.

That of course was the time of opportunity for the Memorial Centre. Fred Scates expands the recollection of that period in the deliberate delay of the Centre project.

"'Jim Hamilton was Mayor, and I was at some meeting at which he was drawing a picture of what the east side of the river at Hunter S. was going to present when the Centre was finished. The terrace was going to be converted into a rock garden, and the lower level would be graded and rolled for softball and other athletics.

"Remembering what the place looked like then, and the extent of the work involved, I thought the Mayor was dreaming impossibilities, but the Quaker Oats Company has demonstrated that it could be done. They have made a wonderful change over there, and it is easy now to imagine what the Community Centre would look like standing above the terrace and its rock garden."

The incident merely emphasizes a peculiar perversity that has booted the Community Centre project around vacant acres for nearly four years. And it is still being pushed about. And every push may cost more money according to the intimations that the Burnham St. site now being considered, across the street from the Edwards corner, may run up a realty bill of $35,000.

Youth Fired From 18 Jobs In Three Months Told Father Was Being Unfairly Treated

It is an actual happening, according to W. H. Mellis of the unemployment insurance office, that one youth got 18 jobs in three months through that office.

The case was mentioned at the meeting of the welfare committee Thursday and was verified on enquiry today.

"This young fellow's father complained that we weren't giving the boy a square deal," Mr. Mellis said. "So, I turned up the files, showed the dad what we had done, and asked him who was getting a square deal the boy or the office. He was running around late at night and couldn't get up in time in the morning to get on the job. He was fired at one place after another.

The father asked me if we wouldn't give his son another chance. We go him back in one of the plants. The father was supposed to keep an eye on the bed time of the boy, but in three or four weeks he was fired again. That's the last I've heard of him."

2nd Donation Sent UEFB Providing Food For Britain

Today, Treasurer J. L. Thompson of the Peterborough and District Branch of the United Emergency Fund forwarded the second donation to go from the local committee's efforts of assistance for the people of the British Isles.

This time the amount was $700 and represents the objective of the moment to bring the amount sent to-date up to the $2,000 mark. Except in special instances, donations will be forwarded as each reach the $1,000 mark.

During the war days, gifts from the British War Victims' Fund were forwarded to the Lord Mayor of London as each reached the £500 mark, and the total amount forwarded to headquarters of the UEFB since operations began in mid December last, totalling $2,016, represent almost exactly, one of these units at the present rate of exchange.

Quite a large portion of this latest donation resulted from the payment of pledges made at the CHEX Radio Show, a number of which still remain unredeemnd, in addition to which the amount was added to by Dr. H. V. Dobson, Dr. E. A. Hammond, G. Norman Monorief of R. R. 3, Ed Riley, Fred G. Mann, Norm. Elliott, L. H. Bearne, Mrs. E. Lush and Miss L. Udy.

The Committee would appreciate very much the redemption of the still oustanding pledges from the Radio Show, every dollar has its value in providing goods for food parcels, which can do so much good to the recipients, whose present ration is below what experts agree is sufficient to maintain a normal standard of health.

On February 24, a tea to be held under the Auspicies of the Women's Progressive Conservative Assiciation at the residence of Mrs. Jas. Juby on Boswell Ave, is to be made an occasion to assist this local Fund.

Donations will be gratefully received at any Bank, or may be forwarded to the Chairman of the local committee, Fred G. Mann, at 199 London Street, City.

RESIGNS POST—Provincial Constable John Rogers has resigned from the staff of District 8, headquarters. Constable Rogers served at one time with the Peterborough city police, with the Provost staff overseas as a commissioned officer, and returned to the Provincial police shortly after being demobilized. Member of a well-known Peterborough family, which gave its name to Rogers Street, he is now Central Ontario representative for Molson's Ontario Ltd.

BABY BORN IN TAXI

Every day there's something new in the life of a taxi driver. At 3.30 a.m. today Gord Brooks of Capitol Taxi made a hurry-up call to the home of of a Peterborough resident. But he didn't realize just how "hurry-up" it was. The lady was having a race with the stork. Gord first went to Civic Hospital but there was no room, so he turned around and headed for St. Joseph's. But swift though he was, the stork was swifter. By the time he got to St. Joseph's a baby girl had been born in the back seat of the car. Mother and daughter are doing fine, thank you.

Gets Grand Slam

William Lang, 7 Conger St., fanned out a grand slam hand in no trump in a bridge game at his home Friday night. He gazed at a spread of four aces, four kings, three queens and two jacks.

The queens were diamonds, hearts and spades, and the jacks were diamonds and hearts. They were all face cards, not a number in the glittering handful. It was simply a matter of picking them up and laying them down.

Mr. Lang and his son Mr. Carl were partners, with their wives as opponents.

Half-Million Dollar Job At Outboard Marine To Consolidate Operations

Construction may be begun next week on the $500,000 addition to the plant of Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company, Monaghan Road, which was announced to the employees this week as an imminent project.

Mr. C. B. Neal, vice-president and general manager, informed the Examiner today that the contract was let Friday afternoon to Richard and B. A. Ryan Contractors Ltd., Toronto.

"Work is to be started immediately," Mr. Neal said. "They may get under way Monday. At any rate, the contract was let for winter conditions, and we hope to have the new building finished by September."

The big addition will be 400 ft. by 150 ft., "and will be tied on to the east end of the main building of the factory".

Details of construction are: poured concrete floor and walls, steel frame, and monitor type roof. One monitor, 60 feet wide, will extend down the centre of the roof the full length of the building.

Glass Walls

The walls will be 3½ feet of concrete, and will be continued entirely in glass the rest of the way to the top.

"This spread of glass will flood the building with light," Mr. Neal said. "On the east and south sides we are using a special blue colored glass to reduce the natural glare of the sunlight."

"The purpose of this enlargement of our plant is to consolidate all our production under one roof. It will relieve present overcrowding, give everybody more room, and will require a new layout of our existing equipment with some additional equipment that will have to be installed. The machine department will be moved to and laid out in the new building."

Announcement of the plans of Outboard Marine & Manufacturing was made to the employees last Tuesday by Mr. Neal in the course of a general report from management to staff on the company's intentions, hopes and prospects.

He also explained the method of financing the new construction, by issuing ten-year debentures for the investment of approximately half a million dollars.

Mr. Neal also confirmed today the company's intension of expanding its office space by 8,000 sq. ft.

The work on the office will not be started until the factory is completed. The office is to be extended into the present factory building, and we obviously have to wait until that space becomes available when plant adjustments have been made in the new accomodation."

The interesting news from Outboard Marine & Manufacturing Co. will be gratefully received throughout the city as the latest substantial evidence of the confidence of local industry in the future of Peterborough and of this country. It is the first major announcement of manufacturing expansion since the Canadian General Electricity Company let the contract for their big machine shop extension, now advancing to completion. And it is as timely and cheerful and stimulating as the first robin's promise of approaching spring.

As reported Tuesday, Outboard Marine has made vigorous growth in the last ten years. The number of its employees has increased in that decade from 160 to 775 with a present payroll of more than $1,750,000.

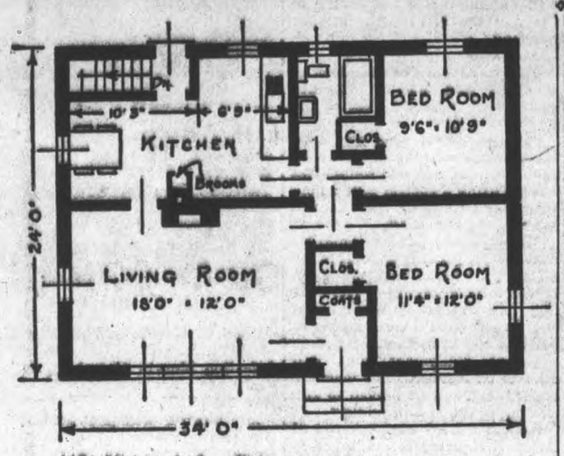
PRACTICAL PLANS FOR THE HOME YOU WANT AND HOW TO PLAN IT



HOUSE No. 119.—This splendid little economy home was built recently in the Mount Royal section of Calgary, Alberta. The floor plan deserves your close attention. See how the kitchen and dining area have been blended. There is very little waste space in this house! Halls have been reduced to a minimum. The placement of the bathroom is good, providing privacy and easy access from the bedrooms, as well as from kitchen or living room. For further information, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Spliced Rafters Do Not Give Rigidity To The New Roof

Roof framing is practically identical in both frame and brick homes. The rafters should always be in one piece, not spliced, and for rigidity, the lower ends should rest on the wall plate and be spiked wherever possible to the ceiling joists. The main small dormers, 2" x 4". The ridge board is a 1" x 6" or a 2" x rafters should be 2" x 6", for 8' depending on the type of roof. Rafters with more than a 12-foot span are supported in the centre by a partition called a knee wall or Purlin partition. Cross-braces should be used on every other rafter to prevent sagging roof ridges or spreading. Wherever an "L" occurs in the roof, a 2" x 8" valley or hip rafter should be inserted at that point as a nailing support for the rafter ends and to support the roof.

After the roof framing is completed it is usually entirely covered with a sheathing of 1" x 8" boards if the roof is to be shingled with asphalt shingles. This sheathing should be laid crossways of the rafters at a 90 degree angle to the rafters. The best building practice calls for making butt joints directly over the rafters and nailing them into each rafter with two nails.

Lay Sheeting Tight.

In case asphalt shingles are the final covering, the roof sheathing is laid reasonably tight but not too tight or the roof will buckle. When wood shingles are used the sheathing boards should be spaced one and one-and-one-quarter inch apart. This allows for roof ventilation and prevents the wood shingles from rotting prematurely. The importance of using good shingles, whether asphalt or wood, cannot be discounted. In the case of asphalt shingles, a thick butt double-cover, 210-pound or heavier strip shingle made by a dependable, nationally known manufacturer is suitable. These shingles are always laid over an asphal saturated felt for added precaution against leakage. At the eaves a double course of wood shingles should be laid to protect the starting course of asphalt shingles. When it is wood shingles you wish used in your home, you should specify a good grade of clear vertical grain red cedar shingle. They are the best wood shingles obtainable and can be stained to any color desired. However, staining is not necessary as it adds nothing to the life of the shingle. Perhaps the most annoying thing in a home, old or new, is a leaking roof; and also likely to be one of the most costly. Be sure you have a roof on your home that will require the minimum of maintenance expenditure. A good roof will often last 20 to 30 years without further expense.

Before the outside covering of your home is applied, whether your choice is wood, asbestos shingle, brick or stone, a sheet of building paper is securely nailed to the sheathing. This should be done to protect the home against the penetration of moisture and for wind breakage. There are many grades of building paper on the market which the builder can use. However, this is definitely a case where quality pays big dividends and price should be made secondary, particularly when the small cost gives so much added protection.

Sentiment Back In Style For Valentines

By Canadian Press

It isn't the price tag, it's sentiment—and from coast to coast you can buy valentine sentiment for five cents.

For those of you who step up to the card counter and splurge on frills and red satin for the girl of your dreams, the tickets may run as high as $2.50. Nevertheless, a cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press reveals that sentiment is back in style.

The return of sentimentality has practically banished the sour, sarcastic card—the penny lemon that junior used to slip, unsigned, on teacher's desk. Gone too are the tricky, mechanical gadgets, the pasteboard dog with rolling eyes and waging tail.

But when it comes to prices, the Canadian husband looks to the price tag for a guide—sales clerks report that men pay more for their wives' cards than women pay for cards to their spouses.

Flowers, candy and gifts enter the picture as well. Ottawa reports a rush for heart-shaped boxes of chocolates. Violets are hard to get in Montreal, but interest in Saint John, N.B., is high in spring flowers and in red roses and carnations.

Variations of the traditional idea are springing up in various areas.

Senator Picks June 27 As Date For New Election

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 (CP).—Say you were Prime Minister of Canada and had to decide the date of the next general election, what would you do? For one thing you might do as Senator John Thomas Haig did.

The 71-year-old Senator says he envisioned himself in the Prime Minister's shoes and out popped the answer—June 27.

That's the date he's betting Prime Minister St. Laurent will pull the election trigger—and the Senator is standing by his guns. This, he believes, will be one of the shortest sessions in Canadian history.

He's sure it's June, as he says: "I don't think the Liberals will want George Drew and his accomplished life to campaign up and down the country till next October."

By March 31, he believes the government will have obtained approval of certain vital legislation. A luscious budget full of tax cuts will come down early in April. Its passage, says the Senator, will take about three weeks.

Other legislation will be dropped, he thinks and this will leave roughly 60 days between dissolution of Parliament and preparation of electoral machinery. Therefore to have it on the last Monday in June, the House must dissolve April 27.

That gives Senator Haig his date. What's yours?

Abbott Outlines Gold Selling Rules

OTTAWA, Feb. 12 (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott said in the Commons Friday Canadian gold producers are not allowed to sell newly-mined gold at a premium for industrial or professional uses.

Harry Jackman (PC-Toronto Rosedale) had asked if this right would be extended Canadians, in view of reports that the International Monetary Fund had approved this practice in South Africa. The report said South African gold was to be sold at a $6.50 premium over the set price of $35 an ounce.

Mr. Abbott read a statement from the fund saying it believes South Africa should not engage in the proposed plan unless effective measures are taken to ensure the gold involved will be used for bona fide industrial, professional or artistic purposes.

Must Pay $36,966

OTTAWA, Feb. 12. (CP) — Mr. Justice E. R. Angers of the Exchequer Court ordered the Federal government Friday to pay $36,966 to Florian Gravel of Bromptonville, Que., for injuries he suffered in 1946 when shot in the shoulder by a Canadian soldier. Gravel was hit by a bullet fired by Reginald Morin. The shooting occurred during a hunt for an escaped German prisoner of war.

Dutch Minister Resigns

THE HAGUE, Feb. 12. (AP)—Dr. E. M. Sassen, Netherlands minister of overseas territories, resigned Friday night because of a cabinet disagreement over Dutch policy in Indonesia. The government announcement of Sassen's resignation followed a cabinet meeting held amid rumors of an impending government crisis over the Indonesian question.

LOST AND STRAYED articles of all kinds are continually being pooled in classroom 116 PCVS. Three dozen pens, jewellery, wallets (empty), odd running shoes and pieces of sport clothing accumulate slowly but surely. Books, books and more books fill cupboards and boxes to overflowing and according to principal C. S. Browne, these are rarely claimed. Helen Thackeray, left, and Gloria Anthony, though not custodians of the collection, find some of the articles very amusing.

Students Most Forgetful Articles Galore Unclaimed

Forgetfulness is not the prerogative of old age as a short visit to the Collegiate would indicate. In the Lost and Found Department there are hundreds of books, girls' gym panties, detectives' badges, overcoats belonging to the students and perhaps to the odd absent-minded teacher.

Girls are the most forgetful, whether they're thinking of that certain one all the time only they themselves will know. From the appearance of the Lost and Found there must be many calloused feet among the girls, for there are a number of white running shoes to be found there.

Boys are not much better than the girls at holding their belongings. They are continually losing their gym equipment too. Socks which haven't been washed since the beginning of school are turned into this department.

Books, books and more books are turned in to the Lost and Found. A Bible and a copy of "For Whom the Bell Tolls" laid in the department for six months until claimed. There are history books, physics books, literature books and love stories. In all about 200.

Losing a book maybe on the level sometimes, but to lose a book when memory work is assigned is always helpful. It offers an excuse for a little slip of the mind just in case the teacher wishes to hear the memory work. The same applies in the other classes if the student has no text book. The teacher cannot punish the student who "loses" his book. If the teacher sends the student to find the book in the Lost and Found Department, there is a period of leisure hunting or day dreaming while the search goes on.

Wallets, glasses and fountain pens are frequent visitors to the department. There are seven wallets and one purse in the pile now.

On inspection of the wallets a silver star was found pinned to a change purse indicating that some Lone Ranger had lost his badge. In the purse there was a small pink rimmed mirror in which only a mouse could see himself (but with difficulty).

Spectacles, numbering nine in the Lost and Found, are of all shapes and colors, some are steel rimmed, others horn rimmed. At the rate the glasses are picked up they weren't needed for eyesight but were just a whim to help beautify the owner.

Fountain pens range from the best to the poorest.

There are about 40 pens in the department. Each is worth at least a dollar.

Hold Auction

Class, A10B is running the Lost and Found Department. This part of their class effort helps raise money for school organizations. The more valuable articles like wallets, pens necklaces and pins from organizations like the CGIT and other Collegiates are turned into the office. Other lost items like books, gym suits and running shoes are turned in the form room of A10B's 116, Teacher Harry Collingwood's room.

Recently the operators decided to rid themselves of some of the articles. They had an auction sale of all goods unclaimed for 30 days. Gym suits, pearl necklaces went to the highest bidder and this averaged 25c per article. The largest item in the Lost and Found Department was an overcoat. This was sold by Auctioneer Collingwood for 25c. The coat is now being used as a blanket for some old car engine on winter nights. Net profit of the sale was a little over $5.

Besides all the items mentioned there are bracelets, a pocket watch which runs, buttons, car tickets, paint bags, lunch boxes and gloves. There are also two bank books listing $434.60 and $23.82.

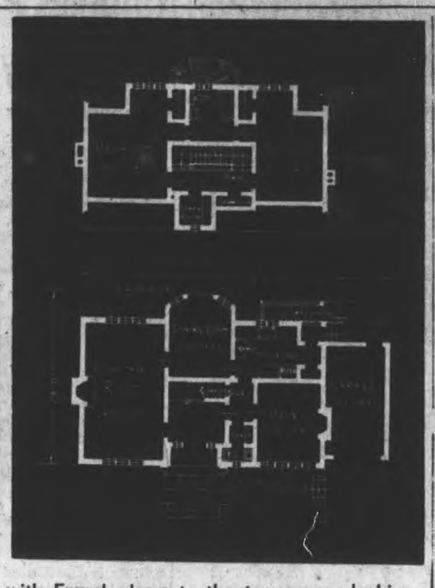
YOUNG COUPLESDREAM OF NEW HOMES AS SPRING DRAWS NEAR



HOUSE No. 50.—This colorful home learns toward traditional English style. First storey exterior walls are of smooth white stucco with wide uneven clapboards above, stained grey-green. The roof is of weathered cedar shingles. Careful planning has produced a six-room house with "mansion" refinements. These include the huge centre hall and living room, the den with fireplace. Picturesque dining room with French doors to the terrace overlooking the back garden. See the downstairs washroom, too. Upstairs are two splendid bedrooms with connecting bathroom. Don't miss the linen and cedar closets at the head of the stairs. These two storage rooms are worth their weight in gold! Bedroom closets are neatly placed to give necessary privacy to the second floor bathroom. For further information write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Planning World Clearing House For Freedom Of Information

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 11—(CP)—A proposal to set up a world clearing house for freedom of information today is before the United Nations. The Economic and Social Council has decided to consider the project during its session which opened Monday.

"Ecosoc" also may be called on to consider reorganization of the membership of the 12-man sub-commission on freedom of information which meets May 31.

Members are chosen as experts, not as government representatives.

The conference on freedom of information held last spring at Geneva approved the project for an information clearing house. To be put into effect, it now must be approved by Ecosoc and the general assembly.

Permanent Group

The International Information Organization would be a permanent organization growing out of the sub-commission of freedom of information.

The conference suggested that the sub-commission be continued for three years to study conference reports and make political, economic and other necessary reports.

The World Conference asked the general assembly to set aside money to pay for a full-time expert staff for the sub-commission.

The social committee of the general assembly which meets April 5 has the conference resolution first on its list.

Ecosoc should have dealt with the new plan for the sub-commission by that time.

Thus United Nations officals expect the sub-commission may be able to begin its new work as soon as it meets.

Rebellious Jeweller Pays $2,842 Fine

PEMBROKE, Feb. 12 — (CP) —George J. Simpson, convicted a fortnight ago on 10 charges connected with his refusal to collect luxury tax on jewelry he sells, Thursday paid a fine and costs totalling $2,842 and heard Magistrate W. K. MacGregor postpone hearing on an 11th charge for two weeks.

Simpson's cheque will be held until he decides whether he will appeal the convictions.

He announced earlier in the week that he had abandoned his one-man rebellion against federal tax laws because of the "extra expense involved in each new charge."

Another Pembroke jeweller, Howard E. Woolcock, also paid $899 in fines and costs Thursday as a result of similar charges. Woolcock pleaded that his failure to remit the luxury tax was the result of bookkeeping errors.

BADLY BRUISED about the face and suffering broken ankles, Robert Milligan, a Toronto pilot, is seen in hospital at Sudbury after plane crash near Gogama, which killed his passengers, two Indian trappers.

Praise St. Laurent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(CP) —The Washington Post says today in an editorial that Louis St. Laurent has been "a conspicuous success" as Prime Minister of Canada. "This was due not so much to his gifts of speech, though his bilingual eloquence is a distinct asset in Canada, as to his quality as an administrator and, of late, to the revelation that he has vision."

Depth of Sewer In Ground Determines the Excavation

The excavation for your home is made approximately one foot larger all around than the actual size of the basement as shown on your plans. This is necessary in order to allow room for the footings and drain tile as well as providing ample space for the mason to properly plaster and waterproof the basement wall.

The depth of the excavation is determined by two factors: The first is the actual depth of the sewer on your property which may be too shallow to put the home in the ground as deep as shown on the plans. This should be determined before the plans are drawn. Secondly, if the sewer is deep enough, the depth is then determined for the excavator by a sectional drawing on your house plans showing depth of basement desired.

In any case, the excavation should be deep enough so that the finished home looks as though it sits closely to the ground. The finished basement should be at least seven feet from floor to ceiling and pipes and heating ducts that cut into basement headroom should be avoided.

Building Footings

Supporting the entire house, foundation walls and all, is the footing. The size of this footing depends upon the kind of home you build, whether it is frame or brick, one or two stories. The size of footings for a frame home with a basement wall, 8 inches thick, should be a minimum of 16" wide and 8" thick. In each case there should be a 4" spread to the footing inside and out. In the case of a one floor home the size of the column footings should be at least 24"x24"x12" deep, in a two-storey house or one with an attic stairway, the column footings must be 30"x30"x12"deep. Chimney footings must have a spread of 42" and be 12" deep. Proper size and construction of footings are necessary so they will carry the required load without cracking or settling.

The concrete used in the best type of home construction for footings is 2,000 lb. transit-mixed because by this method uniform, scientifically proportioned mix is best obtained.

Basement Drainage

The next step in construction is the installation of the basement drainage system. Municipal codes usually require the laying of 4-inch seepage tile around the entire wall, properly laid on solid and pitched towards outlets connected with the sewer. Each joint should be covered with saturated felt paper to keep the tile from filling with sediment. Some architects and builders go farther, installing complete inside drainage system to take care of wall seepage and results in less condensation. A heavy cement cove is frequently made at base of wall to prevent seepage at union of wall and footing.

From the cove the plaster is continued up to the brick veneer ledge. If the home is of brick veneer instead of frame the plaster is continued over the ledge and on up to the top of the basement wall. Over this plaster after it has become dry, a heavy coating of undiluted asphalt waterproofing is recommended. It is finer ground cement and is superior for waterproofing.

Now we come to the top of the basement wall. While it is general practice to begin the erection of the frame-work directly upon the top of the walls, this is not good construction practice. The use of a 2"x8" bond plate laid in a heavy mortar joint, perfectly level, on top of the wall provides a better and more level foundation for the frame-work and eliminates the need of unsightly shims. Also, by using a 2"x4" plate on top of the steel beam uniform shrinkage in maintained. These bond plates are not always required by municipal codes but are excellent building practice and are frequently found in high standard homes. An evidence of greater value.

To support the house between the foundation walls, steel beams and H columns should be used. A 7-inch 15.3 pounds per foot I-beam is of ample size for ordinary home construction. 4-inch H columns with welded base and caps should be employed throughout, and the caps should be drilled and bolted to the I-beams. During the period of emergency it is possible that substitution in this may be necessary.

Dock Strike Ends

LONDON, Feb. 12—(Reuters)—The strike of 1,800 dock workers which has held up the unloading of food from ships at Thames docks for four days, ended Thursday after a meeting between shop stewards and union officials. The strike began as a protest against the suspension of a crane driver.

Power Shortage Cripples Paris; Blame Dry Spell

By ROBERT YOAKUM

PARIS, Feb. 12 — (Reuters) — Shortage of electricity, recently described by French newspapers and government officials as critical and serious because of a prolonged dry spell, is one of France's most difficult long-range problems.

With most other European countries, France has suffered from a post-war coal shortage and, as a result, from a lack of electricity generated by steam turbines.

From the Parisian housewife, who is without electrictly two days a week, to large industries which are under orders to cut consumption of electricity by 15 per cent, the French have been reminded constantly of their power shortage.

Paris, traditionally the "city of lights," has had advertising signs and store windows blacked out.

Urgency of the problem this winter is illustrated by the position of the French National Railways.

The government has been working on a program of electrification under which 40 per cent of rail traffic will be powered by electricity from hydro-electric stations. The total annual saving in coal under the plan is expected to be 2,600,00 tons a year.

But this winter's dry weather has forced the ministry of transport to fall back on its slim coal stocks and to replace many electric locomotives with steam engines.

Plan Big Program

It is precisely this kind of economic spiral which the French hope to eliminate by using water power.

The ambitious program is concentrated almost wholly on plans of the Compagnie Nationale du Rhone for 19 hydro-electric stations along the Rhone Valley, producing total of 13,000,000 kilowatt hours per year. The entire hydro-electric output of France in 1945 was only 1,000,000,000 kilowatt hours more than this estimated future Rhone production.

Largest dam in the chain—and the second largest in Europe—was put into operation in January 1948, at Genissiat. The Gennissiat Dam lies on the Rhone, 31 miles below Geneva and 100 miles upstream from Lyons. It forms a reservoir more than 14 miles long.

Two turbo-generators with a total power of 140,000 kilowatts have been producing electric power for sections of eastern France. When functioning at full capacity in 1950, the dam is expected to produce at the rate of 1,550,000,000 kilowatt hours a year.

The Genissiat Dam took 10 years to build and it is estimated that when all the work is completed, the station will have cost 45,000,000 working hours and 12,-000,000,000 francs (about $45,-300,000).

Great Britain Sets Higher Coal Target For 1959

By STUART UNDERHILL

LONDON, Feb. 12 —(CP)—If miners co-operate, Britain hopes to be producing a steady 250,000,-000 tons of coal annually in about 10 years.

Underground production last years was 196,000,00 tons. Target for this year is 210,000,000.

At National Coal Board Headquarters, engineers are studying plans for increasing output which have come from coal-producing district since the mines were nationalized in January, 1946.

Technicians hope it will be ready some time this year, two years ahead of schedule. But its effects will not be felt before 1955, or perhaps 1960.

Considerable short-term reconstruction has already begun. This chiefly involves the improvement of underground transport.

Standard favorable

"We think our standard of work at the coal-face compares favorably with that of other countries," an engineer said, "but we fall behind in moving the coal to the surface. "Mining techniques and coal formations here don't always lend themselves to the use of American-style cutting and loading equipment, but we're making big strides in developing our own machinery."

In its long-term planning, the coal board works closely with two other state organizations—British and the British Electricity Authority.

The electricity authority, now embarked on a big expansion program, is one of N.C.B.'s biggest customers. As such, it is being asked to become an outlet for lower-grade coal with high ash content.

No official long-term target has been set but 250,000,000 tons year is generally estimated as as the ideal to meet home and foreign consumption and maintain stocks.

But costs must be reduced.

'SNO USE — The hard-toiling students of McGill University in Montreal took a little time off during the past two weeks to build snow images to represent their Winter Carnival, but Ole Man Weather had other ideas. Just when they had completed their masterpieces along came his sidekick Mr. Thaw, and the damage he did is shown above.

Marshall Lauds Citizens For Hospital Aid

"Work on our new hospital is progressing satisfactorily under the difficult conditions existing with regard to material and labour. We have not made the progress we hoped for in our report of last year. However, the completion of the Boiler House and Laundry, the East Wing and Students' Residence is now assured and will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible."

The foregoing was a statement from the annual report made on Thursday night to the Board of Governors, Peterborough Civic Hospital, by John R. Marshall, chairman.

"We have reason for great satisfaction over the citizens vote of confidence as expressed by their two to one vote, providing the additional sum of $1,500,000 for building a minimum of 230 beds, Boiler House, Laundry and Students' Residence. We cannot hope to have all this work completed this year but look forward to vacating our present buildings for our new hospital early in 1950."

He said he hoped the rates for hospital services effective on February 1, will be found adequate to meet the ever increasing costs of the past few years. A levelling off of prices during the coming year with some evidence of a gradual decrease was evident, he said.

"The re-organization of our control and management of our Pharmacy and X-Ray Department one year ago has been justified and these departments are now on a cost sustaining basis. During the coming year we hope to accomplish the same results in our labratory."

Mr. Marshall declared that the "bright light of 1948" was the laying of the corner stone for the new hospital by the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander of Tunis. The highest commendation is due to the Medical and Surgical Advisory committee headed by Dr. Rodger S. Chenoweth for the drawing up of a new set of rules and regulations governing the medical staff of the hospital, said Chairman Marshall.

The Women's Auxiliary was singled out for special praise, but he also thanked the Peterborough Civic Hospital Nurses Alumnae, the student and graduate nursing staff and other hospital employees for their services during the pats year.

"We want to express again the appreciation of our Board to all societies and organizations who have assisted in various ways by gifts and services to our hospital," he said.

TRIPLE WEDDING—Twenty-three years ago George Battistel arrived in Vancouver from Italy leaving his wife and young family behind. A few months ago he returned to his native land to make arrangements to bring his family to this country. The children agreed to come to Canada, but only if their betrothed would join them. Within three weeks all arrived in Vancouver and a triple wedding was held in the Church of the Sacred Heart. Shown here are the three couples after the ceremony, left to right: Luis Battistel and Giovanna Strappazzon, erlne Gerardi and Inez Battistel, Dina Battistel and Elda Gobbo.

Park St. Ditch Rated A Hazard

Attention of the Board of Education was drawn to two points of potential danger to city children. In each case, the Board will request the city to take action to remedy the existing conditions.

The first one, at the Prince of Wales School, was brought to light by a recent accident. A heavy coal truck got out of control at the top of the hill behind the school, spun down the hill, right through the school fence, across the school yard, through another fence, before crashing to a stop in some trees. The driver had been able to throw himself from the runaway vehicle.

Superintendent K. S. Wightman commented: "Had there been a school recess on at the time— and that hill is usually black with children —one shudders to think of what might have happened."

The Board moved that the "City council be requested to provide some protection on the east side of Grandview Avenue" to prevent such an accident happening again.

Mr. Wightman's report also made mention of the open ditch along the west side of Park St. The ditch, he said, had "always caused considerable concern, especially in the spring when the water is high and children insist on playing beside it." City council, he said, is being urged to proceed with the enclosure of the ditch. The Board decided to send a letter to re-enforce that appeal.

Totals of $5.50 each were paid by Vincent Marino, 25 George St. N.; Mrs. Gladys McCormack, 92 Morrow St.; Mrs. R. Ballantyne, 215 Princess St.; American News Agency, Hunter St.; M. H. McMillan, 163½ Simcoe St. and E. Hughey, Wolsley St. W. William Hedges paid a total of $7.50.

Two motorists each paid $7.50 for driving at a greater speed than 30 mph. They were R. Mundell, RR 3, Peterborough and Richard Patterson of Norwood.

Gets Jail Term For Stealing Axe

Edward Lynch, Smith Township, was sentenced to seven days Friday when Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, found him guilty of stealing an axe from Herbert Hamlin, also of Smith Township.

Lynch, who pleaded not guilty, said he found the axe near his trailer and did not know to whom it belonged. He said he had given it to Provincial Constable Hanson quite readily when he had asked for it.

Denis Logan, service station operator, told the magistrate that Lynch had offered to sell him the axe.

After Constable Hanson had said that the axe had been placed out of eyesight under the trailer in which Lynch lives, Lynch said he put it there to protect it from the snow.

Tea Exceeds Expectations Of WCTU at Friday Event

The first tea given by Peterborough Branch of the WCTU in more than five years was held Friday afternoon in the YWCA Green Room. Attendance was away beyond members' highest expectations making their efforts wonderfully successful. A briskly cool but clear winter day helped to bring out many guests.

Entire proceeds will go into the organization's treasury to assist in their work toward temperance. The only revenue is a one dollar membership fee and from this a certain part is due the county, another part is due the National WCTU and a balance of less than 30 cents per member is all they have to carry on with.

Standing room only in the large room during the first hour of the tea was a tribute itself to the women's Temperance Union and showed that far from all its supporters are active members.

A delightful background of soft music was provided by Mrs. J. C. Ellis at the piano. Mrs. Jas. Goldie sang two pleasing numbers, "To a hilltop" and "Four leaf clover" and was accompanied by Mrs. H. Doig. Two readings contributed by Mrs. W. G. McLaren were heartily enjoyed.

A lovely tea table had been arranged in the Valentine theme. Bouquet of red tulips was in the centre and matching candles in silver holders on a beautiful cloth of ecru lace and heavy cream linen. Small red hearts, cupids and arrows on the table added to the effect.

Mrs. G. C. Adams, president, received at the door, assisted by Mrs. T. Barrie and Mrs. A. J. Macklin.

Cups were filled from handsome silver teapots by Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. A. Alton, Mrs. G. Aitchison and Mrs. A. H. Campbell.

Toast the King All Standing Men Only Drink

Several ways of drinking "toasts" — or, more properly, "health" to the King may be followed today an authority advises. The usual way is this:

Chairman or toastmaster says "Ladies and gentlemen, the King" and the health is then drunk, the National Anthem being sung afterward if so desired.

When the National Anthem is not sung it is usual to cry "God bless him!"

It is not correct for ladies to drink toasts. It is impolite to sip when drinking a health: the glass should be completely emptied. Ladies should, of course, stand during the Royal Toast.

Smoking before the Royal Toast is most improper. It is somewhat insulting to drink a toast in water —the cheapest and commonest of liquids, but this commonly used at public banquets because none other is available. If a lady is toasted by a gentleman, she should not drink herself, but should kiss the rim of her glass toward the gentleman who is toasting her. This should not be done with water.

The English drinking phrase, a "toast, to "toast" anyone—is not older than the 17th century. At first it had reference to ladies only and a toast was invariably a woman. The name had origin in the Stuart days when a piece of toast was put in a wine-cup with a notion it gave the liquor a better flavor.

The custom is probably derived from the ancient religious rite of drinking to the gods and the dead. Greeks and Romans at meals poured out libations to their gods and at ceremonial banquets drank to them. With the advent of Christianity the pagan custom survived among the Scandinavian and Tuetonic people and was associated with drinking to the health of living men.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Husband Told Extravagance Justifies Strong Measures

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a man approaching middle age and have been married 15 years. I love my wife and she is a good woman, but she is very extravagant and runs our household on such a lavish scale that we are perpetually in debt. I have always earned a good income, but we have never been able to put away a cent for emergencies or our old age. When I attempt a practical discussion of the condition, my wife goes into hysterics.

Dorothy Dix

I am now faced with the necessity of either drifting on through life on a hand-to-mouth existence, or of putting my wife on a fixed allowance and closing all charge accounts. What would you advise mto to do?

WORRIED HUSBAND

ANSWER: You are quite right in wanting to put some money aside for the rainy day. It comes to us all as old age comes to us all, and if we have laid nothing aside for that evil time, our fate is a bitter one. There is nothing else so terrible as to be old and poor and dependent.

I believe in husbands dealing fairly and generously with their wives about money, and I have fought in season and out of season to induce men to give their wives an allowance on which to run the house and for their own personal use. In the great majority of cases this arrangement is perfectly satisfactory, for most women are thrifty and anxious to save and help their husbands along.

Senseless Spender

But occasionally there is a wife like yours in whose pockets money burns, who is a senseless spender, who can never see anything without buying it, and who runs up bills with anybody who will give her credit. In such cases the husband should keep all of the money in his hands and take the most drastic measures to shut off her credit.

Naturally, this will make the wife furious, but there is no other way. I have always thought that any man was weak and foolish to let his wife ruin him with her extravagance.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My only child died three years ago and it has left me crushed and bitter. I can find no solace in anything or anybody. My husband cannot understand the change in me. Is there any help for me?

GRIEF STRICKEN

ANSWER: To lose a child is a great and terible grief. As long as you live your heart will ache for the lost one; but if all mothers who have wept over their children's graves let their loss turn them hard and bitter, as you have done, what a terrible world this would be! Thank God, most mothers let their sorrows sanctify them and make them more loving, more tender, more pitiful to all weak and helpless creatures.

So I say to you: Be brave enough to put your grief behind you and live for your husband, who depends on you. Deny yourself the morbid pleasure of nursing your sorrow. Dry your tears and put on your face the smile that won't come off. Then work. There is nothing like work to take you out of yourself and make you think of other things besides your loss.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a woman of 26 and hold a very fine position. My mother is simply crazy for me to get married and she simply harps upon the subject all the time. I have been going with a boy for a couple of years and I like and admire him very much, but I am definitely not in love with him. Yet Mother keeps pushing me into matrimony. The boy loves me, but do you think it would be fair for me to marry him under the circumstances?

MARY T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Certainly not. You would be miserable yourself and you would make the man miserable, and your marriage would almost assuredly end in divorce. Don't let your mother persuade you into marrying this man by telling you that you would fall in love with him after you are married. You would not. You would come to hate him and you would find marriage intolerable.

End Bad Cough Quickly, at One-Fourth The Cost

Thousands of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough syrup, they get a dependable, effective medicine. They use a recipe at only one-fourth the usual cost of cough medicine, but which really breaks up distressing coughs in a hurry.

From any druggist get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill up with granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and 1 cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) It's no trouble at all, and makes a splendid medicine. Keeps perfectly, tastes fine.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, helping to clear the air passages and soothing away irritation, has caused it to be used universally throughout Canada.

Fashion Flashes

Down south, every woman from deb to dowager is going in for the coolie-shaped hat as a sun-protector. White straw with black velvet ribbons that tie under the chin is a favorite style.

✧ ✧ ✧

CRISP fabrics mark late Winter and early Spring fashions, particularly taffeta—plain, printed and embroidered—and beautiful tie silks done in neat patterns or dotted or striped. Black taffeta with a scattering of tiny embroidered blue and pink flower sprays with green leaves make a handsome afternoon suit, the top cut with deep, plunging neckline, the skirt full.

✧ ✧ ✧

FAVORITE fabric for hats for 'tween-seasons wear is satin. A beautiful late-afternoon hat is a little cloche bonnet of white satin with a waterfall feather fancy in white, uncurled ostrich, which rises foundation-like and then falls softly over the forehead.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOT HALF ENOUGH to go around is the sad state of affairs in the nylon fabric department. So when you see a dress, a blouse or a swim-suit of nylon, grab it. Wonderful indeed, since it can be tubbed and worn again without benefit of pressing, is a one-piece nylon. Comes in deep colors.

✧ ✧ ✧

A FAVORITE TWOSOME with the separate skirt and blouse fan is the blouse of wool jersey, slim, with bracelet-length sleeves and very deep plunging or scooped-out neckline, worn with a full skirt of crisp fabric—such at tie-silk or taffeta. One pretty twosome consisted of a wool jersey blouse in deep lilac worn with a striped skirt—navy and deep mauve—in rayon tie-silk.

✧ ✧ ✧

INTEREST centres in and about the neckline in many of the new cotton frocks designed for afternoon wear. Iridescent cotton in mauve has a very open neckline framed with a self flange. It is filled in with self flowers that look like violets. Sleeves are easy, bracelet-length, and skirt is moderately full and flared.

✧ ✧ ✧

HANDSOME travel coats make for a wandering foot. A smart ensemble is made up of a finger-tip cape of striped grey wool in four shades worn over a finely tailored suit matching the lightest gray stripe of the cape. Five-button closing below high, round collared neckline.

✧ ✧ ✧

VERY NEAT little hats are favored by the young crowd, who it seems, like hats when they are right for their type—simple, gay, not overdone. Pale blonde beaver felt makes an entrancing little hat, the line rising in a sloping line from the forehead and folding into what looks like little animals ears. A fine beige mesh veil covers all and ties in a big bow at the nape of the neck.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ALTERNATIVE to the ubiquitous stole is making itself felt. It is the brief little jacket that extends to just below the bust. For instance, a dreamy dance dress, full skirt, of palest lilac organza has its strapless top covered with a brief jacket of mauve taffeta heavily encrusted with fake amethysts, pearls and rhinestones.

✧ ✧ ✧

A GOOD PERFECTION of the style accents that mark fine adult fashions appear in clothes designed for young teen-agers. A fitted coat in navy woollen has red piping on the notched collar, the cuffs and the flap pockets. The wide self back belt gathers the fabric at the top and releases the gored skirt and pressed inverted pleat in back.

✧ ✧ ✧

GRADUALLY the nylon blouse situation is improving and there are all sorts of new and smart models being readied for spring. Nylon sheer in white or pastel pink or puckered all over, is used for a pretty little blouse with deep, plunging V neckline and medium length sleeves.

✧ ✧ ✧

A RECENT SHOW of smart advance fashions had models wearing green or red pumps with dressy black frocks— something rather new.

Parisan Tailors Fashion New 'Dior Look'

By EPSIE KINARD
NET Fashion Editor

NEW YORK.—(NEA)—Christian Dior, the Frenchman who created the furore remembered as the "New Look," has turned his talents to American ready-to-wear.

A spring collection, designed and made in New York and distributed throughout the country, more than makes good Dior's boast of, 1947 that "nothing can stop the new fashion from sweeping America."

Newer than the look which brought about a fashion revolution is this designer's U. S. collection, stamped by what is called the "Dior Look." This is French with a strong American accent. Suits, coats, and dresses for town and spectator sports wear interpret Mr. Dior's idea of the casual way American women should look. He avoids stiffness. He doesn't like to see buttoned-up jackets buttoned up all the way. Faithful to his French traditions, he stresses cut and detail. What is known as "typically Dior" are subtle combinations of color and fabric. Favored by this designer are little jackets of a new proportion which flare above stem-slim skirts like a flower flares over its stalk.

Typical of the "Dior Look" groomed for American tastes are the two dresses shown. Each makes much of the little jacket.

The jacket topping the brown-and white checked woollen dress (left) with a pegged-top skirt, is a black wool bolero with short cuffed sleeves. This jacket has extravagant flare, a "wind-swept" neckline which owes its name to its winding scarf, and a brown lining that repeats the brown check of the dress.

The dress (right) of navy blue flower-print cotton combines a stem-slim skirt with a full jacket, belted in with navy silk fabric. The uneven hemline of the jacket —shorter in front than in the back —is a typical Dior touch, and so is the casual unbuttoned look of the jacket.

BC Embarking On $90 Million Expansion Plan

By The Canadian Press.

British Columbia is embarking on a $90,000,000 industrial expansion program calling for extension of its Pacific Great Eastern Railway, highway construction, power development and irrigation projects.

Premier Byron Johnson announced the plan in a policy speech to the Legislature at Victoria yesterday. He said it would be carried out during the next five years.

The Province will extend the rail line from the present northern terminus at Quesnel to Prince George, a distance of 83 miles. At Prince George, 350 miles north of Vancouver, the line will connect with the C.N.R. thus providing an outlet to deep water shipping at Prince Rupert.

The railway extension is the first step in a program to tap the riches of the Peace River country, a vast inland empire rich in agricultural lands, coal and oil resources.

$25 Million Surplus

A $25,000,000 operating surplus for the year ended last March 31 was reported in public accounts tabled in the Ontario Legislature. The House at Toronto, which started its new session Thursday, opened throne-speech debate.

Controls governing quality and sale of margarine will be urged in a resolution to be introduced in the Saskatchewan Legislature Tuesday.

Premier D. L. Campbell said in the Legislature at Winnipeg that within the next few days the Manitoba Government must decide upon one of two types of contracts for the construction of a dam and power plant at Pine Falls on the Winnipeg River. The project, expected to cost at least $15,000,000, is part of Manitoba's power development program.

Lindsay Man Gets Into Trouble

WINDSOR, Feb. 12 — (CP).—Thomas Brydges of Lindsay blames "unemployment" for his recent trouble with authorities.

Friday he was sentenced to two years less a day definite, and three months indefinite on each of three forgery charges, the terms to run concurrently.

Brydges testified that he turned to crime when he was unable to find work.

"Many's the day we have gone without anything in the house and no work.... Farmers said they were hiring displaced persons."

Charles D. Graham, also of Lindsay, who police associated with Brydges, was given a suspended sentence on a charge of stealing $60.00.

71,000 Immigrants Pass Through Halifax

HALIFAX, Feb. 11 —(CP)— More than 71,000 persons arrived at this bustling port during 1948 and the veteran four-stacker Aquitania brought nearly 25,000 of them in 16 trips. Some 120 liners carried 8,238 passengers from here to Britain.

June was the busiest month of the year when 16 vessels docked with 9,495 passengers. Passenger traffic from July to December showed an increase over 1947 figures for the same months even without the boost from the United States Atlantic coast dockworkers' strike in the latter half of the year.

Long-Winded Talk By Senators Ancient 'Right' In Unifed States

By ROBERT E. GEIGER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—(AP) —The ancient and honorable custom of filibustering is based on the proposition that a senator may talk himself to death if he chooses.

United States legislators have been taking advantage of the filibuster "right" ever since the nation was born. Sponsored by Republicans, a recent proposal to change Senate debate rules also has support from some Democrats

If they have the voice and constitution, Senators may now, under certain circumstances, talk as long as they wish.

They don't talk, necessarily, to persuade opposing senators. They may just talk to make the opposition give up out of boredom.

The fabulous Huey Long from Louisiana read the Bible, offered advice on love affairs, told how to fry oysters and make "pot likker," read a biographical sketch of Frederick the Great and quoted Victor Hugo. Long was supporting an amendment to the National Industrial Recovery Act in June, 1935. He talked 15½ hours but lost the debate.

Robert M. La Follette, Sr., of Wisconsin set the record for holding the Senate floor. Back in 1908 he had it for more than 18 hours against a currency bill. He lost too.

The longest continuous filibuster session was in 1915. A group of senators kept the Senate in session from noon Feb. 8 until 6:10 p.m. Feb. 10. They were debating a ship purchasing bill.

Longest Filibuster

The longest filibuster occurred in 1846, but it wasn't continuous. It lasted two months, with the Senate recessing regularly. It was about the act placing Oregon under sovereignty of the United States.

The strongest Senate rule limiting or prohibiting debate is the Clotur Bill, passed in 1917 after President Wilson was angered over a filibuster that killed his bill to arm merchant vessels when the U. S. was on the brink of the First World War.

The cloture rule says a motion may be introduced at any time to end discussion of pending bills. But the motion must be signed by 16 senators and one day must elapse before a vote is taken on it—and even then it must be carried by a two-thirds majority and every senator still may talk an hour.

The most spectacular filibuster of recent years was the one by Senators Taylor (D-Idaho) and Langer (R-ND) against the peacetime draft. They lost after 17 hours and two minutes on June 19, 1948. Taylor talked eight hours and 33 minutes, Langer four hours and 43 minutes. Then Taylor talked again until he was ruled out of order for breaking Senate rules.

Taylor also teamed with Senator Morse (R-Ore.) in 1947 to filibuster an effort to override President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley Labor Bill. The Senate was in session 30 hours and 52 minutes, longest in 20 years. Taylor talked steadily for eight hours and 25 minutes and Morse for 10 hours.

In 1942, 1944, 1946 and 1948 there was a series of filibusters against federal anti-poll-tax legislation and fair employment practices legislation. All were successful.

Prices Break Sends Stocks Down In Week

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The testing-time of 1949 has come earlier than might have been expected.

Six weeks after the close of the year which hung up records in almost every line of activity, many people are asking: "Is the break at hand?"

They ask it because of the fall in commodity prices in the United States; because of the uncertainty of the stock market; because goods are more plentiful.

There is nothing wrong with any of these developments as such. And it would be difficult to find anything wrong with anything that has happened so far.

The stock market has been uncertain through the two most prosperous years in North American history, and on any basis of past reckoning good stocks are selling at bargain rates.

True, goods are more plentiful, and the era when you could sell anything for any price is at an end. But goods still are not selling at any great bargain rate.

Dr. John Clark, member of President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers, summed it up this way for the United States, and it can go as well, if not better for Canada:

After declaring that buying power in the hands of the people is at its highest point in history, he added:

"I cannot believe that the 80 per cent of families with incomes below $5,000 will not make full use of their demand.

"And if so, we will have demand for goods at present rates of production."

Pile Up Evidence Link Trucker With Slaying

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que., Feb. 12. — (CP)—The Crown's case against Maurice Lebel, standing trial here on a double-murder count, gathered momentum yesterday when evidence adduced tended to link the slender 28-year-old backwoods trucker with the brutal slaying.

Through evidence given by five crown witnesses on the third day of the hearing, including a small, frail woman who said she lived for years with Lebel the crown apparently was attempting to prove premeditation in the twin-killing.

Lieut. Maurice Deschene of the Provincial Police testified that finger prints on a beer bottle found at the blood-spattered murder scene tallied with those of the accused. The bottle was found near the head of one of the two victims, Louis Philippe Breton and Wilfrid Dumais of Trois Pistoles.

Describes Gun

Speaking in a tone barely audible to court officials, 42-year-old Marie Lavoie said Lebel owned a shotgun which he removed from the kitchen wall of their home at St. Guy June 30, 1948. This was the day before the bodies of Breton and Dumais were found in a ditch by the side of a lonely dirt road 11 miles east of here.

She said the accused told her the shotgun was too long and that he was going to cut it. The witness said he took it to an upstairs room to saw off the barrel.

The following day she heard several explosions, but could not say definitely if they were caused by Lebel testing the gun through a window. She said there had been dynamiting on a waterworks project in the area at that time.

Mrs. Lavoie said that on the same day Lebel left for Trois Pistoles carrying a parcel done up in brown wrapping paper. She estimated it was about 19 inches long, but could not say whether it contained the gun.

She said Lebel owed money on a note to the Banque Canadienne Nationale at Trois Pistoles which was managed by Breton.

Charge Keays Secretly Takes Police Files To Bolster His Accusations

Policeman Testifies He Gets Documents On Carefoot Case From RCMP; Other Reports Are Copies To Finish Work

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 14—(CP).—Constable J. E. Keays today was accused of "surreptitiously" taking Ontario Provincial office files to bolster his accusation against the Hastings County Crown Attorney and seven Ontario Provincial Police officers. The accusation was made by Malcolm Robb, counsel for five of the officers, as he continued cross examination of Keays before a Royal Commission. Keays denied he had taken any files.

Looking refreshed after a two-day adjournment of the hearings, Keays replied slowly and deliberately to questions as Mr. Robb tried to ferret out weak spots in five days of testimony Keays has given before the commission.

The commission is investigating Keays' charges of fraud, perjury and maladministration of justice.

Named by Keays were Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan of Belleville, Inspector W. A. Page, Inspector T. W. Cousans, Sgt. J. A. Stringer, Cpl. Sam Ervine and Constables J. B. Driscoll and G. R. Purdy.

Mr. Robb spent the morning session asking Keays to review testimony given last week.

Keays said he had no documents in his possession taken from Provincial Police district headquarters in Belleville. The reports he had used as evidence were copies or photostats of the police records, he said.

Peppered by questions about previous testimony, Keays frequently made long pauses before answering. Mr. Robb skimmed across the numerous cases Keays had mentioned.

"The reports in my possession are copies I have made," Keays said. The only file in his possession was a file on the Leroy Woods case, which he had on instructions from Staff Inspector Arthur Moss of the Provincial Police.

Had 12 Files

Keays said "12 or 15" files were in his possession when he went to Niagara Falls. He took them because the cases still were pending and he had further work to do on them. He had "no occasion" to mention files to Inspector Page because he did not know how many files he had in possession.

"There is not one document in my possession which was removed from any file of the Ontario

Burn Building After Fake Mars Broadcast

QUITO, Ecuador, Feb. 14 — (AP). — Fifteen persons were killed and at least 15 injured by enraged mobs retaliating against an over-realistic broadcast of a fictional "Invasion from Mars" on Saturday.

This city of 175,000 was in complete turmoil as a result of the panic caused by the broadcast and the army was called out to quell the raging mobs. Troops used tanks and tear gas on the angry citizens.

The mob wrecked the newspaper building, its equipment and the radio station. Damage was estimated at more than $350,000.

Heads of the station said Leonardo Paez, art director, and Eduardo Alcaras, dramatic director, prepared and directed the dramatization without their knowledge.

The populace had been terrified by a world dramatization of H. G. Wells' fantastic novel, "The War of Worlds," localized to describe strange creatures from Mars landing nearby and heading for Quito.

It was carried out much after the fashion of Orson Welles' "Martian Invasion" broadcast in 1938 which caused panic in some parts of the United States.

Hysteria drove most of the population of Quito into the streets before the program directors learned how much consternation they had caused. They appealed to the people to be calm and assured them it was all fictional.

Big 4 To Hear Yugoslav Claim

LONDON, Feb. 14—(AP)—Big-four deputy foreign ministers today agreed to hear Yugoslavia's diplomats present their territorial claims on Austria.

The agreement ended a week's deadlock among the deputies, trying to draft a treaty of independence for Austria.

The source said the United States still opposed Yugoslavia's demand for a slice of Southern Austria but agreed to hear the Yugoslav case again in the hope the Yugoslavs might offer a compromise.

The deputies also agreed to hear Yugoslav's case in support of its demand for $150,000,000 in reparations from Austria.

Canadian Prosperity To Continue—Birks

MONTREAL, Feb. 14 —(CP)— Every internal sign points to continued prosperity for Canada for the foreseeable future, Herbert G. Birks, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said today in an address to the annual conference of Canadian Retailers.

He cautioned, however, that factors outside could change the picture completely.

"It must be remembered that Canada is a great trading nation and international trade is highly important to the maintenance of her high level of industrial and agricultural productivity.

Mr. Birks said retailers cannot expect to see the index of sales climb at the rate of the last decade, but "this does not mean that we do not anticipate a continuation of a high level of business."

Family Of Seven Killed In Plane Crash

MAXWELL, Ont., Feb. 14 — (CP)—Transport Department inspectors today will probe the twisted and burned wreckage of a plane which crashed six miles north of here, taking the lives of a Montreal family of seven.

Killed when the light single-engine plane exploded in mid-air and plummeted to earth at 7:20 p.m. EST last night were:

Wallace C. Siple of Beaconsfield, Que., president of the Siple Aircraft Company, Montreal;

His wife, Annie Irene, who returned the week previously from Florida where she had been convalescing from an illness;

Their five children: Graham, 11; Gordon, 10; Wallace, 9; Sharon, 5; Sheila, 3.

Siple, 32-year-old experienced trans-Atlantic ferry pilot, who rose from a Norwich, Ont., grocery boy, to prominent aircraft executive, was at the plane's controls when it apparently developed engine trouble.

Engine Aflame

With flames trailing from the engine, it roared over Dunvegan farms and crashed with a roar just 300 yards from the farm home of Alexander Stewart.

Stewart said: "It hit the ground in a shallow dive and travelled nearly 200 feet before coming to a halt.

"We rushed to the scene. We saw the bodies of a man lying near the engine, a child lying a few feet away from the main wreckage and the body of a woman half-way out of the wreckage.

"We scooped up snow and kept throwing it on the flames. It didn't do much good. A lot of our neighbors, who heard the plane explode, ran over to help."

Stewart added: "When the police arrived, they used a fire extinguisher. Then we were able to tip open the cockpit. We found the bodies of four children inside."

Police and reporters gathering at the scene, found children's crayons and coloring books in the blackened snow. There was

Police Find Bodies When Compartment Opened At Station

MONTREAL, Feb. 14 (CP) — The bodies of a Toronto lawyer and a Registered Nurse, both married with children, were found today in a compartment of an overnight train from Toronto. Both were shot through the head.

Police said their preliminary investigations indicated either murder and a suicide or a double suicide pact.

The dead are Earl Fauman, 31-year-old lawyer, of 2004 Bathurst St., and Martha Leona Kelly, 28, wife of Inspector Frank Kelly, head of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the Provincial Police at Toronto. Her address was given by police here as 45A Christie Street.

Fauman, an overseas veteran of the Second World War, was the father of two children, aged five and three. He was called to the Ontario Bar in 1935.

Mrs. Kelly had one daughter, aged six.

The bodies were found sprawled across the bed when police, summoned by the conductor and porter, entered the compartment.

Near the bodies was a .38-calibre revolver. Two cartridges had been fired from it, Another .38-calibre pistol, unfired, was found lying on the floor.

No Marks of Violence

An empty liquor bottle and a bottle of pills were found on a shelf of the compartment. Police said there were no marks of violence about the room.

Papers found on the woman indicated she was a graduate nurse of Memorial Hospital Training School at St. Thomas.

Police and railroad authorities said the couple boarded the train in Toronto last night, occupying compartment H, car 318, in the second section of train No. 22 leaving Toronto at 11 p.m.

The train arrived in Montreal's Windsor Station at 7.30 a.m. and police were immediately notified. Sleeping car conductor W. Lawler

100 Pickets Stage Noisy Demonstration

PARIS, Ont., Feb. 14 (CP). — Approximately 100 pickets staged a noisy demonstration outside Penman's strike-bound No. 1 Mill here this morning, but non-strikers going in to work were not subjected to anything more than verbal attacks.

Police formed lines through which the employees passed to enter the mill without being molested. Approximately 40 Provincial Police officers were on duty at this mill. All was quiet at the entrances to the other two mills in other parts of Paris.

No new developments were reported to-day as the fourth week of the strike drew to a close, with neither company nor union (United Textile Workers of America, AFL) showing any signs of giving in.

PLAN VAST RADAR WARNING SYSTEM—Congress is considering an Air Force proposal for a joint U.S.-Canada radar network to warn against the approach of hostile aircraft. The U.S. share of the cost would be $161,000,000. While warning that the system will not provide anything like an "airtight" radar fence, the Air Force said it would provide warning of planes up to 300 miles away—sufficient to enable the Air Force to prepare a defense. The map above illustrates one plan for such a radar network as urged recently by F. H. Lack, chairman of the radio industry's mobilization committee, in the magazine Mechanix Illustrated. The radar stations would be in touch with the central control post (inset) by television.

Rt. Rev. J. Lyons Elected Metropolitan

TORONTO, Feb. 14 (CP) — Right Rev. John Lyons of Kingston today became Metropolitan of the Church of England in Ontario.

The 70-year-old Bishop of Ontario was elected to head the ecclesiastical province by the House of Bishops. He succeeds the late Archbishop C. A. Seager of Huron who died last fall.

The announcement was made by Right Rev. W. L. Wright, Bishop of Algoma, secretary of the House of Bishops. Chairman of the meeting was Right Rev. R. J. Renison, Bishop of Moosonee.

The new Metropolitan, who was born at Portland in Eastern Ontario near Brockville, attended schools at Portland, Athens and Brockville. He graduated from Trinity College at the University of Toronto.

Virtually all his service with his church was in charges in Ontario diocese of which he became bishop in 1932. He served at North Frontenac, Roslin, Burritt's Rapids, Elizabethtown, Picton, Belleville and Prescott.

The new Metropolitan is widely known in the Church of England in Canada. Fellow churchmen said he was an ideal parish priest and as a bishop has been a good for fairness in his dealings with for fairness in his dealings with both clergy and people.

Pope Says Cardinal's Trial Not Being Fairly Reported

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 14—(AP).—Pope Pius today told a secret and extraordinary consistory that "our soul is crushed with most bitter grief" by the trial and condemnation of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty.

In a brief speech to 16 cardinals in the consistorial hall of the apostolic palace, the Pontiff declared the Hungarian Primate's trial had not been fairly reported.

"The principle object of the trial," the Pope said, "was to disrupt the (Roman) Catholic Church in Hungary and precisely for the purpose set forth in the sacred Scripture:

"'I shall strike the shepherd and the sheep of the flock shall be dispersed'."

Secret Influence

The Pope declared Cardinal Mindszenty's physical condition during the trial was "inexplicable except as the result of secret influences which may not be publicly revealed; to prove this there is the fact that a man endowed with the full vigor of a forceful nature suddenly appears weak and mentally unbalanced."

The Pontiff branded "completely false" the Hungarian government's assertions that "the whole question at issue was that this apostolic see in furtherance of plans for political domination of nations gave instructions to oppose the Republic of Hungary and its rulers."

"We are doing," Pontiff told the 16 assembled princes of the Roman Catholic church, "what the outraged rights of the church and the dignity of the human person clearly demand."

This apparently was a reference to the excommunication of all those involved in the arrest, trial, and imprisonment of the Hungarian primate and his sentencing to life imprisonment in Budapest last week.

Two Dakotas Begin Eskimo Mercy Trip

EDMONTON, Feb. 14 — (CP) —Two RCAF Dakota planes took off today on a hazardous, 600-mile mercy flight to pick up eight seriously-ill Eskimos from an Arctic island.

The RCAF mercy crews reported they hope to pick up the Eskimos, suffering from a "mysterious" disease, and take them to Cambridge Bay today.

At Fort Ross they will attempt a landing on an emergency strip which Ernest Lyle, a trapper, said he would prepare.

Nfld. Base Issue Now Settled

Talk With Truman Irons Out All Difficulties

OTTAWA, Feb. 14 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent, returning from Washington by train, said today talks with President Truman had satisfied him that the negotiations over Newfoundland military bases now held by the United States will be settled "without embarrassment."

The prime minister did not elaborate in a brief interview as he stepped off the train in Union Station at 11:50 a.m. EST.

Throws Cold Water

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—(CP) —Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada has thrown cold water on speculation that Canada and the United States are considering joint extension of the continent's radar defences.

Prior to his departure for Ottawa last night after spending the week-end in Washington at the invitation of President Truman, he told reporters he had not disclosed any new developments in radar precaution against air attacks.

Many took the Prime Minister's statements at a Saturday press conference to mean that talks of this nature have been under way.

Mr. St. Laurent said there had been plans prepared by "some people" doing preliminary planning involving a "whole network across the north country. And I said that some stations have been put into operation—Loran (long range aid to navigation) and weather stations. I did not announce that plans are being discussed by the two countries."

The Canadian leader said the United States has been granted no rights to Canadian bases.

During his 1½ hour talk with President Truman, Mr. St. Laurent said they had discussed the St. Lawrence seaway project. The Prime Minister indicated he had advanced the view that consideration must be given to the Hydro phase alone if the over-all scheme is not approved soon. The President "had made it clear that he understands out viewpoint on the Hydro matter."

He told the press conference that Canada—particularly Ontario —needs the power it would receive should the over-all St. Lawrence scheme be approved.

House Burned 3 Children Die

NEEDLES, B. C., Feb. 14—(CP) Three children were burned to death and a fourth escaped in night attire, when fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Taylor Saturday night.

Unable to escape from the fire-swept building were Phyllis, 10, David, 6, and Glen, 2, all of the Taylor family.

A fourth child, Sandra Taylor, 11, escaped in her night clothes.

Needles is on the Lower Arrow Lake in the Kootenay district, 50 miles northwest of Nelson.

No fire fighting equipment was available to fight the flames, noticed first by passing motorists.

Have Less Money For Debt Retirement

Trade, Foreign Exchange Situation Better, Dollars Tied Up There

OTTAWA, Feb. 14 — (CP). — Canada had much less money for debt retirement in 1948 than in 1947, it is stated in the annual report of the Bank of Canada.

This was mostly because her trade and foreign exchange situation was in better shape and she had to tie up more money in these.

Budgetary surplusses were big in both calendar years, $751,000,000 in 1947 and $640,000,000 in 1948.

In 1947, however, what are called non-budgetary items increased the over-all surplus available for domestic debt retirement to $963,000,000, while in 1948 they decreased it to $203,000,000.

Non-budgetary items consist of post-war loans to foreign governments, loans to the Foreign Exchange Control Board, and some other items.

In 1947, for instance, the Exchange Board was running out of foreign exchange money so fast that it did not need so many Canadian dollars to cover its holdings, and so was able to pay the government back on its loans. In 1948 its foreign exchange money built up and so it had to borrow more from the government.

Ties It Up

It is somewhat like taking money from one pocket and putting it into another, but it ties it up from being used for other purposes.

Here are the 1948 figures:

Budgetary items; Ordinary revenue, $2,585,000,000; special revenue, $183,000,000; budgetary expenditure, $2,128,000,000; leaving budgetary surplus of $640,000,000.

Non-budgetary items: Post-war loans to foreign governments, $132,000,000; loans to Foreign Exchange Control Board, $370,000,000; both subtracting from the money available for other purposes; while further items produced an addition of $67,000,000.

Prosperous Year

When Finance Minister Abbott brings down the budget speech he will report on the surplus for the fiscal year ending March 31. His last fiscal year surplus was $673,000,000, but government circles doubt that the next one will be above $500,000,000.

The report, submitted by Graham F. Towers, governor, to Finance Minister Abbott, and released to-day, is in the main a review of the prosperous year 1948 in Canadian trade and finance, and of conditions in the United States, Britain and Europe.

The bank's own profit and loss account shows a profit for the year, after making provisions for contingencies and reserves, of $19,332,147, most of which is transferred to the country's consolidated revenue fund.

Crowds Try To Learn If Princess In Love

MOUNTFIELD, Sussex, England, Feb. 14—(AP)—Inquisitive crowds jammed this Sussex village Sunday to try to find the answer to the question that has all Britain agog.

Has Princess Margaret lost her heart to a wealthy commoner?

They found no answer.

The lovely younger daughter of the King has been spending the week-end as the guest of the parents of her "new friend"—dashing Tom Egerton, 31-year-old former Captain of the Guards.

Sunday the couple attended services at the tiny 800-year-old parish church near the Egerton estate. Princess Margaret sat in the front pew with her host and hostess. Their son was in the pew behind by himself.

Believe Russia Preparing To Absorb Her Satellites

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—(AP) —Eastern European assaults on churchmen have stirred American suspicions that Moscow may be getting ready to discard the "People's Democracy" system in Soviet Satellites.

They also have revived the idea that Russia is moving toward absorbing the Soviet-bloc States into an expanded Soviet Union.

Top authorities on relations with the Communist world said today the trend appears to be in these directions. Officials are virtually unanimous, on the point: under pressure from Moscow the process of shaping the satellites into the Soviet mould has now been speeded up.

Authorities read this meaning into Hungary's trial of Cardinal Mindszenty and defiance of American displeasure, the indictment of fifteen churchmen in Bulgaria, and the current purges in Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Mindszenty case, the Bulgarian, Polish and Czechoslovakian developments all are taken here to support the conclusion that the Soviet bloc is determined to crush the last remaining opposition quickly so as to present a solid front against the western world.

The satellite "People's Democracies" permit a continued existence of some opposition political parties, while the Communists have a free rein in putting their totalitarian system into effect. The course of recent developments has been in the direction of one-party states like Russia.

What has taken place in Bulgaria in the last two months is expected by officials to set the pattern for the other Communist-run countries.

CCL Asks Mine Union To Leave Timmins

TIMMINS, Feb. 14 (CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor last night unlimbered one of its biggest guns in the union jurisdictional dispute that is dividing workers in this rich gold belt.

Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the Congress, personally appealed to the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, an affiliate of the C.C.L., to withdraw from the area.

Mr. Conroy re-iterated at a meeting the earlier demands of the Congress that both the mine-mill union and United Steel Workers of America (CCL) withdraw in favor of a third union to be organized directly by the CCL. The new union would be named Porcupine Mine Workers Union, tentatively Local 100 of the CCL.

Canada's National Income Nearly $13,000,000,000 1948 Production Up 15%

Most Striking Gain In Agricultural Field Due To Higher Prices; Indirect Taxes Increased $100,000,000

OTTAWA, Feb. 14—(CP)—Canadians produced $15,350,000,000 worth of goods and services in 1948, an increase of 15 per cent. over 1947. The rise, however, was attributed by the Bureau of Statistics mainly to increased prices as indicated by the 14 per cent. jump in the cost-of-living index in 1948.

The bureau Saturday issued its annual preliminary estimate of the value of goods and services produced by resident Canadians last year.

It estimated national income at $12,802,000,000 compared with $10,981,000,000 in 1947. National income is made up of salaries and wages to civilian labor, military pay and allowances, investment income and net income of agriculture and other unincorporated business.

To these figures the bureau added indirect taxes less subsidies, depreciation allowances and similar business costs. That was the gross national product—the value of goods and work turned out by the nation—and it showed a total of $15,350,000,000 compared with $13,375,000,000 in 1947.

Gross Expenditure

In another table the bureau showed the gross national expenditure, whose totals equalled that of the gross national product. The gross national expenditure shows how the expenditure was divided—personal expenditures of consumer goods and services, government expenditure, gross home investment and exports of goods and services less the import of goods and services.

Civilian labor income plus military pay and allowances rose from $6,300,000,000 to $7,200,000,000 and accounted for 56 per cent of national income last year compared with 57 per cent in 1947. Investment income increased by 12 per cent between 1947 and 1948.

The most striking gain, the bureau said, occurred in the agricultural component of national income. A combination of higher prices, increased marketings and exceptional wheat adjustment payments boosted the net income of farm operators from farm production from $1,200,000,000 in 1947 to $1,700,000,000 in 1948. Net income of other unincorporated business rose by 12 per cent between 1947 and 1948.

Indirect taxes less subsidies increased by $10,000,000. This was attributed to the drop in federal subsidy payments rather than to any general increase in indirect taxation. The significant decline in federal customs revenues due to import restrictions was roughly balanced by increased yields from other forms of indirect taxation at federal, provincial and municipal levels.

Marie Resigns Halts Criticism

PARIS, Feb. 14—(AP).—Former Premier Andre Marie has resigned as France's Vice-Premier and Minister of Justice and has been replaced by Robert Lecourt.

The resignation was announced by Premier Henri Queuille, who said Marie quit because of his health.

The resignation relieves the Cabinet of a barrage of criticism. Marie, a Radical Socialist, had been attacked in the National Assembly for failing to press charges against a construction company which allegedly built the Nazis' wartime "Atlantic wall" defences on the French coast.

Lecourt is a member of Mouvement Republican Populaire, the party which observers said might have left the Coalition Cabinet if Marie had not resigned.

Marie said he was going to be treated for a pulmonary ailment originated while he was a war prisoner of the Germans. He was Premier from July 27 to Sept. 5, 1948. Lecourt was Minister of Justice in Marie's Cabinet.

The United Nations Assembly has instructed the Palestine Conciliation Committee to work out a plan to internationalize Jerusalem, a holy city to Jews, Christians and Moslems.

However, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion last night repeated Israel's claim to Jerusalem and said it would remain a Jewish city.

the charred remnants of a little doll and bits of a Valentine.

On Way Home

The family were on the way home to Montreal when the crash occurred. Two of the children had been staying at the home of Siple's parents at Norwich, near London, Ont., while Mrs. Siple was convalescing in Florida.

On Friday, after Mrs. Siple returned to Beaconsfield, Siple took her and the three remaining children to Norwich, spent the week-end there and then prepared to return home with his entire family.

The family landed at Ottawa airport for refuelling. They took off at 7.05 p.m. EST last night. The crash came 15 minutes later.

Jack Ross, Montreal flier who acted as co-pilot when Siple flew to Norwich Friday, said at Woodstock last night he was astounded that the plane, built in 1947, had crashed. He said it was in good condition.

Siple, born at Norwich, Ont., was considered a "Horatio Alger" there. He left high school at the age of 13, concentrated on farming until he was 18 and then set out to realize his dream of becoming an aeronautical engineer. He delivered groceries while continuing his studies.

A friend lent him money to buy his first plane. He toured Southeastern Ontario teaching flying to pay for it. He got his engineer's licence at Kirkland Lake. When the war ended Siple and his cousin, Douglas Siple, formed the Siple Aircraft Company of Montreal.

Narrow Price Range On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 14 — (CP) — Prices settled into a narrow range on the Toronto Stock Exchange today in dull trading. Steels captured some attention in the industrials and some gold producers edged ahead. Base metals were stronger in a mild recovery movement and western oils mixed gains and losses.

The exchange's 1 p.m. index showed industrials and golds down, base metals and western oils up. Volume for the first three hours was 548,000 shares, about 27,000 shares less than Friday's similar period.

A handful of steel issues brightened fractionally and several constructions showed gains of more than a point in the industrial groupings.

Consolidated Smelters added 1½ at 106½ in a stronger base metals list and Noranda and Waite Amulet were up.

A few senior golds were fractionally mixed and some juniors showed gains ranging up to five cents.

Fairview Community Honors Two Couples

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lillico and son Trevor, who recently moved from the community to make their home in Lakefield, were presented with an occasional chair. Mrs. Austin Poast read an address and Walter Heard made the presentation.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis were the other couple to whom Mrs. Cephas Heard read an address and Mrs. Fred Bell presented a chenille bedspread in recognition of their services while in office at Fairview Church. Mrs. Lewis was church pianist for 15 years, and Mr. Lewis has been Sunday School superintendent for the past 12 years.

The Rev. D. P. Morris led a sing-song with Kenneth Patton at the piano, and readings and songs were contributed by Miss Sheila Wilson, Ross Harrison, W. D. Wilson, and Wilbert Rosborough delivered a speech. The entertainment was arranged by Mrs. W. D. Wilson, who was assisted by Mrs. Austin Poast, Mrs. Robert Fowler, and Mrs. Walter Heard. Games of crokinole and euchre were played and lunch was served.

Covered With Oleo Escapes Like Houdini

LONDON, Feb. 14 (Reuters) — A British soldier who has baffled military authorities by his daring escapes from prison cells has been put in handcuffs and leg irons under constant watch at a detention barracks.

Special guards have been posted to watch every movement of the man who has successfully made four "Houdini" escapes from detention cells and is awaiting a court-martial sentence. His name and the charge against him were not disclosed.

A war office spokesman, describing the soldier's "extraordinary determination to escape," said Saturday night he had once before managed to release himself from handcuffs and leg irons and had been found unconscious, entangled in barbed wire surrounding his cell.

He escaped naked from his cell by using his margarine ration to grease his body so he could slip through the cell window.

Unrest Growing In Leewards, Fear Explosion

LONDON, Feb. 14 (CP)—Earl Baldwin of Bewdley, once sentenced to be shot at dawn, confronts another crisis today—one that he says may give reporters their biggest story in years.

The crisis concerns Britain's rum-and sugar-producing Leeward Islands in the West Indies.

For nearly a year Earl Baldwin has been governor of the Leewards. Last month the colonial office announced that the 49-year-old Socialist nobleman was being recalled for "consultations." Sir Hubert Rance, former governor of Burma, took over in the Leewards as acting governor.

Earl Baldwin arrived in London Saturday. With characteristic plain speaking, he told reporters he would not resign unless forced. In that case, he said, "the whole West Indies will blow up."

He did not state the nature of his consultations with government officials, including Prime Minister Attlee and Colonial Secretary Creech Jones. The government also was silent.

Unrest Reported

Trade union leaders in Antigua and St. Kitt's, in the Leewards, were quoted as blaming the "sugar barons" for Earl Baldwin's recall. This was officially denied. But there was no formal denial of reports about unrest among the island's negro and mulatto population, which totals 160,000, compared with a white population of 1,800.

The native workers, whose average wage is two shillings (40 cents) a day, were reported refusing to cut the sugar crop, chanting "no Baldwin, no cane."

In his budget address last December, Earl Baldwin had harsh things to say of the committees which wrote hundreds of reports and did nothing. Political quarters here speculated that the Colonial Office considered his behaviour unconventional and undignified. If so, it would be nothing new for him.

In 1931 the younger Baldwin was a member of the Quixotic group, including Sir Oswald Mosley, which left the Labor Party in criticism of Ramsay Macdonald for what they said was flirting with capitalism.

He inherited a share of £280,000 ($1,120,000) in the estate left by his father, and in a book explained his bachelorhood by saying he would not bring a child into a capitalistic world.

Charge Keays

Provincial Police" from 1946 onwards, Keays said.

Mr. Robb asked what documents "came into your possession?"

Keays said only instructions from Inspector Page transferring him to the radio branch.

Mr. Robb asked Keays where he obtained the documents on the Carefoot case. Keays said he got them from RCMP officials.

He had also a pamphlet seized from the Carefoot home on a search warrant.

Mr. Robb asked why it still was in Keays' possession after the acquittal of Carefoot.

He asked Keays if he had said Mrs. Carefoot had not telephoned any lawyer the night Carefoot was arrested. Keays said that was his testimony.

Warrant Questions

Mr. Robb asked if it was not true that Mrs. Carefoot had asked him what was in the search warrant.

Keays said that was after Carefoot had been taken to the police station.

Reading from the transcript of evidence, Mr. Robb quoted Keyes as saying a man called Martin had been sent to a mental home and released.

Keays replied that what he said was Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan had the accused committed to a mental home, despite a psychiatrist's finding that the accused was fit to stand trial.

Mr. Robb recalled Keays had complained of being excluded from the trial and suggested because it was in the defence counsel asked for the exclusion of all witnesses.

Mr. Robb asked for details of the search of the Carefoot premises in 1946.

Didn't Talk

Keays said he did not tell other officers he had found narcotics in the house. He made a list of the articles seized the next day.

"Do you regard that as sound police work?" asked Mr. Robb.

"I did under the circumstances," Keys replied. He said he had notified the RCMP he "had good reason" to believe he would find morphine there. His sole purpose in searching the house was to find evidence of fraud.

Robb said that at Carefoot's trial, Magistrate T. Y. Wills had found that Carefoot had emptied the bag of narcotics.

"Didn't you think that some one would have accused you of planting the drugs?" he asked.

Keays said it would have been simpler if the RCMP had been there. He said he had asked RCMP officers to accompany him on the search.

and Porter J. M. Plumer reported they had received no responses to repeated knocks on the compartment door.

Police speculated the shooting took place two hours or more before the train reached Montreal, probably when it was somewhere near Smiths Falls, Ont.

Hear No Shots

Other occupants of the sleeping car reported hearing no shots, although some passengers had left the station before the bodies were discovered and unaware of what had taken place.

Plumer, the porter, likewise heard nothing during the night. Railway officials said he went about his duties as usual, even shining the shoes placed outside the compartment.

Chief of detectives Wilfrid Bourdon of the Montreal Police said aid of the Toronto police had been asked in order to establish a complete background to the case.

Relatives of the dead couple were said to be en route to Montreal for the inquest, which will probably be held tomorrow.

The bodies were taken to the morgue for an autopsy by Dr. Rosario Fontaine and Dr. Jean Marie Roussel, Medico-Legal Experts.

Pending result of the inquest, police would hazard no further opinions about the shooting. It was considered significant, however, that both shots had been fired from only one of the two revolvers.

Police said in Mrs. Kelly's wallet several photographs were found, one of them showing her her with two children.

Ice Revue Presented At Campbellford Rink

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 14. —(ENS)—Fancy and figure skating and stunts were the highlights of Duke Willoughby's Maple Leaf ice revue in Davidson's Arena on Friday night. The proceeds will go to promoting organized play and other worthy projects of the Rotary Club.

The program opened with a touch of Canadian life when girls garbed in Mountie uniforms paraded to the strains of military music. A comedy, "Two Front Teeth," was cleverely portrayed by Jay Cox, followed by Ed. Sequin and Sally Blogg in a waltz. The "Comedy Horse" by Harvey Packfield and Fred Rowland was well received. Canada's colored professional skater, Harold Hartley, displayed a combination of fancy skating and stunts.

Fred Rowland delighted the audience with a remarkable demonstration of skating on stilts. Eight couples glided over the ice in a rhythmical swing waltz, followed by the intricate movements of Sally Blogg in a solo. The old toymaker with his six dolls was well done, and two couples skating to "Rhapsody in Blue" received much applause. The program closed with a grand marc which included the entire cast.

Delay In Building of Arena Causes Protest Parade

COBOURG, Feb. 14—(ENS).—Protesting against the delay in the selection of a site for the recreation centre, children and adults staged a parade on Saturday in the early afternoon, headed by a bugle band. Several trucks loaded with children and older boys bearing placards, along with children decked out with hockey and skating equipment, comprised the parade. A group of the children were on foot and bore the individual words of "We've got the duds, bow about a rink?"

The signs included cartoons and perhaps the most humorous one depicted Barbara Ann Scott opening Cobourg's new rink. However, Barbara was shown as a stooped old woman, leaning on a cane. The parade was not elaborate but it showed that the young people were getting impatient.

New Port Hope Rink

Word that Port Hope would have the benefit of a new rink, to be built this year and ready for next winter, served to heighten the resentment in Cobourg that so far the rink committee had failed to come to an agreement in regard to a site for Cobourg's proposed recreational centre. While the new Port Hope rink is actually being constructed primarily for Trinity College School, it is expected to be available for use by the town there. The fact that Port Hope and Cobourg have for generations been competitive municipalities, did not help the tempers of Cobourg people when they learned that their neighboring town was going to have a rink before they were.

Gambling In Peterborough

An anti-gambling squad of the Provincial Police has brought to public view an amount and kind of gambling in Peterborought which has surprised citizens who wear blinkers. The special Provincial Police unit descended on the city in January. The results of the investigation are indicated by a couple of dozen charges laid before the local Magistrate's Court. Three convictions were made ten days ago, five last Thursday, and many other cases are pending. Judging from evidence already given in the Court in cases which have been closed, many thousands of dollars are gambled each month, and tens of thousands each year, in Peterborough.

* * *

Let us not become indignantly moral about this situation or excessively self-righteous because others and not ourselves have gambled and been found out. All gambling in Peterborough is not grandiose or carried on in smoke-filled back dens or small eating places. Most of the good citizens gamble in some way or other and with clear, even virtuous consciences. The man who pays a quarter for a ticket on a car is helping a service club to finance a worthy charity. He is also gambling. Bingo is a form of gambling—and one that is forbidden by Ontario laws. Nevertheless it is still a favourite way of raising money for charity. Gentle ladies who play bridge for prizes—or for small "kitties" to which each player has contributed 25 cents—are trying their luck. It is a mild gamble. And what is a "pot-luck" church supper but a gamble on a good meal?

* * *

Gambling is in the blood of the human animal, from the child who says to another child, "Betcha ten marbles I can beat you to the corner", to the people who play the stock markets. If businessmen were not willing to take calculated risks, our commerce would be a poor thing today.

* * *

It is how people gamble and how many for how much that is a public concern. In Ontario most forms of gambling are illegal, on the theory, perhaps, that gamblers go to the dogs. Those who go to the horses and bet on races under supervised conditions may do so legally. The other day a Peterborough man collected $5,479 on account of some horse-race betting he had done. He collected the money by reason of a judgement handed down by the Supreme Court. Bingo, raffles, car lotteries, punchboards and other such public forms of gambling are forbidden by law. Nevertheless, the law sometimes turns its back if the sponsors are raising money for worthy causes. If the booty goes to a charitable organization our society genially supports a lottery.

* * *

There is as little use in trying to stamp out all gambling as there is in outlawing dogs who bay at the moon. The descent of the Provincial Police squad on this sober city has been useful. The amount of gambling in this city was becoming a public nuisance. There were too many places a man could not enter without being cajoled into taking a shot at a punch board. The evidence of the police has shown that it was becoming a public hazard. We do not want to develop in Canada the £1,000,000,000-a-year gambling business which a Royal Commission is about to investigate in Britain. Nor is it desirable to have the National Lotteries which the French Government sponsors, although one of the more exasperating aspects of the illegal gambling that goes on in Ontario is that there is no rake-off for the government. Since most other amusements are taxed, why should gamblers escape?

* * *

There have been states in which gambling became a national vice. They have perished from the corruption of which the gambling was an external sign. Even England almost collapsed in 1720 when the South Sea Bubble burst. For these and other reasons, Peterborough folk approve of the raid of the Provincial Police and the clean-up they are making.

Fight Over U.S. Labour Law

The first full week of discussion of the proposed new United States labour law indicated it would become, as predicted, one of the most bitterly debated issues to be dealt with by the Eighty-First Congress. The debate will be on President Truman's bill to replace the Taft-Hartley labour legislation, but it has its roots in the Wagner Act which was replaced by the Taft-Hartley law. It is the product of two measures more extreme than they should have been, in the opinion of impartial observers.

The Wagner Act, product of one of the Roosevelt Administrations, was definitely slanted in favour of organized labour, and organized labour not only used it but also abused it, in some cases—e.g., Mr. John L. Lewis and his mine workers' union. Public opinion gradually became sufficiently aroused to elect the Republican Party to control of the Eightieth Congress at the end of a campaign in which that party promised more restrictive labour legislation. The Taft-Hartley legislation, definitely slanted against organized labour, subsequently became law.

Sponsors of the Taft-Hartley legislation were warned by impartial critics that their bill was extreme and would eventually produce a reaction similar to that produced by the Wagner Act, in the opposite direction. That prediction was fulfilled during the last Presidential election campaign, when one of Mr. Truman's campaign promises was repeal of the Taft-Hartley law. President Truman is now asking for passage of legislation which would restore to organized labour most, if not all, of the privileges it enjoyed under the Wagner Act.

Political observers in the United States are generally agreed that President Truman will not get what he is asking for in this instance, and the course taken by the preliminary discussions supports that opinion. Opponents of the proposed new labour legislation have scored against the forces of the Administration and organized labour, and it is predicted that the new labour legislation will eventually be altered to include several features of the Taft-Hartley law. It has been intimated that this will not be too hotly opposed by President Truman, for while he undoubtedly will make further efforts to keep his campaign promise, it is thought he would not be averse to a labour law containing the power of injunction he used so successfully against Mr. John L. Lewis. This might also be true with regard to other disputed clauses of the Taft-Hartley law, and the net result might well be a compromise labour law which would prove more lasting than either of its two immediate predecessors.

The Fight Over Freight Rates

The freight rate structure is a perennial Canadian problem. A year ago the railways demanded and secured the promise of higher rates. This was unitedly opposed by all the provinces excepting Ontario and Quebec. Now the railways want this increase made definite and say that operating costs require that a further boost be granted. In addition to these demands, there is the problem of the "mountain differential". The Transport Board is now hearing arguments for its removal. The theory behind this mountain differential rate is that the people on the other side of the Rockies should pay more to have goods sent over them, since it costs more to send trains through the mountains than, for instance, across the prairies.

Now there is a falling-out among the provinces which were unanimous last year in their opposition to increased freight rates. British Columbia has demanded that the mountain rate be removed immediately. Alberta is willing that it be taken off, but not now—not until there is a general revision of the freight rate structure. Manitoba is opposed to the removal of the mountain diffential because it would hurt the business of Manitoba freight shippers. It even maintains that the mountain rate is too low. The Montreal Star's comment is:

> These provinces are not arguing any general case. Each one is arguing that part of the case which suits it best, conveniently ignoring the general considerations which must obviously confront any Transport Board charged with the job of seeing that railway service is adequately provided to the Dominion as a whole and that the railways providing the service are maintained in efficient, solvent operation.

The present arguments being presented to the Transport Board show that in this vast country with its varying conditions and densities of population no freight rate structure can be devised that will please everybody.

Perhaps you can't have your cake and eat it too, but politicians are working hard to make it possible for you to have most of your own cake and eat a lot of the other fellow's.

"Of Cabbages And Kings"

By PETER ELIOT

WHERE do novelists get their ideas? Well, Flaubert, for one had a difficult time finding inspiration. The germ of Madame Bovary was discovered in a report in a French provincial newspaper, or rather, a friend found it for him and pointed out its possibilities. The Barchester novels according to Trollope, had their inception in their author's indignation at newspaper attacks on clergymen, whose incomes were derived from "certain funds and endowments which had been intended for charitable purposes". There is a story that Hardy wrote Tess after gaining the necessary inspiration from seeing a beautiful girl sitting on the end of a cart. After perceiving the sense of contrast between a fat, fusey old woman and a pretty waitress observed in a Paris restaurant, Arnold Bennett was moved to write The Old Wives' Tale. Many novelists, and D. H. Lawrence is only one of them, write thinly disguised autobiographies. Beaconsfield, who divided his time between statesmanship and novel writing, took almost all of his material from the experiences of the famous people he knew as a young man.

* * *

THE whole fascinating subject of composition is most interestingly treated in The Notebooks Of Henry James, the work of two American scholars, Professor F. O. Mathiessen and Mr. Kenneth B. Murdock. Flaubert, who was James' idol, was obsesssed with the difficulties of the novelist's art, James once wrote of him: "His was a case of doom, because he felt of his vocation almost nothing but its difficulty." James was also concerned with the difficulties but, strangely enough, he revelled in them. How indeed he was stimulated by them is strikingly illustrated in this volume. The Notebooks, nine in all, comprising one hundred and thirty thousand words, cover a period of twenty-three years, from 1888 to 1911, and unlike the journals of other men they deal with James as a writer. When he does mention his social engagements, as for example in the early notebooks, it is usually to point out the time he wasted in society. But surely this is a pity, for society was a necessity for him and his art. In one London season alone, James dined out one hundred and seven times! And he could rarely go to a dinner party without finding, usually in some innocent scrap of conversation, the germ of a story.

* * *

THE following is one of the best examples of how James recorded the beginnings of his most popular novel:

"Saturday, January 12th, 1895. Note here the ghost-story told me at Adington (evening of Thursday, 10th) by the Archbishop of Canterbury; the mere vague, undetailed, faint sketch of it—being all he had been told (very badly and imperfectly) by a lady who had no art of relation, and no clearness; the story of the young children (indefinite number and age) left to the care of servants in an old country-house, through the death, presumably, of parents.

* * *

"THE servants, wicked and depraved, corrupt and deprave the children; the children are bad, full of evil, to a sinister degree. The servants die (The story vague about the way of it) and their apparitions, figures, return to haunt the house and children, to whom they seem to beckon, whom they invite and solicit, from across dangerous places, the deep ditch of a sunk fence, etc.—so that the children may destroy themselves, lose themselves, by responding, by getting into their power. So long as the children are kept from them, they are not lost; but they try and try and try, these evil presences, to get hold of them. It is a question of the children's "coming over to where they are." It is all obscure and imperfect, the picture, the story, but there is a suggestion of strangely gruesome effect in it. The story to be told—tolerably obviously—by an outside spectator, observer." And so from an Archbishop's anecdote—"the faint sketch of it"—was born the greatest of all ghost stories.

* * *

THAT particular entry, however, does not illustrate James' real use of the Notebook. In one place he writes: "I must have a long tete-a-tete with myself," which admirably sums up the exact nature of the notebooks. Reading them is like listening to him think. One of his favourite expressions is, "Do I not seems to catch the tail of an idea here?" and one can see how he first grasps an idea, develops it through the years until finally it becomes a novel. The entry for November 28, 1892 is:

"Situation—suggested by something lately told one, about a simultaneous marriage, in Paris (or only 'engagement', as yet I believe), of a father and daughter. The daughter, an American, of course, is engaged to a young Englishman, and the father a widower, and still youngish, has sought in marriage at exactly the same time an American girl of very much the same age as his daughter, to whom he has been devoted. Says he has done it to console himself in his abandonment—to make up for the loss of his daughter. I see a little tale, n'est-ce pas?...."

* * *

ABOUT twenty-five months later there is an entry in the journal...."In my path, stands—appears at least to stand—brightly soliciting, the idea I jotted down a year ago, or more, and that has lain there untouched ever since; the idea of the father and daughter (in Paris, supposedly) who marry—the father for consolation—at the same time, and yet are left more together than ever...." Nearly a year later the idea, no longer a "little tale," is included in a list of half a dozen novels waiting to be written, under the title of The Marriage. Nine years later The Golden Bowl (a new title) appears at the booksellers. No one could accuse James of not thoroughly digesting his ideas before setting pen to paper!

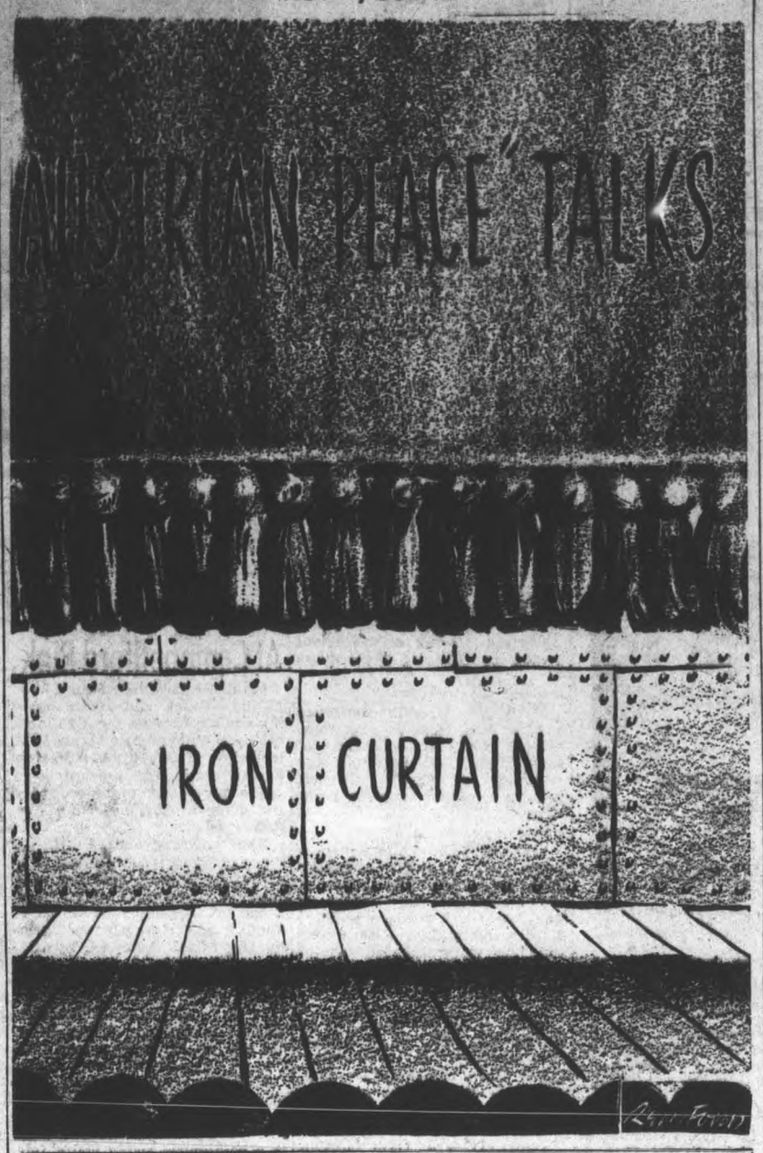
* * *

FROM James now to a little nonsense. From time to time the vanity of novelists gets on the nerves of the critics.

"You know," said an author who was looking for compliments, "my books are selling wonderfully. But sometimes I think my work is falling off. I don't think I write as well as I did."

"Oh, nonsense!" replied the critic. "You write just as well as you ever did. Your literary taste's improving, that's all!"

ACT 1, SCENE 1



Letter To The Editor

WE BECOME WHAT WE READ

Sir: Your editorial in last night's Examiner "Abusing the King's English", calls for more than a passing glance.

It is truly a serious situation when after ten or 14 years at school, the vocabulary of our teenagers, is so corrupted by slang, as to be almost unintelligible, to the average English-speaking person. It is a reflection on our modern system of education, when students who are supposed to know, not only the root-meaning of words they use, but also their proper application, are so ignorant of these relative facts, that they use profanity (in modernized forms) in their every day speech. Such as "golly", or "gosh", meaning God", or "gee whiz", meaning "Jesus", "darn" for the old-fashioned swear word "damn", and fond parents smile indulgently, and say, it's only a passing phase of youth and its excessive exuberance.

No! no! folks, it's something more serious than that. Our system of education needs a good house-cleaning. And while our young people know, themselves, there is "something" wrong, they don't all know "what is wrong".

Our editor, in above mentioned article, quotes Dr. McNeil, as laying the blame, mostly on our colleges and universities. I believe that is true. But a lot of the blame also falls to the parents who do not take the trouble to find out what their children's minds are being filled with at school within the last 15 or 20 years.

The teaching of evolution in our schools and collegiates, has been substituted for God's record of creation, as contained in the Bible. The word of God is questioned, criticized and discredited to such an extent that right now, we are raising a generation of sophisticated materialists, who have no place and no use for God in their lives.

In the pioneer days of Canada when the "Dominie" held sway education was a serious matter and while they did not have the additional frills, our educational institutions offer today, they saw to it that the students got a thorough knowledge of the three R's, and related subjects so necessary to successful scholarships. And another thing, Bible reading was part of the school exercises. Apart from being the world's literary masterpiece and best seller, its language is sublime. For God is the author, who inspired holy men of old, who spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost, and if our students were trained to read more of this and less of the "comic strips" and "movie periodicals", they would not act so foolish, trying to be true to type in the ancestors, they believe jabbered, and swung from the tree tops by their tails. Yes, its true that we get like the stuff we read, and I believe a generous portion of Bible training would result in a marked improvement in our young people's language and general deportment.

Another thing, before I close I don't think some of our young students who are Christians are getting an even break in our own collegiate. For instance: students who refuse to participate in certain exercises, because of conscientious scruples, are discredited at the end of the term and lose their pass standing or diploma. I'm referring to taking dancing lessons as part of their P.T. training, especially mixed dancing. This is compulsory, I understand. They have to take it, or lose their marks. Why this should be so is not clear to me and many parents who would like to give their children all the benefits of an advanced education hesitate to send them where so many of our finest fundamental principles are violated. No I am not a radical, but I am deeply concerned about the moral and spiritual welfare of our younger generation.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And, behold, they brought to him a man sick of the palsy, lying on a bed; and Jesus seeing their faith said unto the sick of the palsy; Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee. And, behold, certain of the scribes said within themselves, This man blasphemeth.

And Jesus knowing their thoughts said, Wherefore think ye evil in your hearts? For whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise, and walk? But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (then saith he to the sick of the palsy,) Arise, take up thy bed, and go unto thine house. And he arose, and departed to his house. But when the multitudes saw it, they marvelled, and glorified God, which had given such power unto men.

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd.

Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest. (Matt. 9: 2-8, 35-38.)

The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken. (Deut. 18: 15.)

* * *

And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan. And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens opened, and the Spirit like a dove descending upon him: and there came a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. (Mark 1: 9-11.)

ACCORDING TO CUSTOM

The feast in memory of St. Valentine
Some think to be at present in decline,
Our simple hearts of paper lace deplore
And yearn for pretty customs kept of yore
Which, as recorded plainly by Pepys pen
Were not eschewed by merry married men.
But danger lurks in just such fine conceits,
Stick to the paper hearts and packaged sweets
And take them home. Tremble for any history-minded spouse
Who carries nylons to the next door neighbours' house.

—MINERVA.

Life is real life in earnest
And the grave is not its goal,
Dust thou art, to dust returnest
Was not spoken of the soul.
Yours in the interests of youth,
M. HARVEY.

Ed. Note: We are informed by the Superintendent of Education in Peterborough that the charge made in this letter that girls who object to the folk-dancing exercises at PCVS are therefore penalized is without any foundation in fact.

Whitby Loses To IOOF By 5-4 Count

OSHAWA, Feb. 14—Peterborough triple rinks wangled a 5-4 win over Whitby Redwings of the OHA Junior "B" series here last night on the strength of a goal late in the third period when Whitby was a man short.

The Red Wings took a 2-0 lead in the first period and looked as if they were headed for an easy time of it. The linkmen evened the count in the second at 2-2 and then replied to another Whitby marker making it 3-3 heading for the third period.

The Wings took a short 4-3 lead in the opening minutes of the third frame but Peterborough showed their strength in two ganging efforts, one to tie the count at 4-4 and the other late in the stanza when Whitby was shorthanded to win the game 5-4. Fryia got the winner and was easily the outstanding player on the ice. Hooker with three goals led the Whitby attack.

Peterborough Triple Links. Goal, Byers; defence, W. Berwick, J. Berwick; centre, Fryia; wings, Whitnel and Truss; alternates, Collins, Doris, Floyd, Wyatt, Crowley, and Millar.

Flies To Johannesburg

LONDON, Feb. 14—(AP)—Bruce Woodcock, British heavyweight boxing champion, is scheduled to fly to Johannesburg March 9 for his fight with the South African champion, Johnny Ralph, March 26. Freddie Mills of England, world light heavyweight champion, plans to see the bout. He and his wife are goin to South Africa Feb. 23 for a month's holiday.

Rematch Sky-Hi Lee And Mike Sharpe

Sparks are expected to fly in the Brock Arena ring on Wednesday night when Mike Sharpe and Sky-Hi Lee renew their gigantic mat feud. Sharpe has requested a different referee and just about 99 per cent of those in attendance at the bout here last week will agree with him. The splendid-looking Iron Mike (as the St. Louis sports writers have dubbed him) is in a rampaging temper over the fall he lost to Lee.

Mike Sharpe

"This time," says The Body, "I'll forget about trying to keep to the rules and as often as Lee pulls his illegal stuff I'll go him one better".

With such a prospect Manager Jim Laidlaw is lining up a fine supporting card.

For the first bout Bowmanville Billy Stack will test the extraordinary newcomer, Mike "Prince" Mahalikis. Mahalikis is something special in the way of mat radicals, being an author, playwright and songster as well as a sucessful inventor.

Big Ben Morgan has been signed to meet another new man Abe Yourist of Chicago in the semi-final.

It looks like a large and eventful evening.

Some guy once wound up and threw this one: "Never send a boy to do a man's job." That was the trouble at the main pro mat bout here last week—they sent a runty little 180-pound referee to do the scrap between Hi Lee, six-eight at 298 pounds, and six-six Mike Sharpe, just 245 pounds. The ref had a tough evening and Mike lost a doubtful decision. So, they're rematched for the Brock this Wednesday eve in the main go, but an arbiter scaling at least 250 pounds has been promised. It should be a real battle of the giants this time. Ben Morgan meets Abe Yourist in the semi-final, while Bill Stack tackles Mike (Prince) Mahalikis in the prelim.

Some chap in Cobourg sends us a clipping from Bobbie Rosenfeld's Globe column, saying: "Frankie Filchock has football offers from Hamilton, Montreal and Ottawa. So far, Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts haven't put in a bid. Filchock better set a deadline so that things can be straightened out before Sept. 1." We'd say the clipping comes from our old football friend in Cobourg, Fred Dufton, except that he is a non-believer in that Sept. deadline business. Or could it be from another pal, Scotty Black, who will strip his Gaelic gears at the drop of a football?

It's Winter Yet, Bert!

Fast-talking Bert Bailey, whose voice has been muted insofar as this corner is concerned since last autumn, buzzes us to say: "Annual meeting of the City Softball League will be held March 1, two weeks from tomorrow, at 7.30 p.m. in the 'Y'." The loop secretary says they'll elect officers, discuss plans for the season and also the coming OASA convention in Oshawa. Prospective entries should be represented at the huddle as well as officers and others interested. An open session.

Cage fans saw two wide-open basketball games at the "Y" on Saturday evening. Gord McIntyre's good Marines "B" squad turned back the strong Toronto Tulip AC team 63-42. Bill Dadson and Jim Thorburn were hefty snipers for Marines, as the whole team clicked like castanets. The Tulips were by no means pansies but they were clipped by the Outboards. Al Clark's classy Marines "A" hoopsters—still minus Joe Stewart, out with injuries—came from behind to yank out a 53-49 exhibition win o'er the senior East Yorks of Toronto. Al Stewart and Ed Nicholls led the locals, who were shy several regulars.

Now Or Never, IOOF-ers

Playoffs roll around rapidly for hockeyists in natural ice centres. So 'tis money time now for the junior "B" Oddfellows. They tackle Oshawa tonight in the Motor City and are back here this Wednesday, a two-in-three OHA group semi-final. They've got to take this series or they've had it for the winter of 1948. Should they survive, the IOOF-ers go against the Toronto Royals or Toronto Lions, whichever squad takes that bracket, for the group title. Archie Weir's young gamesters are going to make it a battle from here on in. They've just got to, that's all. Legion swapped their Wednesday night so the juniors could have their home playoff.

At the protest meeting yesterday in Toronto, the OHA executive reprimanded Al Burns for playing with both Akron and Legion this season, but decided Legionnaires were guiltless and shouldn't be penalized. So, Legion's games will stand as played and Burns can continue in their lineup. Legion agreed to release Don Coughlin to the Petes, and he will be in livery for that team the rest of the season. These local squads—Legion and Petes—tangle Tuesday at 8:30 in Civic Arena, working in one of their postponed OHA senior "B" games, and it should be another sizzling struggle. They meet again Friday, and Meteors play the Petes next Monday to wind up the schedule.

PCVS Cagers Split Two With Oshawa

PCVS teams broke even in their annual basketball invasion of Oshawa Friday night. The Seniors won their fourth straight game 49-18, and just about clinched the group title. The Junior "A" boys were not so fortunate and dropped a 37-24 decision to the OCVI Juniors. This defeat was the first suffered by a local Junior "A" team in COSSA competition in two years. Both the 1947 and 1948 teams were league champions. However, the return game here March 4 can force a tie for the group leadership if the locals can reverse Friday's result.

After a high scoring 18-10 first quarter when both teams went wide open, the Peterborough Seniors took command and led 27-12 at the half. The Dibbens were prominent in this second quarter as Hugh scored seven points and Dave two, while Oshawa was held to two foul shots. The home club had no more success in hitting the hoop in the second half, garnering but two third-quarter hoops and one in the fourth. PCVS on the other hand counted nine times to stay well in front and win the most one-sided senior game between the two schools in five years.

Early Lead

A 24-16 first half spelled victory for the OCVI Juniors as Peterborough was unable to settle down either offensively or defensively. Moczek of Oshawa was allowed to shoot too often from in close with the result he had half his team's points on six baskets. PC VS came back fighting in the third quarter and careful play restricted Oshawa to one long shot hoop. But eight points separated the teams going into the last quarter at 26-18. However while plenty of scoring opportunities were presented to PCVS, during the closing eight minutes, few were converted into scores. No less than six out of eight foul shots were missed besides many good chances from in close. The return game here March 4 should be keen.

The teams:

PCVS Seniors—Taylor, Sergeant, N. Thompson 6, Hempstead, Northcott 8, D. Dibben 4, Griffin 8, H. Dibben 13, Dinsdale 2, Grafstein 8, Richardson, B. Thompson. Total 49.

Referees—Zenner, Toronto; Dell, Oshawa.

Oshawa Juniors—Fry 3, MacInally, Seeley, Mackness 10, Phillips 2, Mroczek 14, Wilson 2, Simpkin, Mozewsky 6, Donnevan. Total 37.

Marines' Cagers Triumph In Two Tilts Over Toronto

Outboard Marines basketballers took two exhibition victories at the YMCA gym on Saturday night against strong opposition, and cage followers saw two fine, wide-open tussles. Marines "B" won 63-42 from the Tulip AC of Toronto, while Marines "A" took a 53-49 decision over the senior Toronto East Yorks. There was plenty of action in both tilts on the small floor.

In the opener, Marines looked good against the strongest intermediate "B" club in Toronto. Play was wide-open and a driving affair throughout with Marines cashing in better on their chances. The visitors found trouble penetrating the home defence. Sparked by Bill Dadson's set shots and Jim Thorburn's dog shots, Marines built up a 33-20 lead at the half. They continued the next half to pile up the count as Toronto fought back. Trimm and Payne played effective ball and were strong defensively. Ryback and Lastuk looked good. The teams:

Tulip AC: Ryback 10, Penny 5, Campbell, Solecky 2, Lastuk 6, Wolson 7, Jackson, Skrzypek 3, Ostopowich 6, Page 3.

Marines "B": Trimm 8, Dadson 22, Thorburn 18, Payne 11, Butcher 2, Bachelor, Green, Smith 2, Deroo, Griffin, J. Stewart.

A Close One

Shorthanded, with three regulars out, Marines "A" came from behind a 27-18 halftime score in the second game to eke out their victory in a fine fray. They drove hard in the second half to earn the duke and thrill the fans. The visitors' lanky centre starred and they dominated on rebounds and shooting. Ed Nichols led the locals in the first half while Al Stewart shone in the second part. He had 18 points and Nichols 12, with the rest of the squad battling hard, too, in an exciting contest. Ruiter, Watson and and Rixon stood out for the East Yorks. The teams:

East York: Woolacott 4, Fries 1, Taylor 2, Ruiter 13, Watson 14, Rixon 11. Purcell 3, Cosburn 1.

Marines "A": MacPherson 3, Kidd 2, A. Stewart 18, Nichols 12, Burns 5, Menzies 2, Gillespie 8, Payne 3.
